Rules Governing Administrative Procedure

§ 3.711 Application for international broadcast stations. Each applicant for a construction permit for a new international broadcast station, change in facilities of any existing international broadcast station, or international station license or modification of license shall file with the Commission in Washington, D. C., three copies of applications on the appropriate form designated by the Commission and a like number of exhibits and other papers incorporated therein and made a part thereof. Only the original copy need be sworn to. If the application is for a construction permit for a new international station, Form FCC No. 309 should be filed; for an international station license, Form FCC No. 310 should be filed; for modification of an international station license or for change in facilities of an existing international station, Form FCC No. 312 should be filed.

§ 3.712 Full disclosures. Each application shall contain full and complete disclosures with regard to the real party or parties in interest, and their legal, technical, financial, and other qualifications, and as to all matters and things required to be disclosed by the application forms.

§ 3.713 Installation or removal of apparatus. Applications for construction permit or modification thereof, involving removal of existing transmitting apparatus and/or installation of new transmitting apparatus, shall be filed at least 60 days prior to the contemplated removal and/or installation.

§ 3.714 Period of construction. Each construction permit will specify a maximum of 60 days from the date of granting thereof as the time within which construction of the station shall begin, and a maximum of six months thereafter as the time within which construction shall be completed and the station ready for operation, unless otherwise determined by the Commission upon proper showing in any particular case.

§ 3.715 Forfeiture of construction permits: extension of time.—(a) A construction permit shall be automatically forfeited if the station is not ready for operation within the time specified therein or within such further time as the Commission may have allowed for completion, and a notation of the forfeiture of any construction permit under this provision will be placed in the records of the Commission as of the expiration date.

(b) An application (Form FCC No. 701) for extension of time within which to construct a station shall be filed at least thirty days prior to the expiration date of such permit if the fact supporting such application for extension are known to the applicant in time to permit such filing. In other cases such applications will be accepted upon a showing satisfactory to the Commission of sufficient reasons for filing within less than thirty days prior to the expiration date. Such applications will be granted upon a specific and detailed showing that the failure to complete was due to causes not under the control of the grantee, or upon a specific and detailed showing of other matters sufficient to justify the extension.

§ 3.716 Equipment tests. (a) Upon completion of construction of an international station in exact accordance with the terms of the construction permit, the technical provisions of the application therefor and the rules and regulations and prior to filing of application for license, the permittee is authorized to test the equipment for a period not to exceed 30 days: Provided, That the inspector in charge of the district in which the station is located and the Commission are notified 2 days in advance of the beginning of tests.

(b) The Commission may notify the permittee to conduct no tests or may cancel, suspend, or change the date of beginning for the period of such tests as and when such action may appear to be in the public interest, convenience, and necessity.

(c) The Commission may grant extensions of time upon showing of reasonable need therefor.

§ 3.717 Program tests. (a) When construction and equipment tests are completed in exact accordance with the terms of the construction permit, the technical provisions of the application therefor, and after an application for station license has been filed with the Commission showing the equipment to be in satisfactory operating condition, the permittee is authorized to conduct program tests in exact accordance with the terms of the construction permit for a period not to exceed 30 days: Provided, That the inspector in charge of the district in which the station is located and the Commission are notified 2 days in advance of the beginning of such tests.

(b) The Commission reserves the right to cancel such tests or suspend, or change the date of beginning for the period of such tests as and when such action may appear to be in the public interest, convenience, and necessity by notifying the permittee.

(c) The authorization for tests embodied in this section or § 3.716 shall not be construed as constituting a license to operate but as a necessary part of the construction.

§ 3.718 Normal license period. All international broadcast station licenses will be issued so as to expire at the hour of 3 a. m. E. S. T. and will be issued for a normal license period of 1 year expiring November 1.[4]

§ 3.719 License, simultaneous modification and renewal. When an application is granted by the Commission necessitating the issuance of a modified license less than 60 days prior to the expiration date of the license sought to be modified, and an application for renewal of said license is granted subsequent or prior thereto (but within 30 days of expiration of the present license) the modified license as well as the renewal license shall be issued to conform to the combined action of the Commission.

§ 3.720 Renewal of license. (a) Unless otherwise directed by the Commission, each application for renewal of an international station license shall be filed at least 60 days prior to the expiration date of the license sought to be renewed (Form FCC No. 311). No application for renewal of license of an international broadcast station will be considered unless there is on file with the Commission, the information currently required by §§ 1.301–1.304, reference to which by date and file number shall be included in the application.

(b) Whenever the Commission regards an application for a renewal of an international station license as essential to the proper conduct of a hearing or investigation, and specifically directs that it be filed by a date certain, such application shall be filed within the time thus specified. If the licensee fails to file such application within the prescribed time, the hearing or investigation shall proceed as if such renewal application had been received.

§ 3.721 Temporary extension of station licenses.—Where there is pending before the Commission any application, investigation, or proceeding which, after hearing, might lead to or make necessary the modification of, revocation of, or the refusal to renew an existing international license, the Commission may, in its discretion, grant a temporary extension of such license: Provided, however, That no such temporary extension shall be construed as a finding by the Commission that the operation of any radio station thereunder will serve public interest, convenience, and necessity beyond the express terms of such temporary extension of license: And provided further, That such temporary extension of license will in no wise affect or limit the action of the Commission with respect to any pending application or proceeding.

§ 3.722 Repetitious applications. (a) Where an applicant has been afforded an opportunity to be heard with respect to a particular application for a new international broadcast station, or for change of existing service or facilities, and the Commission has, after hearing or default, denied the application or dismissed it with prejudice, the Commission will not consider another application for a station of the same class to serve in whole or in part the same area, by the same applicant or by his successor or assignee, or on behalf of or for the benefit of the original parties in interest, until after the lapse of 12 months from the effective date of the Commission's order.

(b) Where an appeal has been taken from the action of the Commission in denying a particular application, another application for the same class of broadcast station and for the same area, in whole or in part, filed by the same applicant or by his successor or assignee, or on behalf or for the benefit of the original parties in interest, will not be considered until the final disposition of such appeal.

§ 3.723 Assignment or transfer of control.—(a) Voluntary. Application for consent to voluntary assignment of an international station construction permit or license or for consent to voluntary transfer of control of a corporation holding an international station construction permit or license shall be filed with the Commission on Form FCC No. 314 (assignment of license) or Form FCC No. 315 (transfer of control) at least 60 days prior to the contemplated effective date of assignment or transfer of control.

(b) Involuntary. In the event of the death or legal disability of a permittee or licensee, or a member of a partnership, or a person directly or indirectly in control of a corporation, which is a permittee or licensee:

(1) the Commission shall be notified in writing promptly of the occurrence of such death or legal disability, and

(2) within thirty days after the occurrence of such death or legal disability, application on Form FCC No. 314 or 315 shall be filed for consent to involuntary assignment of such international station permit or license or for involuntary transfer of control of such corporation to a person or entity legally qualified to succeed to the foregoing interests under the laws of the place having jurisdiction over the estate involved.

Rules Relating to Technical Operation

§ 3.761 Time of operation. (a) All international broadcast stations will be licensed for unlimited time operation except as may be directed by the Commission from time to time. In an emergency, however, when due to causes beyond the control of a licensee, it becomes impossible to continue operation, the station may cease operation for a period not to exceed 10 days: Provided, That the Commission and the inspector in charge

[4] Order No. 110, dated and effective December 29, 1942, suspends this section until further order of the Commission and ordered: "The license term for every international broadcast station, either licensed at this date or licensed hereafter, shall end at the earlier of the following dates: (a) November 1, 1945, or (b) the first day after October 31, 1943, on which its operations are not controlled, by agreement or otherwise, by the Department of State".

[5] See General Radio regulations annexed to the International Telecommunications Convention, Madrid, 1932, art. 7. (c) Identification announcements during operation need not be made when to make such announcement would interrupt a single consecutive speech, play, religious service, symphony concert, or any type of production. In such cases the identification announcement shall be made at the first interruption of the entertainment continuity and at the conclusion thereof.

§ 3.788 Service; commercial or sponsored programs. (a)[8] A licensee of an international broadcast station shall render only an international broadcast service which will reflect the culture of this country and which will promote international goodwill, understanding, and cooperation. Any program solely intended for, and directed to an audience in the continental United States does not meet the requirements for this service.

(b) Such international broadcast service may include commercial or sponsored programs: Provided, That:

(1) Commercial program continuities give no more than the name of the sponsor of the program and the name and general character of the commodity, utility or service, or attraction advertised.

(2) In case of advertising a commodity, the commodity is regularly sold or is being promoted for sale on the open market in the foreign country or countries to which the program is directed in accordance with paragraph (c) of this section.

(5) In case of any other type of advertising, such advertising is directed to the foreign country or countries and to which the program is directed in accordance with paragraph (c) of this section and is consistent with the purpose and intent of this section.

(c) The areas or zones established to be served by international broadcast stations are the foreign countries of the world, and directive antennas shall be employed to direct the signals to specific countries.

(d) An international broadcast station may transmit the program of a standard broadcast station or network system: Provided, The conditions in paragraph (b) of this section in regard to any commercial continuities are observed and when station identifications are made, only the call letter designation of the international station is given on its assigned frequency: And provided further, That in the case of chain broadcasting[9] the program is not carried simultaneously by another internattional station (except another station owned by the same licensee operated on a frequency in a different group to obtain continuity of signal service), the signals from which are directed to the same foreign country or countries.

§ 3.789 Sponsored programs, announcements of. (a) In the case of each program for the broadcasting of which money, services, or other valuable consideration is either directly or indirectly paid or promised to, or charged or received by, any radio broadcast station, the station broadcasting such program shall make, or cause to be made, an appropriate announcement that the program is sponsored, paid for, or furnished, either in whole or part.

Where an agent or other person contracts or otherwise makes arrangements with a station on behalf of another, and such fact is known to the station, the announcement shall disclose the identity of the person or persons in whose behalf such agent is acting instead of the name of such agent.

(d) In the case of any program, other than a program advertising commercial products or services, which is sponsored, paid for or furnished, either in whole or in part, or for which material or services referred to in subsection (b) hereof are furnished, by a corporation, committee, association or other unincorporated group, the announcement required by this section, shall disclose the name of such corporation, committee, association or other unincorporated group. In each such case the station shall require that a list of the chief executive officers or members of the executive committee or of the board of directors of the corporation, committee, association or other unincorporated group shall be made available for public inspection at one of the television broadcast stations carrying the program.

(e) In the case of programs advertising commercial products or services, an announcement stating the sponsor's corporate or trade name or the name of the sponsor's product, shall be deemed sufficient for the purposes of this section and only one such announcement need be made at any time during the course of the program.

(a) The number of hours operated on each frequency.

(b) A list of programs transmitted of special international interest.

(c) Outline of reports of reception and interference and conclusions with regard to propagation characteristics of the frequency assigned.

CLASSIFICATION ORDER

AUGUST 26, 1946.

1. Pursuant to Order No. 2180 of the Secretary of the Interior, dated April 8, 1946, I hereby classify under the small tract act of June 1, 1938 (52 Stat. 609), as amended July 14, 1945 (59 Stat. 467, 43 U. S. C. sec. 682a), for leasing, as hereinafter indicated, the following described public lands in the Los Angeles, California, land district, embracing 1,853.36 acres:

SMALL TRACT CLASSIFICATION NO. 97
CALIFORNIA NO. 38

SAN BERNARDINO MERIDIAN

T. 1 N., R. 8 E.,
Sec. 14, all;
Sec. 20, N½N½, SE¼NE¼, SW¼NW¼, W½SW¼, SE¼;
Sec. 22, N½NE¼, SW¼;
Sec. 34, lots 1, 2, 3 and 4;
Sec. 35, lots 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7 and 8.

2. The lands are located in a desert area about 140 miles east of Los Angeles near the southerly border of San Bernardino County. They lie within the Twentynine Palms commounity to which an electric power line has been extended. Telephone service also is available.

3. Water for the entire area is obtained from ground water supplies. Water has been obtained from wells throughout the area ranging in depth from 30 to 275 feet. Available information indicates that water in quantities adequate for domestic purposes will likely be obtained at depths of approximately 150 feet under these lands. Water from developed wells is sold and delivered locally. This is a common practice in the vicinity and is often the cheapest and most desirable method of obtaining culinary water.

4. Pursuant to § 257.8 of the Code of Federal Regulations (43 CFR, Cum. Supp., Part 257, as amended by Circ. 1613, February 27, 1946), a preference right to a lease is accorded to those applicants whose applications (a) were regularly filed, under the regulations issued pursuant to the act, prior to 3:12 p. m. on April 30, 1946, and (b) are for the type of site for which the land subject thereunder has been classified. As to such applications, this order shall become effective upon the date on which it is signed.

5. As to the land not covered by the applications referred to in paragraph 4, this order shall not become effective to permit the leasing of such land under the small tract act of June 1, 1938, cited above, until 10:00 a. m. on October 28, 1946. At that time such land shall, subject to valid existing rights and the provisions of existing withdrawals, become subject to application, petition, location, or selection as follows:

(a) Ninety-day period for other preference right filings. For a period of 90 days from 10:00 a. m. on October 28, 1946, to close of business on January 25, 1947, inclusive, to (1) application under the small tract act of June 1, 1938, by qualified veterans of World War II, for whose service recognition is granted by the act of September 27, 1944 (58 Stat. 747, 43 U. S. C. secs. 279–283), subject to the requirements of applicable law, and (2) application under any applicable public land law, based on prior existing valid settlement rights and preference rights conferred by existing laws or equitable claims subject to allowance and confirmation. Applications by such veterans shall be subject to claims of the classes described in subdivision (2).

(b) Advance period for simultaneous preference right filings. All applications by such veterans and persons claiming preference rights superior to those of such veterans filed on or after 5:12 p. m. on April 30, 1946, together with those presented at 10:00 a. m. on October 8, 1946, shall be treated as simultaneously filed.

(c) Date for nonpreference-right filings authorized by the public-land laws. Commencing at 10:00 a. m. on January 27, 1947, any of the land remaining unappropriated shall become subject to application under the small tract act by the public generally.

(d) Advance period for simultaneous nonpreference-right filings. Applications under the small tract act by the general public filed on or after 3:12 p. m. on April 30, 1946, together with those presented at 10:00 a. m. on January 7, 1947, shall be treated as simultaneously filed.

6. Veterans shall accompany their applications with certified copies of their certificates of discharge, or other satisfactory evidence of their military or naval service. Persons asserting preference rights, through settlement or otherwise, and those having equitable claims, shall accompany their applications by duly corroborated affidavits in support thereof, setting forth in detail all facts relevant to their claims.

7. All applications for the lands referred to in paragraphs 4 and 5, which shall be filed in the District Land Office at Los Angeles, California, shall be acted upon in accordance with the regulations contained in § 295.8 of Title 43 of the Code of Federal Regulations (Circ. 324, May 22, 1914, 43 L. D. 254), to the extent that such regulations are applicable. Applications under the small tract act of June 1, 1938, shall be governed by the regulations contained in Part 257 of Title 43 of the Code of Federal Regulations.

8. Lessees under the small tract act of June 1, 1938, will be required, within a reasonable time after execution of the lease, to construct upon the leased land, to the satisfaction of the Acting Director, Bureau of Land Management, improvements which under the circumstances are presentable, substantial and appropriate for the use for which the lease is issued. Leases will be for a period of five years, at an anual rental of $5 payable yearly in advance.

9. All of the land will be leased in tracts of approximately 5 acres each with dimensions of about 330 by 660 feet. Preference right leases referred to in paragraph 4 will be issued for the land described in the application, irrespective of the direction of the tract, provided the land is applied for in rectangular units of approximately 330 by 660 feet. (ii) On or before the 10th day after the end of each of the months of September, October, and November, the market administrator shall pay out of the seasonal-adjustment fund to each producer an amount equal to the rate computed pursuant to (3) (i) of this section times the hundredweight of milk received from such producers for such month: Provided, That payment under (3) (ii) of this section due any producer who has given authority to a cooperative association which is qualified to receive payments for his milk shall be paid to such cooperative association if the cooperative association requests receipt of such payment.

(b) As Class I milk if transferred to the plant of a producer-handler.

(ii) When diverted as other source milk in the form of fluid milk from the plant of a handler to another handler or to any other milk distributing or milk manfacturing plant shall be classified as Class III milk, subject to verification by the market administrator.

(2) Subject to the conditions set forth in (d) of this section and in (3) of this paragraph, skim milk and butterfat when transferred in the form of cream by a handler, shall be classified as follows:

(i) As Class II milk if transferred to another handler or to any other milk distributing or manufacturing plant: Provided, That if the seller on or before the 5th day after the end of the delivery period, during which such transfer is made, furnishes to the market administrator a statement signed by the buyer that such milk was used as Class III milk and that such utilization may be audited by the market administrator at the receiving plant, such milk may be classified accordingly, or

(ii) As Class II milk if transferred to the plant of a producer-handler.

(3) No statement made relative to transfer as provided for in this paragraph shall operate to deter the prior subtraction of other source milk pursuant to (f) (2) and (3) of this section, or the prior subtraction of milk received from producer-handlers pursuant to (f) (4) of this section or any quantity reported for allocation to a particular class but not eligible because of (f) (2), (f) (3) and (f) (4) of this section shall be classified by the market administrator as Class I milk, pending his verification.

(d) Responsibility of handlers and reclassification of milk. (1) In establishing the classification of skim milk and butterfat as required in (b) of this section, the burden rests upon the first handler who receives such skim milk or butterfat to prove to the market administrator that such skim milk or butterfat should not be classified as Class I milk.

(2) Any skim milk or butterfat classified in one class shall be reclassified if found by the market administrator to have been used or disposed of (whether in original or other form) by such handler or by any other person in another class in accordance with such use or disposition.

(e) Computation of the classification of all skim milk and butterfat for each handler. For each delivery period the market administrator shall correct for mathematical and for other obvious errors the report submitted by each handler and compute separately the respective amounts of skim milk and butterfat in Class I milk, Class II milk and Class III milk as follows:

(1) Determine the total pounds of product to be accounted for by: Adding into one sum:

(i) The total pounds of milk received as producer milk, including the handler's own farm production, and

(ii) The total pounds of milk, skim milk, and cream received, and the pounds of skim milk and butterfat used to produce all other milk products received (except milk products disposed of in the form in which received without further processing in the plant of the handler) regardless of source.

(2) Determine the total pounds of butterfat to be accounted for by:

(i) Multiplying by its average butterfat test the weight of milk received as producer milk, and

(ii) Multiplying by its average butterfat test the weight of milk, skim milk, and cream received, and determine the pounds of butterfat used to produce all other milk products (except milk products disposed of in the form in which received without further processing in the plant of the handler) regardless of source, and

(iii) Adding the results so obtained.

(3) Determine the total pounds of skim milk contained in the total receipts computed pursuant to (1) of this paragraph by subtracting therefrom the total pounds of butterfat computed pursuant to (2) (iii) of this paragraph;

(4) Determine the total pounds of butterfat in Class I milk by:

(i) Converting to pounds on the basis of 2.15 pounds per quart the volume disposed of in each of the several items of Class I milk;

(ii) Multiplying each of the resulting amounts by its average butterfat test; and (iii) adding the results so obtained, and (iv) adding an amount to (iii) of this subparagraph which equals the difference between the total pounds of butterfat computed pursuant to (2) (iii) of this paragraph and the total pounds of butterfat computed pursuant to (4) (iii), (6) (ii) and (8) (iii) of this paragraph.

(5) Determine the total pounds of skim milk in Class I milk by:

(i) Computing the aggregate amount of skim milk and butterfat included in each of the several items of Class I milk computed pursuant to (4) (i);

(ii) Subtracting the result obtained in (4) (ii) of this paragraph; and

(iii) Adding an amount to (ii) of this subparagraph which equals the difference between the total pounds of skim milk computed pursuant to (3) of this paragraph and the total pounds of skim milk computed pursuant to (5) (ii), (7) (ii) and (9) (iv) of this paragraph.

(6) Determine the total pounds of butterfat in Class II milk by:

(i) Multiplying the actual weight of each of the several items of Class II milk by its average butterfat test; and

(ii) Adding the results so obtained.

(7) Determine the total pounds of skim milk in Class II milk by:

(i) Computing the aggregate amount of skim milk and butterfat included in each of the several items of Class II milk computed pursuant to (6) (i); and

(ii) Subtracting the result obtained in (6) (ii).

(8) Determine the total pounds of butterfat in Class III milk by:

(ii) Subtracting from the total pounds of butterfat computed pursuant to (2) (ii) of this paragraph, the total pounds of butterfat in Class I milk, Class II milk and Class III milk, computed pursuant to (4) (iii), (6) (ii) and (8) (i) of this paragraph, the resulting quantity up to 3 percent of the total receipts of butterfat in producer milk shall be allowed as plant shrinkage for the purposes of this paragraph, unless such difference is a minus quantity, in which case the plant shrinkage is zero for purposes of all computations required by this paragraph,

(iii) Adding the resulting plus quantity obtained in (ii) of this subparagraph to the result obtained in (i) of this subparagraph.

(9) Determine the total pounds of skim milk in Class III milk by:

(i) Computing the aggregate amount of skim milk and butterfat (in whatever form) used to produce each of the several items of Class III milk;

(iv) Adding the resulting plus quantity obtained in (iii) of this subparagraph to the result obtained in (ii) of this subparagraph.

(f) Computation of the classification of skim milk and butterfat in producer milk for each handler. For each delivery period, the market administrator shall compute separately the respective amounts of skim milk and butterfat of producer milk in Class I milk, Class II milk and Class III milk for each handler by making the following computations in the order specified:

(1) Subtracting from Class III milk the actual plant shrinkage of skim milk computed pursuant to (e) (9) (iii) of this section and butterfat computed pursuant to (e) (8) (ii) of this section, respectively;

(2) Subtracting from the remaining pounds of skim milk and butterfat, in series beginning with the lowest-priced uses, the skim milk and butterfat, respectively, diverted as other source milk from other handlers;

(3) Subtracting from the remaining pounds of skim milk and butterfat, in series beginning with the lowest-priced uses, the skim milk and butterfat, respectively, received as other source milk;

(4) Subtracting from the remaining pounds of skim milk and butterfat, in series beginning with the lowest-priced uses, the skim milk and butterfat, respectively, received from producer-handlers;

(5) Subtracting from the remaining pounds of skim milk and butterfat in each class, the total pounds of skim milk and butterfat, respectively, in producer milk received from other handlers and stated by the receiver to have been used in such class, to the extent of the amounts of skim milk and butterfat remaining in such class after making the computations pursuant to (4) of this paragraph: Provided, That skim milk or butterfat allocated by such statements to Class II milk or Class III milk in excess of amounts subtracted above pursuant to this subparagraph shall be subtracted from Class I milk;

(6) Adding to Class III milk the amount of skim milk and butterfat, respectively, subtracted pursuant to (1) of this paragraph;

(7) Subtracting pro-rata from the remaining pounds of skim milk and butterfat in each case, the skim milk and butterfat, respectively, received from the handler's own farm production; and

(8) If the total amount of skim milk or butterfat in all classes, after the computations made above pursuant to this paragraph, is greater than the skim milk or butterfat in producer milk, decrease the lowest-priced available class, or classes, by such excess.

5. Delete the provisions of § 948.7 and substitute therefor the following:

§ 948.7 Minimum prices. (a) Basic Formula Price to be Used in Determining Class I Milk, Class II Milk and Class III Milk Prices. The basic formula price per hundredweight of milk to be used in computing the minimum prices for Class I milk, Class II milk and Class III milk provided in this section shall be the higher of the prices per hundredweight determined pursuant to (1) and (2) of this paragraph.

(1) The average, adjusted to the nearest cent, of the basic (or field) prices ascertained to have been paid for milk of 3.5 percent butterfat content received during the next preceding delivery period at the following places for which prices are reported to the market administrator by the companies listed below or by the Department of Agriculture:

Concern and Location of Plant

Amboy Milk Products Company, Amboy, Ill.
Borden Company, Dixon, Ill.
Borden Company, Sterling, Ill.
Carnation Milk Company, Northfield, Minn.
Carnation Milk Company, Oregon, Ill.
Carnation Milk Company, Waverly, Iowa.
Dean Milk Company, Pearl City, Ill.
Dean Milk Company, Pecatonica, Ill.
Fort Dodge Creamery Company, Fort Dodge, Iowa.
Libby, McNeil & Libby Company, Morrison, Ill.
Pet Milk Company, Shullsburg, Wis.
United Milk Products Company, Argo Fay, Ill.

(2) The price per hundredweight, adjusted to the nearest cent, computed by the market administrator in accordance with the following formula: Multiply by 3.5 the average price per pound of 92-score butter at wholesale in the Chicago market, as reported by the United States Department of Agriculture for the delivery period during which such milk is received, plus or minus 0.875 cent per hundredweight for each 1 cent that such average price of 92-score butter is above or below 20 cents: Provided, That such price shall be increased by the amount resulting from the following computation: To 21 cents, add a figure determined as follows: add 3 cents per hundredweight for each full one-half cent that the price of nonfat dry milk solids for human consumption is above 7 cents per pound. For purposes of determining this adjustment, the price per pound to be used shall be the arithmetical average of the carlot prices for nonfat dry milk solids, both spray and roller process, for human consumption delivered at Chicago, as reported by the United States Department of Agriculture during the delivery period, including in such average the quotation for any part of the preceeding delivery period which were not published and available for the price determination of such nonfat dry milk solids for the previous delivery period. In the event the United States Department of Agriculture does not publish carlot prices for nonfat dry milk solids for human consumption delivered at Chicago, the average of the carlot prices for nonfat dry milk solids for human consumption f. o. b. manufacturing plant as reported by the United States Department of Agriculture for the Chicago area, shall be used. In the latter event such price shall be subject to the following adjustment: add or subtract 3 cents per hundredweight for each full one-half cent that the price of nonfat dry milk solids for human consumption, f. o. b. manufacturing plant, is above or below 6 cents per pound.

(b) Class I milk prices. The minimum prices to be paid by each handler for that proportion of skim milk and butterfat in producer milk received which is classified as Class I milk, shall be determined as follows:

(1) The price per hundredweight for 3.5 percent milk shall be the basic formula price computed pursuant to (a) of this section, plus 80 cents.

(2) The price per hundredweight of butterfat shall be determined by:

(i) Multiplying the average price per pound of 92-score butter at wholesale in the Chicago market, as reported by the United States Department of Agriculture for the delivery period during which the milk was received, by 140 percent, and adjusting to the nearest cent, and

(ii) Multiplying the result so obtained by 100.

(3) The price per hundredweight of skim milk shall be determined by:

(i) Multiplying the average price per pound of 92 score butter adjusted by 140 percent as computed pursuant to (2) (i) of this paragraph by 3.5 percent, and

(ii) Subtracting the result obtained in (i) of this subparagraph from the basic Class I price computed pursuant to (1) of this paragraph, and (iii) dividing the result obtained in (ii) of this subparagraph by 0.965, adjusting to the nearest cent.

(c) Class II milk prices. The minimum price to be paid by each handler for that portion of skim milk and butterfat in producer milk received which is classified as Class II milk, shall be determined as follows:

(1) The price per hundredweight for 3.5 percent milk shall be the basic formula price computed pursuant to (a) of this section plus 50 cents.

(2) The price per hundredweight of butterfat shall be determined by:

(i) Multiplying the average price per pound of 92-score butter at wholesale in the Chicago market, as reported by the United States Department of Agriculture for the delivery period during which the milk was received, by 130 percent, and adjusting to the nearest cent, and

(ii) Multiplying the result so obtained by 100.

(3) The price per hundredweight of skim milk shall be determined by:

(i) Multiplying the average price per pound of 92-score butter adjusted by 130 percent as computed pursuant to (2) (i) of this paragraph by 3.5 percent, and

(ii) Subtracting the result obtained in (i) of this subparagraph from the basic Class II price computed pursuant to (1) of this paragraph, and

(iii) Dividing the result obtained in (ii) of this subparagraph by 0.965, adjusting to the nearest cent.

(e) Emergency price provisions. (1) Whenever the provisions hereof require the market administrator to use a specific price (or prices) for milk or any milk product for the purpose of determining minimum class prices or for any other purpose, the market administrator shall add to the specified price the amount of any subsidy, or other similar payment, being made by any Federal agency in connection with the milk, or product, associated with the price specified: Provided, That if for any reason the price specified is not reported or published as indicated, the market administrator shall use the applicable maximum uniform price established by regulations of any Federal agency plus the amount of any such subsidy or other similar payment: Provided further, That if the specified price is not reported or published and there is no applicable maximum uniform price, or if the specified price is not reported or published and the Secretary determines that the market price is below the applicable maximum uniform price, the market administrator shall use a price determined by the Secretary to be equivalent to or comparable with the price specified.

(2) Whenever the Secretary finds and announces that the price of Class I milk or Class II milk computed for any delivery period pursuant to (b) and (c) of this section are not in the public interest, the price of Class I milk or Class II milk for such delivery period shall be the same price as the Class I milk or Class II milk for the previous delivery period.

6. Delete the provisions of § 948.8 and substitute therefore the following:

§ 948.8 Determination of uniform price to producers—(a) Computation of total value of producer milk for each handler. Subject to the conditions set forth in (1) and (2) of this paragraph, the value of producer milk received by each handler during each delivery period shall be a sum of money computed by the market administrator, by multiplying by the respective class prices for skim milk and butterfat, pursuant to § 948.7, the hundredweight of such skim milk and butterfat according to classification pursuant to § 948.6 (f) and adding together the resulting amounts.

(1) Receipts of milk from a producer-handler. In the case of a handler who purchases or receives milk, skim milk or cream from a producer-handler and disposes of the skim milk or butterfat contained therein, as other than in the lowest-priced use of the receiving handler, there shall be added to amount equal to the difference between (a) the value of such skim milk or butterfat at the price of such lowest-priced use and (b) the value computed in accordance with its classification in § 948.6 (f) (4).

(2) Payment for excess butterfat. In the case of a handler, after subtracting all receipts other than producer milk, has disposed of skim milk or butterfat in excess of the skim milk or butterfat received in producer milk, the market administrator shall add an amount equal to the value of such skim milk or butterfat computed pursuant to § 948.6 (f) (8).

(b) Computation of uniform price. For each delivery period, the market administrator shall compute a uniform price per hundredweight for producer milk by:

(1) Combining into one total the values computed pursuant to (a) of this section for all handlers except those who did not make the payments pursuant to § 948.9 (d) for the previous delivery period;

(2) Adding an amount representing not less than one-half the unobligated balance in the producer-settlement fund;

(3) Subtracting, if the weighted average butterfat test of all pooled milk is greater than 3.5 percent, or adding, if the weighted average butterfat test of such milk is less than 3.5 percent, an amount computed by multiplying the total amount of butterfat represented by the variance of such weighted average butterfat test from 3.5 percent by the applicable butterfat differential computed pursuant to § 948.9 (b) times 10.

(4) Dividing by the hundredweight of producer milk pooled; and

(5) Subtracting not less than 4 cents nor more than 5 cents per hundredweight for the purpose of retaining in the producer-settlement fund a cash balance to provide against errors in reports and payments or delinquencies in payments by handlers. The result shall be known as "uniform price" per hundredweight for producer milk of 3.5 percent butterfat content.

(c) Notification of handlers. On or before the 7th day after the end of each delivery period, the market administrator shall notify each handler of:

(1) The amount and value of his milk in each class computed pursuant to § 948.6 (f) and (a) of this section, respectively, and the totals of such amounts and values;

(2) The uniform price computed pursuant to (b) of this section;

(3) The amount due such handler from the producer-settlement fund or the amount to be paid by such handler to the producer-settlement fund, as the case may be; and

(4) The total amounts to be paid by such handler pursuant to § 948.9 and § 948.10.

7. Delete the provisions of § 948.9 and substitute therefor the following:

§ 948.9 Payments for milk—(a) Time and method of payments. On or before the 10th day after the end of each delivery period, each handler shall make payment, subject to the butterfat differential set forth in paragraph (b) of this section, for producer milk purchased or received by such handler during such delivery period, as follows:

(1) To each producer, except as set forth in (2) of this paragraph, an amount computed by multiplying the hundredweight of such milk by not less than the price per hundredweight, computed pursuant to § 948.8 (b); and

(2) To a cooperative association for milk which it causes to be delivered to a handler from producers and for which such cooperative association collects payments, a total amount equal to not less than the sum of the individual payments otherwise payable to such producers under (1) of this paragraph.

(b) Butterfat differential. If any handler has purchased or received from any producer milk having an average butterfat content other than 3.5 percent, such handler, in making the payments pursuant to subparagraphs (1) and (2) of paragraph (a) of this section, shall add for each one-tenth of 1 percent of average butterfat content in milk above 3.5 percent not less than, or shall deduct for each one-tenth of 1 percent of average butterfat content in milk below 3.5 percent not more than:

(1) Three cents per hundredweight when the average price per pound of 92-score butter at wholesale in the Chicago market, as reported by the United States Department of Agriculture for the delivery period during which such milk was received, is less than 30 cents;

(2) Three and one-half cents per hundredweight when such average price of 92-score butter is 30 cents or more but less than 35 cents;

(3) Four cents per hundredweight when such average price of 92-score butter is 35 cents or more, but less than 40 cents;

(4) Four and one-half cents per hundredweight when such average price of 92-score butter is 40 cents or more, but less than 45 cents;

(5) Five cents per hundredweight when such average price of 92-score butter is 45 cents or more, but less than 50 cents;

(6) Five and one-half cents per hundredweight when such average price of 92-score butter is 50 cents or more, but less than 55 cents; and

(7) Six cents per hundredweight when such average price of 92-score butter is 55 cents or more.

(c) Producer-settlement fund. The market administrator shall establish and maintain a separate fund known as the "producer-settlement fund" into which he shall deposit all payments made by handlers pursuant to paragraphs (d) and (f) of this section and out of which he shall make all payments to handlers pursuant to (e) and (f) of this section: Provided, That the market administrator shall offset any such payment due to any handler against payments due from such handler.

(d) Payment to the producer-settlement fund. On or before the 10th day after the end of each delivery period, each handler shall pay to the market administrator for payment to producers through the producer-settlement fund the amount by which the total value computed for him pursuant to § 948.8 (a) for such delivery period is greater than the sum required to be paid by such handler pursuant to (a) of this section.

(e) Payments out of the producer-settlement fund. (1) On or before the 10th day after the end of each delivery period, the market administrator shall pay to each handler, for payment to producers, the amount by which the sum required to be paid producers by such handler pursuant to (a) of this section is greater than the total value computed for him pursuant to § 948.8 (a).

(2) If the balance in the producer-settlement fund is insufficient to make all payments pursuant to this paragraph, the market administrator shall reduce uniformly such payments and shall complete such payments as soon as the necessary funds are available. No handler who, on the 10th day after the end of each delivery period, has not received the balance of such payment from the market administrator shall be deemed to be in violation of (a) of this section if he reduces his payments to producers by not more than the amount of the reduction in payment from the producer-settlement fund.

(f) Adjustments of errors in payments. Whenever verification by the market administrator of reports or payments of any handler discloses errors in payments to the producer-settlement fund made pursuant to (d) of this section, the market administrator shall promptly bill such handler for any unpaid amount and such handler shall, within 5 days of such billing, make payment to the market administrator of the amount so billed. Whenever verification discloses that payment is due from the market administrator to any handler pursuant to (e) of this section, the market administrator shall, within 5 days, make such payment to such handler. Whenever verification by the market administrator of the payment by a handler to any producer discloses payment to such producer of an amount which is less than is required by this section, the handler shall make up such payment to the producer not later than the time of making payment to producers next following such disclosure.

8. Delete the provisions of § 948.10 and substitute therefor the following:

§ 948.10 Expense of administration—(a) Payment by handlers. As his pro rata share of the expense of the administration hereof, each handler, with respect to all producer milk purchased or received during the delivery period, shall pay to the market administrator, on or before the 10th day after the end of such delivery period, an amount not to exceed 4 cents per hundredweight, the exact amount to be determined by the market administrator, subject to review by the Secretary.

(b) Suits by the market administration. The market administrator may maintain a suit in his own name against any handler for the collection of such handler's pro rata share of expenses as required by paragraph (a) of this section.

9. Delete § 948.11. Expense of administration.

OPINION ACCOMPANYING ORDER NO. 19 UNDER MAXIMUM PRICE REGULATION 610

The Four Wheel Drive Auto Company, Clintonville, Wisconsin, makes applications pursuant to section 8 of Maximum Price Regulation 610 for maximum prices on five models of trucks manufactured by it.

In general, section 8 of the regulation permits the establishment of maximum prices for manufacturers by the calculation of a price increase factor for each commodity line reflecting legal increases since January 1, 1941 in materials prices and basic wage rate schedules and a profit margin over cost, the application of this increase factor to 1941 model prices and the adjusting of the resulting prices to show increases or decreases in direct labor and direct materials costs due to changes in specification, design, material and equipment from the 1941 models. A more detailed discussion of section 8 and the pricing method provided for therein will be found in the Statement of Considerations accompanying Maximum Price Regulation 610.

The increases in basic wage rate schedules and in the general level of materials prices, including increases consistent with Executive Order 9697, and profit, which were reflected in the Four Wheel Drive Auto Company's increase factor were in accordance with the provisions of section 8. Section 8 was adhered to in determining increases in direct labor and materials cost resulting from changes in specification, design, material and equipment incorporated in the new trucks and in determining the overall price increase factor. The price increase factor and the increases resulting from specification changes were correctly applied to the 1941 model prices. In these circumstances the prices requested by the Four Wheel Drive Auto Company for its sales have been authorized in the accompanying order.

The Company's maximum prices for its sales consist of a net wholesale price for the truck and extra or optional equipment plus charges for transportation, Federal excise taxes and handling and delivery.

In accordance with section 10 of Maximum Price Regulation 610, the order also includes adjusted maximum prices for resellers in the United States and for resellers in Puerto Rico and Alaska. Resellers' adjusted maximum prices reflect the increases in prices given to the applicant and preserve the resellers' customary prewar margin on their increased cost. Maximum prices for resellers consist of list prices for the new trucks and optional equipment plus the applicable charges for transportation, state and local taxes, Federal excise taxes, factory handling and delivery, and preparing and conditioning set forth in section 10. For resellers in Puerto Rico and Alaska, provision is made for additional charges as set forth in section 11. As required by section 12, the Company must notify resellers of list prices and discounts for the new trucks and extra or optional equipment.

The prices authorized in this order are in accordance with the provisions of Maximum Price Regulation 610.

WALDES KOH-I-NOOR, INC.

ADJUSTMENT OF CEILING PRICES

For the reasons set forth in an opinion issued simultaneously herewith and filed with the Division of the Federal Register, and pursuant to Order No. 7 under Maximum Price Regulation No. 188, It is ordered:

(a) Manufacturer's ceiling prices. Waldes Koh-I-Noor, Inc., Long Island City 1, New York, may compute its adjusted ceiling prices for all articles in its product line of slide fasteners which it manufactures, as follows:

(1) For an article in its line during October 1941 and which was manufactured by it during a period in which its wage rates were the same as they were on the 9th day of August, 1946, the adjusted ceiling price is the highest price charged during the month of October 1941 to each class of purchaser increased by no more than 12.2 per cent.

(2) For an article in its line during October 1941, and manufactured by it during a period in which its wage rates which were in effect on the 9th day of August, 1946, are increased by no less than $.04 an hour pursuant to an approval of the Wage Stabilization Board, the adjusted ceiling price is the highest price charged during the month of October 1941 to each class of purchaser increased by no more than 14.4 per cent.

(3) For an article not in its line during October 1941, but which has a properly established ceiling price, the adjusted ceiling price is the article's properly estbalished ceiling price for the particular sale (exclusive of all permitted increases or adjustment charges) increased by the percentage determined in accordance with "Note 3" in Section 8 of Revised Supplementary Order No. 119.

(4) The manufacturer's adjusted ceiling price fixed in accordance with this order is his new ceiling price if it is higher than his previously established ceiling price including all increases and adjustments otherwise authorized for him individually or for his industry.

(b) Notification by manufacturer to Office of Price Administration. Within 10 days after the manufacturer has adjusted its prices in an amount exceeding 12.2 percent of its October 1941 prices, in accordance with section (a) (2) of this order, it shall file a written report with the Office of Price Administration, Washington 25, D. C., setting forth the following:

(1) The date of the adjustment.
(2) The percentage amount of the adjustment over October 1941 prices.
(3) The date of the increase of wage rates.
(4) The hourly amount of such increase.
(5) The date of the approval of such increase by the Wage Stabilization Board.

This notice may be given in any convenient form.

(c) Resellers' ceiling prices. Resellers, other than commercial users, of an article which the manufacturer has sold at an adjusted ceiling price determined under this order shall determine their maximum prices as follows: A reseller other than a commercial user, shall calculate his ceiling price by adding to his invoice cost the same percentage markup which he has on the most comparable article for which he has a properly established ceiling price. For this purpose the most comparable article is the one which meets all of the following tests:

(1) It belongs to the narrowest trade category which includes the article being priced.

(2) Both it and the article being priced were purchased from the same class of supplier.

(3) Both it and the article being priced belong to a class of articles to which, according to customary trade practices, an approximately uniform percentage markup is applied.

(4) Its net replacement cost is nearest to the net cost of the article being priced.

The determination of a maximum price in this way need not be reported to the Office of Price Administration; however, each seller must keep complete records, showing all the information called for by OPA Form 620–759 with regard to how he determined his maximum price, for so long as the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended, remains in effect.

If the maximum resale price cannot be determined under the above method, the seller shall apply to the Office of Price Administration for the establishment of a maximum price under Section 1499.3 (c) of the General Maximum Price Regulation. Maximum prices established under that section will reflect the supplier's prices as adjusted in accordance with this order.

(d) Definition. The term commercial user as used in this order shall mean a purchaser for resale of an article covered by this order, who resells such article in a form which is not substantially the same as it was when he purchased it from his supplier. For instance, a dress manufacturer or a luggage manufacturer who purchases a slide fastener for resale and uses that slide fastener for incorporation into a dress or a piece of luggage, shall be a commercial user.

(e) Terms of sale. Ceiling prices adjusted by this order are subject to each seller's terms, discounts and allowances on sales to each class of purchaser in effect during March 1942, or thereafter, properly established under Office of Price Administration regulations or orders.

(f) Notification. At the time of, or prior to the first invoice to a purchaser for resale other than a commercial user on and after the effective date of this order, showing prices adjusted in accordance with this order, the seller shall notify the purchaser in writing of the method established in paragraph (c) of this order for determining adjusted maximum prices for resale of the articles. This notice may be given in any convenient form.

(g) The provisions of Supplementary Order No. 153 shall not apply to any of the articles covered by this order.

(h) Order No. L–4504 under Order No. 7 under Maximum Price Regulation No. 188 is hereby revoked subject to the provisions of Supplementary Order No. 40.

(i) This order may be revoked or amended by the Price Administrator at any time.

This order shall become effective on the 11th day of September, 1946.

Issued this 10th day of September 1946.

GEOFFREY BAKER,
Acting Administrator.

EDISON GENERAL ELECTRIC APPLIANCE CO., INC.

APPROVAL OF CEILING PRICES

For the reasons set forth in an opinion issued simultaneously herewith and filed with the Division of the Federal Register and pursuant to section 14 of Revised Maximum Price Regulation No. 86, It is ordered:

(1) For sales by distributors to dealers the ceiling price of the Model 1LD1 is $118.78 each. This price is f. o. b. seller's warehouse. When, however, shipment is made directly from the manufacturer to the dealer pursuant to the distributor's order, this ceiling price is f. o. b. dealer's city. In the case of sales by a distributor to a non-servicing dealer the seller may add to this ceiling price his customary differential or $10.00, whichever is lower. For purposes of this order a non-servicing dealer is one who relies on the distributor to supply the consumer with delivery and any services necessary to fulfill the warranty on driers covered by this order.

(2) For sales by dealers to ultimate consumers the ceiling price for the Model 1LD1 is $189.95 each. This ceiling price includes delivery and installation. Installation means connection of the drier to electric facilities to be provided by the consumer. Installation includes a home instruction course in the proper use of the drier to be given in the consumer's home by instructors provided by the seller.

GENERAL ELECTRIC CO.

APPROVAL OF CEILING PRICES

For the reasons set forth in an opinion issued simultaneously herewith and filed with the Division of the Federal Register and pursuant to section 14 of Revised Maximum Price Regulation No. 86, It is ordered:

(a) This order establishes ceiling prices for resales of the General Electric brand Model AD-6 domestic mechanical drier sold by the General Electric Company, 1285 Boston Avenue, Bridgeport 2, Connecticut.

(1) For sales by distributors to dealers the ceiling price of the Model AD-6 is $118.78 each. This price is f. o. b. seller's warehouse. When, however, shipment is made directly from the manufacturer to the dealer pursuant to the distributor's order, this ceiling price is f. o. b. dealer's city. In the case of sales by a distributor to a non-servicing dealer the seller may add to this ceiling price his customary differential or $10.00, whichever is lower. For purposes of this order a non-servicing dealer is one who relies on the distributor to supply the consumer with delivery and any services necessary to fulfill the warranty on driers covered by this order.

(2) For sales by dealers to ultimate consumers the ceiling price for the Model AD-6 is $189.95 each. This ceiling price includes delivery and installation. Installation means connection of the drier to electric facilities to be provided by the consumer. Installation includes a home instruction course in the proper use of the drier to be given in the consumer's home by instructors provided by the seller.

(b) Except as provided otherwise in this order, each ceiling price established under this order is subject to each seller's terms, discounts, allowances, and other price differentials no less favorable than those he had in effect for similar sales during the period October 1-15, 1941. If the seller made no sales during that period, his ceiling prices under this order are subject to terms, discounts, allowances no less favorable than those of his closest competitive seller of the same class on sales of similar articles during the same period or which were thereafter properly established under applicable OPA regulation.

(c) At the time of, or prior to the first invoice to each distributor the General Electric Company shall notify the distributor of the ceiling prices established by this order for his resales.

(d) All the provisions of Revised Maximum Price Regulation No. 86 continue to apply to all sales and deliveries of driers covered by this order except to the extent that those provisions are modified by this order.

(e) Unless the context requires otherwise, the definitions set forth in the various sections of Revised Maximum Price Regulation No. 86 apply to the terms used herein.

(f) This order may be revoked or amended by the Price Administrator at any time.

This order shall become effective on the 11th day of September 1946.

Issued this 11th day of September 1946.

[MPR 188, Order 7 Under Order 7]

BISSELL CARPET SWEEPER CO.

ADJUSTMENT OF CEILING PRICES

For the reasons set forth in an opinion issued simultaneously herewith and filed with the Division of the Federal Register and pursuant to Order No. 7 under § 1499.159e of Maximum Price Regulation No. 188, It is ordered:

(a) Manufacturers' ceiling prices. Bissell Carpet Sweeper Company, 210 Erie Street, N. W., Grand Rapids 2, Michigan, may compute its adjusted ceiling prices for carpet sweepers of its manufacture by increasing by 22.7% its ceiling prices to each class of purchaser as established by Maximum Price Regulation No. 188.

As used in this paragraph "ceiling prices as established under Maximum Price Regulation No. 188," shall mean the ceiling prices established under that regulation without the inclusion in those ceiling prices either directly or indirectly of any adjustment, either individual or industry-wide.

(b) Ceiling prices of purchasers for resale. (1) A purchaser for resale, who had an established ceiling price prior to the effective date of this order for any article, whose manufacturer's ceiling price was adjusted in accordance with the provisions of this order, may increase that established ceiling price by 22.7 percent.

(2) A purchaser for resale who had no established ceiling price prior to the effective date of this order for any article whose ceiling price is subject to this order, shall determine his ceiling price by adding to his invoice cost the same percentage markup which he had on the "most comparable article" for which he has a properly established ceiling price. For this purpose the "most comparable article" is one which meets all the following tests:

(i) It belongs to the narrowest trade category which includes the article being priced.

(ii) Both it and the article being priced were purchased from the same class of supplier.

(iii) Both it and the article being priced belong to a class of articles to which, according to customary trade practices, an approximately uniform percentage markup is applied.

(iv) The net replacement cost is nearest to the net cost of the article being priced.

The determination of a ceiling price in this way need not be reported to the Office of Price Administration, however, each seller must keep complete records showing all the information called for by OPA Form 620-759 with regard to how he determined his ceiling price, for so long as the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended, remains in effect.

If the resale ceiling price cannot be determined under the above method, the reseller shall apply to the office of Price Administration for the establishment of a ceiling price under § 1499.3 (c) of the General Maximum Price Regulation. Ceiling prices established under that section will reflect the supplier's prices as adjusted in accordance with this order.

(c) Terms of sale. Ceiling prices adjusted by this order are subject to each seller's terms, discounts and allowances on sales to each class of purchaser in effect during March 1942, or thereafter, properly established under OPA regulations.

(d) Notification. At the time of, or prior to the first invoice to a purchaser for resale on and after the effective date of this order, showing prices adjusted in accordance with this order, the seller shall notify the purchaser in writing of the method established in paragraph (b) of this order for determining adjusted ceiling prices for resales of the articles. This notice may be given in any convenient form.

(e) All requests contained in the application for price adjustment filed by Bissell Carpet Sweeper Company, assigned OPA Docket No. 6069-SO 119-117e, not specifically granted by this order are hereby denied.

(f) The provisions of Supplementary Order No. 153 shall have no application to any sale or delivery of any article subject to this order.

(g) This order may be revoked or amended by the Price Administrator at any time.

This order shall become effective on the 11th day of September 1946.

Administrator.

J. L. CHASE CO.

ADJUSTMENT OF CEILING PRICES

For the reasons set forth in an opinion issued simultaneously herewith and filed with the Division of the Federal Register, and pursuant to sections 15 and 16 of Revised Supplementary Order No. 119, it is ordered:

(a) Manufacturer's ceiling prices. J. L. Chase Company, 666 Lake Shore Drive, Chicago 11, Illinois may compute its adjusted ceiling prices for all articles of upholstered furniture which it manufactures, as follows:

(1) For an article in its line during October 1941, the adjusted ceiling price is the highest price charged during that month to each class of purchaser increased by 15.4 percent.

(2) For an article not in its line during October 1941, but which has a properly established ceiling price, the adjusted ceiling price is the article's properly established ceiling price for the particular sale (exclusive of all permitted increases or adjustment charges) increased by the percentage determined in accordance with "Note 3" in section 8 of Revised Supplementary Order No. 119.

(3) The manufacturer's adjusted ceiling price fixed in accordance with this order is his new ceiling price if it is higher than the previously established ceiling price including all increases and adjustments otherwise authorized for him individually or for his industry.

(b) Resellers' ceiling prices. Resellers of an article which the manufacturer has sold at an adjusted ceiling price determined under this order shall determine their maximum prices as follows:

(1) A retailer who must determine his ceiling price under Maximum Price Regulation No. 580, and a wholesaler who must determine his ceiling prices under Maximum Price Regulation No. 590, shall compute their ceiling prices in the manner provided by those regulations. However, if the supplier's invoice states both an "unadjusted maximum price" and a ceiling price, the reseller shall compute his ceiling prices under those regulations as they have been modified by Order No. 4800 under § 1499.159b of Maximum Price Regulation No. 188.

(2) A reseller who determines his maximum resale price under the General Maximum Price Regulation, and whose supplier's invoice states both an "unadjusted maximum price" and a selling price, shall compute his ceiling prices under that regulation as modified by Order No. 4800 under § 1499.159b of Maximum Price Regulation No. 188.

If his supplier's invoice does not state an "unadjusted maximum price," the reseller shall calculate his ceiling price by adding to his invoice cost the same percentage mark-up which he has on the "most comparable article" for which he has a properly established ceiling price. For this purpose, the "most comparable article" is the one which meets all of the following tests:

(i) It belongs to the narrowest trade category which includes the article being priced.

(ii) Both it and the article being priced were purchased from the same class of supplier.

(iii) Both it and the article being priced belong to a class of article to which, according to customary trade practices, an approximately uniform percentage mark-up is applied.

(iv) Its net replacement cost is nearest to the net cost of the article being priced. The determination of a ceiling price in this way need not be reported to the Office of Price Administration; however, each seller must keep complete records showing all the information called for by OPA Form No. 620–759 with regard to how he determined his ceiling price, for so long as the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended, remains in effect.

If the maximum resale price cannot be determined under the above method, the reseller shall apply to the Office of Price Administration for the establishment of a ceiling price under § 1499.3 (c) of the General Maximum Price Regulation. Ceiling prices established under that section will reflect the supplier's prices as adjusted in accordance with this order.

(3) The provisions of Supplementary Order No. 153 shall not apply to the determination of ceiling prices for resales of articles covered by this order.

(c) Terms of sale. Ceiling prices adjusted by this order are subject to each seller's terms, discounts, and allowances on sales to each class of purchaser in effect during March 1942, or thereafter, properly established under OPA regulations.

(d) Notification. At the time of, or prior to the first invoice to a purchaser for resale on and after the effective date of this order, showing prices adjusted in accordance with this order, the seller shall notify the purchaser in writing of the method established in paragraph (b) of this order for determining adjusted maximum prices for resale of the articles. This notice may be given in any convenient form.

(e) All requests for adjustment of maximum prices not specifically granted by this order are hereby denied.

(f) This order may be revoked or amended by the Price Administrator at any time.

This order shall become effective September 11, 1946.

Administrator.

(2) Since the provisions of this order are not intended to reduce properly established maximum prices, the manufacturer may continue to use his maximum prices to each class of purchaser his properly established prices in effect under Maximum Price Regulation No. 591 in the event that such prices exceed the prices in effect to each class of purchaser on October 1, 1941 plus the increase provided for in (1) above.

(3) The maximum prices set forth above shall be subject to discounts and allowances including transportation allowances and price differentials which are at least as favorable as those the manufacturer extended or rendered or would have extended or rendered to each class of purchaser on commodities in the same general category during March 1942.

(b) Resellers' maximum prices. All resellers of the commodities covered by this order (but not manufacturers who purchase such items for use in the manufacture of other products) may add to their presently established maximum prices the actual percentage increase in cost resulting from the increase granted the manufacturer by this order.

(c) Notification to all purchasers. The manufacturer shall send the following notice to every purchaser of the commodities covered by this order at or before the time of the first invoice after the adjustment granted by this order is put into effect:

Order No. 336 under Revised Supplementary Order No. 119 authorizes a 27 percent increase in October 1, 1941 net prices for sales of brass plumbing supply fixtures and trimmings, manufactured by this company.

OPINION ACCOMPANYING AMENDMENT No. 2 TO ORDER No. 1 UNDER MAXIMUM PRICE REGULATION 610

Reconversion maximum prices were authorized in Order 1 under Maximum Price Regulation 610 for the truck models 16M, 18M and 18M2 covered by this order. Order 1, however, was issued and effective on June 17, 1946, based on the company's application which was filed on May 5, 1946. Increases in suppliers' prices for parts and subassemblies aggregating a substantial amount have accrued between April 30 and June 15 and June 30, the date of filing of most other companies, with the result that the Federal Company is placed at a disadvantage in comparison with other truck manufacturers. The Administrator finds this inequity to result in hardship for the company.

The other manufacturers in the truck industry, in general, are not in the same position because their maximum prices are being authorized now for the first time and reflect recognizable cost increases as of June 30, a much later date than those included in the Federal Motor Truck Company's initial application. The Administrator is of the opinion that this hardship can be removed by recomputing the Company's increase factor under the reconversion formula taking into account the aggregate of recognizable increases in suppliers' January 1, 1941 prices as of June 30, a date more current than the base date for increases in suppliers prices used in the Company's initial application. Such a recomputation will equalize the position of the Company with that of the other truck manufacturers. This has been done in this action in accordance with section 9a of Maximum Price Regulation 610.

Issued this 13th day of September 1946.

Administrator.

OPINION ACCOMPANYING ORDER NO. 18 UNDER MAXIMUM PRICE REGULATION 610

The Autocar Company, Ardmore, Pennsylvania, has applied, pursuant to section 8 of Maximum Price Regulation 610, for a maximum price on its truck chassis Models C-50, C-50T, C-50D, C-70, C-70S, C-70T, C-70TS, C-90, C-90T, DC-100T, U-50, U-50T, U-70, U-70S, U-70T, U-70TS, U-90, and U-90T, together with items of extra or optional equipment offered with these chassis.

Maximum prices in the order which this opinion accompanies supersede adjusted maximum prices under Revised Maximum Price Regulation 136 for Models C-50 and C-50T. The maximum prices for the remaining models, prior to this action, were those in effect on March 31, 1942. The gross vehicle weights of the models priced in this action range from 26,000 pounds for the C-50 model to 36,000 pounds for the C-90 model.

In general, section 8 of the regulation permits the establishment of maximum prices for manufacturers by the calculation of a price increase factor for each commodity line reflecting legal increases since January 1, 1941 in materials prices and basic wage rate schedules and a profit margin over cost, the application of this increase factor to 1941 model prices and the adjusting of the resulting prices to show increases or decreases in direct labor and direct materials costs due to changes in specification, design, material and equipment from the 1941 models.

The increases in basic wage rate schedules and in the general level of materials prices, including increases consistent with Executive Order 9697, and profit, which were reflected in the Autocar increase factor were in accordance with the provisions of section 8. Section 8 was adhered to in determining increases in direct labor and materials cost resulting from changes in specification, design, material and equipment incorporated in the new trucks and in determining the overall price increase factor. The price increase factor and the increases resulting from specification changes were correctly applied to the 1941 model prices. In these circumstances, the prices requested by Autocar for its sales have been authorized in the accompanying order.

The Company's maximum prices for its sales consist of a price for the truck chassis and extra or optional equipment plus charges for transportation, federal excise taxes, and handling and delivery.

In accordance with section 10 of Maximum Price Regulation 610, the order also includes adjusted maximum prices for resellers in the United States and for resellers in Porto Rico and the Territory of Alaska. Resellers' adjusted maximum prices reflect the increase in prices given to the applicant, The Autocar Company, and preserve the resellers' customary prewar margin on their increased cost. Maximum prices for resellers consist of list prices for the new trucks and optional equipment plus the applicable charges for transportation, state and local taxes, federal excise taxes, factory handling and delivery, and preparing and conditioning set forth in section 10. For resellers in Porto Rico and the Territory of Alaska, provision is made for additional charges as set forth in section 11. As required by section 12, the Company must notify resellers of list prices and discounts for the new trucks and extra or optional equipment.

The prices authorized in this order are in accordance with the provisions of Maximum Price Regulation 610 and the provisions of the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended.

Issued this 13th day of September 1946.

OPINION ACCOMPANYING ORDER No. 20 UNDER MAXIMUM PRICE REGULATION 610

The Sterling Motor Truck Company, Inc., Milwaukee, Wisconsin has applied, pursuant to section 8 of Maximum Price Regulation 610, for maximum prices on its trucks and extra or optional equipment. Maximum prices in the order in which this opinion accompanies supersede maximum prices under Revised Maximum Price Regulation 136 for all models contained in the order. The gross vehicle weights on the models priced in this action range from 24,000 pounds to 36,000 pounds.

In general, section 8 of the regulation permits the establishment of maximum prices for manufacturers by the calculation of a price increase factor for each commodity line reflecting legal increases since January 1, 1941 in materials prices and basic wage rate schedules and a profit margin over cost, the application of this increase factor to 1941 model prices and the adjusting of the resulting prices to show increases or decreases in direct labor and direct materials costs due to changes in specifications, design, material and equipment from the 1941 models.

The increases in basic wage rate schedules and in the general level of materials prices, including increases consistent with Executive Order 9697, and profit, which were reflected in the Company's increase factor were in accordance with the provisions of section 8. Section 8 was adhered to in determining increases in direct labor and materials costs resulting from changes in specification, design, material and equipment incorporated in the new trucks and in determining the over-all price increase factor. The price increase factor and the increases resulting from specification changes were correctly applied to the 1941 model prices. In these circumstances, the prices requested by the Sterling Motor Truck Company, Inc., have been authorized in the accompanying order.

The Company's maximum prices for its sales consist of a price for the truck and extra or optional equipment plus charges for transportation, federal excise taxes and factory handling and delivery.

In accordance with section 10 of Maximum Price Regulation 610, the order also includes adjusted maximum prices for resellers in the United States and for resellers in Porto Rico and Alaska. Resellers' adjusted maximum prices reflect the increase in prices given to the Company and preserve the resellers' customary pre-war margin on their increased cost. Maximum prices for resellers consist of list prices for the new trucks and optional equipment plus the applicable charges for transportation, state and local taxes, federal excise taxes, factory handling and delivery, and preparing and conditioning set forth in section 10. If a retail seller can demonstrate as provided by Amendment 7 to Maximum Price Regulation 610 that he had a handling charge in the last three months of 1940 higher than the preparing and conditioning charge in section 10, he may substitute this handling charge for the preparing and conditioning charge permitted by section 10. For resellers in Porto Rico and Alaska provision is made for additional charges as set forth in section 11. As required by section 12, the Company must notify resellers of list prices and discounts for the new trucks and extra or optional equipment.

The prices authorized in this order are in accordance with the provisions of Maximum Price Regulation 610 and the provisions of the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended.

Issued this 13th day of September 1946.

Regional and District Office Orders.

[Birmingham Order G-7 Under Gen. Order 68, Amdt. 1]

HARD BUILDING MATERIALS IN OPELIKA, ALA., AREA

For the reasons set forth in an opinion issued simultaneously herewith and under the authority vested in the District Director of the Birmingham District Office, Region IV, of the Office of Price Administration by General Order No. 68 and Regional Delegation Order No. 93, Order G-7 under General Order No. 68 is amended in the following respects:

1. The maximum prices set forth in Table I are amended to read as set forth on the attached revised Table I,[1] effective September 2, 1946.

2. This amendment reflects the increases in maximum prices permitted by Supplementary Order 172 (Modification of Resellers Maximum Prices Established under General Order 68 for certain Building and Construction Materials). Accordingly, this amendment supersedes that supplementary order, and the maximum prices established by this amendment cannot be increased under that supplementary order.

3. A new section 4-A is added to read as follows:

SEC. 4-A. Adjustment to reflect increase in supplier's price—(1) Applicability. This section is applicable only where the amendment or order which grants your supplier an increase in his maximum price provides that all resellers, including those subject to area orders issued under General Order 68, may increase their maximum price for the commodity in question.

(2) Maximum price. You may increase the price listed in this order by the amount permitted for resellers by the amendment or order increasing your supplier's maximum price. You can only do this, however, if the effective date of the action increasing your supplier's maximum price is later than the date stated on the price list contained in this order. Thus, if your supplier's maximum price for a product is increased and at some later date the price listed in this order is increased for this product, the amendment to this order will supersede the increase orginally granted you by the amendment or order increasing your supplier's maximum price.

This Amendment No. 1 to Order G-7 under General Order No. 68 shall become effective September 2, 1946.

HARD BUILDING MATERIALS IN RHODE ISLAND

For the reasons set forth in an opinion issued simultaneously herewith, and pursuant to the provisions of General Order 68, as amended, Second Revised Order of Delegation issued by the Regional Administrator for Region I, the above Order No. G-5, as amended, is further amended in the following respects:

1. Section 1 is amended to read as follows:

SECTION 1. What this order covers. This order covers all "retail sales" of the hard building materials listed in the Appendix A[1] (hereinafter set forth and made part hereof) by any seller in the State of Rhode Island with the exception of the Town of New Shoreham. This order does not cover sales for delivery to job sites located in the Town of New Shoreham, regardless of the seller's location. For the purposes of this order a "retail sale" means a sale to an ultimate user, or a sale to a purchaser for resale on an installed basis except that sales in quantities less than the smallest unit listed for any particular item shall not be covered by this order but shall remain under the applicable maximum price regulation or order.

2. The following paragraph is added to section 7:

This amendment reflects the increases in maximum prices permitted by Supplementary Order 172 (modification of reseller's maximum prices established under General Order 68 for certain building and construction materials). Accordingly, this amendment supersedes that supplementary order and the maximum prices established by this amendment cannot be increased under that supplementary order.

3. The following paragraph (d) is added to section 2:

(d) Each seller covered by this order may increase the prices of any item listed in Appendix A—Price List by the amount permitted all resellers of such item, (including those subject to area orders issued under General Order 68), by any amendment or order of the Office of Price Administration which increases the maximum price of his supplier of that item. However, this may be done only if the effective date of the action increasing his supplier's maximum price is later than the date of the price list including such item in the applicable appendix. Thus, if the supplier's maximum price for a product is increased, and at some later date the price for the product listed in Appendix A—Price List is increased, the amendment to the order effecting the price list increase will supersede the increase originally granted to resellers by the amendment or order increasing the supplier's maximum price.

4. The items and maximum prices covered by this order are hereby amended to read as set forth on "Revised Appendix A—Price List" annexed hereto:

This amendment shall become effective August 23d, 1946.

Acting District Director.

1. Adopting Order No. 15 under Basic Order No. 1 as amended, under General Order No. 68, as amended, is hereby amended by striking out Schedule A annexed to said order and inserting in place thereof Revised Schedule A annexed[1] and made a part of this amendment and of said adopting order.

2. Adopting Order No. 15 under Basic Order No. 1 as amended, under General Order No. 68 as amended, is further amended by adding a new section 3 (a) as follows:

SEC. 3. (a) Adjustment to reflect increase in suppliers price—(1) Applicability. This section is applicable only where the amendment or order which grants your supplier an increase in his maximum price provides that all resellers (including those subject to area order issued under General Order 68) may increase their maximum prices for the commodity in question.

(2) Maximum price. You may increase the price listed in this order by the amount permitted for resellers by an industry-wide or area-wide amendment or order increasing your suppliers maximum price. You can only do this, however, if the effective date of the action increasing your suppliers maximum price is later than the date stated on the price list contained in this order. Thus, if your suppliers maximum price for a product is increased and at some later date the price listed in this order is increased for this product, the amendment to this order will supersede the increase originally granted you by the amendment or order increasing your suppliers maximum price.

3. Except as hereby amended, Adopting Order No. 15 under Basic Order No. 1 as amended, under General Order 68 as amended, shall remain the same and all provisions thereof remain in full force and effect.

[Region II Adopting Order 58 Under Basic Order 1 Under Gen. Order 68]

STOCK MILLWORK FOR WASHINGTON, D. C., TRADING AREA

For the reasons set forth in an opinion issued simultaneously herewith and filed with the Division of the Federal Register, and under the authority vested in the Regional Administrator of Region 2 by the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942 as amended, by General Order 68 as amended, and by Revised Procedural Regulation, No. 1, It is hereby ordered:

SECTION 1. What this order covers. This order covers all sales of stock millwork at the retail level by any seller located in the Washington, D. C., trading area, consisting of the District of Columbia, and those portions of the states of Maryland and Virginia, located within 20 miles of the zero mileage stone in Washington, D. C., at the Treasury Building. By retail level is meant a sale to ultimate users or to purchasers for resale on an installed basis, that is, to contractors who purchase for installation rather than resale. It includes the type of sale referred to in the trade as "contract sale", wherein the seller provides his own take off from plans and specifications, quotes a flat price, and guarantees enough material to complete the job.

SEC. 2. Definition of stock millwork. "Stock millwork" as covered by this order refers to such standard woodwork items as listed below as well as to any item which can be priced as stock millwork in the following regulations: MPR 44, Douglas Fir Doors; RMPR 293, Stock Millwork; and MPR 589, Douglas Fir Stock Millwork.

(a) Panel doors.
(b) Sash doors.
(c) Glazed windows.
(d) Frames (windows, door or cellar).
(e) Window screens.
(f) Sash.
(g) Garage doors.
(h) Blind or shutter doors.
(i) Cupboard doors.

Where items are specifically priced by sizes, any size of the item not listed and not carried in stock, and which cannot be purchased from the stock of a jobber or manufacturer and, further, which is made by a specialty millwork plant whose normal production, as measured by the calendar year 1941, is not more than 25% of stock items, may be priced as Special Millwork under the General Maximum Price Regulation at the March 1942 level.

SEC. 3. Maximum prices. The base maximum prices for stock millwork are set forth in Tables 1 through 14 which are annexed to and made a part of this order.[1] The base maximum prices are subject to discounts based on the dollar volume of the order as follows:

Discounts for stock millwork

For sales of stock millwork in quantities up to $50—use base price.

For sales of stock millwork in quantities from $50 to $150—less 3%.

For sales of stock millwork in quantities from $150 to $500—less 6%.

For sales of stock millwork in quantities from $500 to $1,500—less 10%.

For sales of stock millwork in quantities from $1,500 to $5,000—less 13%.

For sales of stock millwork in quantities from $5,000 and over—less 16%.

In applying these discounts the total size of the order of millwork and related items determines the discount to be applied.

The prices provided herein are the maximum which may be charged for the stock items shown whether purchased from other manufacturers, jobbers, or self-produced. Prices lower than the maximum may, of course, be charged. Any seller may quote on a contract basis, wherein he takes off quantities from blue-prints and guarantees sufficient material to finish the job, without violating this order provided he maintains records showing how he arrived at his estimate and that the estimate was based on prices permitted by this order as well as any other applicable regulation. If quotations are made on a contract basis, however, and the quantity of stock millwork actually furnished is valued at less than the contract price, the maximum charge which may be made is the total of the maximum prices for the items actually furnished and not the contract price.

SEC. 4. Delivery additions. The prices set forth in this order include all additions or charges for delivery. No deduction need be made where the purchaser elects to make his own delivery In those cases where the stock millwork is taken from the stock of a retailer's warehouse and loaded on cars for shipment to a contractor or ultimate consumer in a different area, the prices are f. o. b. cars.

SEC. 5. Maximum prices for stock millwork items not listed. The maximum price for any stock millwork item not listed shall be based on the delivered carload price for that item as prescribed in either Maximum Price Regulation 44, Revised Maximum Price Regulation 293 or the General Maximum Price Regulation, whichever is otherwise applicable, plus 50 percent if purchased from the manufacturer or plus 65 percent if purchased out of the stock of a jobber's warehouse. These prices shall be subject to the same discounts as outlined in section 4 above.

SEC. 6. Discounts and allowances. The maximum prices in this order include all commissions. All customary discounts for cash must be continued. Quantity discounts must be granted as outlined in section 4.

SEC. 7. Relationship of this order to Maximum Price Regulation 44, Revised Maximum Price Regulation 293 and General Maximum Price Regulation. The maximum prices fixed by this order supersede any maximum price or pricing method previously fixed by any other regulation or order. Except to the extent they are inconsistent with the provisions of this order, all other provisions of Maximum Price Regulation 44, Revised Maximum Price Regulation 293 and the General Maximum Price Regulation, relating to Douglas Fir Doors, Stock Millwork and Douglas Fir Stock Millwork respectively, are applicable to sales covered by this order.

SEC. 8. Posting. Every seller making a sale covered by this order shall either post a copy of the list of maximum prices fixed by this order in a manner plainly visible to all purchasers or make available to his purchasers for inspection a copy of this order.

SEC. 9. Records and sales slips.—(a) Required information. The provisions of section (e) of Basic Order No. 1 as amended, covering sales slips and records are adopted in and applicable to this order, as if specifically set forth herein, and also on any sale of $25 or more, each seller regardless of previous custom, must keep records showing at least the following:

(1) Name and address of buyer.
(2) Date of transaction.
(3) Place of delivery.
(4) Complete description of each item sold and price charged.

(b) Maximum prices for insufficiently described items. Where the seller's records or sales slip upon a sale of any commodity covered by this order in the area covered by this order, do not contain a sufficiently complete description to identify the exact nature, type, size, or quantity of the commodity, and thus determine the maximum price fixed by this order, the maximum price applicable to such sale shall be the lowest maximum price which can be computed under this order in accordance with the incomplete description.

SEC. 10. Adjustments for resellers to reflect increases in supplier prices.—(a) Applicability. This section is applicable only to resellers whose supplier's prices have been increased by amendment or order, and where the amendment or order, which grants the increase, provides that all resellers (including those subject to area orders issued General Order 68) may increase their maximum prices for the commodity in question.

(b) Resellers may increase the prices listed in this order by any amount permitted for resellers by an industry wide or area wide amendment or order increasing the maximum prices of the suppliers of such resellers. This can be done, however, only if the effective date of the action increasing the supplier's maximum price is later than the date stated on the tables of prices contained in this order. Thus, if the subject's maximum price for a product is increased, and at some later date the price listed in this order is increased for this product, the amendment to this order will supersede the increase originally granted to resellers by the amendment or order which increased the supplier's maximum price.

SEC. 11. Revocation or amendment. This order may be revised, amended, revoked or modified at any time by the Office of Price Administration.

This order shall become effective September 5, 1946.

Issued this 5th day of September 1946.

JAMES L. MEADER,
Regional Administrator.

(2) Maximum price. You may increase the price listed in this Order by the amount permitted for resellers by an industry-wide or area-wide amendment or Order increasing your suppliers maximum price. Applicability. This order is applicable only where the amendment or order which grants your supplier an increase in his maximum price provides that all resellers (including those subject to area orders issued under General Order 68) may increase their maximum prices for the commodity in question.

Maximum price. You may increase the price listed in this order by the amount permitted for resellers by the amendment or order increasing your supplier's maximum price. You can only do this, however, if the effective date of the action increasing your supplier's maximum price is later than the date stated on the price list contained in this order. Thus, if your supplier's maximum price for a product is increased, and at some later date, the price listed in this order is increased for this product, the amendment to this order will supersede the increase originally granted you by the amendment or order increasing your supplier's maximum price.

This order may be amended or revoked at any time by the Office of Price Administration.

BUILDING MATERIALS, BEXAR COUNTY, TEX.

For the reasons set forth in an opinion issued simultaneously herewith and pursuant to the provisions of General Order No. 68, it is hereby ordered:

SECTION I. What this order does. This order establishes maximum prices for all retail sales of certain building materials specifically described in Appendix A [1] of this order when such sales are made in the geographical area comprising Bexar County, Texas.

SEC. II. Definition of retail sales. The term Retail Sale as used in this order means any sale of the building materials covered by this order to an ultimate user or to a contractor who will resell the same on an installed basis.

SEC. III. Maximum prices. Maximum prices for commodities subject to this order are those set forth in Appendix A, which is specifically made a part of this order, subject to the terms and conditions of sale and other limitations set forth therein. Receipt of notice of permitted increase from suppliers will not automatically authorize increases in ceiling prices set forth in Appendix A of this order. Such ceiling prices will only be changed in accordance with section IX of this order.

SEC. IV. The relation of this order to other regulations. This order supersedes General Order No. 68 issued by the District Director of the San Antonio, Texas District on May 18, 1946 and all amendments thereto. The maximum prices fixed by this order supersede any maximum prices or price determining method previously established by any other regulation or order issued by the Office of Price Administration for the commodities covered by this order. Items and specifications not specifically priced in this order remain subject to the applicable maximum price regulations.

SEC. V. Posting. Each seller making sales subject to this order shall post a copy of Appendix A of this order plainly visible to all purchasers in each of his places of business located in the area covered by this order.

SEC. VI. Invoices and notification. Each seller making sales subject to this order shall, if requested by any purchaser of commodities subject hereto, make available to such purchaser for inspection a copy of this order. Each seller covered by this order is required to furnish each purchaser with an invoice at the time of sale, which must contain the following information:

(1) Name and address of the purchaser.
(2) A description of each commodity sold.
(3) The quantity of each commodity sold.
(4) The price charged for each commodity sold.
(5) The type of sale, whether f. o. b. railroad car, f. o. b. seller's yard or store, delivered to job site in free delivery area, or delivered outside free delivery area.
(6) If delivery is made outside the seller's free delivery zone, the amount of any delivery charges made stated separately on the invoice.

[1] Filed as part of the original document.

(7) A statement of cash discounts allowed for prompt payment.

Each seller is required to keep a duplicate of such invoice in his place of business, and make it available for inspection by the Office of Price Administration during regular business hours.

SEC. VII. Evasion. The price limitations set forth in this order shall not be evaded by direct or indirect methods in connection with an offer, solicitation, agreement, sale, delivery, purchase or receipt of any commodities covered by this order or by way of commissions, services, transportation or other charges, or by tying agreement or other trade understanding, or by making the terms and conditions of sale more onerous to buyers than they were during March 1942, (except as specifically permitted by this order).

SEC. VIII. Enforcement and penalties. Persons violating any provisions of this order are subject to the criminal penalties, civil enforcement actions, license suspension proceedings, and suits for treble damage provided for by the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended.

SEC. IX. Adjustment to reflect increase in suppliers price—(a) Applicability. This section is applicable only where the amendment or order which grants your supplier an increase in his maximum price provides that all resellers (including those subject to area orders issued under General Order 68) may increase their maximum prices for the commodity in question.

(b) Maximum Price. You may increase the price listed in this order by the amount permitted for resellers by the amendment or order increasing your suppliers maximum price. You can only do this, however, if the effective date of the action increasing your supplier's maximum price is later than the date stated on the price list contained in this order. Thus, if your suppliers maximum price for a product is increased, and at some later date, the price listed in this order is increased for this product, the amendment to this order will supersede the increase originally granted you by the amendment or order increasing your suppliers maximum price.

This order may be amended or revoked at any time by the Office of Price Administration.

NORTH AMERICAN LIGHT & POWER CO., ET AL

MEMORANDUM OPINION AND ORDER RECONVENING HEARING AND SETTING CERTAIN PLANS FOR HEARING

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission, held at its office in the City of Philadelphia, Pa., on the 10th day of September 1946.

In the matter of North American Light & Power Company, Holding-Company System, and The North American Company, File No. 59-39; North American Light & Power Company, File No. 54-50; The North American Company, et al., File No. 59-10; The North American Company, File No. 54-82; in the matter of Illinois Power Company, File No. 54-147.

North American Light & Power Company,[1] a registered holding company and a subsidiary of The North American Company, also a registered holding company, is under our order to liquidate and dissolve.[2] On October 15, 1942, Light & Power filed a plan with us pursuant to section 11 (e) of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 ("the act") which purported to effect compliance with our order that it liquidate and dissolve. However, shortly before Light & Power filed its plan, Illinois Power Company, a registered holding company and subsidiary of Light & Power, had filed certain claims against Light & Power based upon alleged wrongful transactions which allegedly resulted in detriment to Illinois Power and benefit to Light & Power and which occurred while Illinois Power was under the control of Light & Power.[3] Light & Power filed cross claims and also moved to dismiss the hearing on the claims. We decided that as an incident to passing upon the plan filed by Light & Power or upon any other plan for the liquidation and dissolution of Light & Power, we would have to pass upon the validity of Illinois Power's claims.[4] Thereafter, a group of preferred stockholders of Light & Power, known as the Walters group, filed a claim against North American on the ground that the alleged misconduct of Light & Power in its dealings with Illinois Power was attributable to North American which allegedly controlled Light & Power. By their claim, the Walters group were, in effect, asserting a "claim-over", asking that if it should be found that Light & Power had damaged Illinois Power, such damages should be assessed against and borne by North American. Hearings on the claims, cross claims, and claim-over and also on subsequently filed amended claims,[5] supplemental claims and additional claims, were completed on April 22, 1946.[6] The claims have now been extensively briefed by all parties, reply briefs having been submitted on August 12, 1946.

With the record closed as to the claims, we are concerned with finding the best method of effecting compliance with our order requiring liquidation and dissolution of Light & Power.

In addition to the original plan filed by Light & Power,[7] there are presently filed with us the following plans which are concerned in varying degrees with the liquidation and dissolution of Light & Power:

1. A plan filed by Light & Power on August 20, 1946, pursuant to section 11 (e) of the Act, which is designated as an amendment to the original section 11 (e) plan filed by Light & Power.

2. A plan filed by North American on April 18, 1946, pursuant to section 11 (e) of the Act, which is designated as Plan C, and is part of an overall plan by which North American itself seeks to achieve compliance with the Act.[8]

3. A plan filed by Illinois Power on November 20, 1944.[9]

4. A plan filed by Illinois Power on July 2, 1946, pursuant to section 11 (e) of the Act, providing for the recapitalization of Illinois Power, and also dealing with Light & Power. Since this plan calls for the cancellation of all Illinois Power securities held by Light & Power, we have deemed it appropriate to consider this plan together with other plans affecting Light & Power, and are providing in our order herein for the consolidation of this plan with these consolidated proceedings.

The foregoing four plans are summarized hereinafter. For a full statement of each of the plans, all interested persons are referred to the plans themselves which are on file at the Commission's office in Philadelphia. There is set out in Table I, following, a condensed balance sheet of Light & Power as of June 30, 1946, which provides certain data relevant to an understanding of all the plans.

Light & Power Plan Filed August 20, 1946

The plan is filed as an amendment to the original section 11 (e) plan filed by Light & Power on October 15, 1942.[1]

Reference to Table I herein, discloses the investments held by Light & Power and the securities of Light & Power which are outstanding. The amendment deals only with the outstanding preferred stock of Light & Power. Light & Power proposes to distribute in exchange for each share of preferred stock outstanding (including shares held by North American) an unspecified number of shares of common stock of The Kansas Power and Light Company and/or an unspecified number of shares of common stock of Northern Natural Gas Company, or a combination of such shares plus an unspecified amount of cash. It is represented that the exact number of shares and amount of cash proposed to be distributed will be furnished by amendment at the time of hearing. It is also stated that the distribution contemplated is without prejudice to any prior claims of North American as holder of Light & Power's debentures.

North American's Plan C

Plan C filed by North American is, as heretofore noted, part of an overall plan, the other parts having been designated by North American as Plan A and Plan B.[2]

Plan C In its general objectives contemplates the liquidation and dissolution of Light & Power and the acquisition by North American of Light & Power's interest in Illinois Power. North American would also acquire all the publicly-held common stock of Illinois Power and would hold the entire outstanding common stocks of Illinois Power and Union Electric Company of Missouri. North American would change its name to "Missouri-Illinois Company".

To achieve the foregoing objectives, the following transactions are proposed by North American:

1. Light & Power would be liquidated and dissolved by the following steps:

(a) The outstanding 109,255 shares of preferred stock of Light & Power held by the public would be retired by payment in cash of $100 per share plus all unpaid cumulative dividends in arrears;

(b) The outstanding 960,992 shares of common stock of Light & Power held by the public would be acquired by issuing four-tenths of one share of common stock of Missouri-Illinois Company for each share of common stock of Light & Power;

(c) Thereafter, the remaining net assets of Light & Power, after provision for Light & Power's liabilities other than to North American, would be distributed to North American in consideration of the surrender for retirement of the $5,623,500 of 5½% debentures, 84,925 shares of $6 preferred stock, and 6,288,059 shares of common stock to be held at that time by North American.

2. Illinois Power would be recapitalized by the following steps:

(a) $9,320,500 of Illinois Power's bonds and debentures would be called for redemption;

(b) The outstanding $24,175,000 par amount of 5% convertible preferred stock would be called for redemption at $52.50 per share and accrued dividends plus any unpaid cumulative dividends, except to the extent that each share of such preferred stock shall have been converted pursuant to its terms into two shares of common stock prior to the date fixed for redemption; North American would make a capital contribution of such funds as might be necessary for redemption of shares not converted;

(c) The entire outstanding 483,195 dividend arrears certificates, each of the face amount of $24, would be liquidated and retired by payment of $24 in cash for each certificate;

(d) A new issue of preferred stock in aggregate par amount of $16,000,000, at a dividend rate less than 5%, would be issued and sold to raise funds to be used (together with treasury funds) for the purposes stated in subparagraphs (a) and (c) above;

(e) North American would exercise one-half of the 300,000 warrants it would receive on dissolution of Light & Power and acquire 150,000 additional shares of common stock of Illinois Power, on original issue, for $4,500,000 cash.

3. Illinois Power would be affected otherwise as follows:

(a) The outstanding 466,627 shares of common stock now held by the public, together with all additional shares issued in conversion of preferred shares as heretofore stated, would be acquired by Missouri-Illinois Company through compulsory exchange of two shares of common stock of Missouri-Illinois Company for each share of common stock of Illinois Power;

(b) After such acquisition by Missouri-Illinois Company of all common stock of Illinois Power, the charter of Illinois Power would be amended to reclassify each of such common shares without par value (stated value of $25 each) into two shares of common stock, $10 par value per share, and the necessary capital adjustments made, for the purpose, it is stated, of including Illinois Power with Missouri-Illinois Company in the filing of consolidated income tax returns;

(c) All claims of Illinois Power against Light & Power and against North American, and all counter-claims of Light & Power against Illinois Power would be withdrawn and cancelled.

4. The charter of Union Electric Company of Missouri would be amended so that each share of common stock (all of which is owned by North American) without par value (stated value of $23.19) would be reclassified into three shares of common stock, $7.50 par value per share, and the necessary capital adjustments made, for the purpose, it is stated, of including Union Electric Company of Missouri with Missouri-Illinois Company in the filing of consolidated income tax returns.

5. Except for shares of common stock of Illinois Power and warrants for purchase of additional shares, North American would divest itself of all assets of Light & Power, the acquisition of which is described above, within one year after Plan C became effective, subject to the approval of this Commission.

6. The shares of common stock of Missouri-Illinois Company which are issued for purposes of Plan C in exchange for publicly held common stocks of Light & Power and Illinois Power, would not be entitled to share in or benefit from the equity in any assets to be divested by North American or proceeds thereof except to the extent that a part of such proceeds might be retained as a portion of net current assets after consummation of Plan C.

7. Upon effectuation of the transactions proposed in Plan A and Plan B, hereinbefore referred to, and the transactions proposed in Plan C, and, assuming that in connection with such transactions all holders of Illinois Power preferred stock should elect to convert their shares into common stock, North American, under the name of "Missouri-Illinois Company", would have outstanding 11,736,365 shares of common stock, $5 par value, of which 3,163,739 shares would have been issued for the purposes of Plan C. At such time, it is stated, North American (under the name of Missouri-Illinois Company) would be possessed only of net current assets, warrants to purchase common stock of Illinois Power, and the entire outstanding common stocks of Illinois Power and Union Electric Company of Missouri.

Illinois Power Plan Filed November 20, 1944

This plan provides for the liquidation and dissolution of Light & Power by a series of transactions. Prior to making any distribution of Light & Power's assets, the following initial steps are proposed:

1. The Kansas Power and Light Company would pay to Light & Power a special cash dividend on its common stock in the amount of $1,050,000.

2. All rights of North American with respect to the assets of Light & Power arising from its ownership of debentures, preferred stock, and common stock of Light & Power, would be completely subordinated to the claims of Illinois Power and to the rights of the public holders of preferred and common stocks of Light & Power.

3. Light & Power would surrender the following securities of Illinois Power to Illinois Power for cancellation:

17,278 shares of preferred stock.
13,278 dividend arrears certificates.
203,223 shares of common stock.
300,000 warrants to purchase common stock.

After consummation of the foregoing steps, the remaining assets of Light & Power would be distributed as follows:

1. Light & Power would transfer and deliver to Illinois Power all its holdings of securities of (a) The Kansas Power and Light Company; (b) Missouri Power & Light Company; (c) Kewanee Public Service Company; and (d) Central Terminal Company.

[1] As heretofore noted, the original plan is summarized in Holding Company Act Release No. 3906 (November 12, 1942).

[2] Plan A does not deal with Light & Power as such. Plan B has a collateral relationship to the liquidation of Light & Power not important to present considerations. For a summary of Plan A and Plan B, interested persons are referred to Holding Company Act Release No. 6624 (May 10, 1946).

2. Light & Power would transfer and deliver to the public holders of its preferred stock, for each share held:

(a) 3 shares of common stock of Northern Natural Gas Company

(b) 1 share of common stock of Illinois Power

(c) $47.50 in cash plus cash at the rate of $6 per annum for the period from December 31, 1944, to the effective date of the plan

3. Light & Power would distribute to the public holders of its common stock, its remaining cash and proceeds from the sale of its remaining investments, and would thereupon dissolve.

It is further stated in the plan that the plan is submitted by Illinois Power without prejudice to its claims against Light & Power and North American.

Illinois Power Plan filed July 2, 1946

As heretofore stated, this plan primarily provides for the recapitalization of Illinois Power,[1] but since certain of its provisions relate to Light & Power, we have deemed it appropriate that the plan be consolidated with these consolidated proceedings.

With respect to Light & Power, the plan provides for the surrender by Light & Power and North American to Illinois Power, for cancellation, of all securities of Illinois Power held by Light & Power and North American; and the surrender by Light & Power to Illinois Power of the mortgage note of Central Terminal Company (a subsidiary of Illinois Power) in the amount of $675,000.[1]

It is also stated in the plan that the plan is submitted without prejudice to the claims of Illinois Power against Light & Power and North American.

Pending Motions

Before the conclusion of the aforementioned claims hearings, Light & Power filed a motion requesting that hearings on its original plan should not be reconvened earlier than ninety days after the date of closing of the claims hearing. Since more than ninety days have now elapsed, it is unnecessary to pass upon the motion.

Illinois Power filed a motion on May 27, 1946, to dismiss North American's Plan C, and filed a Memorandum Brief in support of the motion together with a statement of objections to Plan C. Without attempting to set forth in detail the basis of the motion and the nature of the objections, it may be mentioned that the motion and the objections are based in large part on alleged lack of jurisdiction in the Commission to approve the proposed compulsory exchange of Illinois Power common stock for common stock of Missouri-Illinois Company. The motion also objects to any determination of Plan C prior to a determination of the claims asserted by Illinois Power. We do not consider it necessary to pass upon the merits of the motion at this time, since it appears to us that the motion is prematurely made. Accordingly, we shall deny the motion at this time without prejudice to the right of Illinois Power to renew it. The aforementioned statement of objections to Plan C will be considered at such time as the plan may be before the Commission for determination.

On the basis of the foregoing, we believe that the hearing on the plan for liquidation and dissolution of Light & Power may now appropriately be reconvened and that the four plans which we have summarized should be considered at such hearing and our order will so provide. The scope of the reconvened hearing will be sufficiently broad to comprehend all major questions relating to the liquidation of Light & Power and related matters concerning Illinois Power and North American. We are directing in this order that notice of this hearing be given to all security holders of Light & Power, Illinois Power, and North American. We are providing in this order that any of these companies may file amendments to or modifications of their respective plans, and that any other person having a bona fide interest may file a proposed plan pursuant to section 11 (d) of the act. Our order provides that any amendments to or modifications in such plans, or any new plans, may be considered without further notice to security holders. Any security holder who desires notice of further proceedings in this matter should enter an appearance in the case.

We are also providing in our order that at the hearing there be first considered the question of the retirement of the outstanding preferred stock of Light & Power. After presentation of evidence and opportunity for consideration of that question, we may hereafter specify a further order of procedure if such action then appears appropriate in the interests of expeditious administration.

Wherefore, it is ordered, That the hearing on the plan of liquidation as filed by North American Light & Power Company, as it is now amended or as it may be further modified, be, and it hereby is, reconvened, and that there shall be considered at such reconvened hearing the aforementioned Plan C as filed by The North American Company, or as it may be modified; the aforementioned plan as filed by Illinois Power Company on November 20, 1944, or as it may be modified; the aforementioned plan as filed by Illinois Power Company on July 2, 1946, or as it may be modified; and any other plan or plans filed by any other person having a bona fide interest, for the purposes more fully hereinafter set forth; and that said reconvened hearing shall be held on the 22nd day of October, 1946, at 10:00 A. M., E. S. T., at the offices of the Securities and Exchange Commission, 18th and Locust Streets, Philadelphia 3, Pennsylvania. On such day the hearing room clerk in Room 318 will advise as to the room in which such hearing will be held.

It is further ordered, That the plan filed by Illinois Power Company on July 2, 1946, pursuant to section 11 (e) of the act (File No. 59–147) be, and it hereby is, consolidated with the consolidated proceedings in File Nos. 59–39, 54–50, 59–10, and 54–82, subject to the reservation hereinafter set forth.

It is further ordered, That the first order of business at the said reconvened hearing shall be the question of the retirement of the outstanding preferred stock of North American Light & Power Company.

It is further ordered, That, without limiting the scope of the issues presented, particular attention will be directed at such hearing to the following matters:

1. Whether the amended plan as filed by North American Light & Power Company, or as it may further be modified, is necessary to effectuate the provisions of section 11 (b) of the act, is fair and equitable to the persons affected thereby, and will effectuate or constitute an appropriate step toward compliance with the Commission's order dated December 30, 1941; and, without limiting the generality of the foregoing:

(a) Whether said plan makes proper provision for any possible or contingent liability embodied in the claim asserted by Illinois Power Company against North American Light & Power Company;

(b) Whether The North American Company should be permitted to receive the proposed distribution of securities in the same manner as public preferred stockholders;

2. Whether Plan C as filed by The North American Company, or as it may be modified, is necessary to effectuate the provisions of section 11 (b) of the act, is fair and equitable to the persons affected thereby, and will effectuate compliance with the Commission's orders dated December 30, 1941, and April 14, 1942; and without limiting the generality of the foregoing:

(a) Whether Plan C, insofar as it requires common stockholders of Illinois Power Company to surrender their shares of Illinois Power stock and to accept in lieu thereof common stock of Missouri-Illinois Company, is fair and equitable and necessary to effectuate the provisions of section 11 (b) of the act;

(b) Whether the terms of the proposed issuance of common stock of Missouri-Illinois Company to the holders of common stock of North American Light & Power Company, Illinois Power Company, and The North American Company, in exchange for the common stocks of such companies are fair and equitable to the holders of such common stocks;

(c) Whether Plan C makes proper provision for any possible or contingent liability embodied in the claims asserted by Illinois Power Company against both North American Light & Power Company and The North American Company, and on behalf of North American Light & Power Company against The North American Company;

(d) Whether the proposed exercise by The North American Company of the warrants for the purchase of common stock of Illinois Power Company, which North American proposes to acquire in the liquidation of Light & Power, is necessary or proper and appropriate under the standards of the act;

(e) Whether the proposed acquisition by The North American Company of securities or assets of North American Light & Power Company and Illinois Power Company may be permitted in view of the requirements of Section 11 and of our order thereunder, and of sections 10 (c) (1) and 10 (c) (2) of the act.

3. Whether the plan as filed by Illinois Power Company on November 20, 1944, or as it may be modified, is necessary to effectuate the provisions of section 11 (b) of the act, is fair and equitable to the persons affected thereby, and will effectuate compliance with the Commission's order dated December 30, 1941.

4. Whether the plan as filed by Illinois Power Company on July 2, 1946, or as it may be modified, is necessary to effectuate the provisions of section 11 (b) of the act, is fair and equitable to the persons affected thereby, and will effectuate or constitute an appropriate step toward compliance with the Commission's order dated December 30, 1941.

5. Whether, in the event that the Commission shall approve any of said plans, as filed or as modified, the Commission shall approve such plan for purposes of section 11 (d) of the act (as well as section 11 (e)) so as to permit the Commission of its own motion and irrespective of any request therefor on the part of any of the participants in these proceedings, to apply to a court for the enforcement of such plan pursuant to section 11 (d) of the act.

6. Whether any plan proposed by the Commission or by any person having a bona fide interest, in accordance with the provisions of section 11 (d) of the act, should be approved for the purpose of effectuating compliance with the order of the Commission dated December 30, 1941, and if proposed by the Commission, what the terms and provisions of such plan should be.

7. Whether in each of said plans or in any other plans hereafter filed, adequate provision is made for the payment of fees and expenses in connection with the consummation of any such plan and related transactions, and whether any such fees and expenses which may hereafter be proposed to be paid are for necessary services and are reasonable in amount.

8. Whether approval of any of the plans hereinbefore referred to, or any other plan hereafter filed, should be conditioned upon the inclusion of such terms and conditions as the Commission deems necessary or appropriate in the administration of the Act.

9. Generally, whether the transactions proposed in any of such plans, or in any plan hereafter filed, are in all respects in the public interest and in the interest of investors and consumers and consistent with all applicable requirements of the act and the rules thereunder and, if not, what modifications should be required to be made therein, and what terms and conditions should be imposed to satisfy the statutory standards.

It is further ordered, That North American Light & Power Company, The North American Company, and Illinois Power Company shall file on or before October 8, 1946, any new plan or any amendment or modification to their respective existing plans as they may desire, and that any other person having a bona fide interest, as defined in paragraph (h) of Rule U–103 of the rules and regulations of the Commission under the Act, and any of the other participants in these consolidated proceedings, who desire to propose pursuant to section 11 (d) of said act or section 11 (e) of said act, if applicable, a plan or modification of an existing plan for compliance by North American Light & Power Company with the said order dated December 30, 1941, shall file such plan on or before October 8, 1946.

It is further ordered, That any interested person desiring to be heard or otherwise wishing to participate at said hearing should notify the Commission in the manner provided in Rule XVII of the Commission's rules of practice not later than two days prior to such hearing.

It is further ordered, That Robert P. Reeder or any other officer or officers of the Commission, designated by it for that purpose, shall preside at the hearing on such matter. The officer so designated to preside at such hearing is hereby authorized to exercise all powers granted to the Commission under section 18 (c) of the act, and to a trial examiner under the Rules of Practice of the Commission.

It is further ordered, That the Secretary of the Commission shall serve notice of such hearing by mailing a copy of this memorandum and order by registered mail to all participants in these consolidated proceedings (File Nos. 59–39, 54–50, 59–10, 54–82 and 54–147) and to the Illinois Commerce Commission and the Public Service Commission of Missouri and that notice of said hearing be given to all other interested persons by general release of the Commission and by publication of this order in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

It is further ordered, That the North American Company, North American Light & Power Company, and Illinois Power Company shall give notice of such hearing to all of their respective stockholders (in so far as the identity of such stockholders is known or available) by mailing to each of said stockholders a copy of this memorandum and order at his last known address at least twenty days prior to the date of hearing set herein.

It is further ordered, That any plan bearing upon the liquidation and dissolution of North American Light & Power Company or related matters, or any amendment to an existing plan by whomsoever filed, which may be filed with the Commission subsequent to the date of this order and prior to closing of the reconvened hearing ordered herein, shall be deemed within the purport of this order, and shall be considered at such hearing, without further notice being given to the participants in these consolidated proceedings, unless otherwise ordered by the Commission.

It is further ordered, That the motion of Illinois Power Company to dismiss Plan C filed by The North American Company be, and it hereby is, denied without prejudice to the renewal of said motion by Illinois Power Company at any time upon a showing that consideration of the motion at such time will facilitate the orderly disposition of these proceedings.

It is further ordered, That jurisdiction be, and hereby is, reserved to separate either for hearing, in whole or in part, or for disposition, in whole or in part, any of the issues, questions, or matters hereinbefore set forth or which may hereafter arise, or to consolidate with these proceedings other filings, or to take such other action as may appear to be necessary for the orderly, prompt, and economical disposition of the matters involved.

By the Commission.

ELECTRIC BOND AND SHARE CO., ET AL.

SUPPLEMENTAL ORDER APPROVING PLAN

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission, held at its office in the City of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, on the 6th day of September A. D. 1946.

In the matter of Electric Bond and Share Company, File No. 54-127; in the matter of Electric Bond and Share Company and its subsidiary companies respondents, file No. 59-3; in the matter of Electric Bond and Share Company, American Power & Light Company, National Power & Light Company, Electric Power & Light Corporation, et al., respondents, File No. 59-12.

Electric Bond and Share Company ("Bond and Share"), a registered holding company, having previously filed on July 25, 1946, pursuant to section 11 (e) of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935, a series of plans designated Plans I, II, and III for the purpose, among other things, of retiring Bond and Share's outstanding $5 and $6 Preferred Stocks, and Plan I providing, as the initial step, for a capital distribution of $30 per share, having been consummated; and the Commission's Notice of and Order for Hearing issued in connection with Plan I having consolidated the proceedings with respect to these plans with proceedings previously instituted by the Commission pursuant to section 11 (b) of the act, and said Notice further providing that at such times as amendments are filed with respect to Plan II setting forth in complete detail the steps therein contemplated that hearings thereon will be reconvened and appropriate notice thereof duly given; and

Bond and Share having filed an application for approval of a plan designated Plan II-A and amendments thereto, which Plan II-A is in lieu of Plan II and proposes the disposition of certain designated portfolio securities, the complete retirement of the outstanding preferred stocks by the immediate distribution of $70 per share, and the issuance to preferred stockholders of an instrument evidencing their right to receive any additional amounts, if any, which the Commission and appropriate courts may later determine they are entitled in full satisfaction of their claims, or, in the alternative, said Plan II-A proposes the distribution of less than $70 per share but equal to substantially the net proceeds of the sales of the common stocks of American Gas and Electric Company and Pennsylvania Power & Light Company; and

Bond and Share having requested the Commission, pursuant to section 11 (e) of the act, if it approves Plan II-A, to apply to a court in accordance with the provisions of subsection (f) of section 18 of the act to enforce and carry out the terms and provisions of said Plan II-A; and

The Commission having issued its Notice of and Order Reconvening Hearing on said application and on the said Plan II-A under section 11 (e) of the act; copies of said Notice of and Order Reconvening Hearing and copies of Plan II-A having been mailed to all security holders of Bond and Share (insofar as the identity of such security holders was known or available), notice having been duly given to all interested persons, a public hearing having been held at which hearing security holders of Bond and Share and other interested persons were afforded an opportunity to be heard; and

Bond and Share having requested that the order of the Commission conform to the requirements of section 1808 (f) and Supplement R of the Internal Revenue Code, as amended, and contain the findings therein specified; and

The Commission having considered the record and having made and entered its findings and opinion herein, and the Commission having found that the plan is necessary to effectuate section 11 (b) (2) of the act and is fair and equitable to the persons affected thereby providing the plan is amended in certain respects specified in said findings and opinion; and Bond and Share having amended its plan in conformity with said findings and opinions:

It is ordered, That, pursuant to the applicable provisions of the act and the rules and regulations thereunder, Plan II-A, as amended, be, and the same hereby is, approved, subject to reservations of jurisdiction with respect to the bank loan proposed to be made in connection with the capital distribution of $70 per share, all questions presented in our consolidated proceedings not herein decided, and all legal fees and expenses to be paid in connection with said Plan II-A.

It is further ordered, That counsel for the Commission be, and they hereby are, authorized and directed to make application forthwith on behalf of the Commission to an appropriate United States District Court pursuant to the provisions of section 11 (e) and in accordance with subsection (f) of section 18 of the act to enforce and carry out the terms and provisions of the said Plan II-A, as amended.

It is further ordered, That this order shall not be operative to authorize the consummation of any transactions proposed in Plan II-A, as amended, until an appropriate United States District Court shall, upon application of the Commission, enter an order enforcing the said Plan II-A, as amended.

It is further ordered, That the following transactions proposed in Plan II-A are necessary and appropriate to effectuate the provisions of section 11 (b) of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935: (a) the issuance and distribution to the holders of the $5 and $6 Preferred Stock of Bond and Share, in connection with the retirement thereof, of the instrument described in sub-paragraph (b) of subsection I of section A of said Plan II-A, as amended, evidencing certain contingent rights to the payment of additional cash and/or other assets of Bond and Share; (b) the alternative distribution, under subsection V of section A of said Plan II-A, as amended, of a further cash payment on the outstanding $5 and $6 Preferred Stock, and the stamping of the preferred stock certificates in connection therewith with an appropriate legend evidencing the modification of the rights of the holders of the preferred stock; (c) the issuance by Bond and Share to its common stockholders of the stock purchase warrants described in sub-paragraph (1) of subsection II of section A of said Plan II-A, as amended, entitling them to purchase at a specified price below the market, 840,057 shares of the common stock of American Gas and 1,050,072 shares of the common stock of Pennsylvania held by Bond and Share, and the receipt and sale or exercise of such warrants by or for the account of such common stockholders; and (d) the transfer, pursuant to the sale by Bond and Share (whether pursuant to the aforesaid stock purchase warrants or at public or private sale), of 846,985 shares of the common stock of American Gas, 1,164,373 shares of the common stock of Pennsylvania, 254,045 shares of the common stock of Birmingham, and 423,408 shares of the common stock of Carolina held by it.

SUPPLEMENTAL ORDER RESERVING JURISDICTION

The Commission having concluded in said findings and opinion relating to Plan II-A that, based upon its findings and opinions relating to Plans I and II-A and in connection with the retirement of said preferred stocks, it is appropriate to issue an order in these consolidated proceedings directing Bond and Share to eliminate from its capital structure its outstanding preferred stocks;

It is hereby ordered, Pursuant to section 11 (b) (2) of the act that Bond and Share shall eliminate its outstanding preferred stocks from its capital structure, in an appropriate manner, and in conformity with the applicable provisions of the said act and the rules, regulations, and orders promulgated thereunder; and

OPERATION OF INDUSTRIAL ALCOHOL PLANTS

DISTILLING MATERIALS

§ 182.342 Storekeeper-gauger's record of materials used. The storekeeper-gauger will report on Form 1452-A and Form 1452-B all materials used in the production of alcohol. Entries will be made from the proprietor's weight or quantity slips. The storekeeper-gauger will verify such slips by comparison with the proprietor's commercial records and his Form 1442. The quantity of residue returned to a brewery will be entered by the proprietor on Form 1442 and by the storekeeper-gauger on Forms 1452-A and 1452-B, in accordance with the instructions on such forms. (Sec. 3103, I. R. C.)

§ 182.345 Removal or destruction of fermenting or distilling material—(a) Sale or transfer of fermenting material. If fermenting material is stored on the premises and it is desired to remove the same or any portion thereof from the premises for any purpose whatever, the storekeeper-gauger shall be notified by the proprietor, prior to the removal of such materials, of the kind and quantity to be removed and the reasons therefor. The removal of such materials will be entered by the proprietor on Form 1442 and by the storekeeper-gauger on Form 1452-A, in accordance with the instructions on the forms.

DISTILLATION

§ 182.354 Gauging of unfinished alcohol. At industrial alcohol plants where unfinished alcohol, high wines and low wines (hereinafter designated unfinished alcohol), in the course of distillation, are run into tanks in the plant for temporary deposit preparatory to completing the distillation thereof, and where twenty-four-hour supervision is maintained by the storekeeper-gauger, a daily gauge of such unfinished alcohol will not be required. Where twenty-four-hour supervision is not maintained, the storekeeper-gauger, prior to leaving the premises, will gauge (measure and proof) the unfinished alcohol retained in each tank, make an office record of the quantity and proof of the unfinished alcohol therein, and attach locks in accordance with § 182.918: Provided, That where such tanks are enclosed in a room or building equipped for locking in accordance with § 182.26, such room or building will be locked in lieu of gauging the unfinished alcohol. Upon his return to the premises the storekeeper-gauger will gauge the unfinished alcohol in the tanks previously gauged and compare the quantity and proof with the office record. Any material discrepancy will be reported immediately to the district supervisor. Except as authorized by the regulations in this part, unfinished alcohol may not be stored in such tanks, but may be deposited therein only temporarily in the course of distillation. At the close of the month the storekeeper-gauger will make an accurate gauge of all unfinished alcohol on hand and report the total quantity on Form 1452-B.

§ 182.355 Redistillation of alcohol—(a) Special permission must be obtained from the district supervisor. The district supervisor may, in his discretion, provided he deems it proper so to do and subject to such conditions and restrictions as he may impose, authorize the transfer of alcohol from a bonded warehouse to the industrial alcohol plant on the same premises for redistillation. In making request for such special authorization the applicant will submit to the district supervisor a statement, in triplicate, showing the quantity, source and condition of the alcohol, and the necessity for redistillation. The district supervisor will note his approval, or disapproval, on all copies of the application. He will return the original to the proprietor, retain one copy for file, and attach the remaining copy to the Commissioner's copy of Form 1442 for the month in which the transfer is made.

DEPOSIT OF ALCOHOL IN RECEIVING TANKS

§ 182.359 Immediate deposit required. All finished alcohol must be deposited in receiving tanks in the receiving room immediately upon completion of manufacture. The quantity of finished alcohol produced will be determined and entered daily on Forms 1442 and 1452–A as indicated by the headings of the columns and the instructions printed on the forms.

COLLECTION AND REMOVAL OF DISTILLED WATER

§ 182.364 Removal. • • •

(b) Supervision of removal. All distilled water when drawn into packages for removal or when removed by pipe line must be inspected by the storekeeper-gauger and removed under his immediate supervision. The proprietor will enter all removals of distilled water on Form 1442 as indicated by the columns and lines and instructions on the form.

COLLECTION AND REMOVAL OF FUSEL OIL

§ 182.367 Washing and purifying. (a) Disposition of washwater. The washwater used for washing and purifying the oil in the tanks may be conveyed directly to the still, or it may be run into a tank, the beer well, or the sewer, or it may be otherwise destroyed on the premises under the supervision of the storekeeper-gauger. If the washwater is run into the still, tank, or beer well, the quantity will not be entered on Form 1442 or 1452–A and B. If the washwater is run into the sewer or otherwise destroyed, the alcoholic content and the quantity will be reported on Form 1440 and included in the report of production on Forms 1442 and 1452–A.

§ 182.371 Removal. • • •

(d) Record of removal. The proprietor will prepare Form 1440 covering removals of fusel oil. Such removals will be entered on Forms 1442 and 1452–A, as indicated by the columns and lines and instructions on the forms.

PRODUCTION AND REMOVAL OF BUTYL ALCOHOL

RECOVERY AND REMOVAL OF CARBON DIOXIDE

§ 182.391 Procedure. Carbon dioxide may be recovered from fermenters and removed from the plant premises provided it is first thoroughly washed or scrubbed and purified to remove the alcohol therefrom. Where carbon dioxide is recovered, the washwater may be collected in a receiving tank and transferred by pipeline to a fermenter or to the beer well. Where the washwater is transferred to the fermenter, the transfer must be made prior to the testing of the beer by the storekeeper-gauger at the time of distillation. Where the washwater is transferred to the beer well after the calculated yield has been determined, the alcoholic content, the number of gallons, and the calculated yield thereof will be determined by the storekeeper-gauger and interlined on Form 1452–A. An approved ebulliometer shall be used in determining the alcoholic content of the dishwater. The number of gallons will be interlined in Part 1 of Form 1442. If the washwater is not utilized in the manufacture of alcohol, it will be run into the sewer or otherwise destroyed on the premises under the supervision of the storekeeper-gauger. Entry of such disposition will not be made on Forms 1442 and 1452–A and B.

SAMPLES OF ALCOHOL

§ 182.398 Office record. The storekeeper-gauger will keep an office record of the samples taken, giving the date, number, quantity in wine gallons, and the proof. The storekeeper-gauger will also report on Form 1452–B the total number and the quantity in wine and proof gallons of samples taken at the plant during the month.

DRAWING OFF, GAUGING, AND REMOVAL OF ALCOHOL

§ 182.405 Gauging of alcohol. All alcohol drawn from receiving tanks will be carefully gauged by the proprietor in the immediate presence of the storekeeper-gauger and reported on Form 1442. Alcohol drawn into barrels, drums, or similar packages, shall be gauged in accordance with the rules prescribed in the Gauging Manual. Alcohol to be transferred by pipe line from receiving tanks shall also be gauged in accordance with the rules prescribed in the Gauging Manual; the weight of the alcohol will be determined by means of weighing tanks, as provided in § 182.407. The storekeeper-gauger will verify the gauge (proof, weight, and gallonage) of all alcohol, as determined by the proprietor. (Sec. 3103, I. R. C.)

LOSSES OF ALCOHOL

§ 182.410 Losses in receiving tanks. Losses sustained from receiving tanks by theft or casualty, or any other extraordinary or unusual losses, will be determined at the time the loss occurs, or is discovered, and the loss will be entered on Form 1442. Report of the loss will be made by the proprietor to the district supervisor immediately. Claim for remission of tax on all such losses, regardless of the percentage of loss, will be made by the proprietor.

§ 182.412 Records. Where alcohol is lost or destroyed on the industrial alcohol plant premises, appropriate entry and report of such loss or destruction will be made by the storekeeper-gauger on Form 1452–B, and by the proprietor on Form 1442.

§ 182.437 Records. Separate records on Forms 1442 and 1488 (if any) will not be required for operations under each trade name but the proprietor must note on such records the trade names or styles under which he operated during the month and the dates of operations under each. The storekeeper-gauger will make a similar notation on his record, Form 1452–A. Where alcohol is produced under a trade name, the proprietor and the storekeeper-gauger must show on their records both the real name of the actual producer and the trade name under which the alcohol was produced.

ALTERNATE OPERATION AS REGISTERED DISTILLERY OR FRUIT DISTILLERY

§ 182.443 Completion of records. The outgoing proprietor will complete his records, Forms 1442 and 1488 (if any), and the storekeeper-gauger his record, Form 1452–A and Form 1452–B, as to the removal of basic materials from the premises, or the transfer of basic materials and mash and beer or other distilling material in process to the successor, as the case may be, and as to all alcohol produced by him. If unfinished alcohol is retained on the premises in locked tanks, as provided in § 182.439 (a), the proprietor will enter the quantity thereof on Form 1442, with explanatory notation that the same is unfinished alcohol temporarily retained on the premises pending resumption of operations as an industrial alcohol plant. The storekeeper-gauger will make similar entry on his Form 1452–B, with an explanatory notation in the statement of special operations or conditions. The proprietor and storekeeper-gauger will continue to file monthly reports on Forms 1442 and 1452–B, respectively, accounting for such unfinished alcohol during the period it is retained on the premises. Where the plant is operated as an industrial alcohol plant in two or more periods during the same month by the same proprietor, the operations of such proprietor will be recorded on the same Forms 1442 and 1488 (if any) and the same Forms 1452–A and 1452–B, by the storekeeper-gauger, but appropriate notations will be made on the separating lines to show the dates the industrial alcohol plant was operated as a registered distillery or fruit distillery and the names under which it was operated. (Sec. 3103, I. R. C.)

CHANGES IN PROPRIETORSHIP

§ 182.450 Records. The outgoing proprietor shall enter on his records, Forms 1442 and 1488 (if any), all materials and all unfinished alcohol outside the receiving room transferred to his successor, who shall in turn enter such items on his records as received from his predecessor. Where the change in proprietorship is of a permanent nature, the outgoing proprietor shall complete Forms 1442 and 1488 (if any), and submit a final report on such forms to the district supervisor. Appropriate notations will be made on such final reports showing the change in proprietorship and the date thereof. Where the plant is operated under alternating proprietorships, each proprietor shall keep a separate record on Forms 1442 and 1488 (if any). When operations are conducted by the same proprietor in two or more periods during the same month, the operations by such proprietor will be entered on the same Forms 1442 and 1488 (if any), appropriate notations being made on the separating lines to show the names of the alternating proprietors and the dates the industrial alcohol plant was operated by them. At the end of the month reports will be submitted to the district supervisor on such forms in accordance with §§ 182.455 to 182.461, inclusive. The storekeeper-gauger will keep records and render returns on Forms 1452–A and 1452–B in accordance with the procedure prescribed herein for the keeping of records and rendering of reports by the proprietor. (Sec. 3103, I. R. C.)

§ 182.451 Succession by fiduciary. Where a change in proprietorship is brought about by operation of law, the administrator, executor, receiver, trustee, assignee, or other fiduciary may not continue the business until the required qualifying documents have been filed and approved and a basic permit issued. In the case of such change, the fiduciary shall make appropriate notation on Forms 1442 and 1488 (if any) of his succession and the date thereof, and the storekeeper-gauger will make a similar notation on Forms 1452–A and 1452–B.

The saccharine content of molasses mashed must be entered when the same is available. The alcohol content of fermented liquor, wine, or other distilling materials must be shown, and the same shall be determined from samples taken under such conditions as will afford a proper test of the particular lot or lots distilled. Washwater recovered from carbon dioxide will be reported in accordance with § 182.391. Washwater recovered from fusel oil will be reported in accordance with § 182.367. Where chemicals such as isopropyl alcohol, butyl alcohol, acetone, ether, or other products are produced in connection with the production of ethyl alcohol, the quantity produced and removed from the premises will be entered on Form 1442. § 182.464 Receipt at industrial alcohol plant. When spirits so purchased are to be redistilled prior to denaturation, they should be received at the industrial alcohol plant, where they will be redistilled and transferred to the denaturing plant promptly. The spirits will be kept separate from other spirits in the industrial alcohol plant not intended for denaturation. The receipt of the spirits at the industrial alcohol plant and their redistillation and transfer to the denaturing plant will be reported by the proprietor on the industrial alcohol plant, bonded warehouse, and denaturing plant records, Forms 1442, 1488 (if any), 1443–A, 1468–A, and by the storekeeper-gauger on Forms 1452–A and 1452–B, with proper explanatory note.

Chapter XI—Office of Price Administration

PART 1351—FOOD AND FOOD COMMODITIES

[MPR 579,[1] Amdt. 22]

CERTAIN SPECIES OF FRESH AND FROZEN FISH AND SEAFOOD

A statement of the considerations involved in the issuance of this amendment, issued simultaneously herewith, has been filed with the Division of the Federal Register.

Maximum Price Regulation 579 is amended in the following respects:

1. In table II A in section 10.1 (c), footnote reference 10 is deleted from Schedule 8.

2. In table II A in section 10.1 (c), footnote 10 is added to Schedule 11 (b) (Silver other than troll caught delivered ex-vessel anywhere in Washington or Oregon other than Puget Sound area).

3. In section 10.1 (c), footnote 10 is amended to read as follows:

[10] Two cents per pound may be added to the Column A price for deliveries of this fish to canners for canning purposes. This applies to Sockeye (schedule 12), Steelhead (schedule 13) and Silver delivered ex-vessel anywhere in Washington or Oregon except the Puget Sound area (schedule 11 (b)).

This amendment shall become effective September 12, 1946, except that a producer may charge and a canner may pay the addition provided by footnote 10 following table II A for the fish to which such footnote is applicable even though such fish were delivered to him prior to September 12, 1946, but on or after August 31, 1946.

Issued this 12th day of September 1946.

Approved: September 11, 1946.

GEOFFREY BAKER,
Acting Administrator.

CHARLES F. BRANNAN,
Acting Secretary of Agriculture.

STATEMENT OF THE CONSIDERATIONS INVOLVED IN THE ISSUANCE OF AMENDMENT NO. 22 TO MAXIMUM PRICE REGULATION 579

The accompanying amendment extends indefinitely beyond August 31, the 2¢ increase in Steelhead and Sockeye salmon made by Amendment 19 to MPR 579 and increases the fishermen's prices for Silver Salmon other than troll caught delivered in Washington or Oregon outside the Puget Sound area, from 9½¢ to 11½¢.

The recent amendment to MPR 265 increased canned salmon prices in order to increase production in the Alaskan area. That increase was also applied to canned salmon produced in the Pacific Coast states which comprise less than 10 percent of the total pack last year. That increase makes it possible to make this increase in fishermen's prices on the more important species in the Puget Sound area without any further effect on canned salmon prices. This action has been requested by the Department of Agriculture as well as by fishermen and canners. It will tend to bring fishermen's and canners' prices more nearly in line.

This action is made retroactive to August 31. It will leave the canners and fishermen free to renegotiate the prices for salmon during the few days between August 31 and the issuance of this amendment during which the prices of Sockeye and Steelhead were automatically reduced by the expiration of footnote 10.

Issued this 12th day of September 1946.

GEOFFREY BAKER,
Acting Administrator.

PART 1351—FOOD AND FOOD PRODUCTS

[2d Rev. MPR 150, Amdt. 16]

FINISHED RICE AND RICE MILLING BY-PRODUCTS

A statement of the considerations involved in the issuance of this amendment, issued simultaneously herewith, has been filed with the Division of the Federal Register.

Second Revised Maximum Price Regulation 150, is amended in the following respect:

A new variety is inserted in the table in section 9 (a) (1) immediately after the variety "Nira" with the following name and prices:

Variety	Milled rice	Unpolished rice	Brown rice	Parboiled rice
Java, long..	$8.25	$7.40	$6.75	$9.05

This amendment shall become effective September 21, 1946.

Issued this 16th day of September 1946.

PAUL A. PORTER,
Administrator.

Approved: September 6, 1946.

CHARLES F. BRANNAN,
Acting Secretary of Agriculture.

STATEMENT OF THE CONSIDERATIONS INVOLVED IN THE ISSUANCE OF AMENDMENT NO. 16 TO 2D REVISED MAXIMUM PRICE REGULATION 150

A new variety of rice, designated as "Java, long", is now being produced in the southern rice producing area in commercial quantities. The Department of Agriculture has advised this office that this new variety is more nearly comparable to "Rexoro" than to any other variety. Accordingly, the accompanying amendment establishes the same maximum prices for this variety as are presently provided for "Rexoro."

In the opinion of the Administrator, the maximum prices established by this amendment are generally fair and equitable and comply with all other requirements of the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, the Stabilization Act of 1942, both as amended, and all applicable Executive Orders.

Issued this 16th day of September 1946.

PAUL A. PORTER,
Administrator.

PART 1392—PLASTICS

[MPR 523, Amdt. 6]

PLASTICS PRODUCTS

A statement of the considerations involved in the issuance of this amendment has been issued simultaneously herewith and filed with the Division of the Federal Register.

Maximum Price Regulation 523 is amended in the following respects:

1. In section 2 (a) immediately after item (3) of that section add item (3) (a) to read as follows:

(a) Completed consumers articles made from plastic flexible sheetings. ("Plastic flexible sheetings" as used herein means any plastic sheeting having an apparent modulus of elasticity of less than 50,000 pounds per square inch at 25° centigrade determined in accordance with standard test No. D747-43T of the American Society for Testing Materials.)

This amendment shall become effective September 21, 1946.

Issued this 16th day of September 1946.

PAUL A. PORTER,
Administrator.

STATEMENT OF THE CONSIDERATIONS INVOLVED IN THE ISSUANCE OF AMENDMENT 6 TO MAXIMUM PRICE REGULATION 523

Section 2 of Maximum Price Regulation 523 (Plastics Products) contains a list of the commodities excluded from the regulation. Typically excluded are certain consumers goods. The exclusions, however, are not sufficiently broad to remove from the coverage of the regulation consumers goods made from plastic flexible sheetings, as, for example, plastic table cloths, window curtains, bath room shower curtains, etc. These articles are outside of the intended scope of "plastics products" subject to Maximum Price Regulation 523, and accordingly the Administrator is, by this action, specifically excluding them from the regulation. Because there are various degrees of flexibility and an equally large variety of "flexible plastics sheetings" the Administrator is incorporating in the exclusion a definition of the term "flexible plastic sheetings" based on a standard test of the American Society for Testing Materials, a standard and a definition with which the plastic industry is familiar.

Issued this 16th day of September 1946.

Administrator.

PART 1439—UNPROCESSED AGRICULTURAL COMMODITIES

ROUGH RICE

A statement of the considerations involved in the issuance of this amendment, issued simultaneously herewith, has been filed with the Division of the Federal Register.

Maximum Price Regulation 518 is amended in the following respects:

1. Paragraph (a) (7) of section 3 is amended to read as follows:

(7) "Country shipping point" is a place having facilities such as a warehouse or grain elevator equipped with suitable scales or railroad facilities customarily used for the storage or marketing and loading for shipment of rough rice, except that in the State of California any point at which there is located a rice dryer shall also be considered a country shipping point. If a farm has such facilities located thereon, that farm shall be deemed a country shipping point as to rice grown on it.

2. A new variety of rough rice is inserted in the table in Section 4 (a) immediately after the variety "Bluebonnet" with the following name and prices:

Variety	Per barrel	Per bushel
Java, long	$7.30	$2.028

This amendment shall become effective September 21, 1946.

Issued this 16th day of September 1946.

PAUL A. PORTER,
Administrator.

Approved: September 6, 1946.

CHARLES F. BRANNAN,
Acting Secretary of Agriculture.

STATEMENT OF THE CONSIDERATIONS INVOLVED IN THE ISSUANCE OF AMENDMENT NO. 12 TO MAXIMUM PRICE REGULATION 518

A new variety of rice, designated as "Java, long", is now being produced in the southern rice producing area in commercial quantities. The Department of Agriculture has advised this office that this new variety is more nearly comparable to "Rexoro" than to any other variety. Accordingly, the accompanying amendment establishes a maximum price for this new variety of $7.30 per barrel, or $2.028 per bushel. This is the identical price now applicable to sales of "Rexoro."

In addition, the accompanying amendment redefines the term "country shipping point." As presently used in the regulation, a "country shipping point" is a place customarily used for storage, marketing and loading for shipment of rough rice. It has always been the practice of farmer-producers to sell and deliver their rough rice to buyers at railroad sidings or spurs. Suitable scales for weighing are generally provided at these shipping points, but they do not necessarily have storage facilities. In order to conform to accepted trade practice, the term has been redefined to mean a place customarily used for storage or for marketing and loading for shipment.

In the opinion of the Administrator, the accompanying amendment is generally fair and equitable and complies with all other requirements of the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, the Stabilization Act of 1942, both as amended, and all applicable Executive Orders.

Issued this 16th day of September 1946.

PAUL A. PORTER,
Administrator.

STANDARD NEWSPRINT PAPER

TERMINATION OF CERTAIN BENEFITS

Benefits provided for in section 507, Revenue Act of 1943, terminated as a result of revocation of Direction 7 to Priorities Regulation 32 of the Civilian Production Administration.

The specifications for standard newsprint paper, which is free of duty under paragraph 1772, Tariff Act of 1930, were enlarged by section 507, Revenue Act of 1943, T. D. 51012, the provisions of which were made applicable to paper entered, or withdrawn from warehouse, for consumption after the date of the latter statute and while United States newspaper publishers are limited by law or governmental order or regulation as to the amount of paper they may use in the publication of their papers.

Direction 7 to Priorities Regulation 32 of the Civilian Production Administration, which provided for a limitation such as is mentioned in section 507, was revoked by an order issued July 1, 1946 (11 F. R. 7334), and the Bureau has been advised by the Civilian Production Administration that none of its orders or regulations remaining in effect provide for a limitation upon the amount of newsprint paper used. A careful investigation has satisfied the Bureau that no other law or governmental order or regulation within the purview of the said section 507 has limited United States newspaper publishers since June 30, 1946, as to the amount of paper they may use in the publication of their papers.

In view of the foregoing, newsprint paper entered, or withdrawn from warehouse, for consumption on and after July 1, 1946, is not entitled to the benefits of section 507 of the revenue act, and to be free of duty under paragraph 1772 of the tariff act the paper must meet the specifications formerly in effect. Please be governed accordingly.

Commissioner of Customs.

SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION.

[File Nos. 59-86 and 54-148]

PUBLIC SERVICE CORP. OF N. J. AND UNITED CORP.

ORDER RECONVENING HEARINGS AND NOTICE OF FILING

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission held at its office in the City of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, on the 9th day of September 1946.

In the matter of Public Service Corporation of New Jersey and its subsidiary companies and The United Corporation, File No. 59-86; Public Service Corporation of New Jersey, File No. 54-148.

I

The Commission on June 12, 1946, entered an order instituting proceedings under sections 11 (b) (1) and 11 (b) (2) of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 (File No. 59-86) with respect to Public Service Corporation of New Jersey (Public Service), a registered holding company, and all of its subsidiaries, and in said order named The United Corporation (United), also a registered holding company, as party to the proceedings. The proceedings instituted by said order were directed to a determination of what action and steps are necessary to be taken by United, and Public Service and its subsidiaries or by any of them to effectuate compliance by Public Service or any of its subsidiaries with the provisions of sections 11 (b) (1) and 11 (b) (2). At a preliminary hearing on said issues, Public Service indicated its intention to file a plan under section 11 (e) which it believed would be responsive to said issues and requested that further hearings on the proceedings instituted by the Commission be stayed until such a plan was filed.

II

Notice is hereby given that an application has been filed with this Commission by Public Service pursuant to section 11 (e) of said act seeking approval of a plan for certain action stated by Public Service to be for the purpose of enabling it to comply with section 11 (b) of said act, a copy of which plan is made a part of said application. All interested parties are referred to said document which is on file in the office of this Commission for a statement of the transactions therein proposed, which are summarized as follows:

Upon completion of the steps hereinafter set forth as proposed in the plan, Public Service proposes to liquidate and dissolve by transferring its assets to Public Service Electric and Gas Company (Electric and Gas), its principal utility subsidiary, and causing that company to assume the liabilities of Public Service:

(1) Electric and Gas will retire all of its $5 Cumulative Preferred Stock outstanding in the hands of the public either by redemption at $110 per share plus accrued dividends or by conversion into another class of preferred stock with a dividend rate yet to be determined.

(2) Electric and Gas will issue $18,195,610 principal amount of unsecured non-callable 50-year 6% Debenture Bonds which will be exchanged, on a dollar for dollar basis, for all the publicly held 6% Perpetual Interest Bearing Certificates of Public Service which are outstanding in like principal amount.

(3) Electric and Gas will reclassify its common stock, all of which is owned by Public Service, into preference common stock and regular common stock. The preference common stock will be limited to dividends in an amount subsequently to be determined; it will be entitled to a preference over the regular common stock in respect of such dividends and will be convertible during a limited period of time into regular common stock. In all other respects such stock will have all the rights and privileges of the regular common stock.

(4) Public Service will exchange shares of the dividend preference common stock of Electric and Gas for all or its own outstanding preferred stocks in the hands of the public, and will exchange the regular common stock of Electric and Gas for all of its own outstanding common stock in the hands of the public. The basis for such exchanges and the cash adjustments, if any, in connection therewith are to be supplied by amendment to the plan.

(5) The charter of Public Service Coordinated Transport (Transport), also a subsidiary of Public Service, will be amended to reclassify all of its preferred and common stocks into a new common stock of no par value in such amount as shall be provided by amendment to the plan.

(6) Atlantic City Gas Company and Peoples Gas Company, subsidiaries of Public Service, will merge or consolidate, the resulting or surviving corporation (Gas Company) to have such capital stock and securities as shall be specified by amendment to the plan. The capital stock of Gas Company will be disposed of by Public Service either by sale or by distribution to the stockholders of Public Service as shall be specified by amendment. Public Service will sell to Gas Company at cost all bonds and indebtedness of Atlantic City Gas Company and Peoples Gas Company held by it.

(7) The stock and indebtedness of County Gas Company owned by Public Service will be sold or otherwise disposed of by it.

(8) Provision may be made by amendment to the plan for the recapitalization of Gas Company and County Gas Company and may include refunding of outstanding indebtedness, donations in cash by Public Service, and reductions in the fixed capital accounts.

The consummation of the plan is subject to all necessary approvals by the Board of Public Utility Commissioners of the State of New Jersey, this Commission and to approval by a United States Court having jurisdiction with respect thereto.

III

It appearing to the Commission that common questions of law and fact are involved in said proceedings instituted by the Commission pursuant to sections 11 (b) (1) and 11 (b) (2) of the act and in the proceedings upon the application filed by Public Service pursuant to section 11 (e) of the act, summarized in Part II of this notice and order; that evidence offered in respect of each of said proceedings may have a bearing on the other; and that substantial savings in time, effort and expense will result if said proceedings are consolidated so that they may be heard as one matter and so that evidence adduced in each matter may stand as evidence in the other for all purposes;

It is ordered, That the proceedings upon said application of Public Service designated by the Commission's File No. 54-148 be, and the same are hereby consolidated with the proceedings instituted by the Commission directed to Public Service under sections 11 (b) (1) and 11 (b) (2) of the act, identified by the Commission's File No. 59-86;

It is further ordered, That a hearing on said matters so consolidated be held on the 28th day of October, 1946, at 10:00 a. m., E. S. T., in the offices of the Securities and Exchange Commission, 18th and Locust Streets, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. On such day the hearing room clerk in Room 318 will advise as to the room in which such hearing will be held.

It is further ordered, That Willis E. Monty, or any other officer or officers of the Commission designated by it for that purpose, shall preside at such hearing. The officer so designated to preside at such hearing is hereby authorized to exercise all powers granted to the Commission under section 18 (c) of said act and to a trial examiner under the Commission's rules of practice.

It is further ordered, That any other person desiring to be heard in connection with these proceedings or proposing to intervene herein shall file with the Secretary of the Commission, on or before October 25, 1946, his request or application therefor as provided by Rule XVII of the rules of practice of the Commission.

It is further ordered, That, without limiting the scope of the issues presented by said application and otherwise to be considered in these consolidated proceedings, particular attention shall be directed at the hearing to the following matters and questions:

(1) What steps are necessary to be taken by United, Public Service and the subsidiaries of Public Service to ensure that the corporate structure, or the continued existence of any company in the holding company system of Public Service does not unduly or unnecessarily complicate the structure of, or unfairly and inequitably distribute the voting power among the security holders, of the holding company system of Public Service or of United.

(2) What action is necessary to be taken by United, Public Service and/or its subsidiaries to limit the operations of the holding company system of Public Service to a single integrated public utility system and such additional utility systems, or other businesses, as are retainable by Public Service under the standards of section 11 (b) (1) of the act.

(3) Whether the proposed plan, as submitted or as hereafter amended, is necessary to effectuate the provisions of section 11 (b) of the act.

(4) Whether the proposed plan, as submitted or as hereafter amended, is fair and equitable to the persons affected thereby.

(5) Whether the securities proposed to be issued meet the applicable statutory standards, and, in particular, without limting the generality of such issue, whether the 50-year 6% Debentures and Preference Common Stock proposed to be issued by Electric and Gas (if they will have been authorized by the Board of Public Utility Commissioners of the State of New Jersey) are solely for the purpose of financing the business of Electric and Gas, or if not, whether they meet with applicable standards of section 7.

(6) Whether the proposed acquisition by Electric and Gas of the securities of Transport is in conformity with the standards of section 10, and not detrimental to the carrying out of the provisions of section 11.

(7) Whether the accounts of the several subsidiaries of Public Service as they are proposed to be stated will be in accord with accepted accounting principles and will meet the applicable statutory standards.

(8) Generally, whether the transactions proposed in the plan comply with all the requirements of the applicable provisions of the act and the rules promulgated thereunder.

(9) Whether the fees and expenses proposed to be paid in connection with the consummation of the plan and all transactions incidental thereto are for necessary services and are reasonable in amount and whether the plan should be modified to include provision for the payment of any fees and expenses in connection with said plan or the proceedings with respect thereto which the Commission may determine, award, allow or allocate.

(10) Whether, if the plan, as proposed or as hereafter amended, is approved by the Commission, it is appropriate in the public interest or in the interests of investors or consumers that any terms or conditions be imposed in connection with such approval, and, if so, what such terms and conditions should be.

It is further ordered, That jurisdiction be reserved to separate, either for hearing, in whole or in part, or for disposition, in whole or in part, any of the issues, questions or matters herein set forth or which may arise in these proceedings or to consolidate with these proceedings other filings or matters pertaining to the subject matter of these proceedings, and to take such other action as may appear conducive to an orderly, prompt, and economical disposition of the matters involved; and

It is further ordered, That notice of this hearing be given by registered mail to Public Service and its subsidiaries, United, the Board of Public Utility Commissioners of the State of New Jersey, and the Federal Power Commission and to all other persons by publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

It is further ordered, That Public Service shall give further notice of this hearing to all its security holders (insofar as the identity of such security holders is known or available to Public Service) by mailing to each of said persons a copy of this notice and order for hearing, to his last known address, at least 15 days prior to the date of this hearing.

By the Commission.

JAMES G. ROGERS, JR.,

OPINION ACCOMPANYING AMENDMENT NO. 5 TO REVISED ORDER NO. 1438 UNDER MAXIMUM PRICE REGULATION NO. 120

Moshannon Falls Mining Company, Clearfield, Pennsylvania, The Koontz Coal Company, Inc., P. O. Box 197, Frostburg, Maryland, F. R. Zuck, Strobleton, Pennsylvania and H. B. Mellott, Old Post Office Building, McConnellsburg, Pennsylvania, all producing strip-mined coals, filed applications pursuant to Section 1340.212 (c) (2) of Maximum Price Regulation No. 120, requesting permission to charge deep-mine prices for strip-mined coal when blended with 25% or more of deep-mined coal, and prepared at their preparation plants at Karthaus, Pennsylvania, Barton, Maryland, Millerstown, Pennsylvania and Riddlesburg, Pennsylvania, respectively, all in District No. 1.

It appears that applicants' strip-mined coal receives thorough cleaning and hand-picking at the said preparation plants, and that it is such that it can be prepared to a standard of general acceptability in the coal-consuming market.

It further appears that applicants' strip-mined coal is blended in preparation with not less than 25% deep-mined coal at the said preparation plants.

The applicants qualify therefore for the requested relief under the provisions of said 1340.212 (c) (2), since the above mentioned strip-mined coals produced in District No. 1 are cleaned and prepared in accordance with said Section 1340.212 (c) (2) and blended in preparation with not less than 25% deep-mined coal at the above mentioned preparation plants, which are operated as adjuncts of Mine Index Numbers 3644, 500, 5384 and 5553 respectively, all of which are in District No. 1. Accordingly, this revised order is being further amended to include applicants' blended mixture of prepared strip-mined and deep-mined coal.

Issued this 13th day of September 1946.

JAMES G. ROGERS, JR.,

OPINION ACCOMPANYING ORDER NO. 1763 UNDER MAXIMUM PRICE REGULATION NO. 120

The order which this opinion accompanies establishes maximum prices and price classifications and assigns mine index numbers to mines in District No. 2 which had not been classified and numbered by the former Bituminous Coal Division. This is done in accordance with Section 1340.210 (a) (6) of the Regulation which provides for this action.

Under this section, a producer is required to file an application for maximum prices and classifications based upon those of the nearest mine in the same or substantially similar seams. Generally the producer requests the prices and classifications he deems proper.

This application was then submitted to the industry advisory committee for District No. 2. The prices and classifications established are those recommended by the committee and those requested by the applicants, if a request was made, and are fair and equitable.

Issued this 13th day of September 1946.

OPINION ACCOMPANYING ORDER NO. 5177 UNDER SECTION 1499.158 OF MAXIMUM PRICE REGULATION NO. 188

By application dated July 30, 1946, The Ehresman Company, 1331-A Fifth Street, Glendale, California, herein called the applicant, requested the Office of Price Administration to establish maximum prices for sales of lamps which it manufactures.

Since the applicant has not previously manufactured an article the maximum price of which may be used as a basis for pricing the articles described in the application under one of the first three pricing methods of Maximum Price Regulation No. 188, it has been necessary to consider the application under the Fourth Pricing Method, Section 1499.158, which requires that prices be set in line with the level of maximum prices established by Maximum Price Regulation No. 188.

The specifications, construction and design of the applicant's product have been compared with those of comparable competitive articles for which maximum prices have been properly established under the Regulation. The prices established by this order are in line with the maximum prices of those comparable articles for sales to the same classes of purchasers and are, therefore, in line with the level of maximum prices established by Maximum Price Regulation No. 188.

Highly inflationary tendencies have developed as a result of a great shortage in the supply of these articles. The Administrator has, therefore, deemed it advisable to establish maximum resale prices. These prices are in line with the general levels of maximum resale prices for similar merchandise, allowing the sellers markups normally enjoyed in the industry for their types of distributive operations.

Issued this 13th day of September, 1946.

By application dated June 17, 1946 and August 9, 1946, Sterling Industries, Inc., 1140 No. American Street, Philadelphia 23, Pennsylvania, herein called the applicant, requested the Office of Price Administration to establish maximum prices for sales of lamps which it manufactures.

Since the applicant has not previously manufactured an article the maximum price of which may be used as a basis for pricing the articles described in the application under one of the first three pricing methods of Maximum Price Regulation No. 188, it has been necessary to consider the application under the Fourth Pricing Method, Section 1499.158, which requires that prices be set in line with the level of maximum prices established by Maximum Price Regulation No. 188.

The specifications, construction and design of the applicant's product have been compared with those of comparable competitive articles for which maximum prices have been properly established under the Regulation. The prices established by this order are in line with the maximum prices of those comparable articles for sales to the same classes of purchasers and are, therefore, in line with the level of maximum prices established by Maximum Price Regulation No. 188.

Highly inflationary tendencies have developed as a result of a great shortage in the supply of these articles. The Administrator has, therefore, deemed it advisable to establish maximum resale prices. These prices are in line with the general levels of maximum resale prices for similar merchandise, allowing the sellers markups normally enjoyed in the industry for their types of distributive operations.

Issued this 13th day of September 1946.

JAMES G. ROGERS, Jr.,
Acting Administrator.

(d) All requests of the application not granted herein are denied.

(e) This order may be amended or revoked by the Office of Price Administration at any time.

This Order No. 8 shall become effective September 14, 1946.

JAMES G. ROGERS, Jr.,

OPINION ACCOMPANYING ORDER NO. 8 UNDER SECTION 1.10 (c) OF MAXIMUM PRICE REGULATION NO. 382

The Armstrong Cork Company, Lancaster, Pennsylvania, a manufacturer of wide-mouth and narrow-neck glass containers, filed an application for adjustments in the maximum selling prices of these products. At present, wide-mouth and narrow-neck glass containers are subject to Maximum Price Regulation 382 and Maximum Price Regulation 188, respectively. The individual adjustment provisions in both of these regulations incorporate the provisions of Section 16 of Maximum Price Regulation 592 insofar as they are applicable to both of the above products. This application, accordingly, has been processed pursuant to the standards set forth in Section 16 of Maximum Price Regulation 592.

This Office has examined the applicant's over-all financial data for the base period years 1936–1939, inclusive, and its segregated financial data for the years 1939–1945, inclusive. An analysis of the submitted data indicates: (1) that the applicant's current over-all profit position, adjusted to reflect the net effect of price and cost increases for which information was available and which occurred subsequent to 1945, is favorable as compared with its average base period earnings adjusted for changes in net worth; and (2) that the current sales realizations on wide-mouth and narrow-neck glass containers do not cover the total costs of manufacturing and selling these products. Accordingly, it appears appropriate under the standards set forth in Section 16 of Maximum Price Regulation 592 to increase the maximum selling prices of wide-mouth and narrow-neck glass containers by amounts equal to that required to return total costs on these product lines.

Based on the above considerations, the accompanying Order increases the applicant's maximum selling prices of wide-mouth glass containers by 8.7 percent, and of narrow-neck glass containers by 10.4 percent, and establishes adjusted maximum prices for these product lines which will permit the applicant to recover total costs for manufacturing and selling glass containers.

Resellers are permitted to increase their existing maximum prices of wide-mouth and narrow-neck glass containers by the respective percentage increases in their acquisition costs resulting from the adjustments granted the Armstrong Cork Company. Thus, resellers will continue to realize the same percentage margin on these two product lines as were in effect prior to the issuance of the accompanying Orders.

Issued this 13th day of September 1946.

JAMES G. ROGERS, Jr.,
Acting Administrator.

FANNING CORP.

AUTHORIZATION OF MAXIMUM PRICES

For the reasons set forth in an opinion issued simultaneously herewith and filed with the Division of the Federal Register and pursuant to section 9 of Maximum Price Regulation No. 591, It is ordered:

Order No. 609 under section 9 of Maximum Price Regulation No. 591 is amended in the following respect:

1. In paragraph (a) add the following paragraph:

When the above sink tops are attached to sinks there may be added to the maximum prices above an additional sum of $8.40.

This amendment shall become effective September 14, 1946.

JAMES G. ROGERS, Jr.,

OPINION ACCOMPANYING AMENDMENT 1 TO ORDER NO. 609 UNDER SECTION 9 OF MAXIMUM PRICE REGULATION NO. 591

The purpose of this Amendment is to add an item of service to the original order requested by the manufacturer at this time. The original prices on sink tops were inlined with a manufacturer who supplied sink and included the cost of sink installation in the cost of the sink. The Fanning Corporation does not supply sinks but does install sinks which are supplied by purchasers of their sink tops. The cost of installation including sink molding trim, brackets, cement, and labor is in line with the approved price granted a competitor making allowances for the fact that the competitor furnishes the sink bowl as well as installs it while Fanning Corporation only installs and does not supply the sink bowl.

In view of the above consideration the Administrator finds that this Amendment is necessary and consistent with the purposes and standards of the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended and Executive Orders of the President.

Issued this 13th day of September 1946.

JAMES G. ROGERS, Jr.,

OPINION ACCOMPANYING ORDER NO. 814 UNDER SECTION 9 OF MAXIMUM PRICE REGULATION NO. 591

The accompanying Order No. 814 under section 9 of Maximum Price Regulation No. 591 establishes maximum prices for sales at all levels of distribution for food freezers manufactured by the Ben Bar Sales, Inc., of Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

These particular commodities were only recently introduced into the market by the manufacturer. Maximum prices for the items could not be established under sections 7 and 8 of Maximum Price Regulation No. 591, because this company had never manufactured comparable commodities. Consequently, maximum prices must be approved pursuant to the provisions of section 9 of Maximum Price Regulation No. 591.

In its application the company submitted its proposed prices for the commodities covered by this order. Based on an analysis of the information submitted the prices set forth in the accompanying order are in line with the prices of competitive manufacturers for comparable commodities and, therefore, are in line with the level of prices established under Maximum Price Regulation No. 591.

In order to avoid any confusion on the part of resellers as to their maximum prices and for the purposes of protecting consumers, the accompanying order establishes dollars-and-cents prices for all levels of distribution. Maximum prices established for resellers reflect the usual margins of such resellers on sales of comparable products. The order also provides that distributors may, under certain circumstances, add delivery charges to the dollars-and-cents maximum prices established to cover actual freight paid to obtain delivery and crating charges actually paid.

The commodities manufactured by this company will be distributed by many resellers who may or may not have access to copies of the accompanying order. Therefore, in order to avoid confusion on the part of resellers who do not have access to this order, the order provides that the Ben Bar Sales, Inc. shall notify each of its purchasers of its maximum prices as well as purchasers' maximum resale prices. The order further provides that the Ben Bar Sales, Inc. shall stencil on the inside of the lid of the food freezer the maximum retail price thereof.

All provisions of the accompanying order and their effect upon business practices, or cost practices or methods or means or aids to distribution in the industry or industries affected, have been carefully considered. No provisions which might have the effect of requiring a change in such practices, means, or methods established in the industry or industries affected, have been included in the order unless such provisions have been found necessary to achieve effective price control and to prevent circumvention or evasion of the order or of the act. To the extent that the provisions of this order compel or may operate to compel changes in business practices, cost practices, or methods or means or aids to distribution established in the industry or industries affected, such provisions are necessary to prevent circumvention or evasion of this order or of the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended.

The Price Administrator has determined, on the basis of the foregoing that the maximum prices established by the order are generally fair and equitable, and are in conformity with the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended, and Executive orders issued by the President.

Issued this 13th day of September 1946.

JAMES G. ROGERS, Jr.,
Acting Administrator.

ARMSTRONG CORK CO.

ADJUSTMENT OF MAXIMUM PRICES

Order No. 138 under paragraph (a) (12) of Order A-2 under § 1499.159b of Maximum Price Regulation No. 188. Narrow-neck glass containers. Armstrong Cork Company. Docket No. 6122-188.161 (a) (2)-(25).

For the reasons set forth in an opinion issued simultaneously herewith and pursuant to paragraph (a) (12) of Order A-2 under § 1499.159b of Maximum Price Regulation 188, It is ordered:

(a) The maximum prices, established under Maximum Price Regulation 188, for sales of narrow-neck glass containers by the Armstrong Cork Company, Lancaster, Pennsylvania, to its various classes of purchasers, may be increased by an amount not in excess of 10.4 percent.

(b) All provisions of Maximum Price Regulation 188 not inconsistent with this order shall apply to sales covered by this order.

(c) Any person purchasing, for the purpose of resale in the same form or forms, narrow-neck glass containers from the Armstrong Cork Company, Lancaster, Pennsylvania, may increase his present maximum prices, established under the General Maximum Price Regulation, by an amount not exceeding the percentage increase in acquisition cost resulting to him from the increases permitted the Armstrong Cork Company under (a), above.

(d) All requests of the application not granted herein are denied.

(e) This order may be amended or revoked by the Office of Price Administration at any time.

This Order No. 138 shall become effective September 14, 1946.

JAMES G. ROGERS, Jr.,

OPINION ACCOMPANYING ORDER NO. 138 UNDER PARAGRAPH (a) (12) OF ORDER A-2 UNDER SECTION 1499.159b OF MAXIMUM PRICE REGULATION NO. 188

The Armstrong Cork Company, Lancaster, Pennsylvania, a manufacturer of wide-mouth and narrow-neck glass containers, filed an application for adjustments in the maximum selling prices of these products. At present, wide-mouth and narrow-neck glass containers are subject to Maximum Price Regulation 362 and Maximum Price Regulation 188, respectively. The individual adjustment provisions in both of these regulations incorporate the provisions of Section 16 of Maximum Price Regulation 592 insofar as they are applicable to both of the above products. This application, accordingly, has been processed pursuant to the standards set forth in Section 16 of Maximum Price Regulation 592.

This Office has examined the applicant's over-all financial data for the base period years 1936–1939, inclusive, and its segregated financial data for the years 1939–1945, inclusive. An analysis of the submitted data indicates: (1) that the applicant's current over-all profit position, adjusted to reflect the net effect of price and cost increases for which information was available and which occurred subsequent to 1945, is favorable as compared with its average base period earnings adjusted for changes in net worth; and (2) that the current sales realizations on wide-mouth and narrow-neck glass containers do not cover the total costs of manufacturing and selling these products. Accordingly, it appears appropriate under the standards set forth in Section 16 of Maximum Price Regulation 592 to increase the maximum selling prices of wide-mouth and narrow-neck glass containers by amounts equal to that required to return total costs on these product lines.

Based on the above considerations, the accompanying order increases the applicant's maximum selling prices of wide-mouth glass containers by 8.7 percent, and of narrow-neck glass containers by 10.4 percent, and establishes adjusted maximum prices for these product lines which will permit the applicant to recover total costs for manufacturing and selling glass containers.

Resellers are permitted to increase their existing maximum prices of wide-mouth and narrow-neck glass containers by the respective percentage increases in their acquisition costs resulting from the adjustments granted the Armstrong Cork Company. Thus, resellers will continue to realize the same percentage margin on these two product lines as were in effect prior to the issuance of the accompanying Orders.

Issued this 13th day of September 1946.

JAMES G. ROGERS, Jr.,

OPINION ACCOMPANYING ORDER NO. 5181 UNDER MAXIMUM PRICE REGULATION NO. 188

On August 13, 1946, Kaiser Fleetwings Inc., Bristol, Pennsylvania, applied to the Office of Price Administration for the establishment of its ceiling prices for sales of four models of dishwashers which it manufactures.

Since the applicant has not previously manufactured an article the ceiling price of which may be used as a basis for pricing the articles described in the application under one of the first three pricing methods of Maximum Price Regulation No. 188, it has been necessary to consider the application under the Fourth Pricing Method, Section 1499.158, which requires that prices be set in line with the level of maximum prices established by Maximum Price Regulation No. 188.

The specifications, construction and design of the applicant's product have been compared with those of comparable competitive articles for which ceiling prices have been properly established under the Regulation. The prices established by this order are in line with the ceiling prices of those comparable articles for sales to the same classes of purchasers and are, therefore, in line with the level of ceiling prices established by Maximum Price Regulation No. 188.

In view of the shortage in supply of dishwashers and in consonance with the preticketing program instituted by this Office in connection with resales of large consumer appliances, the accompanying order establishes ceiling prices for resales at all levels of the dishwashers it covers. The resale ceiling prices established allow the resellers markups normally enjoyed by them in connection with their sales of other products.

[Rev. SO 119, Amdt. 3 to Order 1 Under Order 192]

AMERICAN IRONING MACHINE CO.

ADJUSTMENT OF CEILING PRICES

For the reasons set forth in an opinion issued simultaneously herewith and filed with the Division of the Federal Register and pursuant to Order 192 under Revised Supplementary Order No. 119; It is ordered:

That Order 1 under Order 192 under Revised Supplementary Order No. 119 is amended in the following respect:

The paragraph preceding the issuance date is amended to read as follows:

This order shall cease to be effective on October 12, 1946.

This amendment may be revoked or amended by the Price Administrator at any time.

This amendment shall become effective as of the 12th day of September 1946.

JAMES G. ROGERS, Jr.,

OPINION ACCOMPANYING AMENDMENT NO. 3 TO ORDER 192 UNDER REVISED SUPPLEMENTARY ORDER NO. 119

Order 1 under Order 192 under Revised Supplementary Order No. 119 granted the American Ironing Machine Company, Algonquin, Illinois, an adjustment of its ceiling prices for the line of ironing machines which it manufactures. The adjustment granted exceeded that allowed under Revised Supplementary Order No. 119 because the adjustment the manufacturer would have received under that order would not have been sufficient to prevent its entire business from operating at a projected over-all loss based on 1941 volume and overhead expense and the prospective loss operation was not due to temporary factors. The adjustment granted was limited in duration to a ninety-day period to permit a reconsideration toward the close of that period by this office of the continuing need for the increase.

The ninety day period is now about to expire. It appears from additional data submitted by the applicant that the increase granted was just sufficient to eliminate the manufacturer's loss but that this result was possible only because the manufacturer, during June and July, concentrated on the production of his two highest profit models. If the manufacturer had produced all the models in his line he would have continued at a loss. Furthermore, the manufacturer is about to apply once more for an adjustment under Revised Supplementary Order No. 119 and a preliminary examination of the legal material and labor cost increases he has incurred in the last three months indicates that the increase he will receive may equal that which he received under Order 1 under Order 192. Accordingly, in order to avoid unnecessary fluctuations in price and to prevent any hardship occurring to the manufacturer while his renewed application under Revised Supplementary Order No. 119 is pending, the accompanying amendment extends the application of Order No. 1 for an additional thirty days.

ADJUSTMENT OF MAXIMUM PRICES

A statement of the considerations involved in the issuance of this amendment issued simultaneously herewith, has been filed with the Division of the Federal Register.

Order 1 to Supplementary Service Regulation No. 49 is amended in the following respects:

1. Paragraph (b) thereof is amended by the addition of a new subparagraph (5) to read as follows:

(5) Pontiac Flat Rate, 1942–46 Supplement.

2. A new Appendix E is added to follow Appendix D, to read as follows:

APPENDIX E

NOTICE

Practically every automotive repair shop is covered by the provisions of OPA regulation SSR 49, and must make a choice as to whether it will price under Appendix A or Appendix B of that regulation. If you have elected to price under Appendix A, you may not by the use of this manual or otherwise charge more for one of the 56 operations there listed than the ceiling price established for you.

WITH THIS IMPORTANT EXCEPTION YOU ARE AUTHORIZED BY OPA TO USE THIS MANUAL TO ARRIVE AT YOUR LABOR CHARGE FOR A GIVEN JOB IF—

1. You are now legally pricing by the use of the 1942 Pontiac Flat Rate Manual, or on the basis of the mechanic's actual time on the job; and

2. Your present ceiling for that job is not a "fixed charge" which is lower than the price set for you by this manual. (A "fixed charge" is a charge not computed on the basis of an hourly rate. Examples: Relining brakes on 1941 Blank cars $------; Quick tune-up, all Blank Models $------.)

3. The Supplementary statement which you file shows that the job is included among those jobs which you will hereafter price by the use of this manual.

(You must file with your local Price Control Board in accordance with Section 14 of RMPR 165 your intention to use all or any part of this manual for pricing purposes.)

Important.—In case of any doubt about your ceiling prices, always consult your local OPA office.

NOTE: All reporting requirements of this amendment have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942, as amended.

This amendment shall become effective September 21, 1946.

PAUL A. PORTER,
Administrator.

STATEMENT OF THE CONSIDERATIONS INVOLVED IN THE ISSUANCE OF AMENDMENT 2 TO ORDER 1 TO SSR 49

The accompanying amendment adds another automotive repair manual to those already listed in Order 1 to SSR 49 as having the approval of OPA for use as a pricing method by the automotive trade under certain specific conditions.

The 1942–46 Supplement to the 1942 Pontiac Flat Rate manual which alone is approved by this amendment is simply a supplement to the 1942 Pontiac Flat Rate manual rather than a complete new manual. It sets forth specific time periods, based on factory time studies, for new operations resulting from major changes in 1946 models. Also included is a schedule of operations under the categorical heading "motor tune-up diagnosis" (operation No. 6–2) which makes available to the Pontiac owner a lower priced tune-up service than heretofore offered. The "Partial Body Panels" supplement previously approved by OPA in Paragraph (b) 3 of Order 1 to SSR 49 also appears in the new supplement.

The same considerations apply to the approval of this publication as applied to the publications previously approved in Order 1 to SSR 49.

PAUL A. PORTER,
Administrator.

However, the pricing provisions of this order or of any subsequent amendment therto shall apply as of the effective date of the order or applicable amendment.

5. Paragraph (d) is amended to read as follows:

The seller shall also send a copy to all other purchasers at the time of or before the first delivery of the article subsequent to the effective date of the amendment.

This amendment shall become effective September 17, 1946.

OPINION ACCOMPANYING AMENDMENT 1 TO ORDER No. 36 UNDER MAXIMUM PRICE REGULATION No. 580

The accompanying amendment to Order No. 36 issued to Vanity Fair Mills, Inc., Reading, Pennsylvania, under Section 13 of Maximum Price Regulation 580, revises paragraph (a) to list all of the manufacturer's current cost lines which were covered by the order prior to this amendment. Previously, the order did not actually list the manufacturer's cost lines and retail ceilings but merely incorporated them by reference to the manufacturer's original application for the order. The revision is made in the interest of a more effective administration of the order. Cost lines not listed in paragraph (a) as amended are no longer covered by the order even though they are included in the original application for the order.

Paragraph (b) is amended to provide, under specified conditions, an automatic method for establishing a uniform retail ceiling for branded articles not included in the order and first sold by the manufacturer after the effective date of the order.

The amendment expressly declares that the retail ceiling prices established by th order or any amendment thereto apply as of the effective date of the order or amendment. This was done to make it clear that the effective date of the established prices is not governed by the preticketing provision of the order. With respect to articles for which retail ceiling prices are established by amendment, provision is made for the suspension of the preticketing requirements for a specified period.

The amendment also broadens the notice provision in paragraph (e).

OPINION ACCOMPANYING AMENDMENT 6 TO ORDER NO. 44 UNDER MAXIMUM PRICE REGULATION NO. 580

The accompanying amendment to Order No. 44 issued to Van Raalte Company, Inc., 417 Fifth Avenue, New York 16, New York, under Section 13 of Maximum Price Regulation 580, establishes uniform retail ceiling prices for additional ladies' underwear styles, and revises paragraph (a) to include all of the manufacturer's cost lines which were covered by the order prior to this amendment. Previously, some of the cost lines covered by the order were not actually listed therein but were merely incorporated by reference to the manufacturer's original application for the order. The revision is made in the interest of a more effective administration of the order.

The amendment also makes a number of technical changes in the order.

OPINION ACCOMPANYING ORDER NO. 139 UNDER SUPLEMENTARY ORDER 94

The accompanying order establishes maximum prices for sales of new and used mosquito and insect bar nets, therein described, by the War Assets Administration or any other Government agency, and by subsequent resellers. The specific occasion for the issuance of the order is the proposed sale by the War Assets Administration of a large quantity of these nets, now located in all regions of the War Assets Administration and available for sale by its Regional Offices. It is expected that they will be sold in the ordinary civilian channels.

The maximum prices established for sales to wholesalers are less than the acquisition cost to the Government but are the prices at which the nets are being sold by the War Assets Administration. The prices established for sales at wholesale and at retail reflect the customary markups in the trade for these types of commodities, and will permit resellers to maintain adequate margins.

In order to insure compliance with the maximum prices, the order provides that all purchasers for resale be notified of their maximum prices, and that retailers be also notified that each net either be tagged with a price not in excess of the appropriate ceiling price by the retailer before sale or that the retailer conspicuously display at the place where the nets are offered for sale a suitable sign which plainly states selling prices not in excess of the appropriate ceiling prices.

In the opinion of the Administrator the maximum prices established by the order are generally fair and equitable and are consistent with and will effectuate the purposes of the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended, and Executive Orders 9250 and 9328.

Issued this 16th day of September 1946.

PAUL A. PORTER,
Administrator.

CERTAIN CHOCOLATE BARS

SPECIAL MAXIMUM PRICES

For the reasons set forth in an opinion issued simultaneously herewith and filed with the Division of the Federal Register, and in accordance with section 11 of Supplementary Order 81, it is ordered:

(a) What this order does. This order establishes maximum prices at which 2 oz. high temperature chocolate bars and 8 oz. chocolate slabs may be sold and delivered by the Department of Agriculture or any other United States Government agency, and by any subsequent reseller.

(b) Maximum prices. The maximum prices per pound, all f. o. b. Government warehouse, for the chocolate bar and chocolate slab hereinbefore described, shall be:

Price for all sales to distributor or wholesaler $0.16.

Price for all sales to industrial user or processor, $0.18.

Cross-stream sales may be made at the distributor or wholesaler level of distribution by division of the markup in such proportion as may be agreed upon between the parties to the transaction.

(c) Notification. Any person who sells the chocolate bar or chocolate slab described in paragraph (a) to a distributor or wholesaler shall furnish his purchaser with an invoice of sale setting forth that the distributor's or wholesaler's maximum selling price is $0.18 per pound.

(d) Definitions. (1) "Distributor or wholesaler" means any person who purchases for resale to an industrial user or processor.

(e) Relation to other regulations and orders. This order with respect to the commodities it covers supersedes any other regulation or order previously issued by the Office of Price Administration.

(f) Revocation and amendment. This order may be revoked or amended at any time.

This order shall become effective September 16, 1946.

JAMES G. ROGERS, Jr.,

OPINION ACCOMPANYING ORDER NO. 4 UNDER SUPPLEMENTARY ORDER 81

The accompanying order establishes maximum prices for sales of 2 oz. high temperature chocolate bars (known as troop ration bars) and 8 oz. chocolate slabs made for the British Services by the Department of Agriculture or any other Government agency, and by subsequent resellers. The specific occasion for the issuance of the order is the proposed sale by the Department of Agriculture of approximately 3,500,000 pounds of the 2 oz. bars, now located on the East and West Coasts and approximately 629,000 pounds of the 8 oz. slabs, now located in Bronx Terminal Warehouse, Bronxville, N. Y., and Sibley Warehouse, Somerville, Mass., and available for sale by the Production and Marketing Administration, Washington, D. C. The Chocolate Bars were made for use of the Army and Navy in the tropics and the Chocolate Slabs for the British Services. Therefore, neither item is considered an ordinary consumer commodity. It is understood that they will not be sold to other than industrial users and processors for conversion into chocolate products.

The maximum price established for sales to distributors or wholesalers approximates the cost of acquisition to the Government. The maximum price established for sales to industrial users or processors is no higher than for standard medium grade chocolate coating, and will permit resellers to realize an adequate margin.

In order to insure compliance with the maximum prices, the order provides that distributors or wholesalers be notified of their ceiling prices.

In the opinion of the Administrator the maximum prices established by the order are generally fair and equitable and are consistent with and will effectuate the purposes of the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended, and Executive Orders 9250 and 9328.

Issued this 16th day of September 1946.

JAMES G. ROGERS, Jr.,
Acting Administrator.

Sec.
221.1 Gas plant instruction 2D, uniform system of accounts.
221.2 Disposition of gas plant acquisition adjustments.

NOTE: Former Part 160 redesignated Part 221, Order 132, Aug. 23, 1946, effective Sept. 11, 1946, 11 F. R. 177A–496.

§ 221.1 Gas plant instruction 2D, uniform system of accounts. In submitting the information called for in Gas Plant Instruction 2D of the Uniform System of Accounts for Natural Gas Companies, each company shall furnish, insofar as applicable, the following statements, in triplicate, on paper cut or folded to 8½ inches wide by 11 inches long, and properly sworn to by the officer in responsible charge of their compilation:

Statement A showing the origin and development of the company, including, particularly, a description (giving names of parties and dates) of each consolidation and merger to which the company, or a predecessor, was a party and each acquisition of a gas operating unit or system. Any affiliation existing between the parties shall be stated.

Statement B showing for each acquisition of a gas operating unit or system by the reporting company or any of its predecessors: (1) the original cost (estimated only if not determinable from existing records), (2) the cost of the acquiring company, (3) the amount entered in the books as of the date of acquisition, (4) the difference between the original cost and the amount entered in the books, (5) a summary of all transactions affecting such difference, including retirements, between the date of each acquisition and January 1, 1940, and (6) the amount of such difference remaining at January 1, 1940.

If the depreciation, retirement or amortization reserve was adjusted as of the date of acquisition and in connection therewith, a full disclosure of the pertinent facts shall be made.

The amount to be included in Account 100.5, Gas Plant Acquisition Adjustments, as of January 1, 1940, shall be subdivided so as to show the amounts applicable to (a) gas plant in service, (b) gas plant leased to others, and (c) gas plant held for future use.

The procedure followed in determining the original cost of the gas plant acquired as operating units or systems shall be described in sufficient detail so as to permit a clear understanding of the nature of the investigations and analyses which were made for that purpose.

Where estimates are used in arriving at original cost or the amount to be included in Account 100.5, a full disclosure of the method and underlying facts shall be given. The proportion of the original cost of each acquisition which has been determined from actual recorded costs and the proportion estimated shall be shown for each functional class of plant. In addition there shall be furnished in respect to each predecessor or vendor company for which complete construction costs are not available, a description of such plant records as are available, including the years covered thereby.

Statement C showing any amounts arrived at by appraisals, recorded prior to January 1, 1940, in the gas plant accounts (and not eliminated) in lieu of cost to the reporting company. This statement should describe the appraisal and give the complete journal entry at the time the appraisal was originally recorded. If the entry had the effect of appreciating or writing-up the gas plant account, the amount of the appreciation or write-up should be traced, by proper description and explanation of changes, from the date recorded to January 1, 1940.

Statement D showing in detail as of December 31, 1939, gas plant as classified in the books of account immediately prior to reclassification, including under appropriate descriptive headings, any unclassified amounts applicable jointly to the gas department and other departments of the utility.

Statement E showing the adjustments necessary to state, as of January 1, 1940, Account 100, Gas Plant, including its subaccounts, Account 107, Gas Plant Adjustments, and amount of common utility plant includible in Account 108, Other Utility Plant, as prescribed in the Uniform System of Accounts.

Statement F showing gas plant (balance sheet Account 100) as of January 1, 1940, classified according to the subaccounts and the detailed accounts thereunder prescribed in the Uniform System of Accounts, effective on that date, and showing also the amount includible in Account 107, Gas Plant Adjustments, and the amount of common utility plant includible in Account 108, Other Utility Plant.

Statement G showing a comparative balance sheet, as of January 1, 1940, reflecting the accounts and amounts appearing in the books before the adjusting entries have been made and after such entries shall have been made. The balance sheet shall be classified by the accounts set forth in the Uniform System of Accounts Prescribed for Natural Gas Companies.

Statement H giving a suggested plan for depreciating, amortizing, or otherwise disposing of, in whole or in part, the amounts, as of January 1, 1940, includible in Account 100.5, Gas Plant Acquisition Adjustments, and Account 107, Gas Plant Adjustments.

PART 1010—SUSPENSION ORDERS

M. DEMATTEO CONSTRUCTION CO.

M. DeMatteo Construction Company, a corporation located at 200 Hancock Street, Quincy, Massachusetts, is engaged in business as a general contractor. On February 27, 1946 the Corporation filed an application on Form CPA–541–A for priorities assistance for the purchase of four Diesel-powered shovels. From the denial of this application, the corporation filed on May 1, 1946 an appeal with the Appeals Board of the Civilian Production Administration for further consideration of its request for priorities assistance. In the course of the hearing before the Appeals Board, the representative of the M. DeMatteo Construction Company made false and misleading representations which induced the Appeals Board to grant the company authorization on Form CPA–541–A dated May 6, 1946 for the purchase of four Diesel-powered shovels. The furnishing of this false and misleading information subjected the M. DeMatteo Construction Company to the administrative action provided for under the provisions of § 944.18 of Priorities Regulation 1. These actions have diverted critical materials to uses not authorized by the Civilian Production Administration. In view of the foregoing, it is hereby ordered that:

§ 1010.967 Suspension Order No. S–967. (a) The authorization granted to the M. DeMatteo Construction Company on Form CPA–541–A, dated May 6, 1946 for the purchase of four Diesel-powered shovels is hereby revoked and cancelled and shall not be given any effect by suppliers of the M. DeMatteo Construction Company or by any other person.

(b) The M. DeMatteo Construction Company shall immediately notify its suppliers of the revocation and cancellation of the authorization granted to it on Form CPA–541–A, dated May 6, 1946.

(c) The provisions of this order shall in no way prejudice any other application which the M. DeMatteo Construction Company may make for priorities assistance.

(d) Nothing contained in this order shall be deemed to relieve the M. DeMatteo Construction Company from any restriction, prohibition, or provision contained in any order or regulation of the Civilian Production Administration, except insofar as the same may be inconsistent with the provisions hereof.

(e) The restrictions and prohibitions contained herein shall apply to the M. DeMatteo Construction Company, its successors or assigns or persons acting in its behalf. Prohibitions against the taking of any action include the taking indirectly as well as directly of any such action.

Issued this 16th day of September 1946.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS INVOLVED IN THE ISSUANCE OF AMENDMENT 55 TO SUPPLEMENTARY ORDER No. 129

This amendment suspends certain types of industrial machinery, and parts of industrial machinery, certain agricultural machinery as well as one inconsequential component of a special type of consumer soft goods. Some or all of the following general considerations apply to the products listed:

(1) Continued control of these items would result in administrative difficulties out of proportion to the contribution to the stabilization program.

(2) As a result of either current ample production of, or restricted demand for the products, there exists no serious possibility of diversion of facilities, manpower or materials from production which is more essential to the effective transition to peacetime economy.

(3) Suspension of control of these products will not impair effective price control with respect to other commodities.

(4) It appears that the price increases to be expected following suspension will be less than the price increases the Office of Price Administration would grant under the applicable price adjustment standards.

Electrical Equipment. The machinery and equipment affected by this action is largely used in special purpose applications. Some of the equipment listed, namely poles and standards, have been suspended from control by Amendment 33 to Supplementary Order 129. Amendment 33 lists a general coverage of street lighting equipment as defined in National Electrical Manufacturers Association Manual, Part IV, dated January 31, 1946 in section 2—SH. A more precise definition is required so that there may be no question as to the scope or coverage of street lighting equipment.

In some cases, complete items have been suspended by this action, but parts of such items when sold by other than manufacturers or resellers of the complete item are not suspended. Components of such items are in some cases adaptable to uses far removed from the use for which the complete item was designed. Suspension of price control from such parts might conceivably lead to diversion which in turn would cause a serious supply and price situation for manufacturers still under control who use such parts. Until the supply-demand situations improves therefor, no action will be taken with respect to decontrol of such parts.

Construction Machinery and Equipment. The machinery and equipment affected by this action is used largely in connection with highway building and maintenance and to a limited extent on large building construction projects. Amendment No. 33 to Revised Maximum Price Regulation 136 issued and effective April 10, 1946, granted an increase of 10% over base period prices to manufacturers of this type of equipment. Since that time, no significant number of individual adjustments have been granted. No increase therefore in the price of this equipment is anticipated beyond that which would occur by adjustment of maximum prices under the standards adopted by the Administrator. It is recognized that other construction machinery and equipment which apparently meet the tests herein indicated are not now suspended from price control. There does exist, however, as to these other items, a shortage of supply in greater degree than that for the items herein listed. This is particularly true of multiple use machinery in this field.

Food Products Machinery. The items suspended include machinery used in the commercial preparation of food items which are of very minor importance in the cost of living. While sugar and sugar products are of importance in living costs, it has been found that sugar and sugar products machinery are in ample supply at this time. Because of shortages of raw materials from which sugar and sugar products are made, the supply of such machinery will be ample for the requirements of the period during which price controls will remain in effect.

Poultry Farm Equipment. Amendment 33 to Supplementary Order 129 suspended from price control certain named items of poultry farm equipment It has been found the supply of all poultry farm equipment is such that the standards enumerated are met. Consequently it has been determined that suspension should apply to all poultry farm equipment

Miscellaneous. The action also suspends from control certain machinery such as lumber carriers, cooling towers, rope and cordage machinery as well as parts of other industrial machinery. The complete machinery items are generally in good supply either because of substantial production during the war with consequent surpluses of such machinery in the hands of the Government or because excess plant capacity built during the war is available now for a reduced non-war demand. The parts listed are generally inconsequential in their effect on costs of industrial machinery still under control and it has been demonstrated such parts prices will not rise to unreasonable levels. Steel box toes are parts of industrial safety shoes which may be purchased by a workman for use in his vocation. These shoe parts are so small in cost that even a substantial increase in the cost thereof should have no effect on the price of finished industrial safety shoes.

The Administrator will continue to examine the effects of this suspension and a determination will be made at a later date whether some of the items should be recontrolled or whether they will be permanently exempted from price control.

[MPR 60[1], Amdt. 4]

DIRECT CONSUMPTION SUGAR

A statement of the considerations involved in the issuance of this amendment, issued simultaneously herewith, has been filed with the Division of the Federal Register.

Maximum Price Regulation 60 is amended in the following respects:

1. Section 2 (a) (1) (ii) is amended to read as follows:

(ii) For sales of fine granulated beet sugar processed in continental United States, $7.50.

2. Section 2 (f) is added to read as follows:

(f) Additions to applicable maximum prices for sales of direct-consumption cane sugars on and after September 18, 1946—(1) Sales by primary distributors who own no cane sugars at the close of business on September 17, 1946. Any primary distributor who owns no cane sugars at the close of business on September 17, 1946, may add $1.37 per one hundred pounds of direct-consumption raw cane sugar and $1.50 per one hundred pounds of other direct-consumption cane sugars to the applicable maximum prices for direct-consumption cane sugars established by the preceding paragraphs (a), (b), (c) and (e) of this section 2 for sales by him of direct-consumption cane sugars on and after September 18, 1946.

(2) Sales by primary distributors owning cane sugars at the close of business on September 17, 1946. Any primary distributor who owns any cane sugars at the close of business on September 17, 1946 may add $1.37 per one hundred pounds of direct-consumption raw cane sugar and $1.50 per one hundred pounds of other direct consumption cane sugars to the applicable maximum prices established by the preceding paragraphs (a), (b), (c) and (e) of this section 2 for sales by him of direct-consumption cane sugars on and after September 18, 1946, upon the condition that he complies with all the pertinent requirements of the following subparagraphs (3) and (4).

(i) The total number of pounds of direct-consumption cane sugar, excluding direct-consumption raw cane sugar;

(ii) The total number of pounds of raw cane sugar (converted to a refined basis) in process of refinement;

(iii) The total number of pounds of raw cane sugar, including diect-consumption raw cane sugar; and

(iv) The total number of pounds of "price adjustment" and "crop-purchase" raw cane sugar as defined under paragraph (1) of the contract between Commodity Credit Corporation and Refiners of Cane Sugar in Continental United States.

(4) Payment to Commodity Credit Corporation. Any primary distributor owning direct-consumption cane sugars at the close of business on September 17, 1946, who elects to increase his maximum price on September 18, 1946, shall make a statement to that effect in the affidavit described in subparagraph (3) and shall make payment by check or money order payable to the Commodity Credit Corporation in an amount computed as follows:

(i) The total number of pounds of direct-consumption cane sugar (excluding direct-consumption raw cane sugar) plus the total number of pounds of raw cane sugar (converted to a refined basis) in process of refinement, multiplied by 1.47 cents per pound; plus

(ii) The difference between the total number of pounds of raw cane sugar (including direct-consumption raw cane sugar) and the total number of pounds of "price adjustment" and "crop-purchase" raw cane sugar, multiplied by 1.37 cents per pound.

Payment may be made at the time of filing the affidavit or monthly payments shall be made within 30 days following the close of the calendar month for the amount of such sugar sold during such month, until the full amount due has been paid. The maximum price, in the event of failure to make such payment or payments, shall be the maximum price established under paragraphs (a), (b), (c) and (e) of this section 2.

(5) Election to sell inventory at lower price. Any primary distributor owning cane sugars at the close of business on September 17, 1946, may, in lieu of making payment to Commodity Credit Corporation, described in subparagraph (4) above, elect to sell or otherwise dispose of the entire amount of his inventory at or below maximum prices established under paragraphs (a), (b), (c) and (e) of this section 2. Such person shall state in the affidavit described in subparagraph (3), that he elects to sell his inventory at that price. At such time as he has sold an amount equal to his September 17, 1946 inventory, he shall file by registered mail with the Commodity Credit Corporation a final affidavit stating that he has fully complied with the requirements of this subparagraph (5).

After mailing the final affidavit in proper form, such person may increase his maximum prices in the amounts set out in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph (f).

(6) Election by primary distributors who produce fine granulated cane sugar and who also produce other direct-consumption sugars from mainland sugar cane. Any person who produces fine granulated cane sugar and also produces other direct consumption sugars from mainland sugar cane may, under subparagraphs (3), (4) and (5) of this section 2 (f), file separate affidavits and make separate elections for his fine granulated cane sugars and for his other direct consumption sugars which he produces from mainland sugar cane.

(7) Notification to wholesalers and retailers. Primary distributors shall give the notification required under section 2 (d) of this regulation whenever maximum prices are increased by additions allowed under this paragraph (f).

This amendment shall become effective September 18, 1946.

NOTE: All reporting and record-keeping requirements of this amendment have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

Issued this 17th day of September 1946.

JAMES G. ROGERS, Jr.,
Acting Administrator.

Approved: September 12, 1946.

CHARLES F. BRANNAN,
Acting Secretary of Agriculture.

STATEMENT OF THE CONSIDERATIONS INVOLVED IN THE ISSUANCE OF AMENDMENT NO. 3 TO MAXIMUM PRICE REGULATION 16 AND AMENDMENT NO. 4 TO MAXIMUM PRICE REGULATION 60

The accompanying amendments to Maximum Price Regulations Nos. 16 and 60 increase the maximum prices of raw cane sugar 1.37 cents per pound and of direct-consumption sugars 1½ cents per pound. These price increases except in the case of beet sugar are subject to certain recapture provisions when they are applied to stock held in inventory at the effective date of the increase. The provisions of these amendments, with the exception of the amount of the increase and minor clarifying changes, and the reasons therefor, are the same as those in Amendments 2 and 1 to Maximum Price Regulations Nos. 16 and 60, respectively.

Amendment 2 to Maximum Price Regulation 16, issued in February 1946, increased the price for raw cane sugar in order to insure the continued importation of sugar into the United States. At that time the Commodity Credit Corporation made a tentative agreement to purchase the 1946 crop of Cuban sugar at a higher price than theretofore paid, representing an increased cost which Commodity Credit Corporation had no legal authority to absorb. It was necessary, therefore, in order to obtain an adequate supply of sugar, to increase the price of raw sugar to reflect the additional cost. On July 16, 1946, the Commodity Credit Corporation announced the completion of the final contract for the purchase of the 1946 Cuban raw sugar crop. Under this contract, the basic price is 3.675 cents per pound f. o. b. Cuba, as previously tentatively agreed upon. However, the contract contains an adjustment clause which had not been contemplated at the time of the February action.

That clause provides that if for any quarter or quarters of the calendar year 1946 the Consumer's Price Index or the Index of Retail Food Prices as published by the Bureau of Labor Statistics exceeds the corresponding index for the last quarter of 1945 by 2% or more, the basic minimum price of one-quarter of the total quantity of raw sugar purchased under the contract must be increased by the same percentage. For each calendar quarter of the year for which there is such an increase in price index, there must be a corresponding increase in price for one-quarter of all the sugar purchased under the contract, without regard to the amount delivered in that calendar quarter or to advances in the price indices for any other calendar quarter. Payment of the total amount due for increases under the adjustment clause is to be made after all the sugar purchased under the contract has been delivered.

During the first quarter of 1946 neither index had advanced by two percent over the last quarter of 1945. However, since that time the Index of Retail Food Prices has advanced considerably. During the second quarter the index was 2.13 percent above the base figure. The reports for July and August indicate that the third quarter figure will be substantially higher.

At the present time more than three-fourths of the 1946 crop has been delivered to Commodity Credit Corporation at 3.675 cents per pound and resold by it to refiners at $4.205 per hundredweight, a selling price which does not cover any additional cost arising from the operation of the adjustment clause. While the Cuban contract makes provision for payment of the adjustment clause increases on sugar already delivered to Commodity Credit Corporation, the Commodity Credit Corporation has no way of passing on such increases on sugar it has already delivered. The Commodity Credit Corporation can be compensated only by increasing its selling price of the balance of the sugar remaining to be delivered. This increase must reflect not only the additional cost of that balance but must also include a factor to cover the additional cost to the Commodity Credit Corporation of the sugar already delivered by it.

The Administrator has examined these facts and has found that an increase of $1.37 per hundredweight will make it possible for the Commodity Credit Corporation to continue to import Cuban raw sugar and resell it without absorbing a loss on its sugar operations.

The results and effects of this action are exactly the same as those which were explained in the Statement of Considerations accompanying Amendments 1 and 2 to Maximum Price Regulations 60 and 16, respectively. The action is necessary to provide as much sugar as possible from Cuba, which supplies 50 percent of our total supply of raw sugar. Since no distinction can be made between Cuban sugar and that produced domestically or in United States territories, the price increase applies to all raw sugar. However, as a result of this increase, subsidy payments to domestic, Hawaiian and Puerto Rican producers will be substantially reduced.

The amendment to Maximum Price Regulation 60, increasing the prices of direct-consumption sugars, is also a direct result of this action. A survey of the sugar refining industry indicated that no increase in raw sugar costs can be absorbed under the minimum standards of the law. Therefore, this action increases the prices of direct-consumption sugars $1.50 per hundred pounds, which is the equivalent of the increased cost of raw sugar.

The recapture provisions are the same as those contained in Amendments 1 and 2 to Maximum Price Regulations 60 and 16, respectively, and have been included for the same reasons as set forth in the Statement of Considerations for those amendments, the applicable portions of which are incorporated herein by reference.

In addition, the amendment to Maximum Price Regulation 16 revokes section 8 (d) but maintains the .455 of a cent per pound increase in maximum prices for raw cane sugars established in February 1946 by that section by amending sections 8 (a) and 8 (b) so that the maximum prices listed in those sections now read 4.205 cents per pound instead of 3.75 cents per pound as heretofore. This action simplifies the regulation and is possible at this time because a survey has shown that sellers of raw cane sugars have disposed of their February 9, 1946 inventories of raw cane sugar. The recapture provisions were originally included to prevent windfalls from accruing to owners of such inventories.

Section 8 (c) of Maximum Price Regulation 16 has been amended so that the adjustment for polarization required by that section applies not only to maximum prices as heretofore, but also to any increases in maximum prices which may be established by the regulation. This action was taken to maintain the historical price differential between raw cane sugars of different degrees of polarization. Under section 8 (c) as it now reads, the 1.37 cents per pound increase established by the accompanying amendment must be adjusted upwards or downwards for each degree (or fraction of a degree) of polarization above or below 96 degrees.

In the opinion of the Price Administrator, the action taken by the accompanying amendments is generally fair and equitable and will effectuate the purposes of the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended, and Executive Orders Nos. 9250, 9328, 9599, 9651 and 9697.

FATS AND OILS

A statement of the considerations involved in the issuance of this amendment has been issued simultaneously herewith and filed with the Division of the Federal Register.

Maximum Price Regulation No. 53 is amended in the following respects:

1. The Table in section 9.2 is amended by changing the prices of castor oil as follows:

	New York		Pacific coast and ports		Gulf ports
	Tank cars	Drums, carlots	Tank cars	Drums, carlots	Tank cars	Drums, carlots

Dehydrated bodies	26.39	....	....	....	....	....

2. Subparagraph (1) of section 9.2 (f) is amended to read as follows:

(1) Except as hereinafter provided no person in the course of trade or business shall import (buy, receive, or in any manner pay for and bring in, deliver or cause to be brought into the continental United States) castor beans or castor oil at prices higher that the following:

(i) $165.00 per long ton (2,240 pounds) of castor beans c. i. f. first United States point or port of arrival, Atlantic or Gulf coasts.

(ii) $167.18 per long ton (2,240 pounds of castor beans, c. i. f. first United States point or port of arrival, Pacific Coast.

(iii) 16.35 cents per pound c. i. f. first United States point or port of arrival for No. 1 castor oil.

(iv) 16.05 cents per pound c. i. f. first United States point or port of arrival for No. 3 castor oil.

This amendment shall become effective September 18, 1946.

JAMES G. ROGERS, Jr.,

STATEMENT OF THE CONSIDERATIONS INVOLVED IN THE ISSUANCE OF AMENDMENT NO. 72 TO MAXIMUM PRICE REGULATION NO. 53

The accompanying amendment increases the price of castor beans imported into the United States from $118.00 to $165.00 per long ton c. i. f., first United States point or port of arrival, Atlantic or Gulf Coasts, and from $120.18 to 167.18 for Pacific Coast ports. This increase necessitates an addition of 5.2 cents per pound for the No. 1 and No. 3 grades of castor oil in New York, with an appropriate differential for Pacific Coast ports, and 7.04 cents per pound for dehydrated bodied castor oil.

The same considerations which prompted the price increase granted by amendment 56, on February 13, 1946, necessitate the present action. The price of castor beans in Brazil has continued to rise until it has now reached the level of $142.00 per long ton which results in a cost of around $165 to United States importers, c. i. f. Since this commodity is essential in the manufacture of many important industrial products, it is necessary to increase the ceiling price in order to assure available supplies and to aid in the production of a large variety of industrial products. Castor oil represents only a small part of the cost of manufacture of any of the articles in which it is used, and the higher ceiling fixed by this amendment will not result in any increase in the cost of living.

CEILING PRICES OF CERTAIN FOODS SOLD AT WHOLESALE

A statement of the considerations involved in the issuance of this amendment has been issued and filed with the Division of the Federal Register.

Section 22b is amended to read as follows:

SEC. 22b. Special rules for figuring ceiling prices for "sugar" after September 18, 1946. At the close of business on September 18, 1946, you must determine the number of pounds of each item of "sugar" that you own at that time. You must make and keep a record of that inventory at your place of business. Do not include "sugar" which you obtained as an industrial user under 3d Revised Ration Order 3 issued by the Office of Price Administration. After that date and regardless of whether you received a delivery of an item accompanied by a notice from your supplier to refigure your ceiling price, you must continue to sell each item of "sugar" at no more than your ceiling price for the item in effect on September 18, 1946 until you have sold an amount equal to your inventory of that date. When you have sold that amount you shall refigure your ceiling price for the item in accordance with the rules in section 6.

This amendment shall become effective 12:01 a. m. September 18, 1946.

STATEMENT OF THE CONSIDERATIONS INVOLVED IN THE ISSUANCE OF AMENDMENT 36 TO MAXIMUM PRICE REGULATION 421, AMENDMENT 79 TO MAXIMUM PRICE REGULATION 422, AND AMENDMENT 75 TO MAXIMUM PRICE REGULATION 423

This action is taken for the same reasons underlying Amendments No. 30 to MPR 421, 69 to MPR 422 and 66 to MPR 423. Reference is made to the statement of considerations accompanying those amendments for full particulars. An increase in sugar prices for producers and refiners is passed on in the same manner as it was passed on last February. In order to minimize the possibilities of undue windfall profits, wholesalers and retailers will again be required to take inventory and sell out an amount equal to the inventory before they may take advantage of the increase in their suppliers' maximum prices.

Contrary to the former action, it will not be necessary for wholesalers and retailers to file affidavits showing the amount of sugar on hand at the time of taking inventory. This has been eliminated as being of more burden than value.

METAL UPHOLSTERY SPRINGS, CONSTRUCTIONS AND ACCESSORIES

A statement of considerations involved in the issuance of this amendment has been issued simultaneously herewith and has been filed with the Division of the Federal Register.

Maximum Price Regulation No. 548 is amended in the following respects:

1. Section 4 is amended by adding the letter (a) after the words "SEC. 4".

2. Section 4 is further amended by adding a new paragraph (b) to read as follows:

(b) Adjusted ceiling prices for sales by manufacturers of specified items of metal upholstery springs, constructions and accessories. (1) Manufacturers' ceiling prices established under paragraph (a) of this section may be increased by 3.5 percent.

(2) Before selling, offering for sale or delivering any article for which the ceiling price has been adjusted under paragraph (b) (1) of this Section, the manufacturer shall file with the Consumer Durable Goods Price Branch of the Office of Price Administration, Washington, D. C., a report setting forth the following:

(i) Specifications of the article for which the ceiling price has been adjusted under paragraph (b) (1) of this section.

(ii) The adjusted ceiling price for the article determined under paragraph (b) (1) of this section.

3. Section 11a which was added by Amendment 5, issued April 25, 1946, is hereby revoked.

4. Section 11b which was added by Amendment 6, issued April 25, 1946, is hereby revoked.

5. A new Section 12 is added to read as follows:

SEC. 12. Adjustment of certain ceiling prices. If, before April 25, 1946, a manufacturer's ceiling prices were established under sections 5, 6 or 11 of this regulation, or under Order 1849 under Maximum Price Regulation No. 188, for sales of any article which is not listed in section 4 of this regulation, the manufacturer shall compute new ceiling prices for his sales of that article as follows:

(a) He shall determine the weight of the wire in the article.

(b) He shall determine the weight of the angles, flats and strips in the article.

(c) He shall add to the ceiling price established under sections 5, 6 or 11, the increase in his steel cost figured at $19.00 per ton in the case of No. 12 gauge high carbon wire or heavier, $21.00 per ton in the case of No. 13 gauge high carbon wire or lighter, and $7.00 per ton in the case of angles, flats and strips.

(d) He may increase by 3.5 percent the amount calculated under paragraph (c) above.

The new maximum prices so computed shall be reported by the manufacturer to the Office of Price Administration, Washington, D. C., before he first offers the article for sale at a price higher than the maximum price previously established for the article under sections 5, 6 or 11 of this regulation. If the reported maximum price is incorrectly calculated, the Office of Price Administration may issue an order establishing the correct maximum price for the manufacturers' sales of the article.

6. A new section 13 is added to read as follows:

SEC. 13. Interim pricing adjustment. With respect to articles covered by this regulation which the manufacturer has sold from April 30, 1946 to September 17, 1946, and which were invoiced to purchasers with a notification that such articles were sold subject to such upward adjustment as the Price Administrator may authorize to compensate for increases in basic wage rate schedules, the manufacturer may bill such purchasers retroactively for those sales in an amount which is no higher than 3.5 percent of the ceiling price of the article so sold and invoiced. The bill for such retroactive charge shall state the deliveries to which they apply and that the charge is made pursuant to Amendment No. 10 to Maximum Price Regulation No. 548.

7. Sections 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20 and 21 are redesignated sections 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22 and 23 respectively.

NOTE: The reporting and record-keeping requirements of this amendment have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

This amendment is effective on the 23d day of September 1946.

PAUL A. PORTER,
Administrator.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS ACCOMPANYING AMENDMENT No. 10 TO MAXIMUM PRICE REGULATION No. 548

The accompanying amendment to Maximum Price Regulation No. 548 grants an additional increase of 3.5 percent which may be added to the maximum prices established by Amendment 5 to Maximum Price Regulation No. 548, for manufacturers' sales of metal upholstery springs, constructions and accessories.

The statement of considerations accompanying Amendment 5 to Maximum Price Regulation No. 548 sets forth in detail the justification for increases in ceiling prices for certain reconversion industries to reflect increases in labor and material costs. That statement also outlines in detail the justification for treating metal upholstery springs, constructions and accessories as reconversion products. The pertinent portions of that statement are, therefore, incorporated herein by reference.

As set forth in the Statement of Considerations accompany Amendment 5 to Maximum Price Regulation No. 548, the increase in maximum prices granted by that amendment was in an amount sufficient to cover increases in basic steel costs, packing costs and other minor cost increases which were determined at that time. Since a further study was required to determine the appropriate factor for increases in the industry's basic wage rate schedules, the Administrator deemed it expedient to permit retroactive billing for sales and deliveries of the articles covered by the regulation, from April 30, 1946 to the date of the Administrator's issuance of the additional increase factor to reflect increases in basic wage rate schedules.

The accompanying amendment provided for a revocation of Sections 11a and 11b, which sections were added to the regulation by Amendment 5 and 6 respectively. The provisions of Section 11a which granted the increase in steel and other costs, are set forth in a new section 12 by the accompanying amendment. The provisions of Section 11b are no longer required since they provided for retroactive billing for the increase in wage rate schedules which the accompanying amendment now specifically grants.

In arriving at the increase factor granted by the Amendment, the Administrator relied on the wage information available from a sample of firms in the industry. These companies account for approximately 60 percent of the industry sales volume in 1941. The Administrator has determined that the sample of the industry used in this study is representative. An examination was made of the wage increases of the sample firms with a view to determining their effect on wage costs. The percentage increases since 1941 vary substantially from firm to firm, ranging from 36.5 to 85.8 percent. The Administrator has determined that no wage increase pattern has been established. Therefore, a weighted average of the increases since October 1941 was determined. This was calculated to be 67.8 percent. Since an increase factor of 50 percent over October 1941 wage costs was included in the prices originally established by Maximum Price Regulation 548, an increase of an additional 12 percent over current prices is now being recognized. On the basis of this increased cost factor the application of the reconversion formula to the consolidated profit and loss statement has resulted in a price increase of 3.5 percent.

In computing their maximum prices resellers continue to apply to their costs the mark-ups provided in Maximum Price Regulation 548. Since these mark-ups were those in effect on March 31, 1946, the action is in conformity with Section 2 (t) of the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended which provides that the Price Administrator in establishing maximum prices applicable to wholesale and retail distributors, shall allow them the average percentage mark-ups they received on March 31, 1946.

The Administrator has advised and consulted with representative members of the industry and has given consideration to their recommendations.

All provisions of this amendment and their effect upon business practices, cost practices, or methods, or means or aids to distribution in the industry or industries affected have been carefully considered. No provisions which might have the effect of requiring a change in such practices, means, aids, or methods established in the industry or industries affected have been included in the amendment unless such provisions have been found necessary to achieve effective price control and to prevent circumvention or evasion of the regulation or of the act. To the extent that the provisions of this amendment compel or may operate to compel changes in business practices, cost practices or methods, or means or aids to distribution established in the industry or industries affected, such provisions are necessary to prevent circumvention or evasion of this regulation or of the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended.

The increase granted by the accompanying amendment is consistent with the provisions of Executive Order 9697, and with the provisions of the Price Control Extension Act of 1946, as amended.

Acting Administrator.

Approved: September 12, 1946.

CHARLES F. BRANNAN,
Acting Secretary of Agriculture.

STATEMENT OF THE CONSIDERATIONS INVOLVED IN THE ISSUANCE OF AMENDMENT 13 TO MAXIMUM PRICE REGULATION 518

The accompanying amendment increases maximum prices of rough rice by $1.00 per barrel. In California where maximum prices are established on a hundred pound basis, this results in an increase of 62 cents per one hundred pounds.

This increase is being made pursuant to a directive issued by the Secretary of Agriculture under Section 1A (e) (2) (A) of the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended, which provides that whenever the Secretary of Agriculture determines that maximum prices applicable to any agricultural commodity which is in short supply are impeding the necessary production of such commodity, he may recommend to the Price Administrator such adjustments as he determines to be necessary to attain the necessary production of such commodity. The Act further provides that, within ten days after receipt of any such recommendation, the Price Administrator shall adjust maximum prices in accordance with such recommendation.

In the opinion of the Administrator, the accompanying amendment is generally fair and equitable and complies with all other requirements of the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, the Stabilization Act of 1942, both as amended, and all applicable Executive Orders.

AUTOMOBILE PARKING

A statement of the considerations involved in the issuance of this amendment issued simultaneously herewith, has been filed with the Division of the Federal Register.

Revised Supplementary Service Regulation 50 is amended in the following respect:

A new subparagraph (12) is added to § 1499.648 (c) to read as follows:

(12) The Regional Administrator for Region IV, and any District Director authorized to act by the Regional Administrator having jurisdiction over his district, may issue general area orders establishing maximum prices for the service of automobile parking in the Atlanta Region. Orders under this subparagraph (12) (and any change in, or revocation of such orders) by Regional Administrators or District Directors must be cleared with the Service Trades Branch, OPA, Washington, D. C., before issuance.

This amendment shall become effective September 23, 1946.

PAUL A. PORTER,
Administrator.

STATEMENT OF THE CONSIDERATIONS INVOLVED IN THE ISSUANCE OF AMENDMENT 11 TO RSSR 50 TO RMPR 165

Receipt of numerous applications for individual price adjustments from establishments offering the service of automobile parking in the Atlanta Region, has indicated that general price increases may be needed. To avoid the administrative difficulty of processing individual applications, the accompanying amendment confers authority upon the Regional Administrator of Region IV to issue general pricing orders in the Atlanta Region.

PART 1499—COMMODITIES AND SERVICES

[MPR 586, Amdt. 8 to Supp. Storage Reg. 1 (§ 1499.690)]

COLD STORAGE OF APPLES AND RELATED COMMODITIES IN CERTAIN STATES

A statement of the considerations involved in the issuance of this amendment has been issued simultaneously herewith and filed with the Division of the Federal Register.

Section 6 is amended to read as follows:

SEC. 6. Cold Storage of apples, pears, onions and carrots in Maryland, New York, Pennsylvania, Virginia and West Virginia—(a) Maximum prices. Maximum prices for the cold storage of apples, pears, onions and carrots, including handling in and out of warehouse, in the States of Maryland, New York, Pennsylvania, Virginia and West Virginia shall be determined under section 5 of Maximum Price Regulation 586, except that any seller in any one of these States whose maximum price under said section 5 is less than 25 cents per season per bushel basket, bushel box, bushel crate, or bushel bag, or is less than 65 cents per season per barrel, may charge and collect for such storage and handling services 25 cents per season per bushel basket, bushel box, bushel crate, or bushel bag and 65 cents per season per barrel: Provided, however, That any such seller whose charges during the 1941–42 season were quoted on a per-month as well as on a per-season basis may charge, in addition to his maximum charge under section 5 of Maximum Price Regulation 586, for the first month's storage, an amount equal to the increase in his per-season charge authorized by this section.

(b) Definition. As used in this section, the term "season" means, as to each seller, a period corresponding to that to which the 1941–42 seasonal rates of such seller were applicable.

This amendment shall be effective September 23, 1946.

PAUL A. PORTER,
Administrator.

STATEMENT OF THE CONSIDERATIONS INVOLVED IN THE ISSUANCE OF AMENDMENT 8 TO SUPPLEMENTARY STORAGE REGULATION 1 UNDER MAXIMUM PRICE REGULATION 586

This amendment permits cold storage warehouses in the States of Maryland, New York, Pennsylvania, Virginia and West Virginia whose maximum rates for apple storage heretofore were set at 20 cents per bushel per season [1] to increase that rate to 25 cents. A corresponding increase is made in the per-barrel rates. The new rates are made applicable also to pears, onions, and carrots, which customarily are stored on the same basis as apples. By Order No. 6 under Section 7 of MPR 586, issued simultaneously herewith, provision is made for consistent adjustment of rates on certain other fruits and vegetables which are generally related to the apple rates.

There are nearly two hundred cold storage warehouses located in the so-called Appalachian apple producing area whose primary function is the storage of apples. These "apple houses" for the most part are small country-point establishments. Under usual industry practice, apples are stored on a season rate which includes handling into warehouse, storage from the time the apples are picked in September or October until the first of April or the first of May, and handling out. These cold storages as a rule also handle other local crops which are stored under substantially the same terms, conditions and rates as apples. Onions, pears, and carrots frequently are handled on a par with apples, but variations are made in respect of other products. While Amendment 30 applied only to apples, the basis therein established has been extended by orders in individual adjustment cases to apply also to the other fruits and vegetables specifically mentioned.

On August 1, 1946, a committee representing operators of apple houses in the Appalachian area conferred with members of the staff of this Office, requesting an increase of 5 cents per bushel per season, with corresponding increases in rates for barrels, and in short-hold and other types of rates where such rates are used. It was stated that the prevailing rates for this type of storage were unremunerative. "Apple houses" which have been able to maintain relatively good over-all profit positions are said to have done so only by engaging to an extraordinary extent in the storage of other cooler commodities on a carload basis for various Government agencies—which business has been drastically reduced—by operating freezer space for local products and storing miscellaneous commodities, both cooler and freezer, for local distribution, and by various activities connected with the marketing of fresh fruits and vegetables and handling supplies for their production and packing.

Eighteen concerns, considered representative of the industry, were requested through the committee to furnish the information required under Section 8 of MPR 586. Most of these concerns had already furnished a substantial part of this information in connection with prior adjustment applications, and needed only to furnish current figures. Although letters outlining the requirements were sent on August 7, 1946, by August 30 information had been received from but seven of the eighteen concerns. This information is insufficient as a sample of the financial position of all the warehousemen involved, and there is no prospect of obtaining adequate financial or cost data within a reasonable time, due principally to the facts, beforementioned, that most of the concerns are quite small and do not maintain adequate records, and that most of them are also engaged in other activities to such an extent that a clear presentation of costs and returns allocable to apple storage would be impossible within practicable limitations of time. The time factor is of particular importance because practically all of the apples in this area are picked and stored during September and October.

Members of the apple producing and distributing groups which constitute the principal patrons of the apple houses have manifested concern over the storage rate situation and urge that the level of cold storage rates be made high enough to insure adequate service. Leading research groups in the industry and various state agencies recently have emphasized to growers and marketers the extreme importance of getting apples into storage promptly, and in maintaining the correct refrigeration at various periods. Their investigations show that any delay in placing the apples into storage will have serious consequences in the life of the apple and its quality and value when it is sold to the ultimate consumer. As a result, the consensus of the industry generally is that growers will be more conscious of the need for getting their apples into storage promptly than has been the case in past seasons, and will demand a very high standard of service from the cold storage warehousemen.

Peak season conditions ordinarily call for a considerable amount of overtime activity on the part of the warehousemen, and this is expected to be increased this season by the stress being placed on prompt storage and expert handling, just mentioned. From the warehousemen's standpoint, these difficulties are most seriously aggravated by the fact that many of them will be paying higher wage rates and most particularly must pay greatly increased differentials for overtime. It is, of course, impossible to determine with precision the extent thereof, but it is reasonably clear that the warehousemen will be faced with some real cost increases on their apple storage this season.

All things considered, the Administrator is of the opinion that the rates provided for by this amendment are fair and equitable and are necessary to provide for continuance of storage services to meet the needs of growers, distributors, and consumers of the important food commodities here involved.

[SR 14F, Amdt. 24]

MODIFICATIONS OF MAXIMUM PRICES ESTABLISHED BY GENERAL MAXIMUM PRICE REGULATION FOR CERTAIN CHEMICALS, DRUGS AND PAINTS

A statement of considerations accompanying this amendment, issued simultaneously herewith, has been filed with the Division of the Federal Register.

Supplementary Regulation 14F is amended in the following respect: Section 10 (f) (1) is amended to read as follows:

(1) Manufacturers: $0.163 per gallon.

This Amendment No. 24 shall become effective September 18, 1946.

JAMES G. ROGERS, Jr.,

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS ACCOMPANYING AMENDMENT NO. 24 TO SUPPLEMENTARY REGULATION 14F

The accompanying Amendment permits an additional increase of 9.9 cents per gallon in the maximum prices for linseed replacement oil, over and above the increase of 6.4 cents per gallon previously granted by Amendment 20 to Supplementary Regulation 14F, effective August 19, 1946. This results in a total increase of 16.3 cents per gallon over the maximum prices for this commodity originally established in Supplementary Regulation 14F.

This Action is deemed appropriate by virtue of an Amendment to Maximum Price Regulation 53 which is being issued simultaneously herewith. The compelling factors which prompted the Administrator to take the linseed oil action and the action on linseed replacement oil in Amendment 20 to Supplementary Regulation 14F are equally applicable in this instance and the Statements of Consideration accompanying both actions are, therefore, incorporated herein by reference.

Due to the high content of linseed oil in linseed replacement oil it appears that an increase of 2 cents per pound of linseed oil would substantially eliminate profit margins of linseed replacement oil manufacturers and would threaten continued production of that product.

The Amendment to Maximum Price Regulation 53, which is being issued simultaneously herewith, permits linseed oil manufacturers to increase their existing maximum prices of linseed oil by 2 cents per pound. The average quantity of linseed oil contained in a gallon of linseed replacement oil is 4.958 lbs.; the increase of 9.9 cents per gallon of linseed replacement oil, as permitted by the accompanying Amendment, represents a pass-through of the actual linseed oil increase. 16.3 cents represents the increase of 6.4 cents permitted linseed replacement oil in Amendment 20 to Supplementary Regulation 14F plus the presently permitted increase of 9.9 cents.

In view of the above considerations, the Price Administrator finds that this Amendment is necessary and proper and is consistent with the purposes and standards of the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended, and the Executive Orders of the President.

STATEMENT OF THE CONSIDERATIONS INVOLVED IN THE ISSUANCE OF AMENDMENT 71 TO MAXIMUM PRICE REGULATION NO. 53

The accompanying amendment increases linseed oil ceilings by 2 cents per pound. Amendment 10 to Maximum Price Regulation No. 397 increased the price of flaxseed by 65 cents a bushel at Minneapolis, to comply with a formal recommendation made by the Secretary of Agriculture under Section 1 A (e) (2) (A) of the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended.

The present increase in linseed oil prices, which was also recommended by the Secretary of Agriculture, will completely compensate flaxseed crushers to the extent of the 65 cents increase in the cost of flaxseed. Heretofore, an increase of 1.3 cents per pound in linseed oil prices compensated for an expected 25 cents per bushel increase in the price of flaxseed. This increase was intended to replace a terminated 25¢ per bushel subsidy payment on flaxseed and was to have been made effective by July 1. However, the lapse in price control on flaxseed from July 1 until September 9 made it impossible to effectuate this increase. The aforementioned action raising flaxseed by 65 cents per bushel included this contemplated 25 cents increase which has already been compensated for in linseed oil prices. Hence the accompanying increase of 2 cents per pound on linseed oil together with this previous linseed oil increase fully compensates flaxseed crushers for the 65 cents increase in the ceiling prices of flaxseed.

To require any absorption of a substantial amount of this increased cost to the linseed oil processor would discourage production of these oils and oil products which are essential in manufacturing paints, varnishes, linoleum and other products. Accordingly, this action is necessary under Title III of E. O. 9599 to correct maladjustments or inequities which would interfere with the effective transition to a peacetime economy.

The accompanying amendment also increases the ceilings on imported linseed oil by the same amount as the increase in the ceilings on domestic linseed oil.

[MPR 16,[1] Amdt. 3]

RAW CANE SUGAR

A statement of the considerations involved in the issuance of this amendment, issued simultaneously herewith, has been filed with the Division of the Federal Register.

Maximum Price Regulation 16 is amended in the following respects:

1. Section 8 (a) (1) (i) is amended to read as follows:

(i) The maximum price per pound for raw cane sugars from off-shore producing areas of 96 degrees polarization, duty paid, cost, insurance and freight, shall be 4.205 cents, for delivery at points at which deliveries have customarily been made by Commodity Credit Corporation for a particular refinery, or, if such deliveries have not customarily been made by Commodity Credit Corporation, then at receiving scales located at the refinery port.

2. Section 8 (b) (1) is amended to read as follows:

(1) 4.205 cents per pound, f. o. b. conveyance for delivery to a refinery, less the per pound transportation charge at the published freight rate from the raw sugar mill to the refinery nearest freightwise to such raw sugar mill. The maximum delivered price to a refinery shall be the above f. o. b. price plus actual transportation cost from the selling raw sugar mill to the refinery processing such sugar.

3. Section 8 (c) is amended to read as follows:

(c) Adjustment for polarization. Maximum prices and any increases to maximum prices established for raw cane sugars of 96 degrees polarization established by this section 8 shall be adjusted for raw cane sugars of each other test by making allowances per pound for each degree of polarization above or below 96 degrees (fractions of a degree in proportion) so that the adjusted maximum prices and increases shall not exceed the figures resulting from applying the method customarily used prior to August 14, 1941 for establishing the price differential between raw cane sugars of like test and raw cane sugars of 96 degrees polarization.

4. Section 8 (d) is hereby revoked and new Section 8 (d) is added to read as follows:

(d) Additions to applicable maximum prices for sales of raw cane sugar on and after September 18, 1946.—(1) Sales by persons who own no raw cane sugars at the close of business on September 17, 1946. Any person subject to this regulation who owns no raw cane sugars at the close of business on September 17, 1946, may add 1.37 cents per pound to the applicable maximum prices established by the preceding paragraphs (a) to (c) inclusive of this section 8 for sales by him of raw cane sugars on and after September 18, 1946.

(2) Sales by persons who own raw cane sugars at the close of business on September 17, 1946. Any person subject to this regulation, except Commodity Credit Corporation, who owns raw cane sugars at the close of business on September 17, 1946, may add 1.37 cents per pound to the applicable maximum prices established by the preceding paragraphs (a) to (c) inclusive, of this section 8, for sales by him of raw cane sugars, on and after September 18, 1946, upon the condition that he complies with all the pertinent requirements of the following subparagraphs (3) and (4).

(3) Filing of affidavit. Any person subject to this regulation, who sells raw cane sugars, and who owns raw cane sugars at the close of business on September 17, 1946, shall not later than October 10, 1946, send by registered mail addressed to Commodity Credit Corporation, 150 Broadway, New York 7, New York, an affidavit setting out the total number of pounds of raw cane sugars (including cane juice and its derivatives in the process of being made into cane sugar) adjusted to a 96 degree polarization basis, owned by him at the close of business on September 17, 1946.

(4) Payment to Commodity Credit Corporation. Any person subject to the provisions of this regulation, who elects to increase his maximum price on September 18, 1946, shall make a statement to that effect in the affidavit described in subparagraph (3) of this paragraph (d) and shall make payment by check or money order payable to the Commodity Credit Corporation in an amount computed as follows:

(i) The total number of pounds of raw cane sugars (including cane juice and its derivatives in the process of being made into cane sugar) adjusted to a 96 degree polarization basis owned by him at the close of business on September 17, 1946;

(ii) Multiplied by 1.37 cents per pound.

Payment may be made at the time of filing the affidavit, or monthly payments shall be made within 30 days following the close of the calendar month for the amount of sugar sold during such month, until the full amount due has been paid. The maximum price, in the event of failure to make such payment or payments, shall be the maximum price established under paragraphs (a) to (c) inclusive of this section 8.

(5) Election to sell inventory at lower price. Any person subject to this regulation who owns raw cane sugars at the close of business on September 17, 1946, may, in lieu of making payment to Commodity Credit Corporation, described in subparagraph (4) above of this paragraph (d), elect to sell or otherwise dispose of the entire amount of his inventory at or below the maximum price established under paragraphs (a) to (c), inclusive, of this section 8. Such person shall state in the affidavit described in subparagraph (3) of this paragraph (d), that he elects to sell his inventory at that price. At such time as he has sold an amount equal to his September 17, 1946 inventory, he shall file by registered mail with the Commodity Credit Corporation a final affidavit stating that he has fully complied with the requirement of this subparagraph (5).

After mailing the final affidavit in proper form, such person may increase his maximum price in the amount set out in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph (d).

(6) Maximum prices for sales by Commodity Credit Corporation. The Commodity Credit Corporation may add the sum of 1.37 cents per pound to the applicable maximum prices established by paragraphs (a) to (c), inclusive, of this section 8.

This amendment shall become effective September 18, 1946.

NOTE: All reporting and record-keeping requirements of this amendment have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

Issued this 17th day of September 1946.

JAMES G. ROGERS, Jr.,
Acting Administrator.

Approved: September 12, 1946.

CHARLES F. BRANNAN,
Acting Secretary of Agriculture.

STATEMENT OF THE CONSIDERATIONS INVOLVED IN THE ISSUANCE OF AMENDMENT 3 TO MAXIMUM PRICE REGULATION 16 AND AMENDMENT 4 TO MAXIMUM PRICE REGULATION 60

The accompanying amendments to Maximum Price Regulations Nos. 16 and 60 increase the maximum prices of raw cane sugar 1.37 cents per pound and of direct-consumption sugars 1½ cents per pound. These price increases except in the case of beet sugar are subject to certain recapture provisions when they are applied to stock held in inventory at the effective date of the increase. The provisions of these amendments, with the exception of the amount of the increase and minor clarifying changes, and the reasons therefor, are the same as those in Amendments 2 and 1 to Maximum Price Regulations Nos. 16 and 60, respectively.

Amendment 2 to Maximum Price Regulation 16, issued in February 1946, increased the price for raw cane sugar in order to insure the continued importation of sugar into the United States. At that time the Commodity Credit Corporation made a tentative agreement to purchase the 1946 crop of Cuban sugar at a higher price than theretofore paid, representing an increased cost which Commodity Credit Corporation had no legal authority to absorb. It was necessary, therefore, in order to obtain an adequate supply of sugar, to increase the price of raw sugar to reflect the additional cost. On July 16, 1946, the Commodity Credit Corporation announced the completion of the final contract for the purchase of the 1946 Cuban raw sugar crop. Under this contract, the basic price is 3.675 cents per pound, f. o. b. Cuba, as previously tentatively agreed upon. However, the contract contains an adjustment clause which had not been contemplated at the time of the February action.

That clause provides that if for any quarter or quarters of the calendar year 1946 the Consumer's Price Index or the Index of Retail Food Prices, as published by the Bureau of Labor Statistics exceeds the corresponding index for the last quarter of 1945 by 2% or more, the basic minimum price of one-quarter of the total quantity of raw sugar purchased under the contract must be increased by the same percentage. For each calendar quarter of the year for which there is such an increase in price index, there must be a corresponding increase in price for one-quarter of all the sugar purchased under the contract, without regard to the amount delivered in that calendar quarter or to advances in the price indices for any other calendar quarter. Payment of the total amount due for increases under the adjustment clause is to be made after all the sugar purchased under the contract has been delivered.

During the first quarter of 1946 neither index had advanced by two percent over the last quarter of 1945. However, since that time the Index of Retail Food Prices has advanced considerably. During the second quarter the index was 2.13 percent above the base figure. The reports for July and August indicate that the third quarter figure will be substantially higher.

At the present time more than three-fourths of the 1946 crop has been delivered to Commodity Credit Corporation at 3.675 cents per pound and resold by it to refiners at $4.205 per hundredweight, a selling price which does not cover any additional cost arising from the operation of the adjustment clause. While the Cuban contract makes provision for payment of the adjustment clause increases on sugar already delivered to Commodity Credit Corporation, the Commodity Credit Corporation has no way of passing on such increases on sugar it has already delivered. The Commodity Credit Corporation can be compensated only by increasing its selling price of the balance of the sugar remaining to be delivered. This increase must reflect not only the additional cost of that balance but must also include a factor to cover the additional cost to the Commodity Credit Corporation of the sugar already delivered by it.

The Administrator has examined these facts and has found that an increase of $1.37 per hundredweight will make it possible for the Commodity Credit Corporation to continue to import Cuban raw sugar and resell it without absorbing a loss on its sugar operations.

The results and effects of this action are exactly the same as those which were explained in the Statement of Considerations accompanying Amendments 1 and 2 to Maximum Price Regulations 60 and 16, respectively. The action is necessary to provide as much sugar as possible from Cuba, which supplies 50 percent of our total supply of raw sugar. Since no distinction can be made between Cuban sugar and that produced domestically or in United States territories, the price increase applies to all raw sugar. However, as a result of this increase, subsidy payments to domestic, Hawaiian and Puerto Rican producers will be substantially reduced.

The amendment to Maximum Price Regulation 60, increasing the prices of direct-consumption sugars, is also a direct result of this action. A survey of the sugar refining industry indicated that no increase in raw sugar costs can be absorbed under the minimum standards of the law. Therefore, this action increases the prices of direct-consumption sugars $1.50 per hundred pounds, which is the equivalent of the increased cost of raw sugar.

The recapture provisions are the same as those contained in Amendments 1 and 2 to Maximum Price Regulations 60 and 16, respectively, and have been included for the same reasons as set forth in the Statement of Considerations for those amendments, the applicable portions of which are incorporated herein by reference.

In addition, the amendment to Maximum Price Regulation 16 revokes section 8 (d) but maintains the .455 of a cent per pound increase in maximum prices for raw cane sugars established in February 1946 by that section by amending sections 8 (a) and 8 (b) so that the maximum prices listed in those sections now read 4.205 cents per pound instead of 3.75 cents per pound as heretofore. This action simplifies the regulation and is possible at this time because a survey has shown that sellers of raw cane sugars have disposed of their February 9, 1946 inventories of raw cane sugar. The recapture provisions were originally included to prevent windfalls from accruing to owners of such inventories.

Section 8 (c) of Maximum Price Regulation 16 has been amended so that the adjustment for polarization required by that section applies not only to maximum prices as heretofore, but also to any increases in maximum prices which may be established by the regulation. This action was taken to maintain the historical price differential between raw cane sugars of different degrees of polarization. Under section 8 (c) as it now reads, the 1.37 cents per pound increase established by the accompanying amendment must be adjusted upwards or downwards for each degree (or fraction of a degree) of polarizatcn above or below 96 degrees.

In the opinion of the Price Administrator, the action taken by the accompanying amendments is generally fair and equitable and will effectuate the purposes of the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended, and Executive Orders Nos. 9250, 9328, 9599, 9651, and 9697.

(2) Experimental facsimile broadcast.

(3) Developmental broadcast.

(b) Auxiliary broadcast:

(1) Remote pickup broadcast.

(2) ST broadcast.

RULES GOVERNING ADMINISTRATIVE PROCEDURE

§ 4.11 Applications. Each applicant for a construction permit for a new remote pickup, ST, experimental facsimile or developmental broadcast station, or change in facilities or modification of license of any such existing station shall file with the Commission in Washington, D. C., two copies of applications on the appropriate form designated by the Commission and a like number of exhibits or other papers incorporated therein and made a part thereof. Only the original copy need be sworn to. Experimental television applications should be submitted in triplicate.

§ 4.12 Full disclosures. Each application shall contain full and complete disclosures with regard to the real party or parties in interest, and their legal, technical, financial, and other qualifications, and as to all matters and things required to be disclosed by the application forms.

§ 4.13 Installation or removal of apparatus. Applications for construction permit or modification thereof, involving removal of existing transmitting apparatus and/or installation of new transmitting apparatus, shall be filed at least 60 days prior to the contemplated removal and/or installation.

§ 4.14 Period of construction. Each construction permit will specify a maximum of 60 days from the date of granting thereof as the time within which construction of the station shall begin, and a maximum of six months thereafter as the time within which construction shall be completed and the station ready for operation, unless otherwise determined by the Commission upon proper showing in any particular case.

§ 4.15 Forfeiture of construction permits; extension of time. (a) A construction permit shall be automatically forfeited if the station is not ready for operation within the time specified therein or within such further time as the Commission may have allowed for completion, and a notation of the forfeiture of any construction permit under this provision will be placed in the records of the Commission as of the expiration date.

(b) An application (Form FCC No. 701) for extension of time within which to construct a station shall be filed at least thirty days prior to the expiration date of such permit if the facts supporting such application for extension are known to the applicant in time to permit such filing. In other cases such applications will be accepted upon a showing satisfactory to the Commission of sufficient reasons for filing within less than thirty days prior to the expiration date. Such applications will be granted upon a specific and detailed showing that the failure to complete was due to causes not under the control of the grantee, or upon a specific and detailed showing of other matters sufficient to justify the extension.

§ 4.16 Equipment tests. (a) Upon completion of construction of a radio station in exact accordance with the terms of the construction permit, the technical provisions of the application therefor and the rules and regulations governing the class of station concerned and prior to filing of application for license, the permittee of any class of station listed in § 4.1 is authorized to test the equipment for a period not to exceed 10 days: Provided, That the engineer in charge of the district in which the station is located and the Commission are notified 2 days in advance of the beginning of such tests.

(b) The Commission may notify the permittee to conduct no tests or may cancel, suspend, or change the date of beginning for the period of such tests as and when such action may appear to be in the public interest, convenience, and necessity.

§ 4.17 Service or program tests. (a) When construction and equipment tests are completed in exact accordance with the terms of the construction permit, the technical provisions of the application therefor and the rules and regulations governing the class of station concerned, and after an application for station license has been filed with the Commission showing the transmitter to be in satisfactory operating condition, the permittee of any class of station listed in § 4.1 is authorized to conduct service or program tests in exact accordance with the terms of the construction permit for a period not to exceed 30 days: Provided, That the engineer in charge of the district in which the station is located and the Commision are notified 2 days in advance of the beginning of such tests.

(b) The Commission reserves the right to cancel such tests or suspend, or change the date of beginning for the period of such tests as and when such action may appear to be in the public interest, convenience, and necessity by notifying the permittee.

(c) The authorization for tests embodied in this section or section 4.16 shall not be construed as constituting a license to operate but as a necessary part of the construction.

Class of Station and Date of Expiration
Experimental television broadcast station: Feb. 1.
Developmental broadcast station: May 1.

(b) Licenses for remote pickup broadcast and ST broadcast stations will be issued for a period running concurrently with the license of the broadcast station with which used. A remote pickup broadcast station licensed for use with more than one broadcast station will be licensed for a period running concurrently with the license of the broadcast station having the longer license period.

§ 4.19 License, simultaneous modification and renewal. When an application is granted by the Commission necessitating the issuance of a modified license less than 60 days prior to the expiration date of the license sought to be modified, and an application for renewal of said license is granted subsequent or prior thereto (but within 30 days of expiration of the present license) the modified license as well as the renewal license will be issued to conform to the combined action of the Commission.

§ 4.20 Renewal of license. (a) Unless otherwise directed by the Commission, each application for renewal of license shall be filed at least 60 days prior to the expiration date of the license sought to be renewed.

(b) Whenever the Commission regards an application for renewal of a station license for any class of broadcast station listed in § 4.1 as essential to the proper conduct of a hearing or investigation, and specifically directs that it be filed by a certain date, such application shall be filed within the time thus specified. If the licensee fails to file such application within the prescribed time, the hearing or investigation shall proceed as if such renewal application had been received.

(c) A supplemental report shall be submitted with each application for renewal of licenes of a station licensed experimental [1] in accordance with the regulations governing each class of station.

§ 4.21 Temporary extension of station licenses. Where there is pending before the Commission any application, investigation, or proceeding which, after hearing, might lead to or make necessary the modification of, revocation of, or the refusal to renew an existing auxiliary or experimental broadcast station license, the Commission may, in its discretion, grant a temporary extension of such license: Provided, however, That no such temporary extension shall be construed as a finding by the Commission that the operation of any radio station thereunder will serve public interest, convenience, and necessity beyond the express terms of such temporary extension of license: And provided further, That such temporary extension of license will in no wise affect or limit the action of the Commission with respect to any pending application or proceeding.

§ 4.22 Repetitious Applications. (a) Where an applicant has been afforded an opportunity to be heard with respect to a particular application for a new auxiliary or experimental broadcast station, or for change of existing service or facilities, and the Commission has, after hearing or default, denied the application or dismissed it with prejudice, the Commission will not consider another application for a station of the same class to serve in whole or in part the same area, by the same applicant or by his successor or assignee, or on behalf of or for the benefit of the original parties in interest, until after the lapse of 12 months from the effective date of the Commission's order.

(b) Where an appeal has been taken from the action of the Commission in denying a particular application, another application for the same class of broadcast station and for the same area, in whole or in part, filed by the same applicant or by his successor as assignee, or on behalf or for the benefit of the original parties in interest, will not be considered until the final disposition of such appeal.

§ 4.23 Assignment or transfer of control—(a) Voluntary. Application for consent to voluntary assignment of an auxiliary or experimental broadcast station construction permit or license or for consent to voluntary transfer of control of a corporation holding such a construction permit or license shall be filed with the Commission on Form FCC No. 314 (assignment of license) or Form FCC No. 315 (transfer of control) at least 60 days prior to the contemplated effective date of assignment or transfer of control.

(b) Involuntary. In the event of the death or legal disability of a permittee or licensee, or a member of a partnership, or a person directly or indirectly in control of a corporation, which is a permittee or licensee:

(1) The Commission shall be notified in writing promptly of the occurrence of such death or legal disability, and

(2) Within thirty days after the occurrence of such death or legal disability, application on Form FCC No. 314 or 315 shall be filed for consent to involuntary assignment of such station permit or license or for involuntary transfer of control of such corporation to a person or entity legally qualified to succeed to the foregoing interests under the laws of the place having jurisdiction over the estate involved.

(c) A license for an experimental television broadcast station will be issued only on the condition that no objectionable interference will result from the transmissions of the station to the regular program transmissions of television broadcast stations. It shall at all times be the duty of the licensee of an experimental television broadcast station to ascertain that no interference will result from the transmissions of its station. With regard to interference with the transmissions of an experimental television broadcast station or the experimental or test transmissions of a television broadcast station, the licensees shall make arrangements for operations to avoid interference.

§ 4.132 Power limitations. Experimental television broadcast stations will be licensed with a power output not in excess of that necessary to render satisfactory service. The license for these stations will specify the maximum authorized power. The operating power shall not be greater than necessary to carry on the service and in no event more than 5 percent above the maximum power specified. Engineering standards have not been established for these stations. The efficiency factor for the last radio stage of transmitters employed will be subject to individual determination but shall be in general agreement with values normally employed for similar equipment operated within the frequency range authorized.

(3) Channels within the 152 to 162 megacycle range are now in the course of assignment to the remote pickup broadcast service.

(b) One of the above groups only, including all frequencies shown therein, will be assigned to each remote pickup station. The same group may be assigned two or more stations operating in the same area. A licensee will normally be limited to the assignment in any metropolitan area of one frequency group from each paragraph (a) (1), (2), and (3) of this section.

§ 4.403 Frequency selection to avoid interference. Where two or more stations are licensed for the same group of frequencies in the same area and when simultaneous operation is contemplated, the licensees shall endeavor to select frequencies to avoid interference. If a mutual agreement to this effect cannot be reached the Commission shall be notified and it will specify the frequencies on which each station is to be operated.

RULES RELATING TO LICENSING POLICIES

§ 4.431 Purpose of remote pickup broadcast stations. (a) The license of a remote pickup broadcast station authorizes the transmission of program material, or orders concerning such program material, to its associated standard or FM broadcast station and to such other stations as are also broadcasting the same program material. Remote pickup broadcast stations are also authorized to transmit chain programs, or orders concerning such programs, to the network with which its associated station is regularly affiliated. The transmission of programs, or orders concerning such programs, to be broadcast by other standard or FM broadcast stations not aforementioned is authorized: Provided, That the transmissions by the remote pickup broadcast station shall be under the control of the remote pickup broadcast station licensee and that such operation shall not exceed a total of 10 days in any 30 day period.

(b) In the event of damage or impairment of the regular circuits of a broadcast station due to storms or other emergencies, remote pickup broadcast stations may be used to provide temporary emergency circuits for program transmission and cue purposes pending completion of repairs. However, remote pickup broadcast stations may not be used for such circuits on a regular basis.

(c) A license authorizes operation on only one of the assigned frequencies at any one time. In case it is desired to transmit programs and orders concerning such programs to the associated broadcast station simultaneously, two licenses are required though each may specify the same group of frequencies. Where it is desired to transmit orders concerning the program, from the associated broadcast station to the remote pickup broadcast station a separate license is required.

(b) In case a licensee has two or more broadcast stations located in different cities, it shall, in applying for a new remote pickup station or for renewal of license of an existing station, designate the broadcast station in conjunction with which the remote pickup station is to be operated principally, and it shall not thereafter operate the remote pickup station in conjunction with another of its broadcast stations located in a different city for more than a total of 10 days in any 30-day period.

(c) A remote pickup broadcast station may be licensed for portable operation, for portable-mobile operation, or for operation at a fixed location. An application for a new remote pickup broadcast station or for modification of license of an existing station requesting portable or portable-mobile operation shall specify the area in which the facilities of the proposed station are intended to be employed.

(d) Remote pickup broadcast stations will be licensed for the purpose of providing communications between the studio and the transmitter of FM broadcast stations which utilize an ST broadcast station for program transmission only on the frequencies designated for this purpose.[24] For the time being, and until further notice an application may request a frequency to be assigned by the Commission.

§ 4.433 Temporary authorizations. (a) Special temporary authority may be granted for operation, as a remote pickup broadcast station, of equipment already licensed to another class of station or equipment in use by a class of station which under the Communications Act of 1934 does not require a construction permit.

(b) An application for special temporary authority for the operation of a remote pickup broadcast station [25] shall be filed with the Commission at least 10 days previous to the date of operation. Any application received within less than 10 days may be accepted upon due showing of sufficient reasons for the delay in submitting such request. The application shall set forth full particulars of the purpose for which the request is made and shall show the licensee, call letters, and type of equipment of the station proposed to be used and specify the frequency or frequencies, time and date, location, transmitter power, and type emission proposed and the purpose of the operation requested.

(c) An application for special temporary authority to operate another class of station as a remote pickup broadcast station [25] shall specify a frequency or frequencies allocated in § 4.402: Provided, however, In case of events of national interest and importance which cannot be transmitted successfully on these frequencies, other frequencies under the jurisdiction of the Commission may be requested, if it is shown that the operation thereon will not cause interference to established stations: And provided further, That no remote pickup operation will be authorized on frequencies employed in the emergency service or otherwise employed for the safety of life and property.

(d) An application for special temporary authority to operate equipment as a remote pickup broadcast station [25] filed

[16] Tolerance may be 0.05 on equipment installed prior to October 1, 1946, and until October 1, 1947, when all developmental broadcast stations shall maintain frequency within the prescribed tolerances.

[18] Form 758-F.

[19] As used in this section the word "program" includes any complete program or part thereof.

[20] In case a program is transmitted from its point of origin to a broadcast station primarily by telephone facilities in which a section of such transmission is by radio, the broadcasting of this program is not considered a rebroadcast. The broadcasting of a program relayed by a remote pickup broadcast station is not considered a rebroadcast.

[22] Subject to change in accordance with action resulting from the proceedings in Docket No. 6651.

§ 4.435 Power limitations. Remote pickup broadcast stations will be licensed with a power output not in excess of that necessary to render satisfactory service. The license for these stations will specify the maximum authorized power. The operating power shall not be greater than necessary to carry on the service and in no event more than 5 percent above the maximum power specified. Engineering standards have not been established for these stations. The efficiency factor for the last radio stage of transmitters employed will be subject to individual determination but shall be in general agreement with values normally employed for similar equipment operated within the frequency range authorized.

§ 4.436 Emission authorized. The license for a remote pickup broadcast station operating on frequencies below 50 megacycles will normally authorize A3 emission and may in addition authorize A1 and A2 emission where a need therefor is shown. Special emission for frequency modulation employing a frequency swing [26] of [27] kilocycles may be licensed to this class of station on frequencies above 150 megacycles. Further consideration will be given to the possible desirability of authorizing special emission for frequency modulation on frequencies below 150 megacycles following final determination of frequency assignments.[28]

NOTICE OF HEARING WITH RESPECT TO PROPOSED AMENDMENTS

Notice is hereby given that pursuant to the authority vested in me by section 32 of the act of February 25, 1920 (41 Stat. 450, 30 U. S. C. sec. 189), a hearing will be held at the Tramway Building Auditorium, Denver, Colorado, on September 30 and October 1, 1946, commencing at 10 a. m. with respect to the proposed amendment of the general regulations applicable to mineral permits and leases and the oil and gas leasing regulations.

Oscar L. Chapman, Under Secretary of the Department of the Interior, will preside at the hearing.

The hearing will be open to the attendance of all interested parties. Those desiring to be heard in person at such hearing must give notice thereof to the District Land Office, Bureau of Land Management, Federal Building, Denver, 2, Colorado, not later than September 27, 1946. Written statements may also be filed at the same office by any parties so desiring on or prior to September 27 or with the Under Secretary at the hearing.

At the conclusion of the hearing, the minutes thereof, together with appropriate recommendations will be forwarded to the Secretary of the Interior after which he will, upon consideration of the complete record, prescribe appropriate regulations which will be duly published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

Amendment of the regulations is proposed because of several important changes in the act of February 25, 1920, effected by the act of August 8, 1946 (Public Law 696, 79th Cong.). Tentative drafts of proposed regulations are attached as Appendices A and B. Copies of the proposed regulations may be obtained from the Bureau of Land Management, Washington, D. C., and the manager of the district land office, Denver, Colo., and Cheyenne, Wyo.

LEASING OF MINERALS DEVELOPED BY GOVERNMENTAL AGENCY TO AID IN PROSECUTING WORLD WAR II

191.40 Leases to Governmental agency or its assigns.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

§ 191.1 Purpose of the leasing acts. The act of February 25, 1920 (41 Stat. 437; 30 U. S. C. sec. 181), as amended and supplemented, including the amendatory act of August 8, 1946 (Public Law 696, 79th Congress); the act of February 7, 1927 (44 Stat. 1057; 30 U. S. C. 281–287) and the act of April 17, 1926 (44 Stat. 301; 30 U. S. C. 271–276) as amended, hereinafter called "the act," provide for the leasing of oil and gas, coal, potassium, sodium, phosphate and oil shale and lands containing such deposits owned by the United States in the public domain and deposits of sulphur and the public lands containing such deposits in the States of Louisiana and New Mexico, except as stated in § 191.2.[1]

§ 191.2 Lands and deposits to which mineral leasing act does not apply. The mineral leasing act does not apply to lands containing the mineral deposits named in § 191.1 where such lands are situated in (a) national parks and monuments; (b) forests created under the Act of March 1, 1911 (36 Stat. 961; 16 U. S. C. 513–519) known as the Appalachian Forest Reserve Act; (c) Indian reservations; (d) incorporated cities, towns and villages, or (e) lands in military or naval reservations.

§ 191.3 Who may hold leases and permits. Mineral prospecting permits and mineral leases may be issued only to (a) citizens of the United States; (b) associations of such citizens; (c) corporations organized under the laws of the United States or of any State or Territory thereof; or (d) in the case of coal, oil, oil shale, or gas, municipalities.

§ 191.4 Rights of aliens. Aliens may not acquire or hold any direct interest in permits or leases, but may own stock in corporations holding permits or leases, if the laws of their country do not deny similar or like privileges to citizens of the United States. A corporate applicant must make a full disclosure of the residence and citizenship of its stockholders. If any appreciable percentage of its stock is held by aliens of the excepted class, its application will be denied.

§ 191.5 Reserved or segregated lands. All leases issued under the act for lands embraced in a reservation or segregated for any particular purpose shall provide that the lessee shall conduct operations in conformity with such requirements as may be made by the Director, Bureau of Land Management for the protection and use of the land for the purpose for which it was reserved or segregated, so far as may be consistent with the use of the land for the purpose of the lease, which latter shall be regarded as the dominant use unless otherwise provided or separately stipulated.

§ 191.6 Special stipulations for lands in national forests and reclamation projects. Applicants for permits, leases and licenses for lands in national forests will be required to consent to the inclusion therein of the stipulation on Form 4–216 relating to camp sites. Where the land has been withdrawn for reclamation purposes the applicant may be required to consent to the inclusion of a stipulation on Form 4–467 if the lands are potentially irrigable, or Form 4–467 (a) if the lands are within the flow limits of a reservoir site, or Form 4–467 (b) if the lands are within the drainage area of a constructed reservoir. Other conditions may be imposed, if deemed necessary, to protect the lands withdrawn for reclamation purposes.

§ 191.7 Multiple development, or other disposition, of land. The granting of a permit or lease for the prospecting, development or production of deposits of any one mineral will not preclude the issuance of other permits or leases for the same land for deposits of other minerals with suitable stipulations for simultaneous operation, nor the allowance of applicable entries, locations, or selections of the leased lands with a reservation of the mineral deposits to the United States.

§ 191.8 Interests held in common. An association shall not be deemed to exist between the parties to a contract for development of leased lands, whether or not coupled with an interest in the lease, nor between co-lessees, but each party to any such contract or each co-lessee will be charged with his proportionate interest in the lease. No holding of acreage in common in excess of the maximum acreage specified in the law for any one lessee or permittee for the particular mineral deposit so held will be permitted.

§ 191.9 Survey of lands for leasing. Before a lease will issue for unsurveyed lands containing phosphates, oil shale, sodium or potassium the lands involved must be surveyed by the Government at the expense of the applicant for lease. To secure such a survey, the applicant must obtain from the appropriate regional cadastral engineer an estimate of the cost of the survey and deposit with him the estimated amount. After the survey has been accepted and the plat filed in the district land office the application will be adjusted to the resulting subdivisions and the cost of the survey will be ascertained by prorating the total cost of surveying the township to the area to be leased. The amount thus ascertained will be credited to the appropriation for surveying the public lands and the balance of the deposit, if any, returned to the depositor or his authorized representative.

§ 191.10 Simultaneous applications for lease. Where applications received by mail or filed over the counter at the same time are in conflict the right of priority of filing will be determined by public drawing in the manner provided in § 295.8 (d) of this chapter. No notice to the applicants will be required but the manager will post notice showing the date and hour of the drawing in a conspicuous place in his office for a period of five days prior to such date.

§ 191.11 Filing fees. All applications for prospecting permits, leases, or licenses under the act must be accompanied by a minimum filing fee of $10 for each application embracing not more than 800 acres, and an additional fee of $2 for each 160 acres or fraction thereof over 800 acres, but where under the rule of approximation the application includes more than 2,560 acres, no additional fee is required for the acreage in excess of 2,560 acres.

§ 191.12 Disposition of fees. Filing fees paid under the act will be applied as earned by the manager of the district land office immediately upon a determination that the lands are subject to lease, permit or other right. If the lands are not subject to the application the fees will be returned, except those paid with applications for coal leases, permits or licenses which will be returned only after the applicant has furnished an affidavit stating that he has not mined any coal from the land embraced in the rejected application for which payment has not been made or that fact has been otherwise determined.

§ 191.13 Payments of rentals and royalties. Rentals and royalties under all leases and permits issued under the act shall be paid to the manager of the district land office for the land district in which the leased lands are situated. In States where there are no district land offices such payments shall be filed with the Director, Bureau of Land Management. All remittances shall be made payable to the Treasurer of the United States and shall be accompanied by a letter of transmittal on Form 4–974 (oil and gas) or Form 4–976 (coal, potash, etc.). The transmittal letter shall be in triplicate and shall be completely filled out and signed by the payer.

§ 191.14 Bonds with individual sureties. Where surety bonds are tendered with individuals as sureties they must be executed by not less than two qualified individual sureties to cover compliance with all terms and conditions of the lease or permit or the applicable law or regulation. Each surety must execute a statement showing that he is worth in real property not exempt from execution, double the sum specified in the undertaking, over and above his just debts and liabilities and that he is either a resident of the same State and the United States Judicial District as the principal on the bond, or of the State and the Judicial District in which the lands involved are located. There also must be furnished a certificate by a judge or clerk of a court of record, a United States attorney, a United States Commissioner, or a United States postmaster, as to the identity, signature, and financial competency of the sureties. All bonds furnished with individual sureties will be examined every two years, or at any other time when found advisable, and the principal on the bond will be required to furnish new statements of justification by the sureties and a new certificate of financial competency, and if such sureties are unable to qualify additional security will be required. The statement of justification required to be furnished by the sureties, and the certificate of competency should be on Form 4–215.

ROYALTY AND RENTAL RELIEF; SUSPENSION OF OPERATIONS AND PRODUCTION

§ 191.25 Waiver, suspension, or reduction of rental or minimum royalty or reduction of royalty on coal, oil and gas leases. In order to encourage the greatest ultimate recovery of coal, oil, or gas and in the interest of conservation, the Secretary of the Interior whenever he determines it necessary to promote development or finds that the leases cannot be successfully operated under the terms provided therein may waive, suspend, or reduce the rental or minimum royalty or reduce the royalty on an entire leasehold, or on any deposit, tract, or portion thereof segregated for royalty purposes.

An application for any of the above benefits shall be filed in triplicate in the office of the oil and gas supervisor for oil and gas leases or the office of the mining supervisor for coal leases. It must contain the serial number of the leases and land district, the name of the record title holder and operator or sublessee and the description of the lands by legal subdivision.

Each application involving oil or gas shall show the number, location, and status of each well that has been drilled, a tabulated statement for each month covering a period of not less than six months prior to the date of filing the application of the aggregate amount of oil or gas subject to royalty computed in accordance with the oil and gas operating regulations, the number of wells counted as producing each month, and the average production per well per day.

Each application involving coal shall show the number and location of each mine, a map showing the extent of the underground mining operations, a tabulated statement of the coal mined and subject to royalty for each month covering a period of not less than 12 months next prior to the date of filing of the application, and the average production per day mined for each month.

Every application must contain a detailed statement of expenses and costs of operating the entire lease, the income from the sale of any leased products, and all facts tending to show whether the wells or mines can be successfully operated upon the royalty or rental fixed in the lease. Where the application is for a reduction in royalty full information shall be furnished as to whether royalties or payments out of production are paid to others than the United States, the amounts so paid, efforts made to reduce them, and agreements of the holders of the lease and of royalty holders to a permanent reduction of all other royalties from the leasehold to an aggregate not in excess of one-half the Government royalties.

§ 191.26 Suspension of operations and production and suspension of rental payments. When the Secretary of the Interior in the interest of conservation directs or assents to the suspension of all operations and production on any lease issued under the act no payment of acreage rental or minimum royalty prescribed in the lease is required during such period of suspension. Any such suspension if granted shall be effective beginning with the first day of the lease month following the date of filing of written application for such suspension in triplicate in the office of the oil and gas supervisor for oil and gas leases and the mining supervisor for all other mineral leases, and ending with the first day of the lease month in which relief is terminated in writing by the Secretary of the Interior or the respective supervisor. Where rentals have been paid in advance proper credit will be allowed on the next rental or royalty payment due under the lease. Complete information must be furnished showing the necessity for suspension of operation and production in the interest of conservation.

As to oil and gas leases, no suspension of operations and production and consequent suspension of rentals will be granted on any lease in the absence of a well capable of production on the leasehold except where the Secretary directs a suspension of operations in the interest of conservation.

The term of a lease shall be extended by adding thereto any period of suspension of operations and production assented to or directed by the Secretary of the Interior.

The minimum annual production requirements of a lease issued under the act for coal, phosphate, potassium, sodium or oil shale shall be proportionately reduced for that portion of a lease year for which suspension of operations and production is directed or granted by the Secretary of the Interior in the interest of conservation.

§ 191.27 Applicability of relief. The relief authorized under §§ 191.25 and 191.26 may be obtained for any oil and gas leases issued under the act, including those within an approved unit or cooperative plan of development and operation.

LEASING OF MINERALS DEVELOPED BY GOVERNMENTAL AGENCY TO AID IN PROSECUTING WORLD WAR II

§ 191.40 Leases to Governmental agency or its assigns. Except as otherwise provided by law, any mineral deposits (other than for oil and gas) and public lands containing such deposits which are subject to disposition under the provisions of the act, the production from which has been used by any Federal agency in connection with the prosecution of World War II, may be leased to the agency controlling the facilities using such production, or to any purchaser or lessee of such facilities, by negotiation, or by requiring the agency, its purchaser or lessee to meet the highest competitive bid received under sealed bids for such lease.

§ 192.1 Applicability of amendatory act to existing leases. The provisions of the act of August 8, 1946 (Public Law 696, 79th Congress) apply to leases issued prior to the date of that act only where the amendatory act so provides. Pursuant to the provisions of section 15 of that act, the owner of any lease issued prior thereto who wishes to avail himself of the provisions of the act which are not applicable to his lease because in conflict with rights granted under it may do so by filing on or before December 31, 1947, together with the consent of surety if there be a bond on the lease, an election to have his lease governed by the amendatory act. An election so filed shall constitute a relinquishment of all provisions of the lease in conflict with the provisions of the amendatory act and the regulations in this part. No right of election however will be recognized if not exercised within the time specified.

§ 192.2 Helium. The ownership of and the right to extract helium from all gas produced from lands leased or otherwise disposed of under the act have been reserved to the United States. Appropriate provision is made in leases with respect to the recovery of helium.

§ 192.3 Acreage limitations on leases. No person, association or corporation may hold more than 15,360 acres in any one State, whether directly through the ownership of leases or interests in leases, or indirectly as a member of an association or associations or as a stockholder of a corporation or corporations holding leases, or interests therein, or both. No lease will be issued and no assignment will be approved until it is satisfactorily shown that the lessee or assignee is entitled to hold the acreage.

§ 192.4 Acreage limitations on options. (a) Acreage held under a nonrenewable option, valid only for two years, for the purpose of geological or geophysical exploration, entered into June 1, 1946, or later, shall not be chargeable under § 192.3, but no optionee may hold options at any one time for more than 100,000 acres in any one State.

(b) No such option shall be taken for more than two years without the prior approval of the Secretary of the Interior. Where it is sought to obtain such options for a period of more than two years, an application should be filed with the Director, Bureau of Land Management, accompanied by a complete showing as to the special or unusual circumstances which are believed to justify approval of the application by the Secretary.

(c) No acreage shall be chargeable under options taken prior to June 1, 1946, on which geological or geophysical exploration has been actually made on or prior to August 8, 1946, if exercised prior to August 9, 1948, but no such option not so exercised will be recognized by the Department, thereafter, for any purpose.

(d) Each optionee must file with the Director, Bureau of Land Management, within 90 days after December 31 and June 30 of each year, a statement under oath showing as of the prior December 31 and June 30, respectively, (1) name of optioner and serial number of lease or application for lease subject to the option, (2) date and expiration date of each option, (3) number of acres covered by each option, and (4) aggregate number of options held in each State and total acreage thereof.

(e) If the report shows that the optionee holds options in excess of the prescribed limitation, he will be given 30 days within which to file proof of surrender of the options on the excess acreage.

§ 192.5 Lands within one mile of naval petroleum or helium reserves. No application for an oil and gas lease under the act will be granted for land within one mile of the exterior boundaries of a naval petroleum or a helium reserve, unless the land is being drained of its oil or gas deposits or helium content by wells on privately owned land or unless it is determined by the Secretary, after consultation with the head of the agency exercising jurisdiction over the reserve, that operations under such a lease will not adversely affect the reserve through drainage from known productive horizons.

§ 192.6 Boundaries of known geologic structures and productive limits of producing oil or gas fields and deposits. The Director of the Geological Survey will determine the boundaries of the known geologic structures of producing oil or gas fields and, where necessary to effectuate the purposes of the act, the productive limits of producing oil or gas deposits as such limits existed on August 8, 1946. Maps or diagrams showing by legal subdivision the boundaries of known geologic structures of producing oil or gas fields and of the productive limits of producing oil or gas deposits will be placed on file in the appropriate district land office, and office of the oil and gas supervisor.

§ 192.7 Agreements to compensate for drainage. Upon a determination that lands owned by the United States are being drained of oil or gas by wells drilled on adjacent lands, the Director, Bureau of Land Management, may negotiate agreements with the owners of adjacent lands whereby the United States, or the United States and its lessees, shall be compensated for such drainage, such agreements to be made with the consent of any lessee affected thereby. The precise nature of any agreement negotiated will depend on the conditions and circumstances involved in the particular case.

§ 192.8 Protection of leased lands from drainage. Where land in any lease is being drained of its oil or gas content by a well either on a Federal lease issued at a lower rate of royalty or on land not the property of the United States, the lessees must drill and produce all wells necessary to protect the leased lands from drainage. In lieu of drilling such wells, the lessee may, with the consent of the Director of the Geological Survey, pay compensatory royalty in the amount determined in accordance with 30 CFR sec. 221.21.

A period equal to that for which compensatory royalty is paid on any Federal lease, under this or the preceding section, in lieu of the drilling requirement therein shall be added to its primary term where there is no producing well on the lease.

COOPERATIVE CONSERVATION PROVISIONS

§ 192.20 Cooperative or unit plans. [2] The act authorizes lessees and their representatives to unite with each other, or jointly or separately with others, in collectively adopting and operating under a cooperative or unit plan of development or operation of any oil or gas pool, field, or like area, or any part thereof (whether or not any part of such pool, field, or like area is then subject to any cooperative or unit plan of development or operation). The agreement must be for the purpose of more properly conserving the natural resources of any such oil or gas pool, field, or area covered thereby and must be determined and certified by the Secretary of the Interior to be necessary or advisable in the public interest. The Secretary, with the consent of the lessees, is authorized to establish, alter, change or revoke drilling, producing, rental, minimum royalty, and royalty requirements of the leases and to make such regulations with reference to such leases as he may deem necessary or proper to secure the protection of the public interest. All leases committed to any unit or cooperative plan approved or prescribed by the Secretary of the Interior shall be excepted in determining acreage charges.

[1] Leases heretofore issued until an election is filed as provided for in these regulations shall continue to be governed by the pertinent provisions of the regulations heretofore in force as well as by these regulations to the extent that they are applicable.

[2] For the extension of leases committed to a unit plan, see § 192.122.

§ 192.21 Application for approval of plan. The procedure in obtaining approval of a cooperative or unit plan of development, including suggested text of an agreement acceptable to the Department, is contained in 30 CFR Part 226, "Unit or Cooperative Agreements". All applications to utilize and all documents incident thereto shall be filed in the office of the oil and gas supervisor, Geological Survey, for the region in which the unit area is situated.

§ 192.22 Communitization or drilling agreements. The Secretary is authorized when separate tracts under lease cannot be independently developed and operated in conformity with an established well-spacing or well-development program, to approve communitization or drilling agreements for the lease or any portion thereof with other lands, whether or not owned by the United States, when in the public interest. Operations or production pursuant to such an agreement shall be deemed to be operations or production as to each lease committed thereto.

Preliminary requests to communitize separate tracts shall be filed in triplicate with the oil and gas supervisor and executed agreements shall be submitted in sufficient number to permit retention of five copies by the Department after approval.

The agreement shall describe the separate tracts comprising the drilling or spacing unit, shall show the apportionment of the production or royalties to the several parties and the name of the operator, and shall contain adequate provisions for the protection of the interests of all parties, including the United States. The agreement must be signed by all parties and will be effective only after approval by the Secretary of the Interior.

§ 192.23 Approval of operating, drilling or development contracts without regard to acreage limitations. The authority of the Secretary to approve operating, drilling, or development contracts without regard to acreage limitations ordinarily will be exercised only to permit operators or pipe-line companies to enter into contracts with a number of lessees sufficient to justify operations on a large scale for the discovery, development, production, or transportation of oil or gas and to finance the same.

A contract submitted for approval under this provision should be filed with the Director, Bureau of Land Management, together with enough copies to permit retention of 5 copies by the Department after approval. It should be accompanied by a statement showing all the interests held by the contractor in the area or field and the proposed or agreed plan of operation or development of the field. All the contracts held by the same contractor in the area or field should be submitted for approval at the same time, and full disclosure of the project made. Complete details must be furnished in order that the Secretary may have facts upon which to make a definite determination in accordance with the provisions of the act, and prescribe the conditions on which approval of the contracts is made.

§ 192.24 Combinations for joint operation of refinery, or for transportation of oil. Upon obtaining the approval of the Secretary, lessees may combine their interests in leases for the purpose of constructing and carrying on the business of a refinery, or of establishing and constructing as a common carrier a pipe line or lines of railroads to be operated and used by them jointly in the transportation of oil from their several wells or from the wells of other lessees, or to increase the acreage which may be acquired or held under the competitive provisions of section 17 of the act. An application under this section, together with enough copies to permit retention of 5 copies by the Department after approval, should be filed with the Director, Bureau of Land Management. The application must show a reasonable need for the combination and that it will not result in any concentration of control over the production or sale of oil and gas which would be inconsistent with the anti-monopoly provisions of the law.[1]

§ 192.25 Subsurface storage of oil or gas. In order to avoid waste or to promote conservation of natural resources, the Secretary of the Interior, upon application by the interested parties, may authorize the subsurface storage of oil or gas, whether or not produced from federally owned lands, in lands leased or subject to lease under the act. Such authorization will provide for the payment of such storage fee or rental on the stored oil or gas as may be determined adequate in each case, or, in lieu thereof, for a royalty other than that prescribed in the lease when such stored oil or gas is produced in conjunction with oil or gas not previously produced. Any lease used for the storage of oil or gas shall be extended for the period of such storage and so long thereafter as oil or gas not previously produced is produced in paying quantities.

Applications for subsurface storage shall be filed in triplicate with the oil and gas supervisor and shall disclose the ownership of the lands involved, the parties in interest, the storage fee, rental, or additional royalty offered to be paid for such storage and all essential information showing the necessity for such project. Enough copies of the final agreement signed by the parties in interest shall be submitted for the approval of the Secretary to permit retention of 5 copies by the Department after approval.

ISSUANCE OF LEASES

§ 192.40 Classes and term. All lands subject to disposition under the act which are known or believed to contain oil or gas may be leased by the Secretary of the Interior. When within the known geologic structure of a producing oil or gas field, such land may be leased only by competitive bidding and in units of not exceeding 640 acres to the highest responsible qualified bidder at a royalty of not less than 12½ per cent. Leases for not to exceed 2,560 acres, in reasonably compact form, may be issued for all other land subject to the act to the first qualified applicant at a royalty of 12½ per cent. Hereafter, all leases, except those issued as renewals of 20 year leases, will be issued for a primary term of five years and so long thereafter as oil or gas is produced in paying quantities.

§ 192.41 Leases for lands wholly or partly within unit areas. Before issuance of an oil and gas lease for lands within an approved unit agreement, the lease applicant or successful bidder must file evidence that he has entered into an agreement with the unit operator for the development and operation of the lands in his lease under and pursuant to the terms and provisions of the approved unit agreement, or a statement giving satisfactory reasons for the failure to enter into such agreement. If such statement is acceptable he will be permitted to operate independently but will be required to conform to the terms and provisions of the agreement with respect to such operations.

In case an application for lease embracing lands partly within and partly without the exterior boundaries of a unitized area is found allowable, separate leases will be issued, one embracing the lands within the unit area, and one the lands outside of such area.

Non-competitive Leases

§ 192.42 Applications for noncompetitive leases. Applications for noncompetitive leases may be filed in the proper district land office or, for lands or deposits in States in which there is no district land office, in the Bureau of Land Management, addressed to the Director of the Bureau of Land Management. All applications must be accompanied by the filing fee prescribed in § 191.11 of this chapter and at least one-half of the first year's rental. Any application not accompanied by the minimum fee and rental payment will be rejected. No specific form of application is required and no blanks will be furnished. An application executed by an attorney in fact must be accompanied by the power of attorney and the applicant's own statement as to his citizenship and acreage holdings.

The application must contain in substance the following:

(a) The applicant's name and address.

(b) A statement as to citizenship: In case of an individual, whether native born or naturalized and, if naturalized, date of naturalization, court in which naturalized, and number of certificate, if known; if a woman, whether she is married or single; if married, the date of her marriage and the citizenship of her husband; if a corporation, by certified copy of the articles of incorporation and a showing as to residence and citizenship of the stockholders; if 20 per cent or more of the stock of any class is owned or controlled by any one stockholder, a separate showing of his citizenship and holdings. In case any of the stock of the corporation is held by aliens, a showing is required giving the name, the country to which each owes allegiance and the amount of stock held by each. Proof of the authority of the officer who makes the application must be furnished.

(c) A statement of the interests, direct and indirect, held by the applicant in oil and gas leases, and applications therefor on public lands in the same State, identifying the records wherein such interests may be found.

(d) Description of the lands for which a lease is desired, describing the lands by legal subdivisions or, if unsurveyed, by metes and bounds description connected with a corner of the public surveys by courses and distances.

(e) A statement that the applicant is ready upon demand to pay the remainder of the rental and to furnish such bond or bonds as may be required under the lease or regulations.

§ 192.43 Simultaneous applications for lands in canceled leases and permits. Where oil and gas leases are canceled involving lands not within a known geologic structure of a producing oil or gas field, the cancellation will be noted on the tract book as effective at 9 o'clock a. m. on the tenth business day after such notation, and notice of the opening, including the land description, will be posted in a conspicuous place in the district land office during the 10-day period.

Conflicting applications filed by mail or otherwise after the notice is posted and prior to the hour of opening will be considered as filed simultaneously; and their priority will be determined by a public drawing following the procedure prescribed in § 295.8 (d) of this chapter, except as hereinafter otherwise provided.

Each applicant will be notified of the date and hour of the drawing and required within 15 days to pay a drawing fee of $10 and to furnish a statement that the application is filed solely on his own behalf and not for any other person, association, or corporation, either in whole or in part. If any applicant fails to comply with the requirements, his application will not be entered in the drawing but will be rejected without further notice. If only one applicant complies with the requirements of this paragraph, no drawing will be held and the fee will be returned.

§ 192.44 Form of lease. Noncompetitive leases will be executed on Form 4–213a.

Competitive Leases

§ 192.50 Designation and offer of lands for lease by competitive bidding. The lands and deposits subject to disposition under the act which are within the known geologic structure of a producing oil or gas field will be divided into leasing blocks or tracts in units of not exceeding 640 acres each, which shall be as nearly compact in form as possible, and offered for lease at a royalty and rental to be specified in the notice of sale, to the qualified person who offers the highest bonus by competitive bidding either at public auction, or by sealed bids as provided in the notice of sale.

§ 192.51 Notice of lease offer. Notice of the offer of lands for lease will be by publication once a week for five consecutive weeks, or for such other period as may be deemed advisable, in a newspaper of general circulation in the county in which the lands or deposits are situated, or in such other publications as the Director, Bureau of Land Management, may authorize. The notice will be published at the expense of the Government. A copy of the notice will be posted in the district land office during the period of publication. Such notice will set the day and hour of sale and will state whether the lease is offered by sealed bids or at public auction. If by public auction, the offer will be made at the land office of the district in which the lands are situated, or at such other place as may be fixed in the notice. If by sealed bids, full information will be given as to how and when the bids are to be submitted. All bidders are warned against violation of the provisions of section 59 of the United States Criminal Code, approved March 4, 1909 (35 Stat. 1099; 18 U. S. C. 113), prohibiting unlawful combination or intimidation of bidders.

§ 192.52 Qualifications of successful bidder. The successful bidder at a sale by public auction must deposit with the manager of the district land office or other officer conducting the sale on the day of sale, and each bidder, if the sale is by sealed bids, must submit with his bid the following: Certified check on a solvent bank, or cash, for one-fifth of the amount bid by him; proof of citizenship as required in § 192.42 (b) and a statement of interests held in leases and applications therefor as required in § 192.42 (c).

§ 192.53 Award of lease. Following receipt of the report of the auction from the manager, or the opening of the sealed bids, the Director will either award the lease to the successful bidder or reject all bids, notice of which will be forthwith transmitted to the interested parties through the local office. If the lease be awarded, three copies of the lease will be sent to the successful bidder and he will be required within 30 days from receipt thereof to execute them, pay the balance of his bonus bid, the first year's rental, and file a $5,000 bond as required in § 192.100. If any bid be rejected, the deposit will be returned by Government check. If a bidder, after being awarded a lease, fails to execute it or otherwise comply with the applicable regulations, his deposit will be forfeited and disposed of as other receipts under this act.

If two or more units are awarded to any bidder, such units, where the acreage does not exceed 640 acres, may be included in a single lease if circumstances warrant.

§ 192.54 Form of lease. Competitive leases will be issued on Form 4–213b.

Exchange and Renewal Leases

§ 192.60 Application to exchange lease for a new lease. Any lease which issued for a term of 20 years, or any renewal thereof, or which issued in exchange for a 20-year lease prior to August 8, 1946, may be exchanged for a new lease. Such new lease will be issued for a primary term of 5 years and so long thereafter as oil or gas is produced in paying quantities and will contain the rental and royalty rates prescribed in §§ 192.80, 192.81 and 192.82. An application to exchange a lease for a new lease should be filed in triplicate by the lessee with the manager of the appropriate district land office and must show full compliance by the applicant with the terms of the lease and applicable regulations.

§ 192.61 Application for renewal. Twenty year leases or renewals thereof may be renewed for successive terms of 10 years at the rental and royalty rates specified for such renewal leases in §§ 192.80, 192.81 and 192.82. An application to renew should be filed in triplicate with the manager of the district land office in which the leased land is located or if in a State in which there is no district land office, in the Bureau of Land Management at least 90 days, but not more than six months, prior to the expiration of its term. Such application should be made by the record title holder or holders of the lease and may be joined in or consented to by the operator of record. The application should show whether all moneys due the United States have been paid and whether operations under the lease have been conducted in accordance with the regulations of the Department.

The applicant or his operator shall furnish in triplicate with the application for renewal, copies of all agreements not theretofore filed providing for overriding royalties or other payments out of production from the lease which will be in existence as of the date of its expiration. When such payments, including overriding royalties, are in excess of 5 per cent of gross production a detailed statement of the income from and costs of operation of the lease for the twelve month period immediately preceding the month in which the application for renewal is filed must also be furnished.

§ 192.62 Action on application. If the outstanding obligations payable from production do not constitute a burden on the lease prejudicial to the interests of the United States, they will not be considered a bar to its renewal but any lease that issues shall be upon the condition, to be incorporated in the lease, that if and when the costs of operations, including the payment of overriding royalties or payments out of production, shall be determined by the Director, Bureau of Land Management, to constitute such a burden such royalties and payments shall be reduced to not more than 5 per cent of the value of the production. If no objection to the renewal of the lease appears, copies of a renewal lease, in triplicate, dated the first day of the month in which the original lease terminated, will be forwarded to the lessee for execution. If upon receipt of the executed lease forms and a satisfactory lease bond, the lease is executed, one copy thereof will be delivered to the lessee.

If a determination is made that overriding royalties and payments out of production in excess of 5 per cent of gross production constitute a burden on lease operations to the extent that proper and timely development will be retarded, or continued operation of the lease impaired, or premature abandonment of the wells caused, the lease application will be suspended and the parties in interest will be offered an opportunity to reduce the excessive overriding royalties or other payments out of production to not more than 5 per cent of the value of the production. If the holders of outstanding overriding royalty or other interests payable out of production, the operator, and the lessee are unable to enter into a mutually fair and equitable agreement, any of the parties may apply for a hearing at which all interested parties may be heard and written statements presented. Thereupon a final decision will be rendered by the Department outlining the conditions acceptable to it as a basis for a fair and reasonable adjustment of the excessive overriding royalties and other payments out of production, and an opportunity will be afforded within a fixed period of time to submit proof that such adjustment has been effected. Upon failure to submit such proof within the time so fixed, the application for renewal will be denied.

§ 192.63 Form of lease. Exchange leases will be issued on Form 4–213c; and renewal leases on Form 4–973.

Leases on Patented or Entered Land

§ 192.70 Preference right of patentee or entryman to a lease. An entryman or patentee who made entry prior to February 25, 1920, or an assignee of such entryman or patentee if the assignment was made prior to January 1, 1918, for lands not withdrawn or classified or known to be valuable for oil and gas at date of entry shall be entitled, if the entry or patent is impressed with a reservation of the oil or gas, to a preference right to a lease for the land. A settler whose settlement was made prior to February 25, 1920, on land in the same status but which has since been withdrawn, classified or is known to contain oil or gas, also has such a preference right.

Any applicant for a lease to lands owned, entered or settled upon as stated above must notify the entryman, patentee or settler of the filing of the application and of the latter's preference right for 30 days after notice to apply for a lease. If the party entitled to a preference right files a proper application within the 30 day period he will be awarded a lease, but if he fails to do so, his rights will be considered to have terminated.

§ 192.71 Lands in entries or claims not impressed with a reservation of oil and gas. Where an application is filed to lease lands in an entry or settlement claim not impressed with an oil or gas reservation, the application will be rejected unless it is found that the land is prospectively valuable for oil or gas. An applicant for a lease for land already embraced in a nonmineral entry without a reservation of the mineral, and likewise a nonmineral entryman or settler who is contending that the land is nonmineral in character should submit with their respective applications or showings as complete and accurate geologic data as may be procurable, preferably the reports and opinions of qualified experts.

Should the land be found to be prospectively valuable for oil or gas, the entryman or settler will be required to consent to a reservation of the oil or gas to the United States or to contest the mineral finding. If he does neither the entry will be canceled or his settlement rights denied. If he consents, or contests the finding and is unsuccessful, a lease will be granted to the applicant, unless the entryman or settler has a preference right, but if the entryman or settler prevails in a contest, the application will be rejected.

§ 192.72 Showing required of oil and gas applicants for unsurveyed lands. Every applicant for oil and gas lease for unsurveyed lands, must state in his application that there are no settlers upon the land, or if there be settlers, give the name and post office address of each and a description of the lands claimed, by metes and bounds and approximate legal subdivisions.

RENTALS AND ROYALTIES

§ 192.80 Rentals. Rentals shall be payable in advance at the following rates:

(a) On leases wholly outside of the known geologic structure of a producing oil or gas field, for the first and each succeeding lease year, except the second and third lease years for which no rental is payable, a rental of 50 cents per acre.

(b) On leases wholly or partly within the known geologic structure of a producing oil or gas field:

(1) If noncompetitive and not committed to a unit plan, beginning with the first lease year after all or part of the land is included in such a structure and for each year thereafter, prior to a discovery of oil or gas on the leased lands, an annual rental of $1 per acre.

(2) If noncompetitive and committed to an approved cooperative or unit plan which includes a well capable of producing oil or gas and contains a general provision for allocation of production; for lands not within the participating area, 50 cents per acre for the first and each succeeding year.

(3) If competitive, an annual rental, prior to a discovery on the leased lands, of $1 per acre unless a different rate of rental is prescribed in the lease.

§ 192.81 Minimum royalty. From and after August 8, 1946, a minimum royalty of $1 per acre shall be payable at the expiration of each lease year on all leases after a discovery has been made on the leased lands, commencing with the lease year beginning on or after the date of such discovery, except that on unitized leases the minimum royalty shall be payable only on the participating acreage.

§ 192.82 Royalty on production. (a) On and after August 8, 1946, the following royalty rates shall be paid on the production removed or sold from leases:

(1) 12½ per cent on noncompetitive leases thereafter issued.

(2) Such rates as are prescribed in the notice of sale in the case of all leases thereafter issued by competitive bidding.

(3) 12½ per cent on all leases theretofore issued, except competitive leases, and on exchange and renewal leases thereafter issued, as to production from:

(i) Land determined by the Director, Geological Survey, not to be within the productive limits of any oil or gas deposit on August 8, 1946.

(ii) An oil or gas deposit which was discovered after May 27, 1941, by a well or wells drilled within the boundaries of the lease and which is determined by the Director, Geological Survey, to be a new deposit.

(iii) Or allocated to a lease pursuant to an approved unit or cooperative agreement from an oil or gas deposit which was discovered on unitized land after May 27, 1941, and determined by the Director, Geological Survey, to be a new deposit, but only if at the time of discovery the lease or, in the case of an exchange lease, the lease for which it was exchanged was committed to the agreement or was included in a duly executed and filed application for approval of the agreement.

(4) Form lands within exchange and renewal leases not subject to subparagraph (3) of this paragraph the rate of royalty shall be identical to that prescribed in the prior lease, except that for a lease issued in exchange for or as a renewal of a lease carrying a flat royalty rate of 5 per cent to the United States the royalty shall be as follows:

(i) When the average production of oil for the calendar month in barrels per well per day is:

not over 110 the royalty shall be 12½%.
over 110 but not over 130 the royalty shall be 18% of all production.
over 130 but not over 150 the royalty shall be 19% of all production.
over 150 but not over 200 the royalty shall be 20% of all production.
over 200 but not over 250 the royalty shall be 21% of all production.
over 250 but not over 300 the royalty shall be 22% of all production.
over 300 but not over 350 the royalty shall be 23% of all production.
over 350 but not over 400 the royalty shall be 24% of all production.
over 400 the royalty shall be 25% of all production.

(ii) On gas, including inflammable gas, helium, carbon dioxide, and all other natural gases and mixtures thereof, and on natural or casinghead gasoline and other liquid products obtained from gas; when the average production of gas per well per day for the calendar month does not exceed 5,000,000 cubic feet, 12½ per cent; and when the production of gas exceeds 5,000,000 cubic feet, 16⅔ per cent of the amount or value of the gas and liquid products produced.

(5) In the case of competitive leases, and other leases theretofore issued, in so far as subparagraphs (3) and (4) of this paragraph are inapplicable, the rates specified in the lease.

(b) The average production per well per day for oil and gas shall be determined pursuant to 30 CFR, Part 221, "Oil and Gas Operating Regulations."

(c) In determining the amount or value of gas and liquid products produced, the amount or value shall be net after an allowance for the cost of manufacture. The allowance for cost of manufacture may exceed two-thirds of the amount or value of any product only on approval by the Secretary of the Interior.

(d) The Secretary of the Interior may establish reasonable minimum prices for purposes of computing royalty in value on any or all oil, gas, natural gasoline, and other liquid products obtained from gas but in no case shall the price so established be less than the estimated reasonable value of the product, due consideration being given to the highest price paid for a part or for a majority of production of like quality in the same field, to the price received by the lessee, to posted prices and to other relevant matters.

§ 192.83 Limitation of overriding royalties. No overriding royalty interests, whether in the form of payments out of production or otherwise, aggregating in excess of 5 per cent shall be created except in a lease where the royalty payable to the United States is less than 12½ per cent. In such a lease the total royalty including that payable to the Government shall not exceed 17½ per cent. Contracts for payments out of production shall not be construed to create an overriding royalty obligation where they provide that the obligation to make such payments shall be effective only during those periods when the average daily production from the lease is in excess of 15 barrels of oil per well per day.

BONDS

§ 192.100 Amount of bonds required of lessees. The successful bidder for a competitive lease prior to the issuance of the lease must furnish a corporate surety bond in the sum of $5,000 conditioned on compliance with all the terms of the lease. All noncompetitive leases shall provide that a general lease bond in the penal sum of not less than $5,000 conditioned upon compliance with all lease terms, shall be furnished prior to the beginning of drilling operations on leased land and that such a bond must also be filed when all or any part of the leased land is within the limits of a known geologic structure of a producing oil or gas field. Bonds shall be either corporate surety bonds or individual bonds, the latter accompanied by a deposit of negotiable Federal securities in a sum equal at their par value to the amount of the bond and by a proper conveyance to the Secretary of full authority to sell such securities in case of default in the performance of the conditions of the lease bond.

Until a general lease bond is filed a noncompetitive lessee will be required to furnish and maintain a bond in the penal sum of not less than $1,000 in those cases in which a bond is required by law for the protection of the owners of surface rights. In all other cases where a $5,000 bond is not required, a $1,000 bond must be filed for compliance with the lease obligations not less than 90 days before the due date of the next unpaid annual rental, but this requirement may be successively dispensed with by payment of each successive annual rental not less than 90 days prior to its due date. The acceptance of a $5,000 bond shall terminate any prior $1,000 bond on the same lease, except as to then existing defaults. This and other special-purpose bonds involving penal sums less than $5,000 may be furnished with approved corporate surety or individual bonds, or bonds with individual sureties as provided in § 191.16 of this chapter.

CONTINUATION OR EXTENSION OF LEASES [4]

§ 192.120 Single extension as to lands not in a producing field. The record title holder of any noncompetitive lease maintained in compliance with the law and these regulations, by filing his application therefor within the period of 90 days prior to the expiration date of the lease, may obtain a single extension of the lease for an additional five years, unless then otherwise provided by law, for all of the leased lands which, on the expiration date of the lease, are not within the known geologic structure of any producing oil or gas field or have not been withdrawn from leasing. A withdrawal, however, will prevent an extension only if notice thereof was mailed to the lessee by registered mail at least 90 days prior to such expiration date and if actual drilling operations on the leased lands are not being diligently prosecuted on that date.

§ 192.121 Continuation of lease as to lands within producing fields and on termination of production. (a) Any noncompetitive lease or portion thereof which is not subject to a single extension of five years solely because the lands are within the known geologic structure of a producing oil or gas field at the date of expiration of the primary term of the lease shall continue in effect for a period of two years from the expiration date of the primary term of the lease where drilling operations are being diligently prosecuted on such date.

(b) Any lease issued under the act upon which production is had during its primary term or any extensions thereof, shall not terminate when the production ceases if diligent drilling operations are in progress on the leased land during the period of nonproduction.

§ 192.122 Extension for term of cooperative or unit plan. Any lease issued for a term of 20 years, or any renewal thereof committed to a cooperative or unit plan approved by the Secretary of the Interior, or any portion of such lease so committed, shall continue in force so long as committed to the plan, beyond the expiration date of its primary term. This provision does not apply to that portion of any such lease which is not included in the cooperative or unit plan unless the lease was so committed prior to August 8, 1946.

Any other lease issued under any section of the act committed to any such plan that contains a general provision for the allocation of oil or gas shall continue in effect as to the land committed so long as the lease remains subject to the plan, provided oil or gas is discovered under the plan prior to the expiration date of the primary term of such lease.

[4] For extension of lease (a) because of suspension of operations and production, see § 191.26 of this title; (b) by payment of compensatory royalty, see § 192.8; (c) committed to communitization or drilling agreement, see § 192.22; (d) used for subsurface storage, see § 192.25; (e) segregated by assignment, see § 192.144.

§ 192.123 Extension of lease eliminated from cooperative or unit plan or communitization or drilling agreement and of lease in effect at termination of such plan or agreement. Any lease or portion thereof eliminated from any approved or prescribed cooperative or unit plan or from any communitization or drilling agreement authorized by the act, and any lease in effect at the termination of such plan or agreement, unless relinquished, shall continue in effect for the original term of the lease, or for two years after its elimination from the plan or agreement or the termination thereof, whichever is the longer, and so long thereafter as oil or gas is produced in paying quantities.

ASSIGNMENTS OR TRANSFERS

§ 192.140 Assignments or transfers of leases or interests therein. Leases may be assigned or subleased as to all or part of the leased acreage and as to either a divided or undivided interest therein to any person or persons qualified to hold a lease. Subject to final approval by the Director, Bureau of Land Management, assignments or subleases shall take effect as of the first day of the lease month following the date of filing in the proper land office of all the papers required by §§ 192.141 and 192.142. No assignment will be approved if the assignee is not qualified to take and hold a lease or if his bond is insufficient. An assignment of a separate zone or deposit or of a part of a legal subdivision will not be approved.

§ 192.141 Requirements for filing assignments or transfers. All instruments of transfer of a lease or of an interest therein, including assignments of record title, working, or royalty interests, operating agreements and subleases, must be filed for approval within 90 days from the date of execution and must contain all of the terms and conditions agreed upon by the parties thereto, together with evidence of the qualifications of the assignee or transferee, consisting of the same showing required of a lease applicant by § 192.42 (b) and (c). If a bond is necessary, it must be furnished. Where an assignment does not create separate leases, the assignee, if the assignment so provides, may become a joint principal on the bond with the assignor. If any overriding royalty or payments out of production are created which are not shown in the instrument, a statement must be submitted describing them. Assignments of record title interests must be filed in triplicate. A single executed copy of all other instruments of transfer is sufficient.

The assignor or sublessor and his surety will continue to be responsible for the performance of any obligation under the lease until the assignment or sublease is approved. If the assignment or transfer is not approved, their obligations to the United States shall continue as though no such assignment or transfer had been filed for approval. After approval the assignee or sublessee and his surety will be responsible for the performance of all lease obligations notwithstanding any terms in the assignment or sublease to the contrary.

The lease account must be in good standing when the assignment and bond are filed, or must be placed in good standing before approval will be given.

§ 192.142 Separate assignments required for transfer of record titles to leases. A separate instrument of assignment must be filed for each oil and gas lease when transfers involve record titles. When transfers to the same person, association, or corporation, involving more than one oil and gas lease are filed at the same time for Departmental approval, one request for approval and one showing as to the qualifications of the assignee will be sufficient.

§ 192.143 Effect of assignment of particular tract. When an assignment is made of all or part of the record title to a portion of the acreage in a lease, the assigned acreage becomes segregated into a separate and distinct lease. The assignee becomes a lessee of the Government as to the segregated tract and is bound by the terms of the lease as though he had obtained the lease through an application filed in his own name and the assignment after its approval will be the basis of a new record.

§ 192.144 Extension of leases segregated by assignment. (a) Any lease segregated by assignment, including the retained portion, shall continue in effect for the primary term of the original lease, or for two years after the date of discovery of oil or gas in paying quantities upon any other segregated portion of the original lease, whichever is the longer period.

(b) Undeveloped parts of leases assigned out of leases which are in their extended term because of production shall continue in effect for two years and so long thereafter as oil or gas is produced in paying quantities.

§ 192.145 Royalty interests in oil and gas leases and assignments thereof. Royalty interests in oil and gas leases constitute holdings or control of lands and deposits within the meaning of the first sentence of section 27 of the act. Assignments of such interest must be filed for record purposes in the appropriate district land offices accompanied by a showing by the assignees as to their citizenship and holdings in other oil and gas leases in the state. All assignments of royalty interests must be filed for the record, but only those of more than 1 per cent will be approved and then only after discovery.

TERMINATION OF LEASES

§ 192.160 Relinquishments of leases or portions thereof. A lease or any legal subdivision thereof may be surrendered by the record title holder by filing a written relinquishment, in triplicate, in the proper land office. A relinquishment shall take effect on the date it is filed subject to the continued obligation of the lessee and his surety to make payment of all accrued rentals and royalties and to place all wells on the land to be relinquished in condition for suspension or abandonment in accordance with the regulations and the terms of the lease. A statement must be furnished that all moneys due and payable to workmen employed on the leased premises have been paid.

§ 192.161 Cancellation of lease. Any lease not known to contain valuable deposits of oil or gas may be canceled by the Secretary of the Interior, after giving notice in accordance with section 31 of the act, for default in the performance of any of the terms of the lease if such default continues for the period prescribed in that section after service of notice thereof. Leases known to contain valuable deposits of oil or gas may be canceled only by judicial proceedings in the manner provided in sections 27 and 31 of the act.

OSCAR L. CHAPMAN,
Under Secretary of the Interior.

Whereas, the act of December 3, 1945 (Public Law 289, 79th Congress) provides that any requirement as to the number, position, range of visibility or arc of visibility of navigation lights, required to be displayed by naval vessels under acts of Congress, as enumerated in said act of December 3, 1945, shall not apply to any vessel of the Navy where the Secretary of the Navy shall find or certify that, by reason of special construction, it is not possible with respect to such vessel or class of vessels to comply with statutory requirements as to the number, position, range of visibility or arc of visibility of navigation lights: and

Whereas, a study of the arrangement and position of the navigation lights of the four naval vessels, C-104348, C-104349, C-104350, C-104351, has been made by the Navy Department, and as a result of such study, it has been determined that because of their special construction it is not possible for the four naval vessels designated above to comply with the requirements of the statutes enumerated in said act of December 3, 1945;

Now, therefore I, James Forrestal, Secretary of the Navy, as a result of the aforesaid study do hereby find and certify that naval vessels C-104348, C-104349, C-104350, C-104351, are naval vessels of special construction and that, on such vessels with respect to the position of the masthead light it is not possible to comply with the requirements of the statutes enumerated in the act of December 3, 1945. Further, I do find and certify that it is feasible to locate the masthead light in the afterpart of the vessel approximately fifty (50) feet from the bow at a height of not less than eight (8) feet nor more than thirteen (13) feet above the hull (measured vertically from the main deck to a point abreast the light). I further direct that the aforesaid light shall be located in the manner described and certify that such location constitutes compliance as closely with the applicable statutes as I hereby find to be feasible.

Dated at Washington, D. C., this 14th day of August A. D. 1946.

JAMES FORRESTAL,
Secretary of the Navy.

SOUTHWEST BROADCASTING CO. (KOKO)

PROPOSED TRANSFER OF CONTROL

The Commission hereby gives notice that on September 3, 1946, there was filed with it an application (B5-TC-507) for its consent under section 310 (b) of the Communications Act (47 U. S. C. A. 310) to the proposed transfer of control of The Southwest Broadcasting Company, licensee of Radio Station KOKO, La Junta, Colorado, from Leonard E. Wilson, Elizabeth M. Wilson, O. C. Samuel, and Charles T. Miller to Stanley M. Schultz, B. C. Bulson, L. R. Sanders, James R. Couey, A. G. Mason, R. P. Jones, P. P. Mickelson, E. W. Hinkel, W. S. Azar, E. O. Schoembs, Paul E. Whitesode, D. R. Kennedy, B. H. Shattuck and A. V. Berg (transferees) all of Trinidad, Colorado. The arrangements for transfer of control of Station KOKO are based upon a contract entered into August 7, 1946, between transferors and transferees, pursuant to which the former agreed to sell to the latter 183 shares of the common voting stock (out of 190 such shares issued and outstanding of said company) for a total consideration of $25,950.00, subject to terms and conditions shown more fully in the contract which is on file with the application at the offices of the Commission in Washington, D. Pursuant thereto, the Commission was advised on September 9, 1946 that starting September 5, 1946 notice of the proposed transfer of control of KOKO will be published twice a week for three weeks in the "La Junta Tribune-Democrat", a newspaper of general circulation at La Junta, Colorado in conformity with said rule.

In accordance with the procedure proposed in the Crosley decision and that announced in the Commission's rule, no action will be had upon the Southwest Broadcasting Company application for a period of 60 days from September 5, 1946, within which time other persons desiring to apply for the facilities involved may do so upon the same terms and conditions as set forth in the above-described contract.

FEDERAL POWER COMMISSION.

BONNEVILLE PROJECT

NOTICE OF REQUEST FOR APPROVAL OF RATES AND CHARGES FOR SALE OF POWER FROM BONNEVILLE PROJECT

SEPTEMBER 9, 1946.

Notice is hereby given that the Administrator of the Bonneville Project has filed with the Federal Power Commission for confirmation and approval, pursuant to the provisions of the Bonneville Act (50 Stat. 731), as amended, (1) certain new schedules of rates and charges for electric energy produced at the Bonneville Project, (2) certain modifications of the existing filed general rate schedule provisions, and (3) withdrawal of proposed wholesale power rate Schedule I-1 (Docket No. IT-5999).

The schedule of rates and charges submitted for confirmation and approval are:

WHOLESALE POWER RATE SCHEDULE A-5

Availability. This schedule applies to firm power delivered by the Administrator under appropriate contracts for terms of not less than one year at the power plants, or at a point or points adjacent thereto to be designated by the Administrator.

Power sold under this schedule for direct consumption shall be consumed within fifteen miles of the power plant, and power sold under this schedule for resale shall remain available only to a purchaser the principal part of whose load is consumed within fifteen miles of the power plant.

Rate. Power sold under this schedule shall be at the rate of $14.50 net per year per kilowatt of billing demand, billed monthly at one-twelfth of the annual rate.

Minimum charge. The net minimum monthly charge for service under this schedule shall be one-twelfth of $14.50 per kilowatt of contract demand.

Billing demand. The billing demand shall be the highest of the following demands:

(1) The contract demand.

(2) The highest measured demand for the billing period, adjusted for power factor.

(3) The computed demand for the billing period.

NOTE: Applies only where part of the load is supplied from other sources. See § 2.3 of General Rate Schedule Provisions.

(4) The highest measured demand (before adjustment for power factor) established during the preceding eleven billing periods after excluding (a) all measured demands for the months of May through September, and (b) the ten highest measured demands in each of the other months.

(5) The highest computed demand established during the preceding eleven billing periods after excluding all computed demands for the months of May through September.

Special space heating provision. The total charges for power delivered for resale for electric space heating purposes shall not exceed 4.5 mills per kilowatt-hour. Bills will be rendered monthly without regard to this provision and will be adjusted for the 12-month period ending with June of each year as provided in § 14.1 of the General Rate Schedule Provisions.

Curtailment by purchaser. In the case of purchasers having no source of power for a particular plant or system other than that supplied by the Administrator, purchasing power under contracts which the purchaser has no option of cancelling for a term of ten years or more, payments for power may be curtailed in accordance with this provision. The Minimum Charge and Billing Demand factors (1) and (4) provided for herein will be suspended or curtailed as to such plant or system for any billing period as to which the purchaser has notified the Administrator not less than 30 days prior to the beginning of such billing period that it will be required to suspend or curtail its power load in such amount as the purchaser may specify in its notice; Provided, however, That: obtained by the above calculation, and shall pay three-fourths of the charge otherwise applicable to the power load suspended or curtailed in excess of 16% and up to 24% of the kilowatt-months obtained by the above calculation.

(a) In no event shall any suspension or curtailment be less than 10% of the contract demand;

(b) The total amount of suspensions or curtailments specified in the purchaser's notices, expressed in kilowatt-months, shall not exceed 24% of the kilowatt-months obtained by multiplying the contract demands in effect from time to time over the term of the contract by the number of months each contract demand is effective, assuming, in the absence of express contractual provisions to the contrary, the most recent contract demand to be effective for the balance of the contract term; and

The power load suspended or curtailed shall be determined for each billing period as the difference between: (1) The billing demand determined in accordance with the factors stated under Billing Demand, without consideration of the notice of suspension or curtailment; and (2) the billing demand determined in accordance with the factors stated under Billing Demand, assuming that contract demand and the demand determined in accordance with Billing Demand factor (4) are reduced by the amount of curtailment or suspension which is currently effective, in accordance with notices given.

Subject to the provisions of this section the Administrator will resume in whole or in part the delivery of power load suspended or curtailed pursuant to this provision upon written request of the purchaser given not less than 30 days prior to the date of resumption.

Optional curtailment provision.—Purchasers having no source of power for a particular plant or system other than that supplied by the Administrator, at their option, may contract to pay for power on the following basis:

(1) The purchaser will pay an additional amount of 10% of the rate stated above as an alternative to paying the amounts that might otherwise be due under the rate during periods of curtailment.

(2) In lieu of the above provisions under Curtailment by Purchaser, the following will apply:

(a) For billing periods ending on or before September 30, 1949, the operation of the Minimum Charge and Billing Demand factors (1) and (4) provided for herein will be entirely suspended.

(b) For billing periods ending on or after October 1, 1949, the operation of the Minimum Charge and Billing Demand factors (1) and (4) provided for herein will be suspended or curtailed for any billing period as to which the purchaser has notified the Administrator not less than 30 days prior to the beginning of such billing period that it will be required to suspend or curtail its power load in such amount as the purchaser may specify in its notice: Provided, however, That in no event shall any suspension or curtailment be less than 10% of the contract demand; And provided further, That the total amount of suspensions or curtailments specified in the purchaser's notices, expressed in kilowatt-months, shall not exceed 20% of the kilowatt-months obtained by multiplying the contract demands in effect from time to time over the contract term subsequent to September 30, 1949, by the number of months each such contract demand is effective, assuming in the absence of express contractual provisions to the contrary, the most recent contract demand to be effective for the balance of the contract term.

(c) The billing demand for each billing period as to which notice of suspension or curtailment has been given shall be determined under the provisions of this schedule assuming that (1) contract demand, and (2) the demand determined in accordance with Billing Demand factor (4) are reduced by the amount of curtailment or suspension which is currently effective in accordance with notices given.

(d) Subject to the provisions of subsection (2) (b) of this section the Administrator will resume in whole or in part the delivery of power load suspended or curtailed pursuant to this provision upon written request of the purchaser given not less than 30 days prior to the date of the resumption.

Power factor adjustment. The measured demand, before adjustment for power factor will be increased 1% for each 1% or major fraction thereof by which the average power factor is less than .95 lagging. This adjustment may be waived in whole or in part to the extent that the Administrator determines that a power factor of less than .95 would in any particular case be advantageous to the Government. Unless specifically otherwise agreed, the Administrator shall not be obligated to deliver power to the purchaser at any time at a power factor below .75.

General provisions. Sales of power under this schedule shall be subject to the provisions of the Bonneville Project Act and the General Rate Schedule Provisions effective. • • •

This proposed schedule will cancel Wholesale Power Rate Schedule A–4 except where such schedule is incorporated in existing contracts, and supersedes previously filed Wholesale Power Rate Schedule A–5, notice of which was given July 17, 1946.

WHOLESALE POWER RATE SCHEDULE C–5

Availability. This schedule applies to transmission system firm power delivered by the Administrator under appropriate contracts for terms of not less than one year.

Rate. Power sold under this schedule shall be paid for at the rate of $17.50 net per year per kilowatt of billing demand, billed monthly at one-twelfth of the annual rate.

Minimum charge. The net minimum monthly charge for service under this schedule shall be one-twelfth of $17.50 per kilowatt of contract demand.

Billing demand. The billing demand shall be the highest of the following demands:

(1) The contract demand.

(2) The highest measured demand for the billing period, adjusted for power factor.

(3) The computed demand for the billing period.

NOTE: Applies only where part of the load is supplied from other sources. See § 2.3 of General Rate Schedule Provisions.

(4) The highest measured demand (before adjustment for power factor) established during the preceding eleven billing periods after excluding (a) all measured demands for the months of May through September, and (b) the ten highest measured demands in each of the other months.

(5) The highest computed demand established during the preceding eleven billing periods after excluding all computed demands for the months of May through September.

Special space heating provision. The total charges for power delivered for resale for electric space heating purposes shall not exceed 4.5 mills per kilowatt-hour. Bills will be rendered monthly without regard to this provision and will be adjusted for the 12-month period ending with June of each year as provided in § 14.1 of the General Rate Schedule Provisions.

Curtailment by purchaser. In the case of purchasers having no source of power for a particular plant or system other than that supplied by the Administrator, purchasing power under contracts which the purchaser has no option of cancelling for a term of 10 years or more, payments for power may be curtailed in accordance with this provision. The Minimum Charge and Billing Demand factors (1) and (4) provided for herein will be suspended or curtailed as to such plant or system for any billing period as to which the purchaser has notified the Administrator not less than 30 days prior to the beginning of such billing period that it will be required to suspend or curtail its power load in such amount as the purchaser may specify in its notice: Provided, however, That:

(a) In no event shall any suspension or curtailment be less than 10% of the contract demand;

(b) The total amount of suspensions or curtailments specified in the purchaser's notices, expressed in kilowatt-months, shall not exceed 24% of the kilowatt-months obtained by multiplying the contract demands in effect from time to time over the term of the contract by the number of months each such contract demand is effective, assuming, in the absence of express contractual provisions to the contrary, the most recent contract demand to be effective for the balance of the contract term; and

(c) During the periods of suspension or curtailment the purchaser shall pay one-fourth of the charge otherwise applicable to the power load suspended or curtailed up to 8% of the kilowatt-months obtained by the calculation in (b) above, shall pay one-half of the charge otherwise applicable to the power load suspended or curtailed in excess of 8% and up to 16% of the kilowatt-months obtained by the above calculation, and shall pay three-fourths of the charge otherwise applicable to the power load suspended or curtailed in excess of 16% and up to 24% of the kilowatt-months obtained by the above calculation.

The power load suspended or curtailed shall be determined for each billing period as the difference between: (1) the billing demand determined in accordance with the factors stated under Billing Demand, without consideration of the notice of suspension or curtailment, and (2) the billing demand determined in accordance with the factors stated under Billing Demand, assuming that contract demand and the demand determined in accordance with Billing Demand factor (4) are reduced by the amount of curtailment or suspension which is currently effective, in accordance with notices given.

Subject to the provisions of this section the Administrator will resume in whole or in part the delivery of power load suspended or curtailed pursuant to this provision upon written request of the purchaser given not less than 30 days prior to the date of resumption.

Optional curtailment provision. Purchasers having no source of power for a particular plant or system other than that supplied by the Administrator, at their option, may contract to pay for power on the following basis:

(1) The purchaser will pay an additional amount of 10% of the rate stated above as an alternative to paying the amounts that might otherwise be due under the rate during periods of curtailment.

(2) In lieu of the above provisions under Curtailment by Purchaser, the following will apply:

(a) For billing periods ending on or before September 30, 1949, the operation of the Minimum Charge and Billing Demand factors (1) and (4) provided for herein will be entirely suspended.

(b) For billing periods ending on or after October 1, 1949, the operation of the Minimum Charge and Billing Demand factors (1) and (4) provided for herein will be suspended or curtailed for any billing period as to which the purchaser has notified the Administrator not less than 30 days prior to the beginning of such billing period that it will be required to suspend or curtail its power load in such amount as the purchaser may specify in its notice: Provided, however, That in no event shall any suspension or curtailment be less than 10% of the contract demand; and provided further that the total amount of suspensions or curtailments specified in the purchaser's notices, expressed in kilowatt-months, shall not exceed 20% of the kilowatt-months obtained by multiplying the contract demands in effect from time to time over the contract term subsequent to September 30, 1949, by the number of months each such contract demand is effective, assuming in the absence of express contractual provisions to the contrary, the most recent contract demand to be effective for the balance of the contract term.

(c) The billing demand for each billing period as to which notice of suspension or curtailment has been given shall be determined under the provisions of this schedule assuming that (1) contract demand, and (2) the demand determined in accordance with Billing Demand factor (4) are reduced by the amount of curtailment or suspension which is currently effective in accordance with notices given.

(d) Subject to the provisions of subsection (2) (b) of this section the Administrator will resume in whole or in part the delivery of power load suspended or curtailed pursuant to this provision upon written request of the purchaser given not less than 30 days prior to the date of resumption.

Power factor adjustment. The measured demand, before adjustment for power factor, will be increased 1% for each 1% or major fraction thereof by which the average power factor is less than .95 lagging. This adjustment may be waived in whole or in part to the extent that the Administrator determines that a power factor of less than .95 would in any particular case be advantageous to the Government. Unless specifically otherwise agreed, the Administrator shall not be obligated to deliver power to the purchaser at any time at a power factor below .75.

General provisions. Sales of power under this schedule shall be subject to the provisions of the Bonneville Project Act and the General Rate Schedule Provisions effective. • • •

This proposed schedule will cancel Wholesale Power Rate Schedule C–4 except where such schedule is incorporated in existing contracts, and supersedes previously filed Wholesale Power Rate Schedule C–5, notice of which was given July 17, 1946.

WHOLESALE POWER RATE SCHEDULE E–4

Availability. This schedule applies to at-site and transmission system firm power delivered to purchasers for resale and for irrigation and drainage pumping service.

Rate. Power shall be sold under this schedule at the following monthly rate applied separately to each separate electric system served, and within each system, separately to (1) power other than for irrigation and drainage pumping and (2) power for irrigation and drainage pumping:

Demand Charge: 75¢ net per kilowatt of billing demand.

Energy Charge:

First 200 kilowatt-hours per kilowatt of billing demand at 2 mills net per kilowatt-hour,

Additional kilowatt-hours at 1 mill net per kilowatt-hour.

Provided, That any separate billing shall not be less than 90% of the amount resulting from the application of the above charges to the entire requirements for the system or use to which the billing applies, and

Provided further, That, for a developmental period extending until (1) four years after cessation of present hostilities between the United States and Germany and Japan, or (2) three years after the date service is first rendered by the Administrator to a separate system, whichever is the later date, bills for power supplied to public bodies and cooperatives for other than irrigation and drainage pumping shall not exceed the higher of (1) 3.5 mills times the number of kilowatt-hours supplied or (2) 3.5 mills times 90% of the entire energy requirements of the system other than for irrigation and drainage pumping plus, in each case, any increase in demand charge due to power factor adjustment.

The 90% in each of the above provisos shall be subject to an appropriate adjustment in any case in which a purchaser is compelled to generate or purchase energy because of inability to obtain it from the Administrator.

Billing demand. I. For power other than for irrigation and drainage pumping the billing demand under this rate schedule shall be the higher of the following demands:

(1) The highest measured demand for the billing period adjusted for power factor;

(2) 80% of the highest measured demand after adjustment for power factor during the preceding eleven months.

II. For power for irrigation and drainage pumping the billing demand under this schedule shall be the highest measured demand for the billing period adjusted for power factor. In the case of distributors purchasing power under this schedule for resale to ultimate consumers, separate metering of power resold for irrigation pumping and drainage pumping may be impractical. In this event the purchaser shall submit to the Administrator data as to the connected load, energy consumption, power factor, and method of operation of the individual pumping installations, determined on the basis of suitable field tests. The measured demand, energy consumption and power factor of the combined pumping loads, with suitable allowances for losses between the point of supply and the point of delivery to ultimate consumers, shall be estimated on the basis of such data.

Special irrigation and drainage pumping provision. Irrigation and drainage pumping power will be provided on a firm power basis during the period May 1 through September 30 of each year, which period is hereafter called the "irrigation season." For the balance of the year service may be restricted at the discretion of the Administrator, except that drainage pumping power purchasers will not be restricted for periods exceeding a total of four hours in any one day. The Administrator will give such advance notice of any restrictions as is practicable, and will designate in advance the hours of the day when service to drainage pumping power purchasers is subject to restriction.

The purchaser will be billed monthly for irrigation and drainage pumping power in accordance with the rate specified herein except that:

(1) The total charges for such power during the "irrigation season" plus the demand charges for such power for months in the calendar year not included in the "irrigation season" shall not exceed $6.00 per kilowatt of the maximum billing demand during the calendar year. When the monthly demand and energy charges during the "irrigation season" plus the demand charges for other months in the calender year total $6.00 per kilowatt of such maximum billing demand, no further monthly charges will be billed during such "irrigation season" and no demand charges will be billed during the calendar year after the end of the "irrigation season," unless a higher billing demand occurs.

(2) In the case of purchasers whose billings during the calendar year are not affected by provision (1) above, the total demand charges for irrigation and drainage pumping power during the calendar year shall not exceed $4.50 per kilowatt of the maximum billing demand during the calendar year. The demand charge will be billed monthly at the rate of 75¢ per kilowatt of billing demand until the maximum annual demand charge has been paid, after which no further demand charges will be billed during the balance of the calendar year for such power unless a higher billing demand occurs.

Notwithstanding any other provisions of this schedule, the Administrator may include in contracts with purchasers of irrigation and drainage pumping power a provision requiring a minimum annual charge for such power based on load factor. At the end of the calendar year the purchaser shall be billed for any amount by which the total previous billings for the year fail to equal such required minimum annual charge.

Special space heating provisions. The total charges for power delivered for resale for electric space heating purposes shall not exceed 4.5 mills per kilowatt-hour. Bills will be rendered monthly without regard to this provision and will be adjusted for the 12-month period ending with June of each year as provided in § 14.1 of the General Rate Schedule Provisions.

Power factor adjustment. The measured demand, before adjustment for power factor, will be increased 1% for each 1% or major fraction thereof by which the average power factor is less than .95 lagging. This adjustment may be waived in whole or in part to the extent that the Administrator determines that a power factor of less than .95 would in any particular case be advantageous to the Government. Unless specifically otherwise agreed, the Administrator shall not be obligated to deliver power to the purchaser at any time at a power factor below .75.

Change to kilowatt-year rate schedule. Upon written application to the Administrator, any purchaser who has contracted for service under this rate schedule may change, under an appropriate new contract for the remainder of the original contract term, to the kilowatt-year schedule which is applicable subject to provisions of § 10.1 of the General Rate Schedule Provisions effective. • • •

General provisions. Sales of power under this schedule shall be subject to the provisions of the Bonneville Project Act and the General Rate Schedule Provisions effective. • • •

This proposed schedule will cancel Wholesale Power Rate Schedule E–3 except where such schedule is incorporated in existing contracts, and will supersede proposed wholesale Power Rate Schedule I–1.

WHOLESALE POWER RATE SCHEDULE F–4

Availability. This schedule applies to at-site and transmission system firm power delivered by the Administrator under appropriate contracts.

Rate. Power shall be sold under this schedule at the following monthly rate applied separately to each separate electric system served.

Demand Charge: 75¢ net per kilowatt of billing demand.

Energy Charge: First 360 kilowatt-hours per kilowatt of billing demand at 2.5 mills net per kilowatt-hour.

Additional kilowatt-hours at 1.0 mill net per kilowatt-hour.

If the number of kilowatt-hours billed at 1.0 mill per kilowatt-hour during any billing period is less than the number of kilowatt-hours resold by the purchaser to its customers during such period, for use in excess of 50% load factor or for off-peak use, at 2.5 mills or less per kilowatt-hour under rate schedules agreed to by the Administrator, the purchaser shall be entitled to a credit of 1.5 mills times the amount by which the kilowatt-hours so sold exceed the kilowatt-hours billed at 1.0 mill.

Minimum charge. The total net minimum monthly charge for service under this schedule shall be the higher of (1) 75¢ per kilowatt of contract demand, or (2) 75% of the highest demand charge billed during the preceding eleven months. The Administrator may include in contracts for the sale of power under this rate schedule a provision requiring a higher minimum charge based on load factor.

Billing demand. The billing demand under this rate schedule shall be the highest of the following demands:

(1) The contract demand.

(2) The highest measured demand for the billing period, adjusted for power factor.

(3) The computed demand for the billing period.

NOTE: Applies only when part of the load is supplied from other sources. See § 2.3 of General Rate Schedule Provisions.

Special space heating provision. The total charges for power delivered for resale for electric space heating purposes shall not exceed

4.5 mills per kilowatt-hour. Bills will be rendered monthly without regard to this provision and will be adjusted for the 12-month period ending with June of each year as provided in § 14.1 of the General Rate Schedule Provisions.

Power factor adjustment. If the average power factor at which power is delivered to the purchaser during the billing period is .85 or more, no adjustment will be made in the registered kilowatt demand. If such average power factor is less than .85, then the registered kilowatt demand shall be adjusted by multiplying by .85 and dividing the result by the average power factor. This adjustment may be waived in whole or in part to the extent that the Administrator determines that a power factor of less than .85 would in any particular case be advantageous to the Government. Unless specifically otherwise agreed, the Administrator shall not be obligated to deliver power to the purchaser at any time at a power factor below .75.

Change to kilowatt-year rate schedule. Upon written application to the Administrator, any purchaser who has contracted for service under this rate schedule may change, under an appropriate new contract for the remainder of the original contract term, to the kilowatt-year schedule which is applicable subject to provisions of § 10.1 of the General Rate Schedule Provisions effective. • • •

General provisions. Sales of power under this schedule shall be subject to the provisions of the Bonneville Project Act and the General Rate Schedule Provisions effective • • •.

This proposed schedule will cancel Wholesale Power Rate Schedule F–3 except where such schedule is incorporated in existing contracts.

GENERAL RATE SCHEDULE PROVISIONS

1.1 Firm power. Firm power is power which is always available except when operation of the facilities used by the Government to serve the Purchaser is suspended, interrupted, interfered with, or curtailed due to uncontrollable forces as defined herein.

2.1 Contract demand. The contract demand shall be the amount of power that the Administrator agrees to have available for delivery to the purchaser under the conditions stated in the rate schedule. The delivery of power in excess of contract demand shall in no event obligate the Administrator to continue to deliver power in excess of the contract demand. If at any time the Administrator notifies the purchaser that future delivery of power will be restricted, or restricts power delivery to a specific amount which he determines can be made available (not including temporary restrictions made necessary by emergency conditions) then, in determining subsequent bills such restricted demand shall be substituted for any higher ratcheted demand or current computed demand which would otherwise be applicable. This provision shall not be deemed to give the Administrator the right to restrict deliveries below contract demand.

2.2 Measured demand. Measured demand shall mean the purchaser's 30-minute registered demand as of the point of delivery, exclusive of any authorized takings of dump or secondary energy and of any abnormal non-recurring demands due to emergency conditions or causes reasonably beyond the purchaser's control; Provided, however, if the amount of firm power requested by the purchaser's dispatcher and scheduled for delivery by the Administrator exceeds the registered demand in any 30-minute period, then the amount of such scheduled power shall be the measured demand during such period.

If service is rendered to a purchaser at more than one point of delivery, the measured demand shall be determined separately for each point of delivery subject to the provisions of § 5.1 hereof.

In cases where power deliveries by the Administrator involve conditions under which the flow of power at the point or points of delivery cannot be adequately controlled by reason of interconnections with other systems which are in turn interconnected, directly or indirectly, with the Administrator's system, the measured demands will be determined for all delivery points combined on the basis of hourly schedules as mutually agreed upon between the respective dispatchers covering all points of delivery.

The dispatchers shall hold deviations from schedule to a minimum and shall correct therefor as promptly as possible under conditions approximately equivalent to the conditions under which the deviation occurred.

2.3 Computed demand. The computed demand shall be the largest difference during the billing period between the purchaser's 30-minute system load and the load which could have been carried by the purchaser's generating capacity (including assured capacity purchased or leased from others), assuming (a) normal and reasonable utilization, with reference to current load requirements, of the capacity and energy which would have been available based upon the most adverse water conditions of record (or estimated, if adequate records are not available covering a period of twenty years or more) for any period of twelve consecutive months and the most adverse fuel conditions reasonably to be anticipated, and (b) maintenance of reserve generating capacity sufficient to protect adequately the load which could have been carried by the purchaser's generating capacity. The Administrator will publish an interpretation of the methods and factors to be used in the determination of the computed demand under this provision. Each contract in which computed demand may be a factor in determining the billing demand shall incorporate a provision with respect to the principles and procedures to be followed in the calculations of computed demand, and shall also have attached to it as an exhibit a calculation of the computed demand of the purchaser for the period having the highest computed demand during the twelve months immediately preceding the effective date of the contract.

3.1 Cooperative. The term "cooperative" means any form of non-profit-making organization of citizens supplying, or which may be created to supply, members with any kind of goods, commodities, or services, as nearly as possible at cost.

3.2 Public body. The term "public body" means any state, public power district, county, or municipality, including agencies or subdivisions of any thereof.

3.3 Administrator. The term "Administrator" means the Bonneville Power Administrator or such other department, agency or official authorized by law to perform functions now performed by the Administrator, or any of their authorized agents.

4.1 Character of service. Power and energy supplied hereunder shall be 3-phase alternating current at approximately 60 cycles per second, or such other type of service as may be available.

5.1 Point of delivery and delivery voltage. Power and energy shall be delivered to each purchaser at such point or points and such voltage or voltages as are agreed upon by the Administrator and the purchaser. If service is rendered to a purchaser at more than one point of delivery, the amount of the charge for each power delivery shall be computed separately under the applicable rate schedule unless otherwise specifically provided in the contract in cases where (a) delivery at more than one point is advantageous to the Government, or (b) the flow of power at the several points of delivery is reasonably beyond the control of the purchaser. Delivery at more than one voltage shall constitute delivery at more than one point.

6.1 Application of rates during initial operating period. In order to promote the development of new industries, the Administrator, for an initial operating period beginning with the commencement of operation of a new plant or major addition to an existing plant and extending for such period as may be reasonably required by the character of the operation but not to exceed three months, may agree (a) to establish the billing demand for service to such new plant or major addition on a daily basis, or (b) if such new plant or major addition is served by a public body or cooperative purchasing power therefor from the Administrator, to establish that portion of such public body's or cooperative's billing demand which results from service to such new plant or major addition on a daily basis. The initial operating period may, with approval of the Federal Power Commission, be extended beyond the initial three months' period for such additional time as the character of operations may reasonably require. During such initial operating period such rate schedule provisions regarding contract demand, billing demand, and minimum monthly charge as are inconsistent with this section will be inoperative.

7.1 Energy used for experimental purposes. In order to promote experimentation in new processing methods and in the development of new types of load within the market area of the project, the Administrator, for such time as may be reasonably required by the character of the experimentation, but not to exceed six months unless approval of the Federal Power Commission is first obtained, may sell the energy used solely for such experimentation in accordance with Wholesale Energy Rate Schedule H–3.

8.1 Energy supplied for emergency and breakdown use. A purchaser taking firm power shall pay in accordance with Wholesale Energy Rate Schedule H–3 for any energy which has been supplied (a) for an emergency or breakdown use, or (b) following an emergency or breakdown, to be used to replace energy secured from sources other than the Government during such emergency or breakdown.

9.1 Billing. Bills for power shall be rendered monthly and shall be payable at the office of the Administrator. In the event that the billing is for a fraction of a month the Administrator shall make an appropriate adjustment of the charges against the purchaser for such period. Failure to receive a bill shall not release the purchaser from liability for payment. If payment in full is not made on or before the close of business of the thirtieth day after the date of the bill, a delayed payment charge of two per cent (2%) of the unpaid amount of the bill will be made except in the case of bills rendered under contracts with other agencies of the United States.

The Administrator may, whenever a power bill or a portion thereof remains unpaid subsequent to the thirtieth day after the date of the bill, and after giving thirty days' advance notice in writing, cancel the contract for service to the purchaser, but such cancellation shall not affect the purchaser's liability for any charges accrued prior thereto.

Remittances received by mail will be accepted without assessment of the two per cent (2%) delayed payment charge provided the postmark indicates the payment was mailed on or before the thirtieth day after the date of the bill. If the thirtieth day after the date of the bill is a Sunday or a holiday, the next following business day shall be the last day on which payment may be made without the addition of the delayed payment charge.

10.1 Change from one rate schedule to another. When a purchaser changes from one rate schedule to another rate schedule, the demands established under the superseded rate schedule shall be considered in computing bills under the newly elected rate schedule, in the same manner as if they had been established under the newly elected rate schedule.

11.1 Approval of rates. Schedules of rates and charges for electric energy produced at the Bonneville Project and sold to purchasers shall become effective only after confirmation and approval by the Federal Power Commission. Such rate schedules may be modified from time to time by the Administrator subject to confirmation and approval by the Federal Power Commission.

In applying the above formula the meter for measurement of reactive kilovolt-ampere-hours will be ratcheted to prevent reverse registration.

13.1 Uncontrollable forces. The term Uncontrollable Forces means (a) strikes affecting the operation of the purchaser's works or system or other physical facilities upon which such operation is completely dependent, or of physical facilities used by the Government to serve the purchaser, or (b) failure, damage or destruction of such works, system or facilities from causes reasonably beyond the control of the party having jurisdiction thereof, which by the exercise of reasonable diligence such party could not reasonably have been expected to avoid. Each party shall notify the other immediately of any defect, trouble or accident which may in any way affect the delivery of power by the Government to the purchaser. In the event the operations of either party are suspended, interrupted, interfered with, or curtailed due to uncontrollable forces, such party shall exercise due diligence to reinstate such operations with all reasonable dispatch.

13.2 Billing adjustments due to uncontrollable forces. If operation of the customer's works or system or other physical facilities upon which such operation is completely dependent or if operation of physical facilities used by the Government to serve the purchaser is suspended, interrupted, interfered with, or curtailed due to uncontrollable forces, as defined herein, the charges for power shall be appropriately reduced.

14.1 Special space heating provision. This provision shall apply to all distributors who resell electricity to electric space heating consumers. For purposes of this provision an electric space heating consumer is defined as one utilizing electricity for substantially all his space heating requirements.

During July of each year any purchaser of firm power electing to be billed under this provision shall submit, with respect to its space heating load, a statement showing for each of the preceding 12 months the following data:

(a) The number of electric space heating consumers served at the end of each month,

(b) The total kilowatt-hours sold to such consumers in each month,

(c) The estimated kilowatt-hours sold to such consumers for electric space heating in each month,

(d) The estimated energy losses applicable to electric space heating sales between the point of supply and the point of delivery to consumers in each month,

(e) The estimated portion of the purchaser's billing demand in each month caused by the electric space heating uses of space heating consumers.

Data listed under (a), (b), and (c) above shall be subdivided between residential space heating and other space heating consumers. The Administrator will provide the purchaser with a standard method of estimating the data under (c), (d), and (e) above. If such standard method is not used, the purchaser shall submit a statement to the Administrator showing the method used.

From these data the Administrator will determine for each of the 12 months included in the period the bills for power after deducting the space heating load, giving consideration to any additional amounts which would be billed under the dump energy rate schedule. The difference between the firm power bills previously rendered and the amounts which would have been billed after deducting the space heating load will be determined. The purchaser will be credited with (or if service to the purchaser has terminated, will be paid) any amount by which this difference exceeds 4.5 mills per kilowatt-hour for estimated energy resold for electric space heating by space heating consumers after adjustment for losses.

15.1 Determination of estimated billing data. In cases where measured demand and energy purchased must be estimated from information on use of power by ultimate consumers, such as space heating uses and certain types of irrigation and drainage pumping uses, the Administrator shall review the data on consumer use of power submitted by the purchaser, and if any changes are deemed necessary, will advise the purchaser of the changes proposed. In the event that agreement cannot be reached as to the estimated billing demand, energy purchased or power, a binding determination shall be made by a committee composed of one member appointed by the Administrator, one member appointed by the purchaser, and, if necessary, one member selected by the two members so appointed who shall have no direct interest.

Any person desiring to make representation with respect to the foregoing should submit the same on or before November 1, 1946, to the Federal Power Commission, Washington 25, D. C.

Acting Secretary.

COLUMBIA GAS & ELECTRIC CORP.

MEMORANDUM OPINION AND ORDER PERMITTING DECLARATION TO BECOME EFFECTIVE

On August 28, 1946, we issued our order permitting to become effective a declaration of Columbia Gas & Electric Corporation ("Columbia")[1] proposing the issuance and sale at competitive bidding of $77,500,000 principal amount of Debentures due 1971 and $20,000,000 principal amount of Serial Debentures to mature serially at the rate of $2,000,000 principal amount in each of the years 1947 to 1956, inclusive. Our order was subject to the condition that the issue and sale of Debentures should not be consummated until the results of competitive bidding, pursuant to Rule U-50, were made a matter of record and a further order entered, which order might contain such further terms and conditions as might then be deemed appropriate.

The proposed issue and sale of Debentures as noted in our previous finding is part of Columbia's program for refinancing its outstanding securities and for complying with the Commission's Order of November 30, 1944 pursuant to section 11 (b) (1) of the Act directing Columbia to dispose of its interests in substantially all of its subsidiaries other than those engaged in the production, transmission and distribution of gas and businesses incidental thereto. This program provided, among other things, for (a) the sale of Columbia's holdings of the common stock of The Dayton Power and Light Company ("Dayton") and The Cincinnati Gas & Electric Company ("Cincinnati"); (b) the sale of new debentures by Columbia; and (c) the use of the proceeds thus derived for the retirement of Columbia's outstanding debentures, bank loan notes and preferred and preference stocks, and for partially financing the construction requirements of subsidiaries. In total the cash required was estimated at $200,000,000. On June 13, 1946, Columbia disposed of the common stock of Dayton and received therefor approximately $51,500,000. On August 22, 1946, the Commission approved the disposition by Columbia of the common stock of Cincinnati through an underwritten offer to Columbia's common stockholders by means of warrants expiring on September 9, 1946. The proceeds of such sale will amount to approximately $50,500,000, leaving approximately $98,000,000 of Columbia's cash requirements to be supplied principally from the sale of Debentures.

Thus, in furtherance of its program, Columbia on August 30, 1946, in accordance with the authorization granted by our Order of August 28, 1946, publicly invited competitive bids to be submitted on September 9, 1946 for the underwriting of the proposed $77,500,000 principal amount of Debentures due 1971 and $20,000,000 principal amount of Serial Debentures. Pursuant to such invitation, two underwriting syndicates headed, respectively, by Morgan, Stanley & Co., Inc., and First Boston Corporation qualified with the company in accordance with the invitation for bids.

During the week prior to the date the bids were to be submitted, there was a general and sharp decline in stock market prices. The problems presented by this situation were the subject of informal discussions among the investment bankers, representatives of the company and the staff of this Commission. At the suggestion of the investment bankers, the date for opening bids was postponed by the company from September 9 to September 10, 1946. On September 9, 1946, a further severe decline in security prices occurred.

Thereupon, Columbia, after the close of the market on September 9, 1946, filed an application pursuant to Rule U-100 of the Commission's Rules and Regulations promulgated under the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 requesting that the Commission except the proposed sale of the $77,500,000 principal amount of Debentures due 1971 from the competitive bidding requirements of Rule U-50. In its application the company stated that it was of the opinion that a better result might be achieved through negotiation with a group of investment bankers formed from the two groups which had heretofore qualified for bidding. This conclusion was reached after discussions with the bankers and was based on the view that, because of the state of the security market, the size and nature of the issue, and the uncertainty as to the amount of Cincinnati stock which would have to be acquired by the investment bankers,[2] there was a grave possibility that no bids or no satisfactory bids would be received for the Debentures due 1971. In such event Columbia felt that it might be forced to delay the proposed sale of Debentures for three months since its preferred stock is callable only at quarterly dividend dates. Such delay, in addition to involving a possible cost to Columbia in excess of $1,000,000 representing the difference between three months dividends on its preferred stocks and the previously assumed interest on the new debentures, also involved the possibility that, at the end of such period, market conditions would not be improved or might be less favorable.

In the light of the very unusual circumstances of the case, particularly in view of the size and nature of the issue and the prevailing market conditions, the Commission by minute order dated September 10, 1946, granted the application.

Columbia has now filed an amendment setting forth the results of the competitive bidding pursuant to Rule U-50 with respect to the $20,000,000 principal amount of Serial Debentures and the results of the negotiations with respect to the $77,500,000 principal amount of Debentures due 1971. A further hearing having been held before the Commission, we now make the following findings:

The amendment filed by Columbia states that, pursuant to the invitation for competitive bids with respect to this issue, bids for such Serial Debentures were submitted by The First Boston Corporation and by a group of underwriters headed by Morgan, Stanley & Co. Inc., as follows:

Underwriters	Interest rate	Price to company[1] (percent of principal amount)	Average annual cost to company
	Percent		Percent
Morgan, Stanley & Co., Inc.	1⅛	99.052	2.058
The First Boston Corp.	2⅛	99.597	2.203

[1] Plus accrued interest.

The amendment further states that Columbia has accepted the bid of Morgan, Stanley & Co., Inc., for the Serial Debentures as set forth above and that the proposed offering prices to the public and the approximate yields to maturity are as follows:

Maturity	Offering prices per unit (percent of principal amount)	Approximate yield to maturity
1948	101.03	1.35
1949	101.10	1.50
1950	100.87	1.65
1951	100.36	1.80
1953	99.19	2.10
1954	98.35	2.30
1955	97.36	2.50
1956	96.06	2.75

The aggregate of the various offering prices to the public amounts to $19,908,660 for the Serial Debentures, resulting in a difference between the over-all price to the company and the offering prices to the public of $98,260 which represents a spread of .493%.

The amendment further states that as a result of the negotiations with respect to the $77,500,000 of the Debentures due 1971, it was agreed that the Debentures would bear a coupon rate of 3⅛%, and that the price to be paid to the company would be 99% of the principal amount of such Debentures, resulting in an annual cost of 3.1835% of such principal amount to Columbia. It is proposed that the Debentures be offered for sale to the public at the principal amount thereof plus accrued interest from September 1, 1946, resulting in an underwriter's spread equal to 1% of the principal amount of Debentures.

[2] The agreement entered into between Columbia and the underwriters with regard to the sale of the Cincinnati common stock provided that the underwriters would acquire at $26 per share, all of the 2,040,000 shares of common stock of Cincinnati not purchased through the exercise of purchase warrants on or before September 9, 1946. The record indicates that 592,475 shares were purchased through the exercise of warrants, thus requiring the underwriters to purchase 1,447,525 shares.

The record made at the adjourned hearing, in addition to including the terms of the underwriting agreements, set out above, covers the process of negotiation for the Debentures due 1971 between Columbia and the representatives of the underwriting syndicate and the considerations which each gave in arriving at the final agreement. The company indicated that although the price agreed upon was not as favorable as had been originally anticipated, such price was satisfactory, in view of all the circumstances.

On the basis of the entire record herein, we conclude that the declaration, as amended, should be permitted to become effective without the imposition of terms and conditions.

Wherefore, it is ordered, That said declaration, as amended, be, and the same hereby is, permitted to become effective subject to the terms and conditions prescribed in Rule U-24, and that the jurisdiction heretofore reserved over the payment of all legal fees and expenses of counsel in connection with the proposed transaction, including the fees and expenses of counsel for the bidders, be, and the same hereby is, continued.

By the Commission.

AMERICAN GAS AND ELECTRIC CO.

ORDER PERMITTING DECLARATION TO BECOME EFFECTIVE

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission, held at its office in the City of Philadelphia, Pa., on the 11th day of September A. D. 1946.

American Gas and Electric Company ("American Gas"), a registered holding company subsidiary of Electric Bond and Share Company, also a registered holding company, having filed a declaration and amendments thereto, pursuant to the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 and the rules and regulations promulgated thereunder, regarding the following transactions:

On November 27, 1945, American Gas advanced on open account the sum of $750,000 in cash to Kentucky and West Virginia Power Company ("Kentucky"), a wholly owned electric utility subsidiary of American Gas which holds all of Kentucky's bonds and common and preferred stocks. On May 23, 1946, American Gas made a further advance on open account of $750,000 in cash to Kentucky. Such advances carried no interest and were for the stated purpose of enabling Kentucky to meet emergencies arising from its construction requirements in connection with its rural extension program. The declarant states that the above described advances were made pursuant to Rule U-45 (b) (3) promulgated under the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935.

Kentucky now has 26,179 authorized but unissued shares of common stock of the par value of $25. As a step toward the eventual recapitalization of Kentucky, and prior to an increase in the number of authorized shares of its common stock, the $1,500,000 owed American Gas by Kentucky would be converted into a capital contribution. American Gas would, from time to time, but prior to December 31, 1947, make additional cash capital contributions of, but not to exceed, $2,250,000, or an aggregate total of $3,750,000.

When said declaration, as amended, shall have become effective, it is proposed that the advances already made of $1,500,000 be transferred on the books of Kentucky from "Advances from Associated Companies" to "Capital Surplus" and as further cash capital contributions are made they also be credited by Kentucky to its Capital Surplus Account. Such conversions of cash advances into capital contributions and such further cash capital contributions, together aggregating $3,750,000, would be made with the understanding between American Gas and Kentucky that when Kentucky is recapitalized, such capital contributions would be added to Kentucky's Common Stock Account by a transfer from its Capital Surplus Account. Such a recapitalization and related transactions, when and if proposed, would be the subject of a future application or declaration to the Commission.

The said declaration having been filed on the 1st day of May, 1946, and the last amendment thereto having been filed on August 1, 1946, and notice of said filing having been duly given in the form and manner prescribed by Rule U-23 promulgated pursuant to said act, and the Commission not having received a request for a hearing with respect to said declaration within the period specified in said notice, or otherwise, and not having ordered a hearing thereon; and

The Commission finding with respect to said declaration that the requirements of the applicable provisions of the act and rules thereunder are satisfied and deeming it appropriate in the public interest and in the interest of investors and consumers that said declaration be permitted to become effective;

It is hereby ordered, Pursuant to said Rule U-23 and the applicable provisions of the act, and subject to the terms and conditions prescribed in Rule U-24, that the said declaration be, and the same hereby is, permitted to become effective forthwith.

By the Commission.

RIVAL MFG. CO.

ADJUSTMENT OF CEILING PRICES

For the reasons set forth in an opinion issued simultaneously herewith and filed with the Division of the Federal Register, and pursuant to sections 15 and 16 of Revised Supplementary Order No. 119, It is ordered, That Order No. 169 under sections 15 and 16 of Revised Supplementary Order No. 119 be amended in the following respects:

1. Paragraph (a) is amended to read as follows:

(a) Manufacturers' ceiling prices. Rival Manufacturing Company, 2423 East 15th Street, Kansas City, Missouri, may compute its adjusted ceiling prices for all juice extractors of its manufacture by increasing by 11 percent the ceiling prices to each class of purchaser as established by Maximum Price Regulation No. 188.

As used in this paragraph "ceiling prices as established under Maximum Price Regulation No. 188", shall mean the ceiling prices established under that regulation without the inclusion in those ceiling prices either directly or indirectly of any adjustment, either individual or industry-wide.

2. Paragraph (b) is amended to read as follows:

(b) Resellers' ceiling prices. Resellers of an article which the manufacturer has sold at a price adjusted in accordance with the provisions of this order shall determine their ceiling prices as follows:

If resellers' ceiling prices are established on a dollar and cents basis by an order issued under Maximum Price Regulation No. 188, the ceiling prices for resellers so established may be increased by 11 percent.

If resellers' ceiling prices are established under the General Maximum Price Regulation, a reseller shall calculate his ceiling price by adding to his invoice cost the same percentage markup which he has on the "most comparable article" for which he has a properly established ceiling price. For this purpose the "most comparable article" is the one which meets all of the following tests:

(1) It belongs to the narrowest trade category which includes the article being priced.

(2) Both it and the article being priced were purchased from the same class of supplier.

(3) Both it and the article being priced belong to a class of articles to which, according to customary trade practices, an approximately uniform percentage markup is applied.

(4) Its net replacement cost is nearest to the net cost of the article being priced.

The determination of a ceiling price in this way need not be reported to the Office of Price Administration; however, each seller must keep complete records showing all the information called for by OPA Form 620-759 with regard to how he determined his ceiling price, for so long as the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended, remains in effect.

If the maximum retail price cannot be determined under the above method the reseller shall apply to the Office of Price Administration for the Establishment of a ceiling price under § 1499.3 (c) of the General Maximum Price Regulation. Ceiling prices established under that section will reflect the supplier's prices as adjusted in accordance with this order.

This amendment shall become effective as of the 20th day of April, 1946.

Issued this 16th day of September 1946.

That Revised Order 219 under Maximum Price Regulation No. 64 is amended in the following respects:

1. Paragraph (a) is amended to read as follows:

225-64	Gas range	157.25	161.00	165.25	168.75

These prices include delivery and installation. If the retail dealer does not provide installation he shall compute his maximum price by subtracting $9.00 in the case of bungalow ranges and $6.00 in the case of gas ranges not of the bungalow type from his maximum price as shown above for sales on an installed basis. If the retail dealer sells a stove equipped at the factory with any of the items listed below, he may add to the applicable maximum price for the stove shown above an amount no greater than that set forth below opposite that item of equipment:

2. Paragraph (c) is amended to read as follows:

(c) The manufacturer shall, before delivering any range covered by this order, after the effective date thereof, attach securely to the inside oven door panel a label which plainly states the applicable OPA retail ceiling prices established by this order for sales of the range to ultimate consumers in each zone together with a list of the states included in each zone. The label shall also state that the retail prices shown thereon include the Federal excise tax, delivery and installation, and that if the seller does not provide installation the maximum price is $9.00 less than the price shown on the label in the case of bungalow ranges and $6.00 less than the price shown on the label in the case of gas ranges not of the bungalow type.

3. A new paragraph (e) is added to read as follows:

(e) Relationship to Maximum Price Regulation No. 64. All the provisions of Maximum Price Regulation No. 64 continue to apply to sales of articles covered by this order except to the extent that they are modified by this order. The ceiling prices established by this order have been determined in accordance with sections 11a and 11b of that regulation and may not, therefore, be increased under those sections.

4. Paragraph (e) is redesignated paragraph (f).

This amendment shall become effective on the 17th day of September 1946.

DOMESTIC LEATHER PRODUCED FROM IMPORTED RAW STOCK

ADJUSTMENT OF MAXIMUM PRICES

For the reasons set forth in an opinion issued simultaneously herewith and filed with the Division of the Federal Register, and pursuant to section 19 of Maximum Price Regulation 61, it is ordered:

(a) Applicability. This order applies to all leather specified in Schedule A tanned in the continental United States.

(b) Adjustment of maximum prices. On and after September 13, 1946, the maximum price of any leather specified in this order, may be adjusted as follows:

(i) The seller, except one whose maximum price is determined pursuant to section 6 (d) or 7 (a) of Maximum Price Regulation 61 shall determine his total invoice price (which shall not exceed the sum of his maximum prices per unit determined or established for such items of leather under the applicable section of Maximum Price Regulation 61 and before any adjustment of such maximum prices pursuant to any order issued under the regulation) and may add to such total invoice price an amount not to exceed the applicable adjustment permitted by Schedule A of this order.

(ii) A seller whose maximum price is determined under section 6 (d) of Maximum Price Regulation 61 may add the 7½% markup specified in that section to his supplier's unadjusted invoice price (not to exceed his supplier's unadjusted maximum price) and may then add the applicable adjustment provided by Schedule A of this order.

SCHEDULE A

How to apply the adjustment permitted by this schedule. When the unadjusted selling price is 80 cents or less per square foot, the seller may add the amount specified in Column D (the total of the amounts permitted by Columns B and C).

When the unadjusted selling price is more than 80 cents per square foot, the seller may add the amount permitted by Column D to the first 80 cents of the unadjusted selling price per square foot and may add only the amount permitted by Column C to that portion of the unadjusted selling price which is in excess of 80 cents per square foot.

The appropriate percentage figures stated in Column B and Column D and the type of leather shall be inserted in the appropriate blank spaces in the statement required to be shown on invoices pursuant to the provisions of paragraph (d) of this order.

Column A Type of leather produced from the specified imported raw stock	Column B OPA adjustment charge, Order No. 16	Column C OPA adjustment charge, Revised Order No. 14	Column D Total adjustment
	Percent	Percent	Percent
Leather produced from imported raw coarse, woolskins and imported raw hair sheepskins other than Paprahs and Paprah slats	50	6	56
Glove and other leather produced from imported raw Paprah hair sheepskin and Paprah slats	26	6	32
Goat and kid leather produced from imported raw goatskins and imported raw kidskins	40	6	46
Kangaroo and wallaby leather produced from imported raw kangaroo skins and imported raw wallaby skins	45	6	51
Buck and other leather produced from South American deerskins	45	6	51

To illustrate: Assume a sale of 1,000 square feet of kid leader specified in this order at $1.25 per square foot (unadjusted maximum price established or determined under the applicable section of Maximum Price Regulation 61.) The total invoice price of this leather is $1,250.00. Of this amount, $800.00 (80¢ × 1,000 sq. ft.=$800.00) may be increased by 46% (Column D of Schedule A of this order) which is equal to $368.00. The remaining amount of the maximum selling prices, or $450.00 (45¢ (which is the difference between the first 80¢ and the full unadjusted price of $1.25) × 1,000 sq. ft.=$450.00) may be increased by 6% (Column C of Schedule A of this order) resulting in $27.00. The total amount of the adjustment under this order for this sale is $395.00. To obtain the adjustment the invoice would have to include the following statement:

1,000 sq. ft. AA gold kid @ $1.25 per sq. ft	$1,250.00
OPA total adjustment charge of 46% per sq. ft. subject to 80 cent limit, Order No. 16, and of 6% on selling price in excess of 80 cents per square foot, Revised Order No. 14, MPR 61 for kid leather	395.00
	1,645.00

(c) Tanners' imported raw stock report. No tanner may sell or deliver any leather specified in this order at a maximum price adjusted pursuant to the provisions thereof, unless he has mailed a report on or before the 5th day of each month to the Leather, Furs and Fibers Branch, Consumer Goods Price Division, Office of Price Administration, Washington 25, D. C., on the form set forth in Appendix B of Maximum Price Regulation 61 setting forth the tanner's imported raw stock position for the calendar month preceding the date of filing.

(d) Invoice requirements. No seller (except one who sells under Section 9 of Maximum Price Regulation 61) may sell or deliver any leather specified in this order at a maximum price adjusted pursuant to the provisions thereof, unless, in connection with each sale or delivery, the seller furnishes to the purchaser an invoice or similar document showing, in addition to all other information required by section 12 of Maximum Price Regulation 61, the following:

(i) The total invoice price exclusive of the adjustment authorized by this or by any other order issued under Maximum Price Regulation 61.

(ii) The percentage by which he has increased the total invoice price pursuant to the provisions of this order. If the selling price is 80 cents or less per square foot, the percentage shall be designated on the invoice as: "OPA total adjustment charge of ____%, including 6%, Revised Order No. 14, and ____%, Order No. 16, MPR 61 for _____ leather." If the selling price is more than 80 cents per square foot, the percentage by which the total invoice price has been increased shall be designated as: "OPA total adjustment charge of ____% per square foot subject to 80 cent limit, Order No. 16, and of 6% on selling price in excess of 80 cents per square foot, Revised Order No. 14, MPR 61 for _____ leather." (The appropriate percentages and type of leather shall be inserted in the proper blank spaces in each of these statements.) Such percentage shall be stated at the foot of the invoice for the item, or, if there is more than one item, then for the entire group of items for which an adjustment is made, in which case the item or entire group of items increased by the same percentage shall be clearly indicated.

(iii) The dollar-and-cents amount of the adjustment added and stated as a separate item.

(e) Discounts. Term discounts shall be deducted from the total amount of the adjusted invoice price.

(f) Amendments. This order may be amended or revoked at any time by the Office of Price Administration.

This order shall become effective September 13, 1946.

NOTE: The reporting provisions of this order have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

JAMES G. ROGERS, Jr.,
Acting Administrator.

OPINION ACCOMPANYING ORDER NO. 16 UNDER MAXIMUM PRICE REGULATION 81

The accompanying order establishes a uniform procedure for adjustment of maximum prices of leathers produced in the continental United States from specified imported raw stock, and increases maximum prices for leathers domestically produced from kangaroo skins, raw kid and raw goatskins, two general categories of hair sheepskins and from South American deerskins.

Prior to June 26, the Combined Hides, Skins and Leather Committee, through price agreement and allocation of raw stock among the member nations, exerted a stabilizing influence not only on the imported raw materials that were under allocation but on other raw skins as well. With the dissolution of this Committee the world market became a free one. Because of the increased purchasing activities of several European countries, and the pressure on the raw skin market from tanners of other types of leather which are in short supply, costs of imported raw stock, such as kangaroo skins, raw goats and raw kidskins, hair sheep skins and others, have increased. This action is designed to provide the adjustments in leather prices which are necessitated by the advances in current raw stock prices over the level in former years. The current position of tanners is such that they are unable to absorb these increased raw material costs as measured by present OPA standards.

The adjustment of 6% previously granted to leather producers was designed to yield to the industry as a whole the same return on investment as had been obtained during a normal pre-war period. Although the purpose of this 6% adjustment was to compensate for recent and expected increases in costs, it did not take into account the recent extreme increases in imported raw stock prices. In order, therefore, to place tanners of leather produced from specified imported raw stock in the same relative position as the remainder of the tanning industry, the present action is necessary. The adjustment previously made for raw goat and kidskin leather in Revised Order 13, revoked by a parallel action, is included in this order. Additions will be made from time to time to the schedule set up in the order to provide for the adjustment of prices of other leathers tanned in large part from imported raw material, where failure to increase prices would result in hardship to an entire segment of the leather industry.

The schedule sets forth an appropriate adjustment factor for each type of leather. The amounts of the adjustment factors are derived from an analysis of the ratio of the imported raw material cost to finished leather selling prices during 1945 and at present. Inasmuch as few actual purchases have been made recently, the current market level is based primarily on offerings rather than on actual sales. In the future, by means of this monthly report required to be filed by tanners actual purchase data will be available for use as the basis for recomputation of the adjustment factors. Since recomputed adjustments will be derived from the average of purchases, firms which pay exorbitant prices for skins will be unable to recoup their additional outlays in the finished leather prices. It is anticipated that this will deter domestic tanners from further inflationary action in bidding up imported raw skin prices.

Schedule "A" of this order sets forth the percentage adjustments permitted on sales of leather tanned from imported raw goat and kid, kangaroo and wallaby, imported raw coarse wool or hair sheepskins (including Paprahs) and South American deerskins. The adjustment of 40% for goatskins is the same as that previously established by Revised Order 13, now revoked. Kangaroo and wallaby leather is adjusted upward 45%, leather produced from imported raw hair sheepskins other than Paprahs, 50%, leather produced from imported raw Paprahs, 26%, and buck and other leather produced from South American deerskins, 45%.

A limitation of 80 cents per square foot is placed on the application of the adjustment factor because most leathers selling above this price have special finishes which are not in proportion to raw skin costs. Raw skin costs are a much smaller percentage of the selling price of such high-priced leather, and the percentage advance on the finished leather prices required to compensate for increased raw material costs is not as high as for lower priced leather. All sellers whose maximum prices are higher than 80 cents per square foot may, however, obtain the full amount of the increase up to the 80-cents limitation.

The dollar amount of the adjustment which any seller (except one whose price is determined under section 7 (a) of Maximum Price Regulation 61) may obtain is computed by applying the percentage of adjustment factor allowed in Column D of Schedule "A" to the invoice price of the leather: Provided, That the per square foot price is less than 80 cents per square foot. If the maximum selling price of the leather is more than 80 cents per square foot the percentage adjustment factor of Column D may be applied only to the first 80 cents of the selling price. The balance of the selling price may be adjusted by 6 per cent, the adjustment specified in Column C of Schedule "A". The total invoice price may not exceed the sum of the maximum prices established or determined under Maximum Price Regulation 61. The amount of the adjustment made pursuant to this order is added at the bottom of the invoice to obtain the adjusted invoice price. The amount of the adjustment in dollars and cents must be stated on the invoice as a separate item and must be accompanied by the appropriate statement in the prescribed form, with the proper percentage and the type of leather for which an adjustment is being made inserted in the appropriate blank spaces in such statement. For this purpose, when making an insertion of the total percentage to be applied to the maximum price of 80 cents or less, the percentage of Column D of Schedule "A" shall be inserted. When stating the unit percentage applicable to the particular leather, the percentage stated in Column B of Schedule "A" shall be inserted.

Term discounts, following established practice, will be deducted from the total amount of the adjusted invoice price whether the adjustments are taken under this order or any of the other orders under Maximum Price Regulation 61 permitting an adjustment of maximum prices.

All the provisions of this order, as revised, and their effect upon business practices, cost practices or methods, or means or aids to distribution in the industry or industries affected have been carefully considered. No provisions which might have the effect of requiring a change in such practices, means, aids or methods established in the industry or industries affected, have been included unless such provisions have been found necessary to achieve effective price control and to prevent circumvention or evasion of this order, Maximum Price Regulation 61 or of the Act. To the extent that the provisions of this revised order compel or may operate to compel changes in business practices, cost practices, or methods, or means or aids to distribution established in the industry or industries affected, such provisions are necessary to prevent circumvention or evasion of this order, Maximum Price Regulation 61 or of the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended.

Insofar as practicable, the Administrator has consulted with representatives of the industry affected by this revised order and has given consideration to their recommendations. In the opinion of the Administrator the maximum prices established by this revised order are fair and equitable to the industry generally and will effectuate the purposes of the Emergency Price Control Act as amended, and Executive Orders 9250, 9328, 9599, 9651, and 9697.

Issued this 13th day of September 1946.

(a) The retail ceiling prices in each zone for a small electrical appliance manufactured by the Cory Corporation, 221 N. La Salle Street, Chicago, Illinois, which is sold under the brand name "Cory" shall be the retail ceiling prices computed in accordance with the provisions of section 4 (c) (1) of Order No. 6 under § 1499.159e of Maximum Price Regulation No. 188 as in effect at the time the manufacturer delivers the article to a purchaser for resale.

(b) The manufacturer shall determine distributors' ceiling prices for sales of articles which the manufacturer sells at increased prices permitted by Order No. 6 under § 1499.159e of Maximum Price Regulation No. 188 or by orders under Revised Supplementary Order No. 119, in accordance with the provisions of those orders on the basis of the uniform retail ceiling prices fixed by this order.

(c) On or after the effective date of this order the manufacturer may not deliver to any purchaser for resale any article for which a uniform ceiling price is fixed by this order unless there is attached to it a retail ceiling price tag or label stating the manufacturer's name or brand name, the model number or designation and the uniform retail ceiling price fixed by this order for sales in each zone or in the zone in which the article will be sold at retail.

OPINION ACCOMPANYING ORDER 31 UNDER ORDER 6 UNDER § 1499.159e OF MAXIMUM PRICE REGULATION 188

The accompanying order establishes uniform retail ceiling prices for sales of small electrical appliances manufactured by Cory Corporation, 221 N. LaSalle Street, Chicago 1, Illinois, and which are sold under the brand name "Cory".

The order is issued under section 4 (a) of Order No. 6 under § 1499.159e of Maximum Price Regulation No. 188, hereinafter referred to as Order No. 6, pursuant to an application of the manufacturer. That section of Order No. 6 provides for the establishment of uniform retail ceiling prices for any article covered by the order whenever it appears that (1) the article is identified by a company or brand name, (2) the manufacturer's products were sold at substantially uniform prices at retail prior to April 1, 1942, and (3) the price proposed by the manufacturer is in line with the retail ceiling prices which would be otherwise determined in accordance with the provisions of the order.

From the information furnished by the manufacturer it appears that small electrical appliances sold by the manufacturer under the brand name "Cory" were generally sold at retail at substantially uniform prices prior to April 1, 1942. The prices which the manufacturer has proposed as the uniform retail ceiling prices are in line with the retail ceiling prices which would be otherwise determined under Order No. 6. The practical effect of the accompanying order is to establish the same retail ceilings for sales through chain stores and mail order houses as are established for sales through other retail outlets.

Except as the accompanying order modifies the provisions of Order No. 6, its provisions apply to all persons and sales of articles covered by the accompanying order.

By its own terms Order No. 23 to Order No. 6 under § 1499.159e of Maximum Price Regulation No. 188 has no application to articles subject to orders issued under Order No. 6 after May 20, 1946. However, in his application the manufacturer indicated that he was confused in that he thought Order No. 23 might have some application to his products. Therefore the accompanying order expressly provides that Order No. 23 has no application to articles covered by the accompanying order.

OPINION ACCOMPANYING AMENDMENT 42 TO ORDER 1548 UNDER MAXIMUM PRICE REGULATION 120

By reason of the issuance of Order No. 1548 under Maximum Price Regulation No. 120, H. B. Mellott has been given the permission to charge deep mine maximum prices for a blended mixture of strip-mined and deep-mined coal when prepared at the Broad Top Mining Company's Preparation Plant at Riddlesburg, Pennsylvania, on the H. & B. T. However, since an amendment to Revised Order No. 1438 is being issued simultaneously herewith to include the above mentioned preparation plant, the said Order No. 1548 is being amended to delete therefrom the following listing "H. B. Mellott, Glendale No. 1 and Pettit No. 1 Mines, Mine Index Numbers 5159 and 5553 respectively, and Broad Top Mining Company's Preparation Plant at Riddlesburg, Pennsylvania, on the H. & B. T."

OPINION ACCOMPANYING ORDER 1 UNDER ORDER 14 UNDER § 1499.159e OF MAXIMUM PRICE REGULATION No. 188

Amendment No. 1 to Order No. 14 under § 1499.159e of Maximum Price Regulation No. 188 modified the provisions of the order which provided for the determination of resellers' ceiling prices of certain clocks and watches. This was done so that Order No. 14 was brought into conformity with section 2 (t) of the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended which provides that "in establishing maximum prices applicable to wholesale or retail distribution, the Administrator shall allow the average current cost of acquisition of any commodity, plus such average percentage discount or markup as was in effect on March 31, 1946."

Section 7 of Order No. 14 provides that unless otherwise authorized by the Office of Price Administration no manufacturer may, on or after June 12, 1946, ship to any purchaser a clock or watch for which the retail ceiling price is fixed by the order unless there is attached to it a retail ceiling price tag or label.

The Telechron, Incorporated, Ashland, Massachusetts, has applied for an order under this section extending its time to comply with the section because in view of the short period of time between the issuance and effective date of the amendment to Order No. 14, it was not in a position to comply immediately with the amended tagging requirements.

The accompanying order therefore extends the company's time to September 23, 1946 to tag the clocks and watches covered by this order with the new retail prices. By that time the company should have received new tags from its supplier, and have had time to make the necessary changes.

The order also makes appropriate provision to ensure that purchasers for resale may sell at the new ceiling prices and not the old even though the old prices appear on the tags. Retailers are permitted to substitute the new for the old prices. The order is therefore in conformity with section 2 (t) mentioned above.

For the reasons set forth in an opinion issued simultaneously herewith and filed with the Division of the Federal Register, and pursuant to section 7 of Order No. 14 under § 1499.159e of Maximum Price Regulation No. 188, It is ordered:

(a) Extension granted to manufacturer. The General Electric Company, Bridgeport, Connecticut, may continue to sell and deliver up to and including September 23, 1946, all clocks and watches of its manufacture covered by Order No. 14 under § 1499.159e of Maximum Price Regulation No. 188, which are tagged with their retail ceiling prices as computed under the provisions of Order No. 14 under § 1499.159e of Maximum Price Regulation No. 188 as in effect on August 18, 1946.

(b) Notification to purchasers for resale. (1) The manufacturer shall notify purchasers for resale of the articles covered by this order in writing that the retail ceiling price tags affixed to those articles in accordance with paragraph (a) above contain the retail ceiling prices as computed under the provisions of Order No. 14 under § 1499.159e of Maximum Price Regulation No. 188 as in effect on August 18, 1946; and shall also notify such purchasers of the proper retail ceiling prices as of the date of delivery. This notice may be given in any convenient form.

(2) A purchaser for resale at wholesale of the articles covered by this order who receives a notice provided for in (1) above shall notify his customers in writing that the retail ceiling price tags affixed to those articles in accordance with paragraph (a) above contain the retail ceiling prices as computed under the provisions of Order No. 14 under § 1499.159e of Maximum Price Regulation No. 188 as in effect on August 18, 1946; and shall also notify such purchasers of the proper retail ceiling prices as of the date of delivery. This notice may be given in any convenient form.

(c) What prices may be charged. A purchaser at wholesale of an article covered by this order who has received a notice in accordance with the provisions of paragraph (b) hereof shall calculate his ceiling price in accordance with the provisions of Order No. 14 under § 1499.159e of Maximum Price Regulation No. 188 based on the retail ceiling price stated in the said notice to be the retail ceiling price in effect on the date of delivery. MARKEL ELECTRIC PRODUCTS, INC.

ADJUSTMENT OF MAXIMUM PRICES

For the reasons set forth in an opinion issued simultaneously herewith and filed with the Division of the Federal Register and pursuant to the provisions of section 2 of Supplementary Order No. 142, It is ordered:

(a) Order No. 203 under Revised Supplementary Order No. 119, issued May 16, 1946, is superseded by Order No. 196 under Supplementary Order No. 142, insofar as it applies to the sale of electric lighting fixtures.

(b) The maximum prices for sales by Markel Electric Products, Inc., Buffalo, New York, of electric lighting fixtures subject to the coverage of Revised Maximum Price Regulation 136, and adjustment provisions of Supplementary Order No. 142 shall be determined as follows: The manufacturer shall increase his maximum prices for these items in effect on October 1, 1941, by 18.9%, and shall deduct from the resultant prices all discounts, allowances and other deductions in effect to a purchaser of the same class on October 1, 1941.

(c) The maximum prices for sales by resellers of electric lighting fixtures manufactured by Markel Electric Products, Inc., shall be determined as follows: The reseller shall add to the maximum net price he had in effect to a purchaser of the same class the percentage amount by which his net invoiced cost has been increased due to the adjustment granted by this order.

(d) Since the provisions of this order are not intended to reduce properly established maximum prices, the manufacturer, Markel Electric Products, Inc., may continue to use as his maximum prices to each class of purchasers his properly established prices in effect under the applicable maximum price regulation in the event that such prices exceed the prices in effect to each class of purchaser on October 1, 1941, plus the increase provided by this order.

(e) All requests not granted herein are denied.

(f) This order may be revoked or amended by the Price Administrator at any time.

This order shall become effective September 18, 1946.

JAMES G. ROGERS, Jr.,

OPINION ACCOMPANYING ORDER 196 UNDER SUPPLEMENTARY ORDER 142

On May 16, 1946, Order No. 203 under Revised Supplementary Order No. 119 was issued to Markel Electric Products, Inc., Buffalo, New York, allowing the subject company to increase its October 1, 1941, maximum prices on electric lighting fixtures by 18.9% and its October 1, 1941, maximum prices of electric wall heaters by 19.6%. The subject order further provided that resellers of these products covered by Order No. 203 may increase their established prices by the actual dollars-and-cents increase in cost resulting from the adjustment granted Markel Electric Products, Inc.

This Office has been requested by the Markel Electric Products, Inc., that resellers of electric lighting fixtures manufactured by Markel Electric Products, Inc., be permitted to add to their maximum net prices the percentage amount by which their net invoiced cost has been increased as a result of the adjustment granted to their supplier by Order No. 203.

On May 29, 1946, the Office of Price Administration issued Amendment 39 to Revised Maximum Price Regulation 136 which transferred electric lighting fixtures from the jurisdiction of Maximum Price Regulation 591 and places these items under the jurisdiction of Revised Maximum Price Regulation 136. In general, with respect to the cases which have been processed by this Office concerning electric lighting fixtures subject to Revised Maximum Price Regulation 136, resellers of these items have been permitted to increase their established prices by the percentage amount in cost resulting from the adjustment granted to their suppliers. Furthermore, an interim increase granted to the Electric Lighting Fixture Industry by Order No. 667 under Revised Maximum Price Regulation 136 provided for a percentage pass-on by resellers.

Since it is the customary practice for both manufacturers and resellers to sell off the same list prices, to require resellers to add to their maximum prices the dollars-and-cents amount by which their costs have been increased would result in an unbalanced price structure for electric lighting fixtures. Accordingly, resellers are permitted to increase their maximum prices for sales of electric lighting fixtures by the same amount, in percent, by which their net invoiced cost has been increased due to the adjustment granted to the Markel Electric Products, Inc., by this order.

PERMANENTE METALS CORP.

AUTHORIZATION OF MAXIMUM PRICES

For the reasons set forth in an opinion issued simultaneously herewith and filed with the Division of the Federal Register, and pursuant to § 1499.75 (a) (18) of SR 15 to the General Maximum Price Regulation, It is ordered:

(a) Applicability. This order applies only to sales by manufacturers of soda ash to Permanente Metals Corporation, Baton Rouge, Louisiana.

(b) Maximum prices. The maximum prices for a manufacturer's sales of soda ash to Permanente Metals Corporation, Baton Rouge, Louisiana, shall be such manufacturer's maximum selling price, f. o. b. seller's shipping point, as established under the General Maximum Price Regulation, less the average freight absorption incurred by such seller at the plant from which shipment is being made during the three month period immediately preceding his first shipment to Permanente Metals Corporation, Baton Rouge, Louisiana.

(c) Freight and trade practices. The prices adjusted by this order are subject to the same freight and trade practices as prevailed on each seller's sales of soda ash in March 1942 except insofar as they are inconsistent with the provisions of this order.

(d) This order may be revoked or amended at any time.

This order shall become effective September 18, 1946.

JAMES G. ROGERS, Jr.,
Acting Administrator.

OPINION ACCOMPANYING ORDER 29 UNDER § 1499.75 (a) (18) OF SUPPLEMENTARY REGULATION 15 TO THE GENERAL MAXIMUM PRICE REGULATION

This order establishes maximum prices for sales by producers of soda ash to Permanente Metals Corporation, Baton Rouge, Louisiana.

Permanente Metals Corporation is engaged in the production of alumina. Producers of soda ash sell on an f. o. b. basis freight equalized with nearest competitive seller's place of business. There is one producer of soda ash in the immediate vicinity of the buyer.

OPA has rated an application for priority assistance to the buyer. It would be a hardship on the soda ash plant nearest to Permanente to require such plant to ship all of the required soda ash. Consequently, OPA in rating the priority application has apportioned the total amount among various producers. However, these producers by reason of freight equalization would be compelled to absorb freight charges in many cases as large as the actual price of the soda ash sold.

In view of the foregoing, OPA has recommended that these producers be permitted to sell to Permanente on an f. o. b. basis, seller's shipping point, less average freight absorption.

Under the provisions of § 1499.75 (a) (18) of SR 15 to the GMPR ordinarily no adjustment of these producer's prices would be indicated. In view of the extraordinary situation obtaining as regards the supply of alumina and at the recommendation of the OPA, the Administrator deems it advisable to adjust the prices for sales by producers of soda ash to Permanente Metals Corporation so that sales may be made on an f. o. b. basis less average freight absorption.

The application is made under the provisions of Supplementary Order No. 148, and the reasons for the granting of this application are the same as those contained in the opinion accompanying the issuance of the original order. The amendment is necessary because the company has experienced cost increases since Order No. 5 was issued so that its total unit cost to make and sell the articles covered by this order plus the applicable profit factor is above its ceiling price, which is the criterion set forth in Supplementary Order No. 148 for eligibility for adjustment. The reasons set forth in the opinion accompanying Order No. 5 are therefore incorporated herein by reference.

No further adjustment is made by this amendment in regard to Model No. 395 since the original order established its maximum price at the cut-off point permitted by Supplementary Order No. 148.

The only other change by this amendment is that paragraph (g) has been amended so that all the articles covered by this order are excluded from the provisions of a previous adjustment order.

PAUL A. PORTER,

OPINION ACCOMPANYING ORDER NO. 676 UNDER REVISED MAXIMUM PRICE REGULATION 136

The accompanying order provides a permanent price increase factor of 13.5% over base date prices for manufacturers and resellers of construction and road maintenance machinery and equipment. Some interim increases were previously authorized. Amendment 13 to Revised Maximum Price Regulation 136 effective September 28, 1945 provided an interim increase factor of 5% which was applicable until December 31, 1945 (which was thereafter extended to May 15, 1946 by Amendment 26 effective January 16, 1946) and Amendment 33 effective April 10, 1946 increased the percentage factor to 10% and made it applicable until June 15, 1946. As indicated in the statement of considerations accompanying Amendment 33, the Administrator then contemplated a new survey upon which final action for a price increase factor would be predicated. Amendment 43 extended to July 15, 1946, the period during which the interim increase of 10% would be effective and Amendment 46 extended the period indefinitely. The Administrator has now completed the survey contemplated and a consequent price increase factor is therefore set. Concurrently with the issuance of this Order Section 19 (k) of Revised Maximum Price Regulation 136, previously covering these items, is revoked.

A sample of the industry comprising thirty-one representative companies was used as the basis for calculation. The sample was carefully selected to reflect operations of companies both large and small, and in widely separated geographical areas, and having sales covering to a large extent the entire United States.

The calculations were made on the basis of recent operations, the figures for all companies having been submitted for operations covering the last quarter of 1945, which is considered as reflecting normal operations of the industry.

The figures submitted indicate that as of December 31, 1945, and without adjustments, the industry would have required a price increase factor of 10.4% in order to return to it its 1936–1939 ratio of profit to net worth of 13.1%.

Adjustments in these figures were made to reflect labor and material cost increases which have occurred since that date. These material increases are accounted for primarily by higher costs of steel, castings, engines, bearings and power transmission equipment. Expressed as a percentage of sales these upward adjustments are as follows:—Direct material 3.6%; indirect material 0.2%; direct labor 1.4%; indirect labor 1.8%; general and administrative expense 0.4%. The Administrator has also taken into consideration savings which may be expected to occur with the return of more normal operations and a settled labor condition and increased production estimated by the reporting companies. Adjustment was also made to take account of savings which may reasonably be expected to occur in the payment of overtime premiums.

These downward adjustments expressed as a percentage of sales amount to 1.4% for increased labor efficiency, 1.1% for reduction of overtime, and for anticipated increased volume 1.9%.

Of the companies included in the sample, twenty-one whose products equal 87.6% of the total sales of the sample have given authorized wage increases. Further investigation by the Administrator of other companies not included in the sample indicates that producers of at least 80% of the total production of the industry have now given authorized wage increases. In view of the large percentage of production for which approved wage increases have been put into effect and the advantage to be gained from a single uniform price increase, the Administrator finds that this action will promote effective price administration and, also, even though many of those producers who have not now granted price increases fail to follow the actions of other manufacturers in the matter of wage increases, their costs are such that upon individual application they would be entitled to receive relief in excess of the relief that might be granted to the industry as a whole without allowances for these wage increases to the industry.

In view of these facts, therefore, the Administrator has granted a permanent price increase factor of 13.5%.

DOMESTIC SEWING MACHINES

CERTAIN RECONVERSION PRODUCTS

For the reasons set forth in an opinion issued simultaneously herewith and filed with the Division of the Federal Register and pursuant to § 1499.159e of Maximum Price Regulation No. 188, It is ordered:

Order No. 7 under § 1499.159e of Maximum Price Regulation No. 188 is amended in the following respects:

Paragraph (d) is amended by changing the figure therein representing half the industry profit margin for the domestic sewing machine industry from 10.86 percent to 3.23 percent.

This amendment shall become effective on the 23d day of September 1946.

PAUL A. PORTER,
Administrator.

OPINION ACCOMPANYING AMENDMENT NO. 5 TO ORDER NO. 7 UNDER § 1499.159e OF MAXIMUM PRICE REGULATION NO. 188

Order No. 7 under § 1499.159e of Maximum Price Regulation No. 188 established a method by which manufacturers of certain types of reconversion products covered by Maximum Price Regulation No. 188 could obtain appropriate adjustments under the reconversion pricing program of this Office. The method established allowed manufacturers of the articles covered by Order No. 7 to be granted a reconversion increase based upon those material and labor cost increases cognizable by this Office under the reconversion pricing program and the higher of either the manufacturer's own average net profit margin for the period 1936–1939 or one-half the average industry profit margin during the same period. To permit the application of the method to each of the articles covered by the order, Order No. 7 also listed half the industry average profit margin for the period 1936–1939 for each industry producing the articles covered by the order.

Domestic sewing machines are one of the reconversion articles covered by Order No. 7. Accordingly, the order listed a percentage factor purportedly equal to half the industry average profit margin on sales (before income taxes) for the years 1936–1939 for the domestic sewing machine industry. The percentage factor listed was computed in part on the basis of actual income data from one company and in part from income data made available by the Bureau of Internal Revenue on the overall income of the other manufacturers in the industry for the years 1936–1939. These data permitted no accurate adjustment for that part of each manufacturer's income derived from sources other than his manufacturing operation. Since the date of issuance of Order No. 7 each of the four manufacturers has submitted to this Office data which permit such an adjustment to be made. When the requisite adjustment is made the industry average profit margin on sales (before income taxes) for the years 1936–1939 is reduced from 10.86 percent to 3.23 percent.

The change made in the profit factor will have no effect on the increases previously allowed two of the manufacturers of domestic sewing machines under Order No. 7 because such increases were based upon the manufacturers' own average base period profit on sales which exceeded half the industry average base period profit on sales.

OPINION ACCOMPANYING AMENDMENT 7 TO ORDER 30 UNDER MAXIMUM PRICE REGULATION NO. 580

The accompanying amendment to Order No. 30 issued to Coopers Incorporated, Kenosha, Wisconsin, under Section 13 of Maximum Price Regulation 580, increases the uniform retail ceiling prices of "Jockey" underwear styles for which the manufacturer has received price increases under Amendment 3 to Revised Supplementary Order 154, and revises paragraph (a) to include all of the manufacturer's cost lines which were covered by the order prior to this amendment. Previously, some of the cost lines covered by the order were not actually listed therein but were merely incorporated by reference to the manufacturer's original application for the order. The revision is made in the interest of a more effective administration of the order.

The amendment also revises the notice provision in paragraph (d).

[MPR 586, Order 6]

MISCELLANEOUS RATES ON FRESH FRUITS AND VEGETABLES STORED IN APPLE HOUSES

For the reasons set forth in the accompanying opinion, and under authority vested in the Price Administrator by section 7 (f) of Maximum Price Regulation 586, it is ordered:

(a) What this order does. This order provides a means whereby cold storage warehousemen affected by Amendment 8 to Supplementary Storage Regulation 1 under Maximum Price Regulation 586 (which establishes a maximum season storage rate on apples, pears, onions, and carrots, at 25 cents per bushel-per-season in the States of Maryland, New York, Pennsylvania, Virginia and West Virginia) may make similar increases in their rates for miscellaneous fresh fruits and vegetables or for the same fresh fruits and vegetables in different containers or stored under slightly different conditions.

(b) Extent of increases. Cold storage warehousemen in the States of Maryland, New York, Pennsylvania, Virginia and West Virginia who store apples, pears, onions or carrots on a per-bushel-per-season basis may increase their rates on other fresh fruits and vegetables, or their rates for storage of apples, pears, onions or carrots in containers other than bushels or for periods other than the customary season, by amounts consistent with an increase in the per-bushel-per-season rate on apples from 20 to 25 cents. In considering consistency with this change it may be considered that the purpose of Amendment 8 was to provide additional revenue for handling.

These increases may be made effective retroactively to dates not earlier than September 1, 1946 consistently with adjustable pricing agreements made under authority of Order No. 5 under section 9 of MPR 586, which was issued and effective August 30, 1946.

(c) Procedure. Increased rates proposed under this Order should be set out in tariff form and filed in triplicate with the Director of the Transportation, Services and Fuel Division, Office of Price Administration, Washington 25, D. C. within twenty days after the effective date of this Order or within ten days after first using the rates, whichever is later. They should be denoted as applications under section 7 of MPR 586 but need not be accompanied by any special justification other than a showing as to how the rates proposed to be advanced were originally related to the per-season apple rates, and how the proposed rates are related to the new per-season apple rates. Sizes and weights of containers should be specified to the extent necessary to compare with bushels of apples. Such supplements or new tariffs may be combined with supplements being filed under the provisions of Order 4 under MPR 586.

(d) Action by the Administrator. At any time within thirty days after receipt of the supplements or new tariffs mentioned above the Administrator may take action to disapprove in whole or in part any rates which appear to exceed levels consistent with Amendment 8.

(e) In respect of rate changes proposed or made pursuant to this order, the provisions of sections 7 and 12 of MPR 586 as to time and manner of filing rate changes are hereby waived and modified insofar as they require any actions or procedures not called for in this order.

This order shall be effective September 23, 1946.

NOTE: All reporting requirements of this order have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

PAUL A. PORTER,
Administrator.

OPINION ACCOMPANYING ORDER 6 UNDER SECTION 7 OF MAXIMUM PRICE REGULATION 586

Amendment 8 to Supplementary Storage Regulation 1 under MPR 586, issued simultaneously with this Order, raises the basic storage and handling rate per-bushel-per-season on apples from 20 cents to 25 cents, applicable in Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, and New York. The same 25 cent rate is made applicable also to pears, onions, and carrots.

Many of the apple houses affected by that Amendment store other fresh fruits and vegetables not named specifically in the Amendment, and also store named fresh fruits and vegetables in different containers and for different periods of time. For example, some apple houses instead of having a flat season rate divide their rates into a "short-hold" rate running to October 1 or November 1, and a "season" rate thereafter, which result in an actual rate a few cents higher than that of the houses which maintain only season rates. The average revenue under the two rates might approximate 20 cents. In such cases it would be proper to increase both rates 5 cents. Generally, apple storage is in substantial quantities but some houses maintain rates for small lots frequently denoted "home use" rates. Consistently with Amendment 8, it would be proper to increase these rates even though they are now higher than 25 cents per-bushel-per-season, except that if the warehouseman elects to take full advantage of Order No. 4 under MPR 586, and assesses a charge of 50 cents per delivery for home-use apples, it would not appear necessary or proper to increase these rates. There are various other rating methods and practices which would require individual analysis and adaptation to the Amendment 8 standard. For that reason this order provides a means whereby the warehousemen may work out their own rate changes applicable to products not specifically covered by Amendment 8, but subject to the same general considerations as apple storage, under a modification of the Section 7 procedure permitting use of the new rates with subsequent review by the Office of Price Administration. It is not the purpose of this Order to increase rates for general cold storage or to increase rates which cover storage only.

The Federal Motor Truck Company, Detroit, Michigan, has applied, pursuant to section 8 of Maximum Price Regulation 610, for maximum prices on its truck chassis models 29M, 29M2, 29MA, 45M, 45M2, 55M, 55MA, 60MA, 60M2, 65M2, 65MA, together with items of extra or optional equipment for use with these trucks. The maximum prices authorized in the amendment which this opinion accompanies supersede adjusted maximum prices granted under Revised Maximum Price Regulation 136, for nine of the models. The authorized prices for the remaining two models, 65M2 and 65MA, supersede prices in effect since March 31, 1942. The gross vehicle weights of the models covered by this action range from 20,000 pounds for model 29M to 35,000 pounds for model 65MA.

In general, section 8 of the regulation permits the establishment of maximum prices for manufacturers by the calculation of a price increase factor for each commodity line reflecting legal increases since January 1, 1941 in materials prices and basic wage rate schedules and a profit margin over cost, the application of this increase factor to 1941 model prices and the adjusting of the resulting prices to show increases or decreases in direct labor and direct materials costs due to changes in specification, design, material and equipment from the 1941 models.

The increases in basic wage rate schedules and in the general level of materials prices, including increases consistent with Executive Order 9697, and profit, which were reflected in the Federal increase factor were in accordance with the provisions of section 8. Section 8 was adhered to in determining increases in direct labor and materials cost resulting from changes in specification, design, material and equipment incorporated in the new trucks and in determining the overall price increase factor. The price increase factor and the increases resulting from specification changes were correctly applied to the 1941 model prices. In these circumstances, the prices requested by Federal for its sales have ben authorized in the accompanying order.

The Company's maximum prices for its sales consist of a net wholesale price for the truck and extra or optional equipment plus charges for transportation, Federal excise taxes, and handling and delivery.

In accordance with section 10 of Maximum Price Regulation 610, the order also includes adjusted maximum prices for resellers in the United States and for resellers in Porto Rico and the Territory of Alaska. Resellers' adjusted maximum prices reflect the increases in prices given to the applicant, Federal Motor Truck Company, and preserve the resellers' customary prewar margin on their increased cost. Maximum prices for resellers consist of list prices for the new trucks and optional equipment plus the applicable charge for transportation, state and local taxes, federal excise taxes, factory handling and delivery, and preparing and conditioning set forth in section 10. For resellers in Porto Rico and the Territory of Alaska, provision is made for additional charges as set forth in section 11. As required by section 12, the Company must notify resellers of list prices and discounts for the new trucks and extra or optional equipment.

The prices authorized in this amendment are in accordance with the provisions of Maximum Price Regulation 610 and the provisions of the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended.

ADJUSTMENT OF CEILING PRICES

For the reasons set forth in an opinion issued simultaneously herewith and filed with the Division of the Federal Register and pursuant to Order No. 7 under § 1499.159e of Maximum Price Regulation No. 188, it is ordered:

(a) Manufacturers' ceiling prices. E. R. Wagner Manufacturing Company, 4611 N. Thirty Second Street, Milwaukee 9, Wisconsin, may compute its adjusted ceiling prices for carpet sweepers of its manufacture by increasing by 14.1 percent the ceiling prices to each class of purchaser as established by Maximum Price Regulation No. 188.

As used in this paragraph "ceiling prices as established under Maximum Price Regulation No. 188", shall mean the ceiling prices established under that regulation without the inclusion in those ceiling prices either directly or indirectly of any adjustment, either individual or industry-wide.

(b) Ceiling prices of purchasers for resale. (1) A purchaser for resale, who had an established ceiling price prior to June 26, 1946, for any article, whose manufacturer's ceiling price was adjusted in accordance with the provisions of this order, may increase that established ceiling price by 14.1 percent.

(2) A purchaser for resale who had no established ceiling price prior to June 26, 1946, for any article whose ceiling price is subject to this order, shall determine his ceiling price by adding to his invoice cost the same percentage markup which he has on the "most comparable article" for which he has a properly established ceiling price. For this purpose the "most comparable article" is one which meets all the following tests:

(i) It belongs to the narrowest trade category which includes the article being priced.

(ii) Both it and the article being priced were purchased from the same class of supplier.

(iii) Both it and the article being priced belong to a class of articles to which, according to customary trade practices, an approximately uniform percentage markup is applied.

(iv) Its net replacement cost is nearest to the net cost of the article being priced.

The determination of a ceiling price in this way need not be reported to the Office of Price Administration, however, each seller must keep complete records showing all the information called for by OPA Form 620-759 with regard to how he determined his ceiling price, for so long as the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended, remains in effect.

If the resale ceiling price cannot be determined under the above method, the reseller shall apply to the Office of Price Administration for the establishment of a ceiling price under § 1499.3 (c) of the General Maximum Price Regulation. Ceiling prices established under that section will reflect the supplier's prices as adjusted in accordance with this order.

(c) Terms of sale. Ceiling prices adjusted by this order are subject to each seller's terms, discounts and allowances on sales to each class of purchaser in effect during March 1942, or thereafter, properly established under OPA regulations.

(d) Notification. At the time of, or prior to the first invoice to a purchaser for resale on and after the effective date of this order, showing prices adjusted in accordance with this order, the seller shall notify the purchaser in writing of the method established in paragraph (b) of this order for determining adjusted ceiling prices for resales of the articles. This notice may be given in any convenient form.

(e) All requests contained in the application for price adjustment filed by E. R. Wagner Manufacturing Company, assigned OPA Docket No. 6069-SO 119-79C, not specifically granted by this order are hereby denied.

(f) The provisions of Supplementary Order No. 153, shall have no application to any sale or delivery of any article subject to this order.

(g) This order may be revoked or amended by the Price Administrator at any time.

This order shall become effective on the 17th day of September 1946.

JAMES G. ROGERS, Jr.,
Acting Administrator.

OPINION ACCOMPANYING ORDER NO. 8 UNDER ORDER NO. 7 UNDER SECTION 1499.159e OF MAXIMUM PRICE REGULATION NO. 188

The accompanying order is issued under Order No. 7 under § 1499.159e of Maximum Price Regulation No. 188, hereinafter referred to as Order No. 7, pursuant to an application filed by E. R. Wagner Manufacturing Company, 4611 N. Thirty Second Street, Milwaukee 9, Wisconsin, hereinafter referred to as the applicant, for an adjustment of its ceiling prices for carpet sweepers of its manufacture.

Carpet sweepers are listed in Order No. 7 as a reconversion product. Order No. 7 provides that manufacturers of products listed in Order No. 7 may obtain individual adjustments of their ceiling prices in accordance with the provisions of Revised Supplementary Order No. 119, except that instead of using the profit factors made applicable by Revised Supplementary Order No. 119, there shall be used the manufacturer's average net profit margin for the period, 1936-1939, or one-half the average industry profit margin for that period whichever is higher.

The procedures set forth in Revised Supplementary Order No. 119, as modified by Order No. 7, have been followed, and a price increase factor for carpet sweepers of the applicant's manufacture has been determined in accordance with the provisions of the order. Insofar as the applicant requested a greater increase factor, the application is denied by the accompanying order.

In processing the application this Office has adjusted the applicant's 1941 Profit and Loss Statement to reflect a 32.4% overall material increase factor and a 21.5% overall labor increase factor and allowed for the applicant's average base period profit factor which was higher than one-half of the industry's average base period profit margin.

The 32.4% overall material increase factor represents the maximum allowable increase factors for the different types of material that the applicant uses in its production of carpet sweepers. The weighting has been on the basis of the proportions in which the applicant uses these various materials in its production of the product.

When the applicant's original Revised Supplementary Order No. 119 application was processed, the over-all material increase factor used was 25%. The difference between the factor and that used in processing the current application is accounted for by legal increases in the prices of materials occurring since the time the original application was processed.

The 21.5% over-all labor increase factor used currently is the same as that used in processing the applicant's original application under Revised Supplementary Order No. 119. The reasons for the use of this factor are set forth in the opinion which accompanied the issuance of Order No. 269 under Revised Supplementary Order No. 119, and are incorporated herein by reference.

The balance of the difference between the price increase factor provided for by the accompanying order and that provided for in Order No. 269 under Revised Supplementary Order No. 119 is accounted for by the use of the profit factor authorized by Order No. 7.

The procedures of Order No. 7 justify issuance of an order authorizing the applicant to increase its October 1941 prices by 25%; however, from the information submitted to this Office, it appears that in February 1942, the applicant increased its prices by 9.6% which increased prices became the applicant's ceiling prices under Maximum Price Regulation No. 188. Accordingly an increase of 25% in the applicant's October 1941 prices is equivalent to an increase of 14.1% in the applicant's ceiling prices as established by Maximum Price Regulation No. 188. It is administratively desirable to provide increase factors over properly established ceiling prices wherever possible, accordingly, the accompanying order authorizes the applicant to increase its Maximum Price Regulation No. 188 ceiling prices by 14.1%.

Purchasers for resale of the product which the manufacturer sells at adjusted prices are permitted to pass on to their customers the increase authorized for and which they pay to their supplier. This is in accordance with the requirements of section 2 (t) of the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended, which provides in substance that resellers shall be allowed to recover their average current cost of requisition plus such average percentage discount or markup as was in effect on March 31, 1946.

Issued this 16th day of September 1946.

JAMES G. ROGERS, Jr.,
Acting Administrator.

This order shall become effective on the 18th day of September 1946.

OPINION ACCOMPANYING ORDER NO. 4 UNDER ORDER NO. 14 UNDER SECTION 1499.159e OF MAXIMUM PRICE REGULATION NO. 188

Amendment No. 1 to Order No. 14 under Section 1499.159e of Maximum Price Regulation No. 188 modified the provisions of the order which provided for the determination of resellers' ceiling prices of certain clocks and watches. This was done so that Order No. 14 was brought into conformity with Section 2 (t) of the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended which provides that "in establishing maximum prices applicable to wholesale or retail distribution, the Administrator shall allow the average current cost of acquisition of any commodity, plus such average percentage discount or markup as was in effect on March 31, 1946."

Section 7 of Order No. 14 provides that unless otherwise authorized by the Office of Price Administration no manufacturer may, on or after June 12, 1946, ship to any purchaser a clock or watch for which the retail ceiling price is fixed by the order unless there is attached to it a retail ceiling price tag or label.

The E. Ingram Company, Bristol, Connecticut, has applied for an order under this section extending its time to comply with the section because in view of the short period of time between the issuance and effective date of the amendment to Order No. 14, it was not in a position to comply immediately with the amended tagging requirements.

The accompanying order therefore extends the company's time to September 23, 1946 to tag the clocks and watches covered by this order with the new retail prices. By that time the company should have received new tags from its supplier, and have had time to make the necessary changes.

The order also makes appropriate provision to ensure that purchasers for resale may sell at the new ceiling prices and not the old even though the old prices appear on the tags. Retailers are permitted to substitute the new for the old prices. The order is therefore in conformity with section 2 (t) mentioned above.

(a) Extension granted to manufacturer. The Sessions Clock Company, 61 E. Main Street, Forestville, Connecticut, may continue to sell and deliver up to and including September 23, 1946, all clocks and watches of its manufacture covered by Order No. 14 under § 1499.159e of Maximum Price Regulation No. 188, which are tagged with their retail ceiling prices as computed under the provisions of Order No. 14 under § 1499.1593 of Maximum Price Regulation No. 188 as in effect on August 18, 1946.

(b) Notification to purchasers for resale. (1) The manufacturer shall notify purchasers for resale of the articles covered by this order in writing that the retail ceiling price tags affixed to those articles in accordance with paragraph (a) above contain the retail ceiling prices as computed under the provisions of Order No. 14 under § 1499.159e of Maximum Price Regulation No. 188 as in effect on August 18, 1946; and shall also notify such purchasers of the proper retail ceiling prices as of the date of delivery. This notice may be given in any convenient form.

(c) What prices may be charged. A purchaser at wholesale of an article covered by this order who has received a notice in accordance with the provisions of paragraph (b) hereof shall calculate his ceiling price in accordance with the provisions of Order No. 14 under § 1499.159e of Maximum Price Regulation No. 188 based on the retail ceiling price stated in the said notice to be the retail ceiling price in effect on the date of delivery. This order shall become effective on the 18th day of September 1946.

By application dated August 28, 1946, The Royal Lamp Manufacturing Company, 936 W. Wyoming Avenue, Philadelphia 40, Pennsylvania, herein called the applicant, requested the Office of Price Administration to establish maximum prices for sales of lamps which it manufactures.

Since the applicant has not previously manufactured an article the maximum price of which may be used as a basis for pricing the articles described in the application under one of the first three pricing methods of Maximum Price Regulation No. 188, it has been necessary to consider the application under the Fourth Pricing Method, § 1499.158, which requires that prices be set in line with the level of maximum prices established by Maximum Price Regulation No. 188.

The specifications, construction and design of the applicant's product have been compared with those of comparable competitive articles for which maximum prices have been properly established under the Regulation. The prices established by this order are in line with the maximum prices of those comparable articles for sales to the same classes of purchasers and are, therefore, in line with the level of maximum prices established by Maximum Price Regulation No. 188.

Highly inflationary tendencies have developed as a result of a great shortage in the supply of these articles. The Administrator has, therefore, deemed it advisable to establish maximum resale prices. These prices are in line with the general levels of maximum resale prices for similar merchandise, allowing the sellers mark-ups normally enjoyed in the industry for their types of distributive operations.

By application dated August 20, 1946, the Laurel Lamp Manufacturing Company, Rome & Magazine Streets, Newark 5, New Jersey, herein called the applicant, requested the Office of Price Administration to establish maximum prices for sales of lamps which it manufactures.

Since the applicant has not previously manufactured an article the maximum price of which may be used as a basis for pricing the articles described in the application under one of the first three pricing methods of Maximum Price Regulation No. 188, it has been necessary to consider the application under the Fourth Pricing Method, § 1499.158, which requires that prices be set in line with the level of maximum prices established by Maximum Price Regulation No. 188.

The specifications, construction and design of the applicant's product have been compared with those of comparable competitive articles for which maximum prices have been properly established under the Regulation. The prices established by this order are in line with the maximum prices of those comparable articles for sales to the same classes of purchasers and are, therefore, in line with the level of maximum prices established by Maximum Price Regulation No. 188.

Highly inflationary tendencies have developed as a result of a great shortage in the supply of these articles. The Administrator has, therefore, deemed it advisable to establish maximum resale prices. These prices are in line with the general levels of maximum resale prices for similar merchandise, allowing the sellers markups normally enjoyed in the industry for their types of distributive operations.

Regional and District Office Orders.

SOFTWOOD PLYWOOD IN NEW JERSEY, MARYLAND, DELAWARE, THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA, EASTERN PENNSYLVANIA AND EASTERN NEW YORK

For the reasons set forth in an opinion issued simultaneously herewith and filed with the Division of the Federal Register and under the authority vested in the Regional Administrator of Region II by the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended, by General Order 68 as amended, and by Revised Procedural Regulation No. 1, it is hereby ordered:

SECTION 1. What this order covers. This Third Revised Adopting Order under Basic Order No. 1 as amended, under General Order 68 as amended, covers all retail sales of the sizes and types of plywood listed in the annexed price tables[1] made by sellers located in the States of Delaware, Maryland, and New Jersey, and the District of Columbia, and in the State of New York, except the counties of Niagara, Erie, Chautauqua, and Cattaraugus, and the State of Pennsylvania except the counties of Warren, Forrest, Clarion, Armstrong, Westmoreland, Washington, Beaver, Butler, Allegheny, Lawrence, Mercer, Crawford, Erie, and Venango. The territory covered by this Revised Adopting Order is that in which the carload freight rate on plywood from Seattle, Washington, is $1.00 per cwt. All provisions of Basic Order No. 1 as amended, under General Order No. 68 as amended, are adopted in this order and are just as much a part of this order as if specifically set forth herein. If said Basic Order No. 1 is further amended in any respect the provisions of said order as amended shall likewise without further action become part of this order. All persons subject to this Adopting Order are also subject to Basic Order No. 1 as amended under General Order No. 68 as amended, and should be familiar with the provisions of said order. This Third Revised Adopting Order supersedes Second Revised Adopting Order No. 1 under Basic Order No. 1 under General Order 68 issued May 27, 1946 and effective as of March 30, 1946, and said Second Revised Adopting Order No. 1 under Basic Order No. 1 under General Order 68 is revoked as of the effective date of this order.

SEC. 2. Definition of retail sales. A retail sale means any sale to the ultimate consumer, or to a contractor for installation rather than resale, except where the sale is made by a plywood manufacturer, or a plywood distribution plant who in 1941 received more than 20 percent of its dollar income from the sales of plywood or veneer of any kind. These latter types of sales remain subject to the provisions of 3d RMPR 13.

SEC. 3. Maximum prices. Maximum prices as herein set forth are different for each of two classes of retailers:

Class I retailers are those who since June 20, 1945, purchased or purchase at least one carload of plywood on direct mill shipment. Any shipment which comes directly from the mill without becoming an integral part of the stock of a distribution plant or a retail yard is a direct mill shipment no matter who the seller is. Class II retailers are all other retail sellers principally those who buy their plywood from distribution plants.

Maximum prices for Class I retailers in quantities under 1,000 square feet are set forth in Table I–A hereto annexed and made a part of this order. Maximum prices for Class I retailers in quantities of 1,000 square feet and over are set forth in Table I§B hereto annexed and made a part of this order. Maximum prices for Class II retailers in quantities under 1,000 square feet are set forth in Table II–A hereto annexed and made a part of this order. Maximum prices for Class II retailers in quantities of 1,000 square feet and over are set forth in Table II–B hereto annexed and made a part of this order.

SEC. 4. Additions for delivery. The above prices include all charges and additions for delivery in the seller's free delivery zone as recognized by him during March 1942. No deduction need be made if the purchaser elects to do his own delivery. If delivery is made outside the free delivery zone, the seller may add for delivery as prescribed in sections 4 and 5 of 3d RMPR 13, namely the amount computed by multiplying the estimated weights in section 22 of 3d RMPR 13 by the applicable rail freight rate. Any addition for delivery must be shown separately on the invoice.

SEC. 5. Discounts and allowances. The maximum prices in this order include all commissions. All customary discounts for cash must be continued. Differentials in price based on quantity sold must be observed as set forth in the price tables.

SEC. 6. Relationship of this order to Basic Order No. 1 as amended, under General Order No. 68 as amended and to 3d RMPR 13. As previously stated all provisions of Basic Order No. 1 as amended, are adopted by this order. The maximum prices fixed by this order supersede any maximum price or pricing method previously established by any other regulation or order and specifically by 3d RMPR 13. Except to the extent that they are inconsistent with the provisions of this order, all other provisions of 3d RMPR 13 shall remain applicable to sales covered by this order.

SEC. 7. Posting of maximum prices. Every seller making sales covered by this order shall post a copy of his list of maximum prices as fixed by this order in each of his places of business within area covered by this order. Class I sellers shall post Tables I–A and I–B, and Class II sellers shall post Tables II–A and II–B. Posting of Tables II–A and II–B, by Class I sellers is a violation of this order.

SEC. 8. Records and sales slips. (a) The provisions of section (e) of Basic Order No. 1 covering sales slips and records are adopted in and applicable to this order as though specifically set forth herein; and also on any sale of $50.00 or more each seller regardless of previous custom, must keep records showing at least the following:

(1) Name and Address of buyer.
(2) Date of transaction.
(3) Place of delivery.
(4) Complete description of each item sold and price charged.

(b) Maximum prices for insufficiently described items. Where the seller's records or sales slip upon a sale of any commodity covered by this order in the area covered by this order, do not contain a sufficiently complete description to identify the exact nature, type, size, or quantity of the commodity, and thus determine the maximum price fixed by the applicable table of this order, the maximum price applicable to such sale shall be the lowest maximum price which can be computed under the applicable table of this order in accordance with the incomplete description.

SEC. 9. Adjustments for resellers to reflect increases in supplier prices—(a) Applicability. This section is applicable only to resellers whose supplier's prices have been increased by amendment or order, and where the amendment or order, which grants the increase, provides that all resellers (including those subject to area orders issued under General Order 68) may increase their maximum prices for the commodity in question.

(b) Resellers may increase the prices listed in this order by any amount permitted for resellers by an industry wide or area wide amendment or order increasing the maximum prices of the suppliers of such resellers. This can be done, however, only if the effective date of the action increasing the supplier's maximum price is later than the date stated on the tables of prices contained in this order. Thus, if the subject's maximum price for a product is increased, and at some later date the price listed in this order is increased for this product, the amendment to this order will supersede the increase originally granted to resellers by the amendment or order which increased the supplier's maximum price.

SEC. 10. Revocation or amendment. This order may be revised, amended, revoked or modified at any time by the Regional Administrator or the Price Administrator.

This order shall be effective as of July 1, 1946.

Issued this 9th day of September 1946.

JAMES L. MEADER,
Regional Administrator.

SEC. 7. Sales slips and records. Every seller covered by this order who has customarily given his customers a sales slip or other evidence of purchase must continue to do so. Upon request from a customer, such seller regardless of previous custom, shall give the purchaser a receipt showing the date, name and address of the seller, the description of each item sold and the price received for it. If he customarily prepared his sales slips in more than one copy, he must keep for at least 6 months after delivery a duplicate copy of each sale slip delivered by him pursuant to this section. Each such seller shall also keep at least such records of each sale as he customarily kept. For any sale of $50.00 or more, each seller, regardless of previous custom, must keep records showing at least the following:

1. Name and address of buyer.
2. Date of transaction.
3. Place of delivery.
4. Complete description of each item sold and price charged.

SEC. 8. Adjustment to reflect increase in suppliers price—(a) Applicability. This section is applicable only where the amendment or order which grants your supplier an increase in his maximum price provides that all resellers including those subject to area orders issued under General Order 68 may increase their maximum prices for the commodity in question.

(b) Maximum price. You may increase the price listed in this order by the amount permitted for resellers by the amendment or order increasing your suppliers maximum price. You can only do this, however, if the effective date of the action increasing your suppliers maximum price is later than the date stated on the price list contained in this order. Thus, if your suppliers maximum price for a product is increased and at some later date the price listed in this order is increased for this product, the amendment to this order will supersede the increase originally granted you by the amendment or order increasing your suppliers maximum price.

SEC. 9. Amendment. This order may be amended or revoked at any time by the Office of Price Administration.

This order shall become effective August 24, 1946.

CONSTRUCTION SERVICES AND BUILDING MATERIALS IN SAN FRANCISCO REGION

For the reasons set forth in an opinion issued simultaneously herewith, and under the authority vested in the Regional Administrator of the Office of Price Administration by sections 9 and 20 of Revised Maximum Price Regulation No. 251, it is hereby ordered:

(a) Explanation of this order—(1) In general. This order establishes maximum prices for various sales of installed materials and construction services subject to Revised Maximum Price Regulation No. 251. In the body of this order there are described the methods by which a seller may determine his maximum prices, as, for instance, by using a customer's hourly rate or by adding a markup to his costs; also described are permissible extra allowances, such as for mileage or out-of-town expenses, and the requirements of the order in respect to records and invoices. In the body of the order, however, the exact amounts of the applicable hourly rates or markups or allowances are not stated; for convenience they have been set forth in appendices[1] to the order. These appendices and the areas to which they relate are as follows:

Appendix A—Southern California. The following counties in the State of California: Imperial, Inyo, Kern, Los Angeles, Orange, Riverside, San Bernardino, San Diego, San Luis Obispo, Santa Barbara, and Ventura.

Appendix B—Northern California. All counties in the State of California except those in the Southern California area.

Appendix D—Nevada Area. The State of Nevada.

Appendix E—Oregon-Southern Washington Area. The State of Oregon (except Malheur County) and Clark, Klickitat, Cowlitz, Skamania, and Wahkiakum counties in the State of Washington.

Appendix F—Western Washington Area. The following counties in the State of Washington: Chelan, Clallam, Grays Harbor, Island, Jefferson, King, Kitsap, Kittitas, Lewis, Mason, Pacific, Pierce, San Juan, Skagit, Snohomish, Thurston, Whatcom, Yakima, and Okanogan (except that portion thereof lying south of a line extending northeast from the most northerly point of Douglas County).

Appendix G—Eastern Washington-Northern Idaho Area. Northern Idaho, southward to and including Idaho county, and the following counties in the state of Washington: Adams, Asotin, Benton, Columbia, Douglas, Ferry, Franklin, Garfield, Grant, Lincoln, Pend Oreille, Spokane, Stevens, Walla Walla, and Whitman, and that portion of Okanogan County lying south of a line extending northeast from the most northerly point of Douglas County.

(2) Sellers covered by this order. In each appendix are a number of tables.[1] Each table covers but one trade and sets out the permissible markups, hourly rates, mileage allowances, etc., which a seller in that trade must use in determining his maximum price for a particular job. (The tables for a particular trade, for the sake of uniformity, have been given the same designation or number in each appendix. In some areas a particular trade may not be affected by this order; in such a case the table in the appendix applicable to that trade will contain an instruction to "Price under MPR 251". This means that, until this order is amended, sellers referred to by that table should continue to determine their maximum prices under Revised Maximum Price Regulation No. 251, or any applicable order issued thereunder, and that such sellers are not subject to this order).

The tables in the appendices[1] to this order and the trades or services to which they relate are as follows (additional tables may be added from time to time):

Table:
1. General Contracting Services.
2. Plumbing Services.
3. Electrical Services.
4. Painting and Paperhanging Services.
5. Sheet Metal and Heating Services.
6. Tile Services.
7. Brickmasonry Services.
8. Cement and Concrete Services.
9. Lathing and Plastering Services.
10. Hardwood Flooring Services.

(3) Use of the tables in the appendices[1] to this order. In the tables which a seller should use in applying the pricing methods described by this order, there will be found a number of markup percentages, hourly rates, mileage allowances, and similar data, with an indication of the paragraph of this order in connection with which the particular markup or other item is to be used. When a seller covered by the tables seeks to determine a maximum price under a particular paragraph, he should use the markups or other data provided for that paragraph.

(4) Area in which work is performed is controlling. Each appendix to this order applies to all work (of the listed kinds) performed in the area to which that appendix applies; and the location of a seller's place of business is not controlling. Thus, in some cases a seller located in one area will perform work in another area. In every such case his maximum price is to be determined in accordance with the method provided for the area where the work is performed.

(5) Exceptions from the general provisions of this order. In some instances tables will contain exceptions from the general provisions of this order, or will conflict with it. In any such instance the provisions of the tables are controlling.

(6) Scope of this order. The maximum prices established by this order include all expenses, and no additional charge may be made for any other cost or incidental service.

(b) Prohibitions. The maximum price for any construction service or sale of installed materials, when performance thereof is in a place to which an appendix to this order relates, and when this order and a table in such appendix provide a method of determining a maximum price therefor, shall be the price determined in accordance with that method. No person shall sell or deliver any installed materials or sell or supply any construction services, or in the course of trade or business buy or receive such materials or services, at a price higher than such maximum price.

Lower prices than the maximum price may, of course, be charged, demanded, offered, or paid.

(c) Explanation of methods of determining a maximum price. This order provides that for most jobs a seller will determine his maximum price by adding a margin to his costs, as explained in paragraph (d), which applies to all except certain small jobs covered by paragraph (e). For small jobs to which paragraph (e) applies, a seller will determine his maximum price on a time and materials basis.

Maximum prices, whether determined under paragraph (d) or paragraph (e), in each case are subject to certain limitations or are entitled to certain additions. These are set out in separate paragraphs of the order. Thus, paragraph (f) places additional limitations on the maximum price of a job performed on the basis of an estimated price; paragraph (g) permits certain additional charges for work performed on the basis of a lump-sum or guaranteed price; paragraph (h) provides an allowance for mileage and out-of-town expenses and certain other expenses.

(d) General pricing method. This paragraph explains how to determine a maximum price for most jobs, namely, all except small jobs subject to paragraph (e). For jobs shown by the appropriate table to be covered by this paragraph, the maximum price shall be determined as follows:

(1) The maximum price shall be the sum of labor costs, material costs, "other direct costs" as defined in this order, and the margin provided by the appropriate table, the amount of the margin being dependent on the total of such costs. Such margin, when stated as a percentage, is a percentage of cost rather than of selling price. Provided, however, That:

(i) For sellers in business during March, 1942, the margin shall not exceed the margin used in the most comparable job during the period January 1, 1939, to March 31, 1942, or the margin provided by the appropriate table, whichever is lower; and (ii) no margin may be added to the cost of subcontracts except subcontractors incidental to the main contract.

(2) "Other direct costs" include only the cost of subcontracts (subject to the limitations stated above), workmen's compensation insurance, social security tax, unemployment compensation tax, public liability insurance (not exceeding ½% of the labor costs on the job), sales tax, building permits and fees, public utility costs borne by the seller, and such other items as may be provided by the appropriate table.

They do not include administrative and overhead costs and selling expenses nor do they include the additional allowances permitted by other paragraphs of this order; these additional allowances, such as for mileage and out-of-town expenses, although a charge may be made therefor, are not subject to a markup.

(e) Pricing method for small jobs. For small jobs (selling within the price limitation stated in the appropriate table) the maximum price shall be the sum of a charge for labor, materials used, and such other charges as may be permitted by this order. The maximum charge for labor shall be the sum of separate charges determined by multiplying the number of hours of labor performed in each category by the maximum hourly rate applicable to that category, as provided by subparagraph (e) (1). The maximum price of the materials used shall be determined as is provided by subparagraph (e) (2).

(1) Maximum hourly rate for labor. (i) For sellers who employ one or more workmen (including partnerships) the maximum hourly rate shall be either the hourly rate stated in the appropriate table or the "labor cost" per hour multiplied by the percentage stated in such table, rounded to the nearest 5 cents, whichever is lower.

(ii) For sellers who employ no workmen, but who perform their own work on the job, the maximum hourly rate shall be that provided by the appropriate table or (if no rate is there provided) the rate provided for journeymen workmen under subparagraph (e) (1) (i), above.

(iii) Overtime work may be charged for at 1½ times the rate provided above, or at 2 times such rate whenever sellers are required by union contract to pay labor at a doubled wage rate; but an overtime rate may be charged only if overtime work is performed at the customer's request and only if the employee (if any) is actually paid on an overtime basis, and only if the work is performed on Saturday, Sunday, a legal holiday, at nighttime between 6 p. m. and 8 a. m., or after the performance of a standard day's work. A standard day's work shall consist of 8 hours unless otherwise stipulated between labor union and seller.

(iv) Measurement of hours. The total number of hours per workman chargeable against any job is to be computed from the time such workman leaves the seller's shop or field office or the previous job (whichever is later) until he completes the job (if he proceeds to another job) or until he returns to the shop or field office (if he proceeds there directly), excluding, however, any stops or delays in transit. Time in transit to and from any one job may be charged only once each day. The man-hours for which charges may be made shall not exceed those actually paid for by the seller and shown in the seller's payroll record and on any records or invoices which this order may require the seller to prepare, issue, or keep.

(v) The minimum charge provided by the appropriate table (or, if none is so provided, then the minimum price for one hour's work by one employee) may be made for jobs which would otherwise have a price less than that amount.

(2) Material. For any sale priced under this paragraph the maximum price of new materials shall be the highest price the seller charged therefor during March, 1942, plus any increases authorized by the Office of Price Administration for sales at retail, or the prices stated therefor in the publication described in the appropriate table (as of the effective date of such table), whichever is lower.

For any used materials or materials which cannot be priced as provided above, or for which no publication is named in the appropriate table, the maximum price shall be the seller's cost thereof, plus the percentage of such cost stated in the appropriate table, or the maximum price provided by the appropriate regulation for sales at retail, whichever is lower.

Only materials actually and necessarily used on the job shall be charged to the customer.

(3) Subcontracts. A seller pricing under this paragraph may recover the cost of subcontracts and, for subcontracts incidental to the main contract, a margin of 20% of such cost.

(4) Permits. A seller pricing under this paragraph may recover the amount of any fee paid to any government agency for a permit to perform a specified job.

(5) Other charges. A seller pricing under this paragraph may make such other charges as may be provided by the appropriate table.

(f) Estimates. When work is performed on the basis of an estimate submitted by the seller, the maximum price may not exceed the estimated price by more than 15%.

(g) Lump-sum Contracts. When work is performed on the basis of a lump-sum or guaranteed price, established by a binding contract, the maximum price of such work shall be the maximum price otherwise established by this order plus the amount (if any) provided by the appropriate table.

(h) Other charges. In addition to any price otherwise permitted by this order, a seller may make the following charges:

(1) Mileage. For necessary travel between a seller's nearest place of business and a job (as measured along the most direct customary route) the charge per mile (if any) stated in the appropriate table may be made for travel in excess of the minimum number of miles (if any) stated in such table.

(2) Out-of-town expenses. A seller may be reimbursed for expenses incurred by him for employees required to remain out of town for the purposes of a job, but such reimbursement may not exceed the amount stated in the appropriate table and may not be had unless explained to and authorized by the customer prior to commencement of the work.

(3) Other charges. A seller may make such other charges as may be provided by the appropriate table. When provision is made for allowance of "rentals of special equipment subject to Maximum Price Regulation No. 134" a seller may charge for each item of equipment used on the job and covered by that regulation the maximum price provided by such regulation for fully-operated rentals; but, if such equipment is owned by him or is not rented from a third person on a fully-operated basis, he may not, under other provisions of this order, make a charge for his costs of operation (including labor and materials) nor treat such costs as labor costs, material costs, or other direct costs.

(i) Adjustments. In the case of any seller who shows himself to be entitled to an adjustment under section 8 (c) of Revised Maximum Price Regulation No. 251, the Regional Administrator, by individual order or otherwise, may provide an adjustment hereunder.

Any seller who has customarily sold a particular service on the basis of a flat price may apply for permission to use such a price. If such price does not exceed the maximum price provided herein, the Regional Administrator, by individual order issued hereunder or otherwise, may authorize use of a flat price by such seller for that service.

(j) Records and invoices. Every person making sales subject to this order, for each such sale, shall furnish the customer an invoice or sales slip and shall keep records. Such sales slip or invoice and such records shall contain a certification that the price charged does not exceed the price permitted by this order No. G–22 and shall set forth the names and addresses of the buyer and seller, a description of the job, including its location and date of its completion, and the total price charged. In addition, except for sales slips or invoices relating to sales made on the basis of a lump-sum or guaranteed price, they shall contain itemized information sufficient to show the correctness of the price charged, including, wherever relevant, a description of the materials used and the cost and price of each item, a statement of the wage rates and hours of labor worked at each rate, a description of each item of cost and the amount thereof, and a full description of each charge authorized by this order. Duplicate copies of invoices or sales slips may be used in lieu of the records required by this paragraph, but only if they contain all the information required to be in such records. These records and any other records required by this order shall be kept by the seller at his place of business for so long as the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended, may remain in effect and shall be available at all times for inspection by the Office of Price Administration. No charge may be made for any item as to which a seller fails to issue the invoices or sales slips or to keep the records as required by this order.

(k) Relation to Revised Maximum Price Regulation No. 251. Except as may be otherwise provided in this order, this order supersedes sections 6, 7, and 8 of Revised Maximum Price Regulation No. 251 and any other orders issued under section 9 thereof, with respect to sales covered by this order, including orders issued to individual sellers pursuant to section 6 (b) or 8 (c) thereof. Except to the extent that they are inconsistent with the provisions of this order, however, all other sections of Revised Maximum Price Regulation No. 251, together with all amendments thereto that have been or may be issued, shall apply to sales covered by this order, including specifically the following sections of that regulation:

Sec. 10. Prohibitions against sales at higher than maximum prices.
Sec. 11. Evasions.
Sec. 16. Enforcement.
Sec. 17. Licensing.

(l) Definitions and explanations of provisions of this order. (1) Words and phrases used in this order have the same meaning as in the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended, and as in Revised Maximum Price Regulation No.

(2) "Appropriate table" means that table, in the appendix[1] applying to the area in which a particular job is performed, which sets forth pricing data applicable to such job. For example, the "appropriate table" for a person supplying plumbing services in table 2 in the appendix relating to the area in which the service is performed.

(3) "Labor cost" means the wage rate in effect on October 3, 1942, or the wage rate which has been approved by any governmental agency exercising jurisdiction over such rate for the particular classification of labor in the area in which the work is performed but not more than the wage rate actually paid, and it refers only to productive labor directly employed on a job, including foremen but excluding superintendents. In the case of a seller performing some of the direct work on a job himself, his "labor cost" therefor shall be deemed to be the wage rate prevailing in the area for journeyman workmen in the particular trade.

(4) Wherever this order refers to a seller's cost it refers to an amount which does not exceed the seller's legal acquisition cost and, in the case of articles manufactured by the seller, to an amount not exceeding the maximum price for sales thereof to contractors.

(5) "Subcontracts incidental to the main contract" refers to subcontracts covering subordinate incidents of the main contract for a job and involving work or service of a kind different from that which the seller is principally engaged in supplying.

(6) "Job" means all work performed by one seller (either directly or through subcontracts) for one buyer in or about the same building, structure, or construction project, either concurrently or successively or under a single contract.

(7) "Services" means installation and repair of materials or equipment in a building, structure, or construction project, and the sale of such items on an installed basis. It also includes all services incidental thereto, such as cleaning and preparation of the premises.

(8) "General contracting services" refers to services performed by general contractors and means the erection of any residential or commercial building or structure (including the sale of any installed materials necessary thereto) for a price not exceeding $20,000; or the repair or alteration of any such building or structure (including the sale of any installed materials necessary thereto) when such repair or alteration has a price not exceeding $20,000 and

(i) Involves principally carpentry work or

(ii) Involves either two or more subcontracts or the work of three or more trades, such as carpentry, plumbing, electrical, plastering, painting, tiling, roofing, etc. or

(iii) Is performed by a person holding a general contractor's license or equivalent in any state in which such licenses are issued by a state regulatory body.

(9) "Plumbing services" means services rendered in connection with gas, water, fuel, and oil, and steam distribution or waste removal systems, and includes installation of oil burners, feed lines, and automatic sprinklers.

(14) "Brick masonry services" means services rendered in connection with brick, including glass brick and concrete blocks.

PRICE DECONTROL BOARD.

BUTTER AND CHEESE PRICES

The Price Decontrol Board on August 20, 1946, directed that milk and the food and feed products processed or manufactured in whole or substantial part from milk should not be subject to price control because at that time the Board failed to find that prices of dairy products had risen unreasonably above June 30 prices plus subsidies.

In reaching this determination, the Board found that the supply of milk and milk products was short of demand and would continue short until the approach of the next flush season. The Board found that the regulation of milk and its products is enforceable and practicable and that the public interest requires that undue price increases of dairy products be avoided.

The Board announced in its determination that it would continue to watch prices of milk and milk products and would reconsider its determination if thereafter evidence appears that price increases since June 30 are unreasonable.

Since its decision the Board has noted with concern the rise in butter and cheese prices. On August 20 the wholesale price for 92 score butter at Chicago was 67.6 cents, about 2.8 cents below the ceiling plus subsidy. On September 11 this price had risen to 75 cents, about 4.1 cents above the ceiling plus subsidy. On August 20 the latest price available for cheddar cheese on the Wisconsin Cheese Exchange was 41 cents, about 2 cents above the ceiling plus subsidy. On September 6 this price had risen to 43½ cents, or about 4½ cents above the ceiling plus subsidy.

The Board has observed that these butter and cheese prices have advanced significantly more than the prices of other manufactured dairy products and that these higher prices threaten to cause increases in the prices of other manufactured dairy products.

As a consequence of these price increases, the Board hereby gives notice to all concerned that:

1. Any person having evidence or views with respect to the reasonableness or unreasonableness of these butter and cheese price increases may present such evidence or views in writing to the Price Decontrol Board. Written evidence or views must be received on or before September 18, 1946 by the Secretary of the Price Decontrol Board, Room 1212, Federal Reserve Building, Washington 25, D. C.; and

2. The Price Decontrol Board will meet on September 18 to consider the evidence and views so presented and to determine whether action of the Board under authority contained in section 1A (c) (8) (c) of the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended, should be taken on dairy products; and

3. The Price Decontrol Board will also on September 18 consider butter and cheese price movements which may have occurred since issuance of this notice or which may thereafter be anticipated.

Issued and effective this 12th day of September 1946.

MARVIN A. BROOKER,
Secretary to the Board.

fined in a prison, penitentiary, reformatory, or similar institution, as a result of having been convicted of a crime (including a heinous crime described in §§ 671.77d through 671.77d–5, inclusive); it shall, unless such information is already available, request the State Director of the State in which such institution is located to advise whether there is a special panel local board at the institution and, if so, the designation and address thereof.

§ 671.77b–2 Procedure when there is a special panel local board at the prison. If the local board learns that there is a special panel local board at such institution, it shall reclassify the registrant into Class IV–F unless the registrant has been separated from the land or naval forces by Honorable Discharge or Discharge Under Honorable Conditions in which case he shall be placed or retained in Class I–C as provided in § 622.15 (a) (4) of this chapter, or, unless the registrant has been separated from work of national importance in a civilian public service camp after having served for a period of at least six months in which case he shall be placed or retained in Class IV–E as provided in § 622.51 (d) and (f) of this chapter. The local board shall then forward the records of the registrant to the special panel local board in the manner provided in Part 662 of this chapter. If it appears from the records of a registrant heretofore or hereafter received by a special panel local board that the registrant was not placed or retained in Class IV–F, Class I–C, or in Class IV–E, as provided above, by his local board prior to forwarding his records, the special panel local board shall classify the registrant into Class IV–F, Class I–C, or Class IV–E, as the case may be, and notify his local board of such action; and the registrant's local board shall then note such action on its records and report same on Local Board Action Report (Form 110). So long as any such registrant remains in an institution where a special panel local board is organized, his case shall be handled by the special panel local board under separate instructions issued to such boards. When he leaves the institution where a special panel local board is organized, his records will be returned to his local board, together with information as to the action taken and information secured by the special panel local board during the period of time when he was in such institution.

§ 671.77b–3 Procedure when there is no special panel local board at the prison. If it is ascertained that no special panel local board is organized at the prison, penitentiary, reformatory, or similar institution in which the registrant is confined, the local board shall handle such registrant's case under the provisions of §§ 671.77c through 671.77c–4, inclusive; and, if he has been convicted of a heinous crime, the provisions of §§ 671.77d through 671.77d–5, inclusive; shall also be applicable.

§ 671.77c–1 When a registrant is in "custody of the law." A registrant is in the custody of the law when: (1) He has been placed under arrest charged with the commission of a crime, whether he is held in prison or is at liberty pending the trial, or is actually being tried, or, subsequent to trial, is awaiting sentence; or (2) he has been sentenced and is awaiting execution of the sentence; or (3) he is actually in prison serving a sentence; or (4) his sentence has been suspended for a definite period of time which has not yet expired; or (5) following sentence, he has been placed upon probation; or (6) after commencing to serve his sentence, he has been released from prison on parole or conditional release.

§ 671.77c–2 Request for release of civil authority. When the local board is advised that a registrant is in the custody of the law (except a registrant whose records are forwarded to a special panel local board under § 671.77b–2, or a registrant who is found to be morally unacceptable for service under § 671.77d–3), it shall request the proper civil official to terminate civil authority over such registrant effective upon his entering the armed forces, or to suspend civil authority over the registrant during the period of his military service. If, however, a local board is instructed by the State Director or the Director to postpone the making of a request for termination or suspension of custody of a particular registrant or registrants, it shall comply with such special instructions.

§ 671.77c–3 Form and use of release of civil authority. The order terminating or suspending civil authority need be in no particular form but must be in writing, signed by the proper civil official, and must accompany the registrant's records when he is forwarded for preinduction physical examination and when he is forwarded for induction.

§ 671.77c–4 Procedure when release of civil authority refused. In the event the proper civil official refuses to issue an order terminating or suspending civil authority over a registrant who is in the custody of the law, the writing which notifies the local board of such refusal shall be placed in the registrant's Cover Sheet (Form 53), and the registrant must be considered as morally unacceptable for service.

§ 671.77d–1 Designation of "heinous crimes." The term "heinous crimes" when used in this memorandum includes only the following crimes: Treason; murder; kidnapping; arson; rape; sodomy, pandering, or other crimes involving sex perversion; or illegal dealing in or use of narcotics or other habit-forming drugs.

§ 671.77d–2 Definition of certain heinous crimes. For the guidance of local boards, the terms "murder" and "rape" are defined as follows (other heinous crimes do not require further definition):

(a) The term "murder" means the unlawful killing of a human being with malice aforethought. In this connection, an "unlawful killing" means any killing without legal justification or excuse. "Malice aforethought" does not imply that the killing shall necessarily have been premeditated but does imply that there shall have been an intention to cause the death of or grievous injury to the person killed or that some act was done with the knowledge that it would probably result in the death of or grievous bodily injury to some persons.

(b) The term "rape" means only the common-law crime of unlawful carnal knowledge of a female with force and without her consent. Such offense may be committed on a female person of any age. A conviction of so-called statutory rape, that is, carnal knowledge with the consent of a female under the statutory age of consent, will not be considered to come within the term "rape" as used in this part.

§ 671.77d–3 When such registrants may be morally acceptable. When a registrant has been convicted of a heinous crime, he is morally unacceptable for service in the armed forces for the period of six months immediately following his release from confinement in an institution, or for a period of six months following the date of his conviction if after such conviction he is not confined but is released on suspended sentence or probation. After such period of six months, he continues to be morally unacceptable for service in the armed forces except in especially meritorious cases in which a waiver of the land or naval forces moral standards is issued in each instance by authority of the Commanding General of the Service Command or Department.

§ 671.77d–4 Procedure for applications for waiver. If, therefore, after the expiration of six months following his release from confinement, or his conviction if not confined, the local board is of the opinion that such registrant's case is especially meritorious, it shall forward to its State Director for transmission to the Commanding General of the Service Command or Department a request for a waiver of the land or naval forces moral standards. The request need not be in any particular form but must include the following information: The registrant's name in full; the date and place of his birth; a statement by the local board, based upon the information which it has received or upon the personal knowledge of one or more of its members, that in its opinion the registrant's case is especially meritorious; and a recommendation by the local board that the registrant's induction be approved and a waiver be issued.

§ 671.77d–5 Procedure when waiver refused. Unless the local board receives a waiver of the land or naval forces moral standards issued by the Commanding General of the Service Command or Department, every registrant who has been convicted of a heinous crime must be considered to be morallly unacceptable for service.

§ 671.77e–1 Registrants discharged under certain conditions are morally unacceptable. A registrant discharged from the land or naval forces under certain circumstances is morally unacceptable for further service unless a waiver of the land or naval forces moral standards is issued by The Adjutant General of the

be unacceptable for further service without a waiver of the land or naval forces moral standards. The moral acceptability of such a registrant shall be determined as provided in §§ 671.77e through 671.77e–3, inclusive. In addition, a registrant separated from the land or naval forces and placed in Class I–C or Class IV–F (moral) may not be classified into a class available for service unless the local board has been authorized by the Director to so reclassify such a registrant as provided in Local Board Memorandum No. 77–C (not published in FEDERAL REGISTER).

§ 671.77b–1 Determination as to special panel local board. When the local board is advised that a registrant is con-

Army for men separated from the Army, the Chief of Naval Personnel of the Navy for men separated from the Navy, the Commandant of the Marine Corps for men separated from the Marine Corps, and the Commandant of the Coast Guard for men separated from the Coast Guard. In order that the local board may know the cases for which such waiver must be issued by the proper branch of the land or naval forces before the registrant is morally acceptable for further service, there is attached hereto a document entitled "Types of Discharge and Separation From Land or Naval Forces."

§ 671.77e–2 Procedure for applications for approval. Applications for waivers of the land or naval forces moral standards shall be forwarded through the State Director to the Commanding General of the Service Command or Department for transmittal to the proper officer of the armed forces. The application need not be in any particular form but should contain the following information: The registrant's name in full; the date and place of his birth; his armed forces serial number; the date and place of his induction into the armed forces; the date and place of his separation from the armed forces; and the designation of the military organization with which he was serving at the time of his separation. The application should be accompanied by evidence of the registrant's current habits and behavior in the form of a letter from the local board based upon personal knowledge of one or more members thereof accompanied, if practicable, by one or more letters of recommendation from the registrant's employer, business associates, or neighbors. If none of the local board members is personally acquainted with the registrant the application shall so state and an effort will be made to obtain a written statement o the registrant's current character, habits, and record in the community from a local law enforcement officer or from some other responsible citizen.

§ 671.77e–3 Procedure if approval refused. In the event that the land or naval forces refuse to issue such waiver, the writing which notifies the local board of such refusal shall be placed in the registrant's Cover Sheet (Form 53), and the registrant must be considered as morally unacceptable for service.

§ 671.77f–1 Determination of moral acceptability of registrant. A registrant who is otherwise qualified may be forwarded for preinduction physical examination and induction in the usual manner if (a) he is found to be morally acceptable for service under the provisions of this part, and (b) Local Board Memorandum No. 77–C has been complied with in the event he has been separated from service in the land or naval forces. All information in possesion of the local board bearing upon his moral qualifications for service will be forwarded with his other records. The armed forces, in determining the moral acceptability of a registrant for service will be guided by Army Regulations AR 615–500, paragraph 13b (See Appendix C).

§ 671.77f–2 Reason for rejection shown in DSS Form 218. Army regulations provide that when a registrant forwarded for preinduction physical examination is rejected because morally unacceptable, that fact and the reason for his rejection will be specifically noted upon the copy of his Certificate of Fitness (Form 218).

§ 671.77f–3 Procedure when reason for rejection omitted. If the local board receives advice that a registrant has been rejected because morally unacceptable but the reason therefor is not indicated on the copy of his DSS Form 218, the local board, through the State Director, shall request the induction station to make such entry on the copy of DSS Form 218.

§ 671.77f–4 Procedure when reason for rejection is absence of required waiver or order. If the reason indicated on the copy of DSS Form 218 for finding a registrant morally unacceptable for service is the absence of the required waiver or the absence of a proper order terminating or suspending civil authority over the registrant during his period of military service, the local board shall endeavor to secure the necessary waiver or order and, if it does so, shall return the registrant's records for further consideration by the induction station.

§ 671.77f–5 Procedure when reason for rejection cannot be met. If the reason indicated on the copy of DSS Form 218 for finding a registrant morally unacceptable for service is not corrected by securing the necessary waiver or order, the registrant must be considered to be morally unacceptable for service.

§ 671.77g–1 Assistance on procedures under this part. It is suggested that the local board call upon the government appeal agent for advice when it is in doubt as to whether the case of a particular registrant comes within the provisions of this memorandum. It is further suggested that the local board call upon the government appeal agent to assist it in securing any documents required under the provisions of this part. The government appeal agent is usually an attorney and should be particularly helpful in these matters.

LEWIS B. HERSHEY,
Director.

[1] A registrant who receives an Honorable Discharge from the Army is not morally acceptable without waiver if it is stated on the reverse side of the certificate that it was issued under the provisions of section VIII of Army Regulations 615–360 or under the provisions of Army Regulations 615–368 or 615–369.

[2] In the following instances, although the waiver is not required, the local board (using DSS Form 177) must request the State Director to obtain additional information as to the underlying cause for the discharge and, upon receiving such information, exercise its discretion in determining whether the registrant is morally qualified for service.

(1) A registrant who receives a Discharge Under Honorable Conditions from the Navy if the certificate shows as the reason for separation "unsuitability" or "inaptitude" or shows as the authority for separation Article D9110 or Article D9111, BuPers Manual.

(2) A registrant who receives a Discharge Under Honorable Conditions from the Coast Guard if the certificate shows as the reason for separation "unsuitability" or "inaptitude" or shows as the authority for separation Article 286 (1) (e), Article 287, or Article 390, Coast Guard Regulations.

(3) A registrant who receives an Honorable Discharge from the Marine Corps if the certificate shows as the reason therefor "unsuitability" or "inaptitude."

APPENDIX B—COMMISSIONED AND WARRANT OFFICERS

1. General. Officers and warrant officers in the land or naval forces are not given any of the forms of discharge certificates set forth above at the time of their separation from service. A registrant who was a commissioned or a warrant officer in the land or naval forces at the time of his separation or release from service shall be considered to be morally acceptable for service unless the information in the possession of the local board indicates that he was separated from service under conditions other than honorable.

2. Certain officers separated from the Army or Navy. In certain instances in which a commissioned or warrant officer is separated from the Army or the Navy under conditions other than honorable, The Adjutant General of the Army or the Chief of Naval Personnel of the Navy issues a letter to the Director for transmittal to the local board in the area of the man's residence, regarding the acceptability of such man for subsequent induction. Each such letter is in one of two forms:

(a) One form states that the man would not be acceptable for military service if presented for induction. Whenever a local board has received such a letter on a registrant, it may consider such registrant morally unacceptable for service and need take no further steps to obtain a waiver of the land or naval forces moral standards.

(b) The other form states that the man would be acceptable under the land or naval forces moral standards, if otherwise qualified, notwithstanding the conditions of his separation from service. Whenever a local board has received such a letter on a registrant, it should consider such a letter as a waiver of the moral standards of the land or naval forces insofar as his previous separation from service is concerned, and should include the letter with the records which accompany the registrant if he is forwarded to the induction station. If, however, other circumstances should arise subsequent to the date of his separation which would render him morally unacceptable for service under the provisions of Local Board Memorandum No. 77, the local board should proceed in accordance therewith to procure the removal of the registrant's moral disqualifications.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION CONCERNING SEPARATION

1. Registrants without evidence of separation. If a registrant who has been separated from the land or naval forces does not have a certificate of discharge, an order or other document as to his service, the local board should advise him to secure a certificate or other evidence in lieu thereof in the manner prescribed in Local Board Memorandum No. 79.

2. Local board request for additional information. Whenever information regarding the reason for a registrant's separation from the land or naval forces is required by the local boards and is not available from the registrant's file or cannot be determined from the registrant's certificate of discharge or letter evidencing his separation from service, the local board may request the State Director to obtain such information, using Request for Information Concerning Discharge of Serviceman (Form 177). The State Director will obtain and transmit to the local board the information requested, except that as to any information which may not be transmitted because of restrictions imposed by the land or naval forces, the State Director will advise the local board of the effect of such information on the registrant's acceptability for induction.

APPENDIX C—ARMY MORAL STANDARDS

Paragraph 13b of Army Regulations 615–500 reads as follows:

(b) Moral standards—(1) General rule. Registrants forwarded to the armed forces induction stations for preinduction physical examination or for induction will be considered morally acceptable for service in the armed forces, provided only, that a registrant whose record or previous conduct is as described in (2), (3), or (4) below must meet the applicable conditions therein specified.

(2) Discharge other than honorable and discharge under AR 615–368 and AR 615–369 or equivalent regulations. A registrant who has been previously discharged from the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, or Coast Guard with a form of discharge certificate other than honorable (in the case of discharges from the Naval services, a discharge certificate other than honorable or other than under honorable conditions), or who has been discharged under the provisions of AR 615–368 and AR 615–369 or the equivalent regulations of the other armed services, is acceptable for induction in the armed forces only in a meritorious case specifically approved by the service from which discharged. A waiver by the Army (by The Adjutant General), by the Navy (by the Chief of Naval Personnel), by the Marine Corps (by the Commandant), or by the Coast Guard (by the Commandant) of a previous discharge or separation from the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, or Coast Guard, respectively, under conditions other than honorable, or under the provisions of AR 615–368 and AR 615–369 or the equivalent regulations of the other armed services, will operate to make the registrant eligible for induction into either the Army or the Naval services, provided he meets all other standards for induction. Before such a registrant reports at an armed forces induction station, the Selective Service local board will request, through the State Director of Selective Service, a waiver of the previous discharge by the armed service concerned. The State Director will forward such a case to the commanding general of the service command who will take the following action:

(a) If the last such discharge or separation was from the Army, the request will be submitted to The Adjutant General for final action and return to the Selective Service local board through the State Director of Selective Service concerned.

(b) If the last such discharge or separation was from the Navy, Marine Corps, or Coast Guard, the request will be transmitted to the Inspector of Navy Recruiting and Induction, Joint Service Induction Area, to be forwarded by him to the Chief of Naval Personnel, to the Commandant of the Marine Corps, or to the Commandant of the Coast Guard, whichever is appropriate, for final action and return to the Selective Service local board through the State Director of Selective Service concerned.

(3) Current confinement in a penal institution for certain offenses. (a) A registrant who is currently confined in a penal institution as a result of having been convicted of treason; murder; kidnapping; arson; rape, sodomy, pandering, or other crimes involving sex perversions; or illegal dealing in or using narcotics or other habit-forming drugs is not morally acceptable for service in the Army.

(b) A registrant who is currently confined in a penal institution for a period in excess of 1 year as a result of having been convicted of a crime other than those mentioned in (a) above is morally acceptable for service in the Army only when—

(1) The local board or special panel board responsible for forwarding the registrant furnishes a written statement that in its opinion the registrant will conduct himself in such a manner as not to be a detriment to the armed forces and a recommendation that the registrant be accepted for induction into the armed forces.

(2) Without complying with the requirements of (3) below, a registrant may be forwarded for preinduction physical examination within 60 days of the date when he will be eligible for parole, pardon, or conditional release, if the local board or special panel board responsible for forwarding him—

(a) Complies with (1) above.

(b) Forwards his institutional and selective service record.

(c) Forwards with his records a certificate that it has investigated his case and is of the opinion that the warrants consideration for parole to a civilian community if he is not found to be acceptable by the armed forces, and

(d) States that the board has been advised by the authority which is empowered to grant the registrant parole, pardon, or conditional release, that the determination by the armed forces of the registrant's physical and mental acceptability will not enter into its determination either to release or not to release the registrant on parole, pardon, or conditional release, when he becomes eligible therefor.

When a registrant is forwarded for preinduction physical examination under this provision and it is found that, except for the requirement of (3) below, he would be acceptable for service in the armed forces, his records will be returned to the local board which forwarded him with a notation that his final acceptability for service in the armed forces cannot be determined until the requirements of (3) below have been complied with and the documents evidencing such compliance, together with all of the records of the registrant, and the registrant himself are again forwarded to the armed forces induction station for final determination.

(3) The authority which is empowered to grant the registrant parole, pardon, or conditional release states that—

(a) The registrant has been granted a parole, pardon, or conditional release effective on or before the date of his contemplated induction into the armed forces.

(b) If the registrant is rejected for service in the armed forces, he is suitable for and will be released to a civilian community.

(c) It recommends that the registrant be accepted for induction into the armed forces.

(d) In its opinion, the registrant will conduct himself in such a manner as not to be a detriment to the armed forces.

(e) If the registrant is accepted, custody of civil authority has been terminated effective upon his entering the armed forces, or has been suspended during the period of his military service.

(c) A registrant who is currently confined in a penal institution as a result of having been convicted of a violation of the Selective Training and Service Act of 1940, as amended, is not subject to the provisions of (b) above. Such a registrant may be given a preinduction physical examination at any time. If on such examination he is found to be acceptable for service in the armed forces he may be inducted at any time within 90 days thereafter provided he is paroled for induction into the armed forces.

(4) Certain types of criminal records. (a) A registrant who has been convicted of treason; murder; kidnapping; arson, rape, sodomy, pandering, or other crimes involving sex perversion; or illegal dealing in or using narcotics or other habit-forming drugs, but who has been given a suspended sentence, placed on probation, released on parole or conditional release, or discharged from custody, is morally acceptable for service in the Army only in especially meritorious cases approved in each instance by authority of the commanding general of the service command or department. As an essential prerequisite to such approval, it must be determined that the registrant has lived in a civilian community at least 6 months subsequent to his release from confinement and that during such period his conduct has been above reproach. If a registrant is rejected under the provisions of this paragraph, that fact will be indicated by using the square in item No. 4 on the original and copy of DSS Form

No. 218 (Certificate of Fitness). In addition, a notation will be made on the duplicate copy only of Form No. 218 to show the reason for rejection.

(b) Regardless of the offense committed, a registrant who is found to be in frequent difficulty with law enforcement authorities, or to have displayed criminal tendencies or traits of character which might render him an unfit or undesirable associate of enlisted men, or to have a record which indicates a long history of antisocial behavior, or to be otherwise of questionable reputation or moral character, is not morally acceptable for service in the armed forces. However, in any instance regarded by the Selective Service System as exceptional, the individual case may be forwarded to the commanding general of the service command or department for decision prior to forwarding the registrant for preinduction physical examination or for induction. If a registrant is rejected under the provisions of this paragraph, that fact will be indicated by using the square in item No. 4 on the original and copy of DSS Form No. 218 (Certificate of Fitness). In addition, a notation will be made on the duplicate copy only of Form No. 218 to show the reason for rejection.

(c) A registrant on parole, conditional release, probation, or suspended sentence will not be accepted for induction until the proper authority either terminates civil custody effective upon his being inducted into the armed forces, or suspends civil custody during his period of military service. If a registrant is rejected under the provisions of this paragraph, that fact will be indicated by using the square in item No. 4 on the original and copy of DSS Form No. 218 (Certificate of Fitness). In addition, a notation will be made on the duplicate copy only of Form No. 218 to show the reason for rejection.

R. 13714; Housing Expediter's Priorities Order 1, Aug. 27, 1946, 11 F. R. 9507.

PART 3294—IRON AND STEEL PRODUCTION

[Gen. Preference Order M-21, Direction 13, as Amended Sept. 18, 1946]

The following direction is issued pursuant to General Preference Order M-21:

(a) What this direction does. The continued shortage of merchant pig iron, particularly in certain areas, threatens production of railroad brake shoes and certain items critically short for the Veterans' Emergency Housing Program. It is necessary to maintain production of these items at a high level, and at the same time insure that, as far as possible, this essential demand for merchant pig iron is spread as evenly as possible among furnaces and areas, so that individual foundries are not unfairly affected. This direction no longer provides for assistance in obtaining iron castings. CC ratings may be assigned for iron castings under Priorities Regulation 28, and special help may be given to certain products under Direction 18. This direction provides for the continued allocation of merchant pig iron during the fourth quarter. This direction is necessary and appropriate in the public interest, to promote the national defense, and to effectuate the purposes of the Veterans' Emergency Housing Act of 1946.

(b) What foundries may apply. Foundries which make products on Schedule A of this direction, (including those which make components of Schedule A products and are wholly owned and operated by manufacturers of Schedule A products) may apply under this direction for authority to place a "certified order" for merchant pig iron needed to make Schedule A products.

(c) When to file. Applications should be filed on or before the 15th day of September on Form CPA-4504. The authorization will be returned by the 30th day of September, and may authorize purchases for October. Applications for November should be filed on or before October 5th, and for December by November 5th. Authorizations will be returned by the 20th.

(d) How to place a certified order.

(1) A purchase order for merchant pig iron may be certified by furnishing a certification in substantially the following form to the producer, signed as provided in Priorities Regulation 7:

> I certify, subject to the penalties of section 35A of the United States Criminal Code, that I am authorized to place this order for merchant pig iron under Direction 13 to Order M-21, Serial No. -----.

(2) Canadian purchasers of merchant pig iron. In the case of a Canadian purchaser of merchant pig iron who has been authorized pursuant to application on Form CPA-4504, a purchase order may be certified by furnishing a certification in substantially the following form:

> The undersigned purchaser certifies, subject to the penalties of Section 15 of the Canadian Wartime Industries Control Regulations, to the seller, to the Canadian Priorities Officer, and to the Civilian Production Administration, that he is authorized to place this order for merchant iron under the provisions of General Instruction Letter No. 67 and Direction 13 to Order M-21.

(e) Limitation on use of merchant pig iron obtained on certified orders. Each foundry must put into production in each month for which it receives authorization not less than the amount of merchant pig iron authorized for that month on Form CPA-4504 to make products on Schedule A.

(f) Periods for which certified orders may be placed. Orders may be certified for delivery only in the months specifically authorized on Form CPA-4504.

(g) Refusal of certified orders for merchant pig iron. A producer need not accept a certification for merchant pig iron if it is received after the 25th day of the month preceding the month in which delivery is requested, except October orders must be accepted until October 5th.

(h) Certified orders must be treated as rated orders. Certified orders must be scheduled for production in preference to all other orders except for orders covered by specific written directives issued by the Civilian Production Administration. Any purchase order certified under this direction must be treated as a rated order under Priorities Regulation 1 and accepted, scheduled, and delivered accordingly. The rules of Priorities Regulation 1 will apply, except to the extent that this direction is inconsistent with them.

(i) Equitable distribution to consumers. Producers and foundries must distribute remaining amounts of merchant pig iron and iron castings in a fair and equitable manner after filling certified and rated orders.

(j) Reports. Producers and foundries must furnish such reports as may be required by the Civilian Production Administration from time to time, subject to approval by the Budget Bureau pursuant to the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

(k) Other assistance to obtain merchant pig iron—(1) General. Preference ratings will not be assigned to the deliveries of merchant pig iron, but instead authorizations to place certified orders, or directives may be granted, as the case requires.

(2) Authorizations to place certified orders other than as provided in paragraph (b). Ordinarily, CPA may grant authorizations to place certified orders for merchant pig iron required for products other than those on Schedule A under the conditions provided in Priorities Regulation 28. However, in certain areas, for certain types of merchant pig iron, and in the case of certain furnaces, the supply available may be insufficient to guarantee most foundries a minimum economic rate. In such case, the Civilian Production Administration will grant authorizations only under the conditions described in paragraph (h) of Priorities Regulation 28.

(3) How to file. Applications under paragraph (k) (2) should be filed on Form CPA-4504 together with Form CPA-541A (with blocks 7A, 7B, 9, 12, 13, 14, and 16 only filled out). Applications should be filed and will be acted on by the Civilian Production Administration only at the times provided by paragraph (c).

Issued this 18th day of September 1946.

INDIVIDUAL ADJUSTMENT TO MAINTAIN NORMAL PEACETIME EARNINGS FOR CERTAIN INDUSTRIES

A statement of the considerations involved in the issuance of this amendment, issued simultaneously herewith, has been filed with the Division of the Federal Register.

Appendix A to Supplementary Order No. 160 is amended by adding the following industries and profit margins under the subhead "Durable Goods Branch":

Industry:	Profit percentage
Stainless steel and copper clad stainless steel cooking utensils	3

This amendment is effective September 23, 1946.

PAUL A. PORTER,
Administrator.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS INVOLVED IN THE ISSUANCE OF AMENDMENT 8 TO SUPPLEMENTARY ORDER NO. 160

The accompanying amendment makes manufacturers of stainless steel and stainless steel copper clad cooking utensils eligible for adjustments under Supplementary Order No. 160. The industry producing these products, for which maximum prices are established by Maximum Price Regulation No. 188, meet the criteria for inclusion under the order given in the statement of considerations accompanying the original issuance of the order.

The profit percentage was derived from information contained in the Office's files regarding the earnings of several representative manufacturers during the base period.

STATEMENT OF THE CONSIDERATIONS INVOLVED IN THE ISSUANCE OF AMENDMENT 6 TO MAXIMUM PRICE REGULATION 61

The accompanying amendment to Maximum Price Regulation 61 changes the regulation in the following respects: 1/ Places chamois and shearling leather under the regulation; 2/ provides two simplified forms, one for applying for or reporting a maximum price, and the other to be used by producers of leather made from specified imported raw materials; 3/ prohibits the payment of fees or commissions which may or will result in an increase in the maximum price established or determined for such leather under the regulation, 4/ certain minor changes such as deleting the phrase "optional mark-up" for the invoice requirements under Section 6 (d).

Price Schedule 61, effective December 29, 1941, established maximum prices for all leathers, including chamois and shearlings at November 6, 1941 to December 6, 1941 levels. Since both chamois and shearlings were then almost wholly allocated to the Armed Forces it was deemed advisable to except these leathers from the provisions of the Schedule. Therefore, on April 11, 1942, when Revised Price Schedule 61 was issued, chamois and shearling were specifically exempted and were automatically included under the provisions of the General Maximum Price Regulation.[1]

Although both these industries, prior to the war, included few sellers, the impetus of high prices improperly determined under the General Maximum Price Regulation for new sellers, greatly expanded the number of firms, particularly in the shearling industry. There is no indication, however, of any great increase in the volume of shearlings produced since 1942, notwithstanding the entrance of these new firms. Chamois and shearling prices have been held, in general, at March 1942 levels for almost 4½ years, since May 1942.

Increases in tanning costs throughout the leather industry became apparent early in the second quarter of 1946, and, on June 7, 1946, tanners of all leathers whose prices are established under Maximum Price Regulation 61 were granted a 6% increase under the industry earnings standard. Producers of chamois and shearlings, however, whose costs, both of raw material and tanning, are similar to those of other leather tanners, were not granted such increases since they were not subject to the leather regulation. Return of these leathers to Maximum Price Regulation 61 is expected to give relief to tanners while at the same time reducing prices for a large group of sellers of shearlings whose General Maximum Price Regulation prices were improperly established.

In place of the previous reporting requirements of Section 14, the amendment sets up a standard form in Appendix "A" for all applications for maximum price approval and all reports of maximum price determined by the seller. Although the form requires substantially the same information as was previously required under Section 14 it is expected to reduce considerably the time necessary for issuance of individual price orders under the regulation, by providing the applicant with a convenient checklist of samples and information necessary for pricing. Since all applications which are incomplete with regard to samples or information will be returned to the sender unless, as in the case of certain imported leathers, such samples cannot be obtained until the leather is priced, the backlog of incompleted actions in the Office will be reduced and handling of completed applications will be facilitated.

A new reporting form has been added to the regulation in Appendix "B" to establish for producers, a uniform procedure for reporting increased costs of rawskins. Because of the dissolution of the Combined Raw Hides and Skins Committee and the consequent increases in costs of imported raw skins, this Office has found it necessary in a number of cases, to establish price increase factors for the various leathers tanned from such skins. Heretofore the preliminary increases allowed have been based upon information covering selected portions of the industry. The industry, however, has pointed out that purchase prices vary between countries of origin and between the various purchasers. Form B provides the producer with a standard form on which he must report, whenever required by the appropriate general price order, his purchase prices and his wettings of each type of raw skin. The various segments of the industry affected by orders issued or about to be issued have indicated their desire to cooperate in this regard.

A new Section 20 has been added to the Regulation designed to prevent the changing, payment or receipt of any commission, fee or other remuneration for locating, buying, selling, or procuring any leather when such payment will or may result, directly or indirectly in a price in excess of the maximum price for such leather established or determined under Maximum Price Regulation 61. Any offer to do any of the foregoing, which, in effect, would violate the regulation is proscribed by Section 1. For the purposes of the Regulation every agent, whether acting for Buyer or Seller, is considered to be the agent of the seller. The new section is equally applicable to seller, purchaser and any third person and is added to prevent evasion of the Regulation by resort to the device of the addition of agents' or brokers' fees or commissions where the effect is to increase the price of leather beyond that established or determined in the provisions thereof.

Certain other minor changes have been made in the regulation. The exception in Section 2 (a) (1) of Maximum Price Regulation 61 has been deleted since all leathers included therein except chamois are now decontrolled. The jobber provision in Section 6 (d) has also been changed to delete the words "optional markup" from the statement which has been required to appear on the invoice. Purchasers have misunderstood the term "optional markup" and the trade is generally well acquainted with the manner in which Section 6 operates. Therefore the additional phrase is no longer necessary. The required statement which will hereafter appear on the jobber's invoice is: "This sale has been made under the provisions of Section 6 (d) of Maximum Price Regulation 61."

The definition of "importer" has been clarified to conform to the intent of Section 5. The term importer is applicable to any person who brings leather in to the Continental United States whether for resale or for industrial use.

All provisions of this amendment and their effect upon business practices, cost practices or methods, or means or aids to distribution in the industry or industries affected have been carefully considered. No provisions which might have the effect of requiring a change in such practices, means, aids or methods established in the industry or industries affected, have been included in the amendment unless such provisions have been found necessary to achieve effective price control and to prevent circumvention or evasion of the regulation or of the Act. To the extent that the provisions of this amendment compel or may operate to compel changes in business practices, cost practices or methods, or means or aids to distribution established in the industry or industries affected, such provisions are necessary to prevent circumvention or evasion of the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended.

Insofar as practicable, the Administrator has consulted with representatives of the industry affected by this amendment and has given consideration to their recommendations. In the opinion of the Administrator the maximum prices established by this amendment are fair and equitable to the industry generally and will effectuate the purposes of the Emergency Price Control Act, as amended, and Executive Orders 9250, 9328, 9599, 9651 and 9697.

SUPPLEMENTARY STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATION

This statement accompanies, and explains the reason for, the putting into effect of a new hardship price adjustment formula under section 9b of Maximum Price Regulation 594 which is adapted to the peculiar conditions of the automobile industry at the present time and is not necessarily applicable to other industries which find themselves in financial hardship.

Section 9b of Maximum Price Regulation 594 was incorporated in that regulation to permit the Administrator to adjust the reconversion maximum prices for new passenger automobiles when such prices placed manufacturers in a financial hardship position. Prior to this action automobile manufacturers were considered to be in hardship when there had been general substantial increases in basic wage rates and materials prices subsequent to the end of the period on which the maximum reconversion prices were originally based. The Administrator found general increases in basic wage rates to have occurred since the issuance of maximum reconversion prices for passenger automobiles, and in the early spring of this year authorized adjustments in these maximum prices to compensate the manufacturers for such general increases. The Administrator also found increases to have occurred in the general levels of materials prices since the original issuance of the reconversion maximum prices and on May 22 of this year adjusted such prices to reflect these general increases. The standard by which such labor and materials cost increases were reflected in maximum prices was the recomputation of the increase factor under the reconversion formula for each automobile manufacturer using in addition to the cost increases on which the then existing increase factor was based the more recent cost increases which the Administrator determined should be reflected in the maximum reconversion prices. The more recent cost increases in the case of the early spring action were increases in basic wage rates and in the case of the May 22d action were increases in the general level of materials prices.

Despite a period of reconversion exceeding a year, automobile manufacturers as a whole have not been able to reach 1941 volume and in some cases the rate of production is substantially below the average 1941 rate. All companies face substantial difficulties in obtaining parts, semifinished and raw materials in normal quantities from normal sources. As a result, certain segments of the industry are in a current loss position and cannot reasonably be expected to reach a break-even point within the near future under present factory prices. It is the judgment of the Administrator that under these circumstances the Agency's maximum price adjustment policy regarding car manufacturers should be revised. From the date of issuance of this statement, the Administrator therefore will apply a new adjustment policy to car manufacturers in an over-all loss position and with little prospect of early change from that position. In doing so, the Administrator will use a temporary adjustment formula which recognizes, in addition to cost elements contained in the reconversion pricing formula, those elements of cost which are not attributable directly to low volume, labor inefficiency or other factors which, upon examination of all evidence available at this time appear fairly clearly to be temporary "bulge" costs.

For the reasons indicated above it is not appropriate to accept current recorded costs at their face value. Instead, the formula will permit the calculation for use during a period not to exceed 6 months, of an adjusted price increase factor over January 1941 prices. The adjusted price increase factor differs from the original price increase factor calculated under the reconversion formula in the following respects:

(1) The materials cost increase factor over 1941 materials cost will be based on August 31, 1946 recorded parts and materials purchase prices except where they reflect unusual purchasing procedures such as buying in abnormally small quantities, buying from a more distant or otherwise exceptional supply source, paying excess freight by reason of shipping a part to several different processors, or using a high proportion of uneconomical substitute materials or parts. The material increase factor so calculated will be applied to the cost of direct materials, indirect materials, and any supplies which might be included in commercial expense.

(2) Increases in direct and indirect factory labor cost shall be computed by using the percentage increase in average hourly earnings from January 1, 1941 to August 31, 1946 with allowance for increases in all fringe items such as paid lunch and wash-up periods. In addition increases in general, Administrative and selling salaries during the January 1, 1941 to August 31, 1946 period shall be included in the price increase factor up to an amount reflecting the increase factor for direct and indirect labor cost.

(3) Recorded vacation pay and Social Security taxes, applicable to all hourly labor and salaried employees shall be allowed in full.

(4) The profit factor shall reflect the same percentage profit as the one used in the reconversion formula which is the company's own 1936–39 average profit on cost before taxes, or 4.9 percent whichever is higher.

The price increase factor is to be determined by dividing the aggregate sales shown in the 1940–41 profit and loss statement into the statement of current adjusted costs and allowable profit as calculated in accordance with the formula referred to above. Where the increase factor yields a lower adjusted current cost than current recorded cost, the new maximum price shall be the January 1941 price for the corresponding model increased by the new increase factor, plus allowances for specification changes.

It is the opinion of the Administrator that in view of present and abnormal fluctuating conditions surrounding the production of automobiles temporary relief for a company which finds itself in financial hardship under such conditions should not exceed an amount necessary to allow the company to break even. Therefore, if the new increase factor yields adjusted current cost higher than current recorded cost, the new increase factor shall be reduced in proportion to the excess amount and then applied to the January 1941 price for the corresponding model, plus allowances for specification changes. Similar adjustments are available in the case of optional equipment.

In view of the relatively unstable conditions surrounding the availability of materials and the outlook on volume, it seems desirable to re-examine the position of the industry after the expiration of a reasonable test period. Therefore, any adjustment granted under the new hardship formula is to be temporary but subject to review and extension or modification after the end of the period of adjustment.

Issued this 16th day of September 1946.

Administrator.

PART 1388—DEFENSE-RENTAL AREAS

HOTELS AND ROOMING HOUSES

Section 1 (b) (7) (i) of the Rent Regulation for Hotels and Rooming Houses is amended to read as follows:

(7) Resort housing—(i) Exemption—(a) Summer resort housing. Rooms located in a resort community and customarily rented or occupied on a seasonal basis prior to October 1, 1945, which were not rented during any portion of the period beginning on November 1, 1943, and ending on February 29, 1944.

This exemption shall be effective only from June 1, 1946 to September 30, 1946, inclusive.

(b) Winter resort housing. Rooms located in a resort community and customarily rented or occupied on a seasonal basis prior to the effective date of the regulation in the area, which were not rented during any portion of the period beginning on June 1, 1946, and ending on September 30, 1946.

This exemption shall be effective only from October 1, 1946, to May 31, 1947, inclusive.

Effective September 18, 1946.

STATEMENT TO ACCOMPANY AMENDMENT 100 TO THE RENT REGULATION FOR HOUSING, AMENDMENT 94 TO THE RENT REGULATION FOR HOTELS AND ROOMING HOUSES, AMENDMENT 25 TO THE RENT REGULATION FOR HOUSING IN THE MIAMI DEFENSE-RENTAL AREA AND AMENDMENT 21 TO THE RENT REGULATION FOR HOTELS AND ROOMING HOUSES IN THE MIAMI DEFENSE-RENTAL AREA

This amendment exempts from the provisions of the housing, hotel and rooming house regulations, during the coming fall and winter season, strictly seasonal housing accommodations not rented during the summer of 1946. Only those units will qualify for exemption which were located in a winter resort community, were customarily rented on a seasonal basis prior to the effective date of the regulation in the particular area and were not rented during the period from June 1, 1946, to September 30, 1946.

During the war emergency there was in many winter resort areas an all year-round demand for houses and rooms. The Administrator by this amendment has recognized the fact that since the removal of military installations and war industries which were located in or nearby the resort areas some of these communities have now a purely seasonal tourist trade.

The Administrator is of the opinion that the exemption of this type of housing from regulation will have no detrimental effect on the stabilization program.

In the judgment of the Price Administrator, these amendments are necessary and proper in order to effectuate the purposes of the Emergency Price Control Act. No provisions which might have the effect of requiring a change in established rental practices have been included in the amendments unless such provisions have been found necessary to achieve effective rent control and to prevent circumvention or evasion of the rent regulations and the Act. To the extent that the provisions of these amendments compel or may operate to compel changes in established rental practices, such provisions are necessary to prevent circumvention or evasion of the rent regulations and the Act.

[1] If you are a producer qualified under S. O. No. 131 to charge Band A or Band AA prices for carded or combed yarn, of if you are a producer, commission dyer, jobber or other seller of dyed yarn who pays Band A or Band AA prices for the carded or combed grey yarns used in the dyed yarn you are pricing, use the applicable columns under Band A or Band AA, whichever is appropriate. All other sellers must use the Band B columns.

[2] Any seller of dyed yarn, who normally purchased the major portion of grey yarn used in his dyed sales yarn, may include in the August 5 ceiling price, the 5% producers' premium, if such premium was actually charged for the grey yarn used in the dyed yarn being priced. Producers pricing dyed sales yarn may not include the 5% producers' premium for grey yarn, whether spun or purchased, in their computation of dyed yarn maximum prices. In all cases, the cents per pound increase factors in Columns 2, 4, and 6 will be used as set forth.

This amendment shall become effective September 18, 1946.

PAUL A. PORTER,
Administrator.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS INVOLVED IN THE ISSUANCE OF AMENDMENT NO. 55 TO SUPPLEMENTARY REGULATION 14E

The accompanying amendment grants to Band AA producers of dyed yarns the same increases which are being given grey yarns by Amendment 33 to Supplementary Order No. 131 which is being issued simultaneously with this amendment. The action is accomplished by substituting for the table containing August 5th carded and combed grey yarn ceilings the table subsequently issued in Amendment 33 for Band AA. Amendment 33 ceilings reflect the wage increase approved and first announced by the National Wage Stabilization Board on September 6, 1946. This action is being taken in accordance with the previous practice of treating dyed yarns in the same manner as the major items of carded and combed yarns. The considerations involved in the issuance of this amendment are the same as those set forth in the statement of considerations issued with Amendment 33 to Supplementary Order No. 131.

PART 1388—DEFENSE-RENTAL AREAS

HOTELS AND ROOMING HOUSES IN MIAMI AREA

Section 1 (b) of the Rent Regulation for Hotels and Rooming Houses in the Miami Defense-Rental Area is amended by adding the following paragraph:

(7) Winter resort housing. Rooms located in a resort community and customarily rented or occupied on a seasonal basis prior to October 15, 1943, which were not rented during any portion of the period beginning on June 1, 1946, and ending on September 30, 1946.

This exemption shall be effective only from October 1, 1946, to May 31, 1947, inclusive.

Effective September 18, 1946.

PAUL A. PORTER,
Administrator.

STATEMENT TO ACCOMPANY AMENDMENT 100 TO THE RENT REGULATION FOR HOUSING, AMENDMENT 94 TO THE RENT REGULATION FOR HOTELS AND ROOMING HOUSES, AMENDMENT 25 TO THE RENT REGULATION FOR HOUSING IN THE MIAMI DEFENSE-RENTAL AREA AND AMENDMENT 21 TO THE RENT REGULATION FOR HOTELS AND ROOMING HOUSES IN THE MIAMI DEFENSE-RENTAL AREA

This amendment exempts from the provisions of the housing, hotel and rooming house regulations, during the coming fall and winter season, strictly seasonal housing accommodations not rented during the summer of 1946. Only those units will qualify for exemption which were located in a winter resort community, were customarily rented on a seasonal basis prior to the effective date of the regulation in the particular area and were not rented during the period from June 1, 1946, to September 30, 1946.

During the war emergency there was in many winter resort areas an all-year-round demand for houses and rooms. The Administrator by this amendment has recognized the fact that since the removal of military installations and war industries which were located in or near by the resort areas some of these communities have now a purely seasonal tourist trade.

The Administrator is of the opinion that the exemption of this type of housing from regulation will have no detrimental effect on the stabilization program.

In the judgment of the Price Administrator, these amendments are necessary and proper in order to effectuate the purposes of the Emergency Price Control Act. No provisions which might have the effect of requiring a change in established rental practices have been included in the amendments unless such provisions have been found necessary to achieve effective rent control and to prevent circumvention or evasion of the rent regulations and the Act. To the extent that the provisions of these amendments compel or may operate to compel changes in established rental practices, such provisions are necessary to prevent circumvention or evasion of the rent regulations and the Act.

PART 1305—ADMINISTRATION

REVISED MAXIMUM PRICES FOR CERTAIN COTTON TEXTILES

A statement of considerations involved in the issuance of this amendment has been issued simultaneously herewith and filed with the Division of the Federal Register.

Supplementary Order No. 131 is amended in the following respects:

1. In section 1 (b) insert the following after the second undesignated paragraph:

Band AA maximum prices were established on September 18, 1946 and in most cases provide for a percentage increase over the Band A ceilings in effect on August 15, 1946.

2. Section 1 (c) (4) is amended to read as follows:

(4) Band A and Band AA prices may be charged only by those producers who meet the requirements set forth in section 2 below. Such prices may only be charged by a producer who receives an acknowledgment from OPA of the required certification that he is paying a wage increase of a specified minimum amount for the Band concerned, except that a producer who is eligible to make certification for Band AA may charge the price applicable to such Band for deliveries made prior to October 15, 1946, even if he has not received acknowledgment of such certification.

3. The caption of section 2 is amended to read as follows: "To whom Band A and Band AA ceilings apply, certification."

4. Section 2 (c) is amended to read as follows:

(c) Notwithstanding paragraph (h) below, any producer upon becoming eligible to make any of the certifications there mentioned may charge Band AA ceilings for deliveries made prior to October 15, 1946.

5. Section 2 (h) is added to read as follows:

(h) Band AA certification. (1) A producer may certify that he is eligible to charge Band AA prices if (i) his average current straight time wage rates exceed those which he was paying when he qualified to charge Band A prices by 5 cents per hour and (ii) the wage increase involved has been approved pursuant to Executive Order 9697. Any producer who has not certified and received acknowledgment of his eligibility to charge Band A prices must do so in compliance with the provisions set forth in sections 2 (b), 2 (d) or 2 (g) above in order to establish his eligibility for Band AA. However, certifications for Band A and Band AA may be made at the same time.

(2) Notwithstanding (1) above, any producer may certify that he is eligible to charge Band AA prices if (i) he is now paying wage rates at least 15 cents an hour, across-the-board, above the guide post rates published by the Southern Textile Commission on August 30, 1945, or at least 13 cents an hour across-the-board above the occupational rates established in the Textile Directive Steering Committee Case by the Northern Textile Commission of the National War Labor Board; and (ii) the wage increase involved has been approved pursuant to Executive Order 9697.

(3) Notwithstanding (1) above any producer may certify that he is eligible to charge Band AA prices if (i) he is paying a minimum wage of at least 70 cents per hour and an average hourly straight-time wage of at least 95 cents per hour and (ii) the wage increase involved has been approved pursuant to Executive Order 9697.

(4) The certifications referred to above shall be filed with the Textile Price Branch, Office of Price Administration, Washington 25, D. C. Those which meet the requirements of this paragraph (h) shall be acknowledged within 10 days of their filing and the acknowledgments shall bear a number and the following words: "Band AA OPA No. " Each producer receiving such acknowledgment shall thereafter include the words: "Band AA OPA No. " (together with the number assigned) on all invoices covering sales or deliveries at Band AA prices, except that prior to October 15, 1946, any producer eligible to charge Band AA who has not received a Band AA OPA number must state on all such invoices "Band AA OPA Number Pending".

6. To section 3c (b) (2) (i) add "Reference No. 41".

7. Section 6 is amended to read as follows:

Any person who on or after August 5, 1946 contracted to sell goods subject to Revised Price Schedule No. 7, Maximum Price Regulation No. 11, Maximum Price Regulation No. 33, Revised Price Schedule No. 35, Maximum Price Regulation No. 39, Revised Price Schedule No. 89 or Maximum Price Regulation No. 118, and who reserved the right to charge, on undelivered portions thereof, such additional wage increase factor as may be established by the Office of Price Administration, and who is now eligible to charge Band AA prices, may charge, on any such undelivered portions of such contracts, the following amount as the additional wage increase factor:

The difference between the maximum price in effect on August 15, 1946 and the Band AA maximum price as established [2] in section 3b of this order with respect to the goods being priced.

The adjustable pricing permission granted by section 6 on August 5, 1946 is hereby revoked.

8. Section 3c (d) is added to read as follows:

(d) (1) The cents-per-pound of cotton increases granted by sections 3c (a), 3c (b), and 3c (c) may be adjusted to offset required trade or cash discounts prior to their addition to the base ceiling prices set forth in section 3b above. To adjust the increase for required cash or trade discounts, a divisional factor, obtained by subtracting the required percentage discount from 100, may be applied to the cents-per-pound increase factor.

(2) The increase factors whether or not adjusted in accordance with (1) above, are to be applied to the weight of the clean cotton content of the textile item priced in the applicable basic regulation. The finished weight is to be used as the basis for goods sold and priced in the finished state and the gray weight for those sold and priced in the gray.

9. The caption of section 3b is amended to read as follows: "Revised Band A and Band B maximum prices and Brand AA maximum prices."

10. Sections 3b (a) to 3b (q) inclusive are amended to read as follows:

(a) (1) How to compute Band AA ceilings. (i) Where Band AA sets forth a percentage increase factor:

(a) Increase the August 15, 1946 Band A ceiling (exclusive of a 5% incentive) by the percentage set forth.

(b) Add the August 30th cotton increase factor (2.34 cents per pound or 2.73 cents per pound, whichever is applicable) established in 3c.

(c) Increase the sum of (a) and (b) above by the 5% incentive where applicable.

(ii) When Band AA sets forth dollars and cents prices:

(a) Add the August 30th cotton increase factor (2.34 cents per pound or 2.73 cents per pound whichever is applicable) to the dollars and cents price set forth.

(b) Increase the price computed in (a) above by the 5% incentive where applicable.

(2) The maximum prices established by section 3 (a) for the goods covered therein and bearing the reference numbers there set forth and repeated below are increased as follows:

(z) The premiums for mercerized, bleached, and/or gassed cotton yarns and the maximum prices for mercerizing, bleaching, and/or gassing cotton yarns, now covered by § 1307.12 (d) (4) (vi) of RPS 7 and § 1307.69 of MPR 33, shall be increased 13¾ percent.

15. Section 3c (c) is amended by adding the following thereto: "The Band AA maximum price shall be a percentage 'on the list' of 0.36%."

This amendment shall become effective September 18, 1946, except that paragraph 6 of this amendment shall be effective as of August 30, 1946.

PAUL A. PORTER,
Administrator.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS INVOLVED IN AMENDMENT NO. 33 TO SUPPLEMENTARY ORDER NO. 131

The accompanying amendment revises producers' maximum prices for each major item of cotton textiles to reflect a five cents per hour wage increase approved and first announced by the National Wage Stabilization Board on September 6, 1946. This amendment is being issued in compliance with the legislative requirement that maximum prices for major items of cotton textiles shall be not less than the sum of current cotton cost, conversion costs (including approved wage increases), and the average 1939–1941 unit profit.

In general, the wage increase actually paid amounted to 8 cents per hour. Of this sum, only 5 cents per hour was approved by the National Wage Stabilization Board. As pointed out in the Board's ruling: "A wage increase which is not approved is nevertheless lawful and may be effected or continued in effect notwithstanding lack of Board approval. Lack of approval of the wage increase, or any part thereof, means, however, that such increase, to the extent not approved, may not be used, in whole or in part, as a basis for price relief or for increasing cost to the Government." Since the approved five cents per hour wage increase, when paid, results in greater conversion costs, which must be recognized by this office, the accompanying amendment is being issued to establish new ceiling prices to reflect this additional factor. Following the pattern previously set by the Administrator with respect to recognition of approved wage increases, a new Band AA has been added to the Regulation.

The increases in maximum prices necessitated by the wage increase were computed, for each major item, on the basis of their August 15, 1946 ceilings. In most instances, Band AA sets forth percentage increase factors although for yarns and fine goods new dollars and cents prices are established. It should be emphasized that Band AA does not include the August 30 cotton increase factor or the 5% incentive, where the latter is applicable. In order to arrive at maximum prices, these increase factors are to be added to the figures computed by the use of Band AA.

A producer who meets the criteria set forth below is eligible to charge Band AA maximum prices and shall certify to the OPA that he is eligible. The OPA will then acknowledge his certification and will furnish him with an Band AA OPA number which must appear on all invoices of goods sold at Band AA ceilings. After the effective date of this amendment and prior to October 15, 1946 an eligible producer who has not yet received his Band AA number may charge Band AA ceilings if he places on the appropriate invoices the notation "Band AA OPA Number Pending". However, if he does not have an official Band AA OPA number by October 15, 1946 he may not charge Band AA ceilings thereafter until he obtains one. Certifications will be acknowledged promptly by the OPA.

A producer is eligible to charge Band AA ceilings if he meets any one of the following three criteria:

1. He is paying a wage which is 5 cents per hour higher, on the average than the level which qualified him (or would qualify him) for Band A; or

2. He is paying a wage which is 15 cents an hour above the guide post rates established by the Southern Textile Commission or 13 cents per hour above the guide post rates established by the Northern Textile Commission; or

3. His minimum wage is 70 cents per hour and his average wage is 95 cents per hour.

A producer who has a Band A number may make his certification by means of a letter stating which of the above criteria he meets and setting forth his Band A number. He must submit a copy of the National Wage Stabilization Board approval of the increase over the level which qualified him for Band A. However, if his approval were granted in the form of a preapproval ruling, as was done in the area of the Fourth Regional Wage Stabilization Board, he need not submit a copy of the ruling but he must refer to it. No producer who has a Band A number need submit OPA Form 6066–2798.

A producer who does not have a Band A number but grants wage increases to an extent that will qualify him for Band AA, may certify for Band AA. However, he must submit Form 6066–2798, in addition to the statement of the criterion under which he meets Band AA standards and a copy of the National Wage Stabilization Board approval which qualifies him for Band AA.

Band B and Band A prices still prevail. Any producer may still charge Band B prices. The criteria for charging Band A ceilings and the manner of certification for Band A remain unchanged.

The major items of carded and combed yarns are expanded to include merino yarns, which are combination cotton and wool yarns composed primarily of cotton. Merino yarns were priced under Revised Price Schedule 58. Specific ceiling prices were set forth therein for yarns containing 50% wool and 50% cotton, while the prices originally established under the General Maximum Price Regulation prevailed for other combinations. Merino yarns were placed under price control later than grey yarns and consequently had much more favorable profit margins. In addition, their wool costs have not increased.

Furthermore, the half-cotton half-wool yarns, which include the majority of merino yarn production enjoy a five percent incentive premium. In view of the foregoing, it is the Administrator's opinion that merino yarns need not be given all the increases granted to the cotton yarn major items but may best be brought into the proper relationship with the yarn major items by being given the price increases granted such major items since July 1, 1946.

Accordingly, this amendment sets forth cents-per-pound adjustment factors which include the adjustments granted to all-cotton yarns on August 5 and August 30, plus an allowance for the wage increase approved and first announced by the National Wage Stabilization Board on September 6, 1946. The proportion of the applicable adjustment factor which may be added to the ceiling price shall be the same as the proportion of cotton in the merino yarn. For example, the factor for 20's single yarns is 13.14 cents per pound. In the case of a 20's single yarn composed of 60% cotton and 40% wool, there would be added to the existing ceiling price 60% of 13.14 cents, or 7.884 cents. A five per cent incentive, if any, would be added as the final step. The adjustments set forth for merino yarns in this amendment are of an interim nature, pending the completion of an accounting survey at the mills.

The Tables in RPS 7 and MPR 33 are amended to increase by 13¾ percent, the (1) premiums for cotton yarn which is mercerized, bleached and/or gassed, and the (2) maximum prices for mercerizing, bleaching, or gassing such yarn. This action is being taken in conformance with the product standard and returns to yarn processors the current total weighted average cost of these specified operations.

The accompanying amendment also provides that the cents-per-pound increase factors set forth in Amendment 32 to Supplementary Order No. 131 shall not be reduced by any terms or trade discounts required by OPA regulations. Producers may accomplish this by increasing the cents-per-pound factors to an extent which would result in the same cents-per-pound factor after a discount is removed from the maximum price. For example, a producer granted a 2.34 cents per pound increase who is required to allow a discount of 2% in certain cases, may divide 2.34 by 100 minus 2%, or 98%. This gives a revised factor of 2.388. The revised factor is then used in calculations of maximum prices for persons granting a 2% discount. Thus when the 2% discount is taken from the ceiling price the producer will still have advantage of the full 2.34 cents and will not be required to absorb any of it. In all such cases, any 5% incentive involved will be added as the final step in computing a price before discount.

The accompanying amendment also permits the ceilings of combed bed linens to be increased by 2.73 cents per pound, effective August 30, 1946. Through inadvertence this product was given no increase in Amendment 32, effective August 30, 1946.

In order to clarify the method by which the August 30 cotton increase factors granted in Amendment 32 are applied, it should be explained that they are to be applied to the finished weight of goods sold in the finished state and to the grey weight of goods sold in the grey state. In the case of bed sheets, for instance, the increase factor would be applied to the finished item. It should be repeated that only the clean cotton content of an item is affected by the increase factor. Cotton waste content, for example, would not be subject to the increase.

[Housing, Miami Area, Amdt. 25 (§ 1388.1341)]

HOUSING IN MIAMI AREA

Section 1 (b) of the Rent Regulation for Housing in the Miami Defense-Rental Area is amended by adding the following paragraph:

(6) Winter resort housing. Housing accommodations located in a resort community and customarily rented or occupied on a seasonal basis prior to November 1, 1943, which were not rented during any portion of the period beginning on June 1, 1946 and ending on September 30, 1946.

This exemption shall be effective only from October 1, 1946, to May 31, 1947, inclusive.

Effective September 18, 1946.

PAUL A. PORTER,
Administrator.

STATEMENT TO ACCOMPANY AMENDMENT 100 TO THE RENT REGULATION FOR HOUSING, AMENDMENT 94 TO THE RENT REGULATION FOR HOTELS AND ROOMING HOUSES, AMENDMENT 25 TO THE RENT REGULATION FOR HOUSING IN THE MIAMI DEFENSE-RENTAL AREA AND AMENDMENT 21 TO THE RENT REGULATION FOR HOTELS AND ROOMING HOUSES IN THE MIAMI DEFENSE-RENTAL AREA

This amendment exempts from the provisions of the housing, hotel and rooming house regulations, during the coming fall and winter season, strictly seasonal housing accommodations not rented during the summer of 1946. Only those units will qualify for exemption which were located in a winter resort community, were customarily rented on a seasonal basis prior to the effective date of the regulation in the particular area and were not rented during the period from June 1, 1946, to September 30, 1946.

During the war emergency there was in many winter resort areas an all year-round demand for houses and rooms. The Administrator by this amendment has recognized the fact that since the removal of military installations and war industries which were located in or near-by the resort areas some of these communities have now a purely seasonal tourist trade.

The Administrator is of the opinion that the exemption of this type of housing from regulation will have no detrimental effect on the stabilization program.

In the judgment of the Price Administrator, these amendments are necessary and proper in order to effectuate the purposes of the Emergency Price Control Act. No provisions which might have the effect of requiring a change in established rental practices have been included in the amendments unless such provisions have been found necessary to achieve effective rent control and to prevent circumvention or evasion of the rent regulations and the Act. To the extent that the provisions of these amendments compel or may operate to compel changes in established rental practices, such provisions are necessary to prevent circumvention or evasion of the rent regulations and the Act.

PART 1347—PAPER, PAPER PRODUCTS, RAW MATERIALS FOR PAPER AND PAPER PRODUCTS, PRINTING AND PUBLISHING

WASTEPAPER

A statement of the considerations involved in the issuance of this amendment, issued simultaneously herewith, has been filed with the Division of the Federal Register.

Maximum Price Regulation 30 is amended in the following respect:

Section 1347.11 (a) (2) of Maximum Price Regulation 30 is amended to read as follows:

(2) "Wastepaper" includes papers and paper products which have been used or discarded, or which result as by-products from a manufacturing or conversion operation, or which are sold for reuse in a manufacturing or conversion operation involving repulping, shredding, or grinding.

It includes all grades listed in paragraph (a) of § 1347.14 of this Maximum Price Regulation 30 and all specialty grades under paragraph (c) of this Maximum Price Regulation 30 regardless of the use for which purchased or sold.

This amendment shall become effective September 18, 1946.

JAMES G. ROGERS, Jr.,
Acting Administrator.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS INVOLVED IN THE ISSUANCE OF AMENDMENT 20 TO MAXIMUM PRICE REGULATION 30

The accompanying amendment to Maximum Price Regulation 30 modifies the definition of "wastepaper" to include specifically under the regulation all grades in Appendix A regardless of the use for which bought or sold. Previously it was held that grades sold for use as packing and wrapping were exempt from the regulation. This exempted wastepaper consisted largely of "over-issue news" and "No. 1 news", which types have been sold largely for export use. Until recently the exemption of this wastepaper had no harmful diversionary consequences because of the small export trade. With the gradual resumption of export trade a large amount of wastepaper has been diverted to the detriment of domestic users. The diversionary consequences are especially disturbing at this time because of the difficulty manufacturers of liner for wallboard have had in obtaining wastepaper for the production of this commodity, which is essential to the housing program.

The maximum prices that will apply to the wastepaper sold for packing or wrapping are the same as those applicable to others sales. The Administrator considers these prices to be generally fair and equitable on the basis of past experience and discussions with industry representatives.

While wastepaper in general was normally channeled through established wastepaper dealers, the exempt sales of wastepaper for packing or wrapping purposes have to a large extent recently been through export dealers who have normally not engaged in this business to any extent.

To the extent practicable, the Administrator has advised and consulted with representatives of the industry which will be affected by this amendment and has given due consideration to their recommendations.

The amendment is consistent with and will effectuate the purposes of the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended, and of Executive Order No. 9599.

[MPR 53, Amdt. 70]

ACIDLESS TALLOW OIL AND ACIDLESS TALLOW

A statement of the considerations involved in the issuance of this amendment has been issued simultaneously herewith and filed with the Division of the Federal Register.

Article 14 of Maximum Price Regulation No. 53 is amended by adding section 14.3 to read as follows:

SEC. 14.3 Maximum prices of acidless tallow oil, acidless tallow on sales to soap makers. No addition over the listed prices set out in section 14.1 above may be charged for sales of any tallow or grease to soap makers, except that for sales to such purchasers of acidless tallow oil and/or acidless tallow having a minimum titre of 41.5 degrees, a free fatty acid ranging from zero to 2 percent, an M. I. U. content of not more than 1 percent and a maximum untreated, unbleached F. A. C. color No. 7, the ceiling price shall be the ceiling price for fancy tallow as set out in section 14.1 above plus ¼ of a cent per pound.

This amendment shall become effective September 23, 1946.

PAUL A. PORTER,
Administrator.

Prior to price control of fats and oil, acidless tallow oil and/or acidless tallow were principally used as a lubricating oil in steam cylinders. The product is made from a good grade of inedible tallow either choice or prime tallow which is pressed in the same manner as lard oil or neatsfoot oil to extract the acidless tallow oil and/or tallow. This product is further refined to take out excessive acids and impurities. Rigid specifications were established by the companies manufacturing this product, and prior to price control only about nine companies in the United States were equipped to produce and did produce acidless tallow and/or oil. These specifications included F. F. A., Cloud test, Titre, Flash point, Fire point, Specific gravity, Baume, Sap. No., Iodine Number and Color. The product was used by petroleum companies blended with a paraffin mineral oil base and is also used by cotton mills for sizing cloth as well as being used by lard oil manufacturers in combination with lard oil. In addition some of the product is used to recover copper in cyanamid tanks. Some acidless tallow oil is also used in wire and tube drawing.

Prior to price control acidless tallow oil was not used by soap manufacturers. The specifications enumerated above with the exception of free fatty acid and were not commercially important to the soap makers. Increasing numbers of complaints have been received by the Office of Price Administration both from soap manufacturers and from sellers of tallow and grease to the effect that certain segments of the industry are selling what is called an acidless tallow oil and/or tallow to soap manufacturers. They charge for this product a premium up to three and three-quarter cents over fancy tallow, the best grade of tallow. As a matter of fact the information received by this Office is that in most cases such product is not acidless tallow oil at all but in many cases is no more than fancy tallow and even in some cases a grade of tallow inferior to fancy tallow.

The present amendment provides a flat price on all sales of acidless tallow oil and/or tallow to soap manufacturers. The price fixed is one-fourth of a cent over the ceiling for fancy tallow and is more than ample to compensate tallow and grease manufacturers for any additional cost in reducing the free fatty acid from the four percent maximum provided for fancy tallow to the two percent provided for acidless tallow oil and/or tallow. Sales of acidless tallow oil and/or tallow to those users who used this commodity prior to price control will remain under Article 2 of Maximum Price Regulation No. 53 at the individual freeze price provided in that Article. In the future, however, no sale to a soap manufacturer may be made at any price in excess of one-fourth cent over the price for fancy tallow.

Many conferences have been had by members of the Fats and Oil Section of the Office of Price Administration with both the manufacturers of tallow and grease as well as with the users of these products and members of the Inedible Animal Fat Producers Industry Advisory Committee have been informally contacted prior to the issuance of this amendment.

All provisions of this amendment and their effect upon business practices, cost practices or methods, or means or aids to distribution in the industry or industries affected have been considered carefully. No provisions which might have the effect of requiring a change in such practice, means, aids or methods established in the industry or industries affected, have been included in the amendment unless such provisions have been found necessary to achieve effective price control and to prevent circumvention or evasion of the regulation. To the extent that the provisions of this amendment compel or may operate to compel changes in business practices, cost practices or methods, or means or aids to distribution established in the industry or industries affected, such provisions are necessary to prevent circumvention or evasion of this regulation or of the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended.

SECTION 1. Purpose of this order. This order prescribes and explains the rules governing the preparation, filing and processing of applications for price increases under the statutory product pricing provision in section 6 of the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended. (For convenient reference, this provision will be called the "product pricing amendment".) The product pricing amendment authorizes the Administrator to establish fair and reasonable methods of calculation to be used in applying the standards it prescribes. Such methods as established by the Administrator are included within the rules set forth in this order.

This order is comprehensive and detailed in explaining the standards of the product pricing amendment and the rules relating to applications for adjustment under that amendment so that industry members may thoroughly understand the standards of the product pricing amendment and the rules of the Administrator and so that committee requests may be accepted without change in many cases and in general be more expeditiously processed by the Office of Price Administration.

While it should be possible for many committees to comply with the requirements of the product pricing amendment and this order without consultation with OPA representatives, the Administrator urges that committees thoroughly discuss with OPA representatives their proposed applications under the amendment and problems involved in its application to their industries. The application of the product pricing amendment will produce a number of difficult and exceptional problems. The Administrator has attempted to foresee and expressly provide for these in this order, without the need of further authorization, to the greatest extent considered practicable. However, the order indicates that the Administrator may exercise his discretion in a few situations.

Revised Procedural Regulation No. 1, which contains rules relating to applications for adjustment in general, does not apply to applications pursuant to the product pricing amendment.

SEC. 2. The effect of the product pricing amendment. The product pricing amendment prescribes a new pricing standard for the establishment of "adequate general price levels" to "bring about maximum production and employment." This new standard, which the OPA is required to use only upon application by an industry advisory committee—called the "applicant committee" in this order—is to be used only on an industry-wide basis (as distinguished from individual adjustments). It applies to major products of a producing, manufacturing, or processing industry,[1] or an industry furnishing service or transportation the charges for which are subject to OPA control. However, it does not apply to products made in whole or in major part from cotton or cotton yarn or wool or wool yarn.

The basic standard calls for the adjustment of the maximum prices of the product to the extent that, on the average, they fail to cover the average dollar price of the product in 1940 plus the average increase in its cost since 1940. However, the extent of the price increase required by the basic standard is subject to the two following limitations:

(a) Where the average maximum price as increased by the basic standard would be higher than the product's current average cost plus the industry's average over-all percentage profit on sales in 1940, the maximum prices need be raised no higher than the latter level.

(b) Where the average maximum price as increased by the basic standard would be higher than the product's current average cost plus a reasonable profit, the maximum prices need be raised no higher than the latter level, unless the output and the use of the product can be substantially increased without curtailing the product of any other product at least equally needed.

[1] As used in this order, the term "industry" refers to the group of firms making the product in question.

The standards used by OPA prior to the enactment of the product pricing amendment in meeting the statutory requirements that maximum prices be generally fair and equitable will continue to apply to all products. Where the new standard allows a higher ceiling for a major product than the old standards, the higher level will be allowed after the filing of an industry advisory committee application in accordance with this order.

The OPA will continue to use such discretionary standards as are appropriate to achieve the purposes of the price control legislation and applicable Executive Orders. The product pricing amendment expressly allows the Administrator to continue to make individual seller adjustments. The applicable regulations will control such adjustments.

SEC. 3. Right to apply. Any industry advisory committee may apply for a maximum price increase in accordance with the standards of the product pricing amendment as to a product within the scope of the committee. An increase under that amendment is not required upon the application of any person or group of persons other than an industry advisory committee formed in accordance with Procedural Regulation No. 13. New committees for products not within the scope of previously established committees may be organized in accordance with that procedural regulation.

SEC. 4. Advance approval of advisory committee proposals. In order to expedite the adjusting of maximum prices under the product pricing amendment and avoid unnecessary work, the Administrator will give his opinion to an industry advisory committee or its representatives, such as counsel or a task committee, in advance of the filing of an application, as to certain points that might be otherwise be uncertain and controversial. In any case, upon request, the Administrator will give his advance approval or disapproval of the following:

(a) The selection of the product;

(b) The proposed sample of firms for the industry survey;

(c) The substitution of a period other than 1936–39 as a normal peacetime period for purposes of Alternative B in section 5 (b) (3);

(d) Whether the information requested by a form prepared by a committee or its representatives meets the requirements of this order;

(e) The omission from the application of data relating to one of the three amounts to be considered under the product pricing amendment, because it clearly appears without collecting the relevant data and making the exact computations that the amount would be larger than one or both of the others and hence would not be controlling (See section 5, footnote 2);

(f) The use of the special method of computation set forth in paragraph (c) of Appendix C for use when the product is comprised of two or more articles differing substantially in size, cost and specifications (other than differences solely in price line or quality), and the proportions of sales of those various articles have changed substantially since 1939.

The Administrator will consider requests that he give such advance approval to proposals regarding other problems that may be met and give an advance opinion whenever he considers it proper to do so. Unless any such advance opinion given by the Administrator indicates otherwise, the opinion may be relied upon by the committee in preparing its application and any facts or proposals agreed to or approved by the Administrator in advance will not be questioned by him in passing upon the application. Such advance approval must be requested by a letter to the Administrator. Only a written opinion of the Administrator in response to such request may be considered an advance opinion with the consequences described above.

SEC. 5. Application of the standard of the product pricing amendment—(a) The three amounts to be considered in applying the standard. The product pricing amendment relates to average costs and profit for the particular product. However, the simplest way to determine whether, and to what extent, an increase is required by the amendment is to apply the standard in terms of aggregate dollar amounts rather than amounts per unit of product. This procedure produces the same end results as using amounts per unit of product and is the only practicable one in cases where no satisfactory common unit can be found for the product. This section contains directions for applying the standard in terms of aggregate dollar amounts. For the assistance of any advisory committees that may choose to apply the standard in terms of average unit costs and profit for the product, directions for doing so are set forth in Appendix C.

The product pricing amendment provides for the adjusting of maximum prices to the extent that total current sales of the product under application fail in the aggregate to provide the aggregate minimum sales realization to which the industry is entitled under the amendment. To find the aggregate minimum sales realization to which the industry is entitled under the amendment, the applicant committee must first calculate the following amounts:[2]

Amount 1. Find total 1940 net sales, adjusted to current volume, plus increases in cost[3] since 1940 (see paragraph (b) (1) below);

Amount 2. Find total current cost plus a profit at the 1940 rate of profit on overall net sales for the industry (see paragraph (b) (2) below);

[2] In some cases it may clearly appear, without collecting the relevant data required in Appendix B and making the exact computations, that one of the three amounts to be considered would be larger than one or both of the others and hence for that reason would not be controlling. Where the Administrator finds this to be so, he will give his advance approval to the omission from the application of such larger total and of the data that would otherwise be required in order to compute it.

[3] When used in this order, the terms "cost" and "profit" mean admissible cost and profit computed in accordance with the provisions of section 9 unless specifically indicated otherwise.

Amount 3. Find total current cost plus a reasonable profit in accordance with paragraph (b) (3) below.

OPA will increase the maximum prices of the product to the extent, if any, necessary to yield a current net sales realization equal to the lowest of the three amounts unless the Administrator finds that a substantial increase in the production and use of the product is practicable without curtailing the production of any other product which is at least equally needed. In the latter event the adjustment will be based on the lower of Amounts 1 and 2 only.

The excess, if any, of the lower or lowest of Amounts 1 and 2, and, if applicable, Amount 3, over total current net sales at current prices may be converted to a percentage uniformly applicable to all current ceiling prices for the product by dividing such excess by the amount of total current net sales at current prices. If preferred, uniform dollar and cents additions to current ceiling prices may be computed instead. Where the Administrator finds it appropriate to do so, as, for example, to encourage the production of low-end styles or grades, he may provide for other than a uniform percentage or dollar and cents increase. An industry advisory committee may recommend the method which it prefers for allocating the allowable aggregate increase to the individual styles, grades, types or other classifications of a product.

(b) Methods for computing the three amounts to be considered. In computing Amounts 1, 2 and 3 described in paragraph (a), the applicant committee must apply the methods and adjustments prescribed in section 9 of this order, using the data specified in Appendix B. One of the important adjustments required in section 9 is for anticipated volume increases (section 9 (d)). Therefore, when the order refers to current sales, costs, rate of production, etc. or to such items for the current reporting period, it means that these items shall reflect the adjustment for anticipated volume increase. The term "current reporting period", as used in this order, refers to the shortest and most recent representative period for which profit and loss data based on physical or book inventories are available but not less than a three month period.

In computing the three amounts described in paragraph (a), there shall be totaled the adjusted amounts or adjusted unit quantities, as the case may be, reported by all the firms in the sample. To accord with the definition of "product" in the product pricing amendment, the computation of total cost and sales must cover all the styles, models, sizes, and price lines comprising the product.

(1) Total 1940 net sales, adjusted to current volume, plus cost increases since 1940. The amount of increase in cost since 1940, if any, shall be found by comparing the total costs of the product for the current reporting period, converted to an annual basis, with the total of the costs of the product for the fiscal year 1940 when proportionately adjusted for the change in total annual physical sales volume occurring between 1940 and the current reporting period.[4] Any excess of current costs over 1940 costs shall be added to the total net sales of the product for the fiscal year 1940 when proportionately adjusted for the change in total annual physical sales volume of the product occurring between 1940 and the current reporting period.[4]

(2) Total current cost plus a profit at the 1940 rate of overall profit. This shall be computed by dividing the total current cost by the difference between 100% and the 1940 percentage of total profit on total overall net sales. The latter percentage is computed by dividing the total 1940 overall profit by the total 1940 overall net sales.

(3) Total current cost plus a reasonable profit. The applicant committee may choose either of the following alternatives as the measure of reasonable profit:

Alternative A. A reasonable profit on sales of a product is the aggregate profit realized on the product during 1939 when adjusted correspondingly by one-half the percentage change in total annual physical sales volume of the product occurring between 1939 and the current reporting period.

Alternative B. A reasonable rate of profit on sales of a product is one-half the industry's average percentage of the profit on overall industry net sales during 1936–39. The average percentage is determined by dividing the total overall profit for the fiscal years 1936–1939 by the total overall net sales for the same period. In making the computation, if the total overall margin for any year is a net loss, the total profit for such year or years shall be considered to be zero. One-half the average profit percentage thus obtained, applied to total current cost in the manner outlined in (2) above for the 1940 rate of overall profit will give total current cost plus a reasonable profit.

In applying Alternative B for determining a reasonable profit, an applicant committee may substitute a more representative four year period for 1936–1939 if it can clearly show that 1936–1939 was not a normal peacetime period. If a different period for determining price increases for the particular product has been previously used by the OPA, the applicant committee may, at its option, use that period in place of 1936–1939.

In some cases the alternative selected by the applicant committee may result in a negative amount or an amount of profit so small that it cannot be considered reasonable for purposes of the product pricing amendment. Where that is the case and where it is not practicable to use the other alternative or it would not result in a significantly higher profit, the Administrator will by order establish the profit margin to be used in computing Amount 3 in paragraph (a).

In any case in which, because of marked industry increases since 1939 in prices or in volume of production relative to net worth of the industry or both, it appears to the Administrator that the profit, as calculated in accordance with either Alternative A or B, if applied on all products of the industry, would yield a rate of return on net worth greatly in excess of that earned by the industry on its overall operations in the period 1936–1939, the Administrator may reduce the rate of profit calculated by the applicant committee.

(c) Method of applying the standard of the product pricing amendment in exceptional circumstances. The use of aggregate dollar amounts of cost, sales and profit for a product in applying the standard may give results inconsistent with the purposes of the product pricing amendment if the product is comprised of two or more articles differing substantially in size, cost and specifications (other than differences solely in price line or quality), and the proportions of sales of those various articles have changed substantially since 1939. The amount of adjustment, if any, under the product pricing amendment must be computed in such cases by the use of a special method set forth in paragraph (c) of Appendix C. The Administrator, upon request, will give advance approval or disapproval of the use of that method.

SEC. 6. Information required. In addition to the formal requirements set forth in section 10, an application under the product pricing amendment must contain the following:

(a) A description of the product or products for which maximum price increases are sought. (See section 7 below for definition of "product".)

(b) The amount of increase applied for.

(c) A statement as to which of the pricing methods in section 5 was used to determine the amount of adjustment. The application must, in addition, contain computations showing that a lesser amount is not applicable under one of the other methods except to the extent that such computations have been found by the Administrator to be unnecessary. (See footnote 2).

(d) Facts showing that the output of the product can be substantially increased without curtailment of production of another product at least equally needed, where the amount of adjustment applied for requires such a finding. (See section 8 below for applicable rules.)

(e) Cost and profit information adequate for the determination of maximum prices in accordance with the product pricing amendment. (See section 9 below and Appendix B.)

An application for a maximum price adjustment pursuant to the product pricing amendment must contain the basic cost and profit information required by Appendix B in order to apply the particular measure of adjustment which the applicant committee claims to be appropriate for the product under consideration. In addition, the application must set forth the amount of maximum price increase which the committee claims is justified by the cost and profit data submitted. It must relate that proposed increase to the basic statistical and accounting material, showing such particulars as the required averaging of individual firm information and the adjustments required by section 9 below.

SEC. 7. Definition of "product". For the purpose of applications under this order, a product is any item or article different in character from the other products of the industry, but including all styles, models or other varieties of such article or item. In determining whether an item or group of items qualifies as a product, the applicant committee should follow the general usage of the industry to the extent that it is consistent with the provisions of the product pricing amendment. In general, an item or items previously considered a product by the Administrator for purposes of applying the the agency's product standard will be considered a product for purposes of the product pricing amendment. When it is uncertain whether an item is a separate product or whether two items are the same product, the decision will be made upon the following considerations:

(a) Differences in physical characteristics.

(b) Differences in end use.

(c) Differences in manufacturing processes, including materials used.

(d) Differences in the firms manufacturing the items under consideration.

Despite differences in physical characteristics, different styles, sizes, models or varieties of an article are to be grouped together as well as all price lines of an item or article.

Applications may be made for a price increase on a product only where it is of major importance in the economy or the industry. As a general rule, an item or article will be considered major if it accounts for at least 5% of the current sales volume of an industry and if current sales of the product at an annual rate aggregate five million dollars or more per annum. However, any product which accounts for 30% or more of the sales volume of an industry will be regarded as major regardless of its aggregate sales.

Examples

Hot rolled steel sheets and cold rolled steel sheets are different products because they differ in physical characteristics and in end use although they are made by the same group of manufacturers by substantially the same manufacturing process and from the same material.

Bricks and cement blocks have largely the same end use but are different products because of physical differences and materials used.

Canned peas and canned beans are different products although they are made in the same equipment by the same manufacturers but of wholly different materials. Canned, frozen and dried peas are different products although they are the same material and have the same end use but have different physical characteristics and go through different manufacturing processes.

Innerspring and felt mattresses are different products because of differences in physical characteristics although made by largely the same manufacturers on similar types of equipment and having the same end use.

Work shirts and dress shirts are different products although they are made by similar processes but of different materials and largely by different manufacturers.

Enamelware kitchen utensils, while different in many physical characteristics and end uses, may be considered as a single product since they are made by the same manufacturing processes, from the same materials, and by substantially the same manufacturers and have been considered as one group in industry practice.

SEC. 8. Rules for determining the practicability of a substantial expansion in production and use—(a) General rule. A substantial expansion in production normally means an increase of at least 15% over the current level of physical production by the end of approximately six months following the time of filing the application. However, a substantial expansion may mean an expansion of more or less than 15% over the current level for certain types of cases described below.

The current level of production is the highest monthly production rate in any one of the three months preceding the date of petition. The Administrator, in assessing the practicability of the production increase, will take into account data available up to the time of a determination.

(b) Modification of the general rule. The meaning of "substantial" may vary from product to product depending on the production picture during the past year and on the characteristics of the product. The Administrator will modify the general rule in accord with specific situations, such as the following:

(1) Seasonal products. Two types of seasonal situations occur, namely, where the same commodity is produced in varying amounts and where different commodities are produced in alternate seasons by the same manufacturer. In either case, a "substantial expansion in production" means a substantial increase over a normal seasonal increase or decrease.

(2) Temporary abnormalities in current production period. The production level in the most recent period may reflect factors of temporary duration such as strikes in the plants producing the product or in important supplying industries, temporary shortage of particular materials, etc. The computation of the current level of production should be adjusted to exclude such temporary factors.

(3) Other special cases. The Administrator may in other exceptional circumstances require or permit the use of a different percentage, such as, for example, where there is unused plant capacity in an abnormally large degree.

(c) Findings as to practicability of expansion in production and use. In finding whether a substantial expansion in the production and use of a product is practicable without curtailing the production of another product at least equally needed, the Administrator will make findings as to (1) the availability of facilities, materials and manpower for the production of the product, (2) the effect on the output of other at least equally needed products, and (3) the sufficiency of the demand for a substantially expanded output of the product. These findings will be based on the information specified in Appendix B which the applicant committee is required to furnish and such other information as may be available to the Administrator.

SEC. 9. Methods of calculating admissible costs and profit margins under the product pricing amendment. The product pricing amendment provides that the Administrator shall follow accepted methods of accounting and may by regulation establish fair and reasonable methods of calculation, including adjustments for temporary cost abnormalities which may be reasonably anticipated to be eliminated within the three months following the Administrator's action upon a committee's application,[1] and adjustments for increases in the volume of production which may be reasonably anticipated to be experienced in that period. This section sets forth the methods of calculation established by the Administrator pursuant to that authorization.

(a) General rules. (1) The basis for calculating costs and profits margins admissible for purposes of the product pricing amendment shall be accounting data as recorded in the books of account and related records of firms selected as a sample of the industry.

(2) The books and records from which the basic data are taken must have been kept in accordance with accepted methods of accounting during the periods for which data are required. However, data taken from "standard" or "estimating" cost records must first be adjusted to reflect actual costs.

(3) If a major change in accounting methods has been instituted by a reporting firm subsequent to the beginning of its fiscal year 1940, its accounting data shall be adjusted to reflect a consistent application of such methods. If this is not reasonably practicable, the firm may not be included in the sample.

(4) Multi-product firms may include with the costs reported for the product under application reasonable allocations of manufacturing overhead and selling, general, and administrative expenses even though allocations of such costs may not have been reflected in the accounts. However, a multiple-product firm may not be included in the sample if, for the periods for which costs are required by the regulation it did not maintain as part of a continuing cost system records showing separately for the product either its direct material and labor cost or its manufacturing costs. The latter rule, however, will be waived for any firm if (i) its sales of the product during the required cost periods amounted to more than three times those of the other products with whose costs its costs were combined, and (ii) the costs attributable to products or items other than the product under application are excluded from the submitted costs on the basis of reasonable estimates.

(5) Admissible costs and profit margins shall be limited to operating costs and operating profits reported in conformity with this section. Operating costs are direct material and labor, and manufacturing, selling, and general and administrative expenses less income received from by-products and from other sources the expenses for which have been included in operating costs. Operating costs and profit margins do not include those classes of items commonly referred to as non-operating income and expense, chief among which are: interest, amortization of bond premiums and discounts, income from investments, non-operating gains and losses, provisions for contingencies, and state and federal taxes on income and profits.

(b) Adjustments, other than for temporary cost abnormalities and changes in volume. (1) Exclude the effect of wage and salary increases instituted after February 14, 1946, which have not been approved by the Wage Stabilization Board.

(2) Exclude the effect of increases in prices of materials or the product under consideration which were illegal under OPA regulations or orders, or which were effected during the period July 1 to July 25, 1946, and not subsequently approved by OPA.

(3) Exclude the effect of major changes occurring since the beginning of the fiscal year 1940 in the basis of accounting for interdepartmental transactions or transactions with affiliated companies.

(4) Apply retroactively as if they had occurred at the beginning of the current reporting period the effect of changes in operating income and costs (other than those due to changes in volume) which have occurred subsequent to the beginning of such period and which will not be eliminated within six months after the close of the current reporting period. Such changes include: approved wage and salary increases, changes in overtime worked, changes in prices of products and services sold and purchased, and changes in rates charged by carriers and public utilities. Similar adjustment should also be made for such cost changes which have not been incurred but which have been announced previously and are expected with reasonable certainty before the end of six months after the close of the current reporting period. An example is announced changes in freight rates to become effective within that period.

(c) Adjustments for temporary cost abnormalities other than those due to abnormal volume. Temporary cost abnormalities are items of reported cost which are higher or lower than the reporting firm has usually experienced and which may be reasonably anticipated to be eliminated entirely or altered in size within the three months following the Administrator's determination in the case (considered as six months after the close of the current reporting period). Cost abnormalities due to abnormal volume are dealt with in paragraph (d) below.

The character of temporary cost abnormalities will depend on the individual case. However, in general, guiding rules for two types of products should be distinguished: (1) reconversion products, (2) all other products. For the purpose of this distinction, "reconversion product" means any product the price of which, following V–J Day, has been adjusted, or is eligible for adjustment by OPA, on the basis of a projection of the industry's normal pre-war cost experience. The term therefore includes products whose output during the war was reduced by 50% or more of the last pre-war normal year and other products the production and sale of which have undergone radical changes during the war and since V–J Day.

(1) Adjustments for temporary cost abnormalities applicable to other than reconversion products. Recorded current costs after adjustments discussed in (b) above shall be further adjusted for the following:

(i) Cost items, reflecting seasonal or non-recurring events affecting operations during the reporting period. Examples: strikes, floods, breakdowns, etc.

(ii) Wage costs reflecting a ratio of overtime payments to total earnings at straight-time rates different from the rate expected by the end of six months after the current reporting period.

(iii) Wage costs reflecting labor productivity different from that expected to prevail by the end of six months after the current reporting period.

(iv) Overhead costs reflecting clearly non-recurring factors such as war-time rates of amortization, provisions for war losses, employee training programs, etc.

(v) Other cost abnormalities, such as buying in unusually small quantities, buying from unusual sources of supply, use of an unusual proportion of substitute materials, an unusual extent of wastage.

(2) Adjustments for temporary cost abnormalities relating to reconversion products. Rules controlling adjustments for temporary cost abnormalities relating to reconversion products, which are not of interest to most advisory committees, are being issued separately by the Administrator.

(d) Adjustments in costs for abnormal volume and anticipated increase in volume of production. The product pricing amendment permits the Administrator to make adjustments for the disappearance of cost abnormalities caused by abnormal volume and increases in the output of the product which may reasonably be experienced within three months after the determination by the Administrator (considered as six months from the close of the current reporting period). Before making adjustments in accordance with the rules outlined below, estimate the monthly production rate which is expected to prevail at the end of six months from the close of the current reporting period, taking into account available material, labor and plant facilities. The amount, if any, by which this figure exceeds the average monthly production rate realized during the current reporting period should be divided by the latter figure to determine the percentage increase required below for making adjustments in the operating data. These adjustments are to be computed on the basis that the projected volume of sales will be identical with the projected volume of output.

(1) Other than reconversion products. In the case of non-reconversion products it is the opinion of the Administrator that, generally, an increase in volume will not result in any increase in the aggregate overhead other than indirect labor and materials but will effectuate savings in the fixed per unit costs in factory burden and selling, general and administrative expenses adjusted in accordance with the rules in (b) and (c) above. Therefore, unless other treatment is shown to be warranted, no upward adjusjtment for increase in volume will generally be made in the aggregate admissible amounts for the current reporting period of factory burden and selling, general and administrative expenses, other than indirect labor and material cost. Aggregate net sales and admissible direct and indirect labor and material costs will be increased in proportion to the increase in the rate of output. If substantial changes in finished goods inventories occurred during the current reporting period, appropriate adjustments shall be made to place costs and sales upon a comparable basis.

If other adjustments for anticipated volume increases should be made with regard to a particular product, the application should set forth such adjustments together with considerations supporting them. Where such additional adjustments are found to be justified they will be allowed by the Administrator in passing upon the application.

(2) Reconversion products. Rules controlling adjustments for the disappearance of cost abnormalities caused by abnormal volume and anticipated increases in the output of reconversion products will be issued subsequently by the Administrator. Such rules, as well as the rules controlling adjustments for temporary cost abnormalities, should be obtained by an advisory committee considering applying for a price increase on a reconversion product under the product pricing amendment.

SEC. 10. Form of application, filing, and docketing—(a) Information in addition to that required by section 6 of this order. Every application shall contain:

(1) A heading clearly designating it as an application pursuant to section 6 of the Emergency Price Control Act, as amended.

(2) The name of the committee.

(3) The regulation or regulations covering the product or products dealt with in the application.

(4) The name and post-office address of the person to whom all communications from the Office of Price Administration relating to the application shall be sent.

(5) A statement that the application has been filed in accordance with a resolution adopted at a meeting of the industry advisory committee held in accordance with the provisions of Revised Procedural Regulation No. 13.

(6) A statement that the application (including all exhibits thereto) has been presented and read at a meeting of the committee or has been submitted by mail or otherwise to each member of the committee, except that cost and profit data relating to individual firms need not be read or submitted.

[1] Since the time of the Administrator's action will not be known at the time of filing an application, it is necesssary to use a substitute period that is determinable at the time of filing. Six months from the close of the current reporting period is used for this purpose. That period will in general approximate the statutory three month period, allowing for a lapse of time between the end of the current reporting period and the beginning of preparation of the application and a reasonable time for the preparation and processing of the application. It will be the policy of the Administrator to act upon applications as quickly as possible, and, consequently, many will be processed in less than sixty days from the time of filing.

Items (1), (2) and (3) should appear on the first page of an application.

(b) Signing. Applications must be signed by or for the industry advisory committee. An application will be considered signed by or for the committee if it is (1) signed by at least one-half of the members of the committee, or (2) signed by a person or persons authorized to do so by the committee. If the application is signed by a person or persons for the committee, at least one-half of the members of the committee must first have indicated their approval of the application after reading it (with the exception of cost and profit data relating to individual firms).

(c) Filing, docketing and notice. Four copies of the application and all accompanying documents other than the individual firm data shall be filed. Only two copies of the data from each firm in the sample need be filed. Applications shall be filed with the Secretary, Office of Price Administration, Washington 25, D. C. Applications shall be deemed filed on the date received by the Secretary. Upon the filing of an application the Secretary of the Office of Price Administration shall assign a docket number to such application and shall advise the applicant committee of the number.

SEC. 11. Action by the Administrator. The administrator shall consider the evidence set forth in an application and all evidence otherwise available to him, and within sixty days after receipt of an application he shall make the adjustments in maximum prices required by the product pricing amendment. If he finds that no adjustments are required, he shall deny the application. If the Administrator neither makes the adjustments in the maximum prices required by the product pricing amendment nor denies the application within the sixty-day period, the industry advisory committee may petition the Emergency Court of Appeals for relief. That Court has jurisdiction to require the Administrator to make such adjustments or deny the application within such time, not to exceed thirty days, as may be fixed by the Court. If the Administrator fails to make adjustment or deny the application within the time fixed by the Court, no maximum price shall thereafter be applicable with respect to any sale of the product by any seller.

A denial of an application, whether in whole or in part, may be protested in accordance with Article V of Revised Procedural Regulation No. 1.

Any application falling in a substantial manner to conform to the requirements of this order will not be accepted as filed under the Statute. In such a case the Administrator will give the committee written notice, addressed and mailed by registered mail to the person designated by the application to receive notice, that the application has been dismissed without prejudice to the right of the committee to file a new application in the proper form.

APPENDIX A—SELECTION OF SAMPLE

The product pricing amendment indicates that adjustments under its provisions will be based upon "comprehensive evidence with respect to costs and prices of a reasonable number of typical producers, manufacturers, or processors." This appendix outlines the standards for the selection of a representative sample of firms for the purpose of assembling comprehensive cost and price data.

In exceptional circumstances, the construction of a sample consistent with each of the standards outlined below may not be feasible. In the event a different sample is submitted the application must show that the firms selected are truly representative of the producers in the industry for which the petition is filed.

To satisfy the statutory requirements mentioned above, the sample must not only afford adequate coverage of the total sales volume of the product or industry; it must also insure adequate representation for any significant differences among the producing firms with respect to volume, geographic location, degree of specialization and integration, and any other relevant factors. The criteria according to which adequacy and representativeness may be evaluated are outlined below.

(a) Number of firms. The number of firms necessary to obtain an accurate index of the industry's realization on a given product depends partly on the size of the firms selected, and partly on the number of firms in the industry. To a certain extent, sales coverage may be substituted for coverage in terms of the number of firms, for if the sample accounts for most of the production and sales of the product, it will accurately reflect the product's average cost and average realization, regardless of how limited the number of firms it contains. But adequacy based principally on sales coverage can ordinarily be readily achieved only in small industries or industries in which production is highly concentrated. Where a large proportion of the sales volume cannot readily be included, then the sample must be carefully balanced with respect to size, location, and any other significant features of the firms manufacturing the product.

Accordingly, a sample will be regarded as adequate in terms of the number of firms manufacturing the product if it satisfies one of the following two tests:

(1) The sample contains firms accounting for at least 75% of the total current sales volume of the product; or

Total number of firms manufacturing the product:	Required sample (percent of total number of producing firms)
Under 50	50%.
100–300	20% but not less than 30 firms.
300–600	10% but not less than 50 firms.
600–1,500	5% but not less than 60 firms.

(b) Distribution of firms. Because of characteristic variations in profitability among firms varying in size, geographic location, degree of integration and specialization, etc., an acceptable sample must give consideration to all such significant characteristics unless a sufficient percentage of the total sales volume of the product is included. The standards with respect to each significant characteristic of the sample are outlined below. These standards should be satisfied for each sample compiled under the test in paragraph (a) (2) above. Any sample which satisfies the test in (a) (1) may be regarded as representative for the product as a whole without regard to the various attributes of the firms which it includes; although wherever feasible, adherence to these standards, even where adequate coverage is assured, would enhance the validity of the findings.

(1) Size distribution. In determining the appropriate distribution in the sample of firms of different sales volume, information regarding the distribution of firms by size must be available for all producers of the product. For most products, this information is outlined in the 1939 Census of Manufactures, although when using the 1939 Census data, appropriate adjustments should be made for estimated changes in sales volume since that time.

On the basis of this information, three size categories of firms should be defined, which may be designated large, medium, and small. The sales-volume boundaries to be used in establishing these classifications must be determined after due consideration has been given to the composition of the industry. Firms manufacturing products which, for economic production, require heavy capital investment will ordinarily show a substantial turnover. All members of such industries, large or small, may show annual sales amounting to several millions of dollars. Industries requiring very little capital investment will generally be comprised of relatively small firms, in which case annual sales of one million dollars might be regarded as a large output.

Therefore, in setting up appropriate size classifications for a given product, the distribution of firms in the various size categories should be carefully examined and such groupings established as appear meaningful. The number and identity of the firms comprising the large firm category will generally be common knowledge in the industry. If a clear line of demarcation does not exist between the medium and small firms, a sales boundary should be established so that their numerical ratio is approximately one to two. The size group into which each firm belongs should be determined by reference to its sales of the product and not its overall sales.

After making these classifications, the size distribution of firms in the sample normally should be selected as follows:

(i) All, or nearly all, large firms should be included.

(ii) Subtract the number of firms selected in (i) from the number of firms in the sample, as determined in paragraph (a) (2) above.

(iii) Allocate the remainder of the sample as found in (ii) between medium and small firms roughly in the same ratio which the total number of firms in each of these groups bear to each other among all manufacturers of the product.

Because of the unreliability of accounting records among the smallest firms in most industries, the sample should rarely include firms whose overall annual sales volume is less than $50,000, unless satisfactory data are believed to be obtainable.

(2) Geographic distribution. Where the manufacture of the product is widely dispersed geographically, the sample should, so far as practicable, reflect the production pattern of the industry as a whole.

In some industries, production tends to be concentrated in a limited number of areas because of the proximity of raw materials, an amply supply of skilled labor, a ready market, or for other contributory environmental factors. It is particularly important that each such area be given its proportionate weight in the total sample. Ordinarily, the proportion of sales in the sample from each major producing area should be roughly the same as the total sales of the product in that area bears to the production of the product in the industry as a whole.

The sample from each area should also afford a proper distribution by size categories in conformance with the standards in (b) (1) above. Ordinarily the distribution in each major producing area will be regarded as satisfactory if it conforms with the distribution determined above for the product as a whole. Moreover, where marked regional differences are evident in the characteristic sales volume of the firms, a separate distribution of firms according to size may be necessary for each region. In such cases, the standards outlined in (b) (1) above should be applied separately to each region.

(3) Type distribution. Depending on the industry, there will be other significant factors which condition the financial showing of the various members of the producing group. Of importance for the present purpose are, for example, the degree of integration (i. e., the extent to which the firm has become self-sufficient is providing its materials and parts), the extent to which the product is manufactured along with other product lines (single line producers or multi-product firms), whether there are branded and unbranded lines, etc. So far as practicable, the sample should include proportionate representation (in sales) for each such significant variable which is relevant to the study of the eligible product.

(4) Method of selecting the reporting firms. After the general composition of the sample has been determined, particular firms satisfying these requirements must be selected. The selection, so far as practicable, should be made on a random basis from among all the firms which satisfy the requirements of each category. Substitutions are, of course, permissible where the financial records available from a particular firm are known to be inadequate in relation to the requirements outlined in this order.

APPENDIX B—DATA REQUIRED UNDER THE PRODUCT PRICING AMENDMENT

Applications must contain the data outlined in this Appendix B, which in the case of paragraphs (a) and (b) must be obtained from a representative sample of firms[1] selected in accordance with the instructions given in Appendix A. The required accounting data should be secured from the books and records of each firm in accordance with the general rules prescribed under section 9. In some cases it may clearly appear, without collecting the relevant information required in this Appendix B and figuring the exact amount under one of the methods outlined in section 5, that such amount is higher than one or both of the amounts calculated under the other methods and for that reason will not be controlling. Where the Administrator finds this to be so, he will give his advance approval to the omission from the application of the computation of the higher amount and of the data that would otherwise be required in order to compute it.

(a) Financial and operating data for each firm in the sample. (1) Profit and loss statements covering the firm's total operations for: (i) the fiscal year 1940,[2] and (ii) the current reporting period, which for the purposes of the product pricing amendment shall be the shortest and most recent representative period for which profit and loss data based on physical or book inventories are available, but not less than a three-month period. (If a period longer than three months is used data reported for this period shall be converted pro rata to a three-month basis before tabulation for the industry is made.) The calendar period covered by each statement shall be shown. These profit and loss statements shall show the following data as a minimum:

Net sales.
Cost of sales.
  Direct materials.
  Direct labor.
  Manufacturing overhead.[3]
  Inventory changes.
Gross profits.
Selling and advertising expenses.[3]
General and administrative expenses.[3]
Operating profit.
Non-operating income.[3]
Non-operating expenses.[3]
Net profit before reserves and taxes.
Provisions for special reserves and income.
Taxes on income and profits.
Net profit carried to surplus.

(2) Financial data relating to the calculation of a reasonable profit under one of the alternative methods in section 5 (b) (3):

(i) Alternative A—Net sales, operating costs, and operating profit exclusively for the product for the fiscal year 1939.

(ii) Alternative B—Condensed profit and loss statements covering the firm's overall operations for the fiscal year 1936 through 1939 (identifying the calendar periods covered) reflecting as a minimum the following: net sales, operating costs, operating profit, and net profit before income taxes.

(3) Operating data exclusively for the product under application for the fiscal year 1940 and the current reporting period showing:

Net sales.
Manufacturing cost of sales (showing separately, for the current reporting period only, direct material, direct labor, indirect material, indirect labor, other manufacturing expenses, credits for by-products, waste, etc., net change in inventories).
Gross profit.
Selling expenses.
General and administrative expenses.
Operating profit.

The adjustments to operating data prescribed by section 9 and the unadjusted data shall be reported separately by each firm. To the extent necessary, the breakdown of manufacturing costs may be compiled from continuing unit cost records or estimated.

(4) Number of units of the product produced and number sold during the fiscal year 1940 and during the current reporting period, and the number (on a monthly basis) which will be produced at the estimated rate of production which will prevail at the end of six months from the close of the current reporting period. Such quantities must be expressed in units, dozen, gross, pair, pounds, tions, yards, feet or other appropriate measure. Provide also conversion factors for converting the various varieties of the product into a common denominator. If the product is not homogeneous in character, some common denominator of physical volume should be found if possible, such as quantity of a principal material (if a common principal material is used). The same common denominator should be used by all firms in the sample. If the industry advisory committee computes the measure of reasonable profit by Alternative A set forth in section 5 (b) (3) of this order, the total number of units of the product produced in the fiscal year 1939 must be submitted in addition to the above data.

(b) Adjustments required under paragraphs (b) through (d) of section 9 for calculation of current admissible costs and profit margins. The data submitted should show the amounts necessary to reflect each type of adjustment and a reasonable amount of details in support of the computations and must cover the following:

(1) Exclusion of the effect of wage and salary increases instituted after February 14, 1946, but not approved by the Wage Stabilization Board. The individual firm information accompanying an application must include a certification by a representative of the firm having knowledge of the facts that adjusted costs do not reflect unapproved wage or salary increases instituted after February 14, 1946.

(2) Exclusion of the effect of major changes occurring since the beginning of the fiscal year 1940 in the basis of accounting for inter-departmental transactions or transactions with affiliated companies.

(3) Exclusion of the effect of increases in prices of materials or the product under consideration which were illegal under Office of Price Administration regulations or orders or which were effected during the period July 1 to July 25, 1946 and not subsequently approved by the Office of Price Administration.

(4) Retroactive application, as if they had occurred at the beginning of the current reporting period, of the effect of changes in operating income (including price changes for the product) and costs which have occurred subsequent to the beginning of such period (or which, while not yet in effect, have been announced and are expected with reasonable certainty before the end of six months after the close of the current reporting period) and which will not be eliminated by the end of six months from the close of the current reporting period. (See section 9 (b) (4).)

(5) Elimination of the effect of abnormal costs which have changed or which may reasonably be expected to change by the end of six months from the close of the current reporting period. Amounts should be computed in conformity with the requirements of section 9 (c) and the data reported separately for each applicable factor.

(6) The effect on reported operating income and costs of any increase in rates of production and sales over those prevailing during the current reporting period that it may be reasonably anticipated will be achieved by the end of six months from the close of that period as required by section 9 (d), and showing separately the effect on each major element of cost and income.

(c) Data required to demonstrate the practicability of a substantial expansion in the production of the product without reducing the production of at least equally needed products. (1) Production capacity of existing plant facilities for producing the product and percentage thereof in use during the current reporting period; also production capacity of any new plant facilities now under construction which will be in operation within six months from the end of the current reporting period.

(2) Evidence that the necessary materials will be available six months from the end of the current reporting period in the quan-

[1] Whenever, by reason of its size and the diversification of its operations, the inclusion of the over-all earnings of a particular corporation in the computation of the industry's over-all earnings will have the effect of seriously distorting the industry's earnings, the earnings of that corporation shall be reflected only by the earnings reported for the subdivision or subdivisions of the corporation making the eligible and related products, or, if the company did not customarily keep its records by subdivisions, then the earnings of such corporation shall be excluded from the industry computation.

[2] The term "fiscal year 1940" means the period customarily recognized in the particular industry as the fiscal year 1940 except that for a firm not using the customarily recognized period the term means the fiscal year of the firm which most nearly coincides with the fiscal year customarily recognized by the industry. For firms in an industry which did not customarily recognize any period as the fiscal year 1940, the term means the fiscal year ending in 1940.

tities found necessary to permit the designated increase in the production of the product and that the increased quantity of the material made available for the product under consideration would not cause a reduction below current levels in the supplies made available for other products using the material. If expansion of the supply would require a reduction for other products, the industries using the material whose supplies of the material would be curtailed and the approximate extent of the curtailment must be shown. Such evidence may consist of suppliers' affirmations.

(3) Evidence showing that sufficient manpower is available to permit the projected increase in the output of the product. Such evidence may show that the additional manpower will be available from any one or more of the following sources: longer hours, improved operating efficiency, redeployment of labor from other tasks, or the employment of additional personnel.

(i) In the event increased production is contingent on the hiring of additional employees, the evidence must include information showing the availability of the number of employees (in each of the required skills) which the industry will require to sustain the indicated production increase. Such information may be that furnished by the local offices of the U. S. Employment Service.

(4) Where the expanded output of the product will cause a reduction in the output of other products, because of a diversion in materials, manpower, or plant facilities, the products which will be subject to curtailed production must be identified, and where those products are believed less urgently needed than the product covered by the petition, supporting reasons must be given.

(5) Evidence that a substantial expansion in the use of the product is practicable. Such evidence may include, among other facts, the following: statistics on inventories and unfilled orders, affirmations by a reasonable number of producers at the next processing state (in the case of prefabricated parts and subassemblies), reference to government allocations or priority controls on the products, proof of the existence of informal rationing by producers of the product, etc.

APPENDIX C—APPLICATION OF THE STANDARD OF THE PRODUCT PRICING AMENDMENT BY USING UNIT AVERAGE COST AND PROFIT FIGURES

(a) The average net unit prices to be considered in applying the standard. Section 5 sets forth instructions for applying the standard of the product pricing amendment in terms of aggregate dollar amounts as distinguished from amounts per unit of product. Both produce the same end result. In general, the methods described in section 5 are the simplest to apply and the most direct. However, some committees may prefer to use the average per unit of product method in preparing their applications or computing the amount of adjustment which may be available under the product pricing amendment. Consequently, instructions for doing so are set forth in this Appendix.

To find whether an increase in the maximum prices of a product is required by the product pricing amendment, an applicant committee must first calculate the following average prices[1]:

OPA will increase the maximum prices of the product to the extent, if any, necessary to yield a current average net unit price equal to the lowest of the three foregoing average net unit prices unless the Administrator finds that a substantial increase in the production and use of the product is practicable without curtailing the production of any other product which is at least equally needed. In the latter event the adjustment will be based on the lower of Average Prices 1 and 2 only.

The excess, if any, of the lower or lowest of Average Prices 1 and 2 and, if applicable, Average Price 3, over the current average net unit price (see paragraph (b) (4) below), is the increase in average net unit price of the product allowable under the product pricing amendment. The unit amount may be converted to a percentage uniformly applicable to all current ceiling prices for the product by dividing this average net unit increase by the current average net unit price. Where the Administrator finds it appropriate to do so, as for example to encourage the production of low-end styles or grades, he may provide for other than a uniform dollar and cents or percentage increase. An industry advisory committee may recommend the method which it prefers for allocating the allowable average increase to the individual styles, grades, types, or other classifications of a product.

(b) Methods for computing the average unit amounts. In computing the average unit amounts set forth in paragraph (a) of this Appendix, the applicant committee must apply the methods and adjustments prescribed in section 9 of this order, using the data specified in Appendix B. One of the important adjustments required in section 9 is for anticipated volume increases (section 9 (d)). Therefore, when the order refers to current sales, costs, rate of production, etc., or to such items for the current reporting period, it means that these items shall reflect the adjustments for anticipated volume increase.

In computing the average unit amounts set forth in paragraph (a) there shall be totaled the adjusted amounts or adjusted unit quantities, as the case may be, reported by all firms in the sample. To accord with the definition of "product" in the product pricing amendment, the computation of sales and costs must cover all the styles, models, sizes and price lines comprising the product.

Step 1. Find the 1940 average net unit price by dividing the total 1940 net sales of the product by the total number of units sold in 1940.

Step 2. Find the current average unit cost of the product by dividing the aggregate cost of the product in the current reporting period by the total number of units sold in the period.

Step 3. Find the 1940 average unit cost of the product by dividing the aggregate 1940 cost of the product by the total number of units sold in 1940.

Step 4. Find the increase in average unit cost since 1940, if any, by subtracting from the current average unit cost found in Step 2 the 1940 average unit cost found in Step 3.

Step 5. Find the average net unit price by adding to the 1940 average net unit price found in Step 1 the increase in average unit cost since 1940 found in Step 4.

Step 1. Find the current average unit cost of the product, as in Step 2 of paragraph (1) above.

Step 3. Figure the average net unit prices by adding to the current average unit cost of the product a profit margin which allows the same profit percentage on sales of the product which the industry realized on its over-all sales in 1940 as found in Step 2.

Example: Suppose the 1940 profit percentage on over-all sales was 12% and the current average unit cost of the product is $1.50. Subtract 12% from 100%. Divide $1.50 by 88%. The resulting figure, $1.70, is the average net unit price of the product reflecting the industry's 1940 percentage profit margin on over-all sales. ($.20 profit on price of $1.70=12%.)

(3) How to find an average net unit price which reflects a reasonable profit over current cost. To figure the average net unit price for the product which will reflect a reasonable profit over current cost, the applicant committee may choose either of the following alternatives as a measure of a reasonable profit:

Alternative A. A reasonable profit on a product is an amount per unit computed by dividing the number of units currently produced annually into the industry's total 1939 dollar profit on the product adjusted by one-half the percentage change in the annual rate of physical volume since 1939. The margin of profit is to be calculated and applied to the current average unit cost of the product as follows:

Step 1. Find the aggregate dollar profit earned on the product in 1939.

Step 2. Find the number of units of the product produced in the current reporting period, on an annual basis.

Step 3. Find the amount by which the number of units found in Step 2 differs from the number of units of the product sold in 1939.

Step 4. Express the difference found in Step 3 as a percentage of the number of units sold in 1939.

Step 5. If the number of units found in Step 2 exceeds the number sold in 1939, increase the aggregate dollar profit found in Step 1 by one-half the percentage found in Step 4. If the number found in Step 2 is the lesser, decrease the total dollar profit found in Step 1 by one-half the percentage found in Step 4.

Step 6. Find the reasonable unit dollar profit for the product by dividing the adjusted total dollar profit found in Step 5 by the number of units found in Step 2.

Alternative B. A reasonable profit on a product is one-half the industry's average percentage profit on overall sales in the period 1936–1939, inclusive. This percentage shall be applied as in Step 3 of paragraph (2) above to the current average unit cost of the product found in Step 2 of paragraph (1) above. In computing the industry's average percentage profit on overall sales in the period 1936–1939, if the total overall margin for any year is a net loss, the profit for that year shall be considered to be zero.

In applying Alternative B for determining a reasonable profit, an applicant committee may substitute a more representative four year period for 1936–1939 if it can clearly show that period was not a normal peacetime period. If a different period for determining price increases for the particular product has been previously used by the OPA, the applicant committee may, at its option, use that period in place of 1936–1939.

In some cases the alternative selected by the applicant committee may result in a negative amount or an amount of profit so small that it cannot be considered reasonable for purposes of the product pricing amendment. Where that is the case, and where it is not practicable to use the other alternative or it would not result in a significantly higher profit, the Administrator will by order establish the profit margin to be used in computing an average net unit price which reflects a reasonable profit over current cost.

In any case in which, because of marked industry increases since 1939 in prices or in volume of production relative to net worth of the industry or both, it appears to the Administrator that the profit, as calculated in accordance with either Alternative A or B, if applied on all products of the industry, would yield a rate of return on net worth materially in excess of that earned by the industry on its overall operations in the period 1936–1939, the Administrator may reduce the rate of profit calculated by the applicant committee.

(4) How to find the current average net unit price. To find the current average net unit price divide the total net sales of the product for the current reporting period by the corresponding number of units sold.

(c) Method of applying the standard of the product pricing amendment where there has been a substantial shift in the nature of the product. If the product is comprised of two or more articles differing substantially in size, cost, and specifications (other than differences solely in price line or quality), and the proportions of sales of these various articles have changed substantially since 1939, the application of the methods for applying the standard of the product pricing amendment, set forth in section 5 and this Appendix, may give results inconsistent with the purposes of the amendment. In such cases, the following procedure must be substituted:

Step 1. Select sample items made in both periods which are representative of each of the major lines included in the product.

Step 2. Apply the procedures of paragraphs (b) (1), (2) and (3) to the sample items, treating each item as if it were a separate product.

Step 3. Find the average of the prices determined by applying the method under paragraph (b) (1) to the sample items. In calculating the average, weight each price on the basis of the current relative importance of the group of items it represents. Find the same sort of average of the prices determined under paragraphs (b) (2) and (b) (3), respectively.

The Administrator, upon request, will give advance approval or disapproval of the use of this substitute method of applying the standard.

This order shall become effective September 17, 1946.

NOTE: The reporting and record-keeping requirements of this supplementary order have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942, as amended.

Issued this 17th day of September 1946.

PAUL A. PORTER,
Administrator.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS INVOLVED IN THE ISSUANCE OF SUPPLEMENTARY ORDER 183

This Supplementary Order implements section 6 of the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended (referred to in the order and this Statement as the product pricing amendment). As recently adopted by Congress, that section provides a mandatory pricing standard for major products which comes into operation only upon application by the appropriate industry advisory committee. This Order furnishes the procedure for such petitions, defines and sets up standards for the use of certain terms and provisions of the product pricing amendment, and establishes fair and reasonable methods of calculation (as authorized by the amendment).

The new pricing standard calls for the adjustment of the maximum prices of the product when, on the average, they fail to cover the average dollar price of the product in 1940 plus the average increase in its cost since 1940. However, the extent of the price increase required by the basic standard is subject to the two following limitations:

(a) Where the average maximum prices thus increased would be higher than the product's average current total costs plus the industry's average overall percentage profit on sales in 1940, the maximum prices need be raised no higher than the latter level.

(b) Where the average maximum prices thus increased would be higher than the product's average current total costs plus a reasonable profit, the maximum prices need be raised no higher than the latter level unless the output and the use of the product can be substantially increased without curtailing the production of any other product at least equally needed.

This statutory standard has been superimposed by Congress on the standards used by the Administrator in seeing that ceilings meet the requirements of section 2 of the Act that maximum prices be generally fair and equitable. Hence, the Administrator will continue to apply the industry earnings and product standards generally and will in addition now be required to adhere to this new major product standard under the conditions described in the product pricing amendment.

Much of this order deals with the type of information that must be submitted by an industry advisory committee in applying under section 6. A considerable amount of fairly detailed information is called for. As the Administrator pointed out during the consideration of this and other product pricing amendments by the Congress, the application of any standard which requires the ascertainment of base period and current costs and profits on a product, rather than on an overall basis places an accounting burden of great difficulty both upon industry in applying for price increases under the standard and upon the agency in passing on such applications. Recognizing this difficulty, the Congress required that applicant industry advisory committees submit with their applications comprehensive evidence with respect to costs and prices.

The standard's use of 1949 and current product costs and profit requires that cost and profit information be submitted on a product basis. The use of 1940 industry overall profit calls for facts showing that profit. Other information called for relates directly to the provisions of the product pricing amendment. For example, there must be sufficient information to judge what is a reasonable profit for the product and what adjustments should be made for temporary cost abnormalities and anticipated increase in volume. Where an applicant committee claims that a substantial increase in production is practicable without curtailing the supply of goods at least equally needed, supporting information must be filed.

The order describes how the required data are to be used in determining the amount of adjustment available under the product pricing amendment. The order is in sufficient detail so that an advisory committee would be able without the assistance of OPA to apply the standards of the amendment and compute the amount of increase in many cases. However, there is no need for any applicant committee to proceed without assistance. On the contrary, the fullest possible cooperation between applicant committees and representatives of OPA is urged so that applications may be prepared and processed with maximum efficiency. It is believed that timely and full discussion will avoid later controversy and delay. To this end the order authorizes advance approval by the Administrator as to certain items that might otherwise be uncertain. Upon request of the committee the Administrator will in advance of the filing of an application pass upon the committee's understanding as to what is a product for the purpose of the product pricing amendment, what is a proper industry sample for the purpose of the necessary surveys, and whether there are exceptional conditions warranting special methods of computation in particular instances. He will give such advance approval regarding other matters whenever appropriate.

The generality of certain phrases used in the statute is such that it has been found necessary to formulate administrative interpretations of these phrases in terms sufficiently specific to make possible the uniform, non-discriminatory application of the amendment. Two of the most important of these phrases are "reasonable profit" and "substantial expansion in the production or use of the product", both of which appear in paragraph (f) of section 6 of the Act as amended. That paragraph sets forth one of the provisos to the basic standard and allows the Administrator to use total product costs plus a reasonable profit as a limitation upon the increase otherwise required, unless it appears that a substantial expansion in the production of the product would not be practicable without reducing the production of at least equally needed products.

[1] In some cases it may clearly appear, without collecting the relevant data required in Appendix B and making the exact computations, that one of the average unit amounts called for would be larger than one or both of the others and hence for that reason would not be controlling. Where the Administrator finds this to be so he will give his advance approval to the omission from the application of such larger total and of the data that would otherwise be required in order to compute it.

[2] When used in this order the terms "cost" and "profit" mean admissible cost and profit computed in accordance with the provisions of section 9 unless specifically indicated otherwise.

In selecting a method of measuring "a reasonable profit" for purposes of the product pricing amendment, the Administrator sought a standard related to peacetime experience that would be consistent with the meaning of paragraph (f). Two important considerations that have influenced the Administrator in interpreting paragraph (f) are the relation of the standard of that paragraph to the basic standard of the product pricing amendment and the relation of that amendment to the overall industry earnings standard used in testing the general fairness of maximum prices under section 2 of the Price Control Act.

An examination of the product pricing amendment clearly discloses that the function of paragraph (f) is to impose a limitation on the operation of the pricing standards in paragraph (b) rather than to substitute an alternative pricing standard. Paragraph (f) limits the amount of a price increase which would otherwise be required by paragraph (b) in cases where, despite price increases, no substantial net production gains would be possible. Since costs would be the same under both paragraphs, the limitation in paragraph (f) could be effective only if, in general, the profit factor prescribed by it were lower than the profit factors prescribed by paragraph (b). This means that the term "reasonable profit" in paragraph (f) must be interpreted as looking to a profit margin which as a rule will be below the average 1940 profit margin on the product and the margin on the industry's over-all operations.

In giving the necessary specification to the general standard of "reasonable profit", the Administrator has sought to preserve its consistency with the level of profit allowed by the industry earnings standard which the agency, with the approval of the Emergency Court of Appeals, has used to determine the need for, and amount of, ceiling price increases on the basis of an industry's over-all earnings. While the industry earnings standard has been supplemented by the new standards of the product pricing amendment, it remains applicable to over-all industry, as distinguished from particular product, pricing cases. It would therefore create an anomaly if the Administrator were to recognize as a "reasonable profit" for the purposes of limiting price increases subject to paragraph (f) a profit factor which yielded materially higher profits on a product than those which, under the industry earnings standard, render the industry's ceilings "generally fair and equitable".

The measure of profitability generally applied to test maximum prices under the industry earnings standard is the average aggregate dollar profits earned by the industry in 1936–1939, adjusted for subsequent changes in net worth. Since this measure is not a rate of profit on sales but a dollar amount, it is not enlarged by increases in the level of prices or the volume of output, both of which are reflected in the total sales figure. Because of this fact, if the full 1936–1939 rate of profit on sales were to be used as a measure of a "reasonable profit", this would result in profits in excess of those assured by the industry earnings standard whenever it was applied to products for which the level of prices or output had gone up since 1939 to an extent proportionately greater than the increase in net worth.

The possibility of such out-of-line results has been minimized in the two methods of determining reasonable profit which the order provides, either of which may be used at the election of the industry advisory committee. The first allows the 1939 aggregate profit for the particular product adjusted at the rate of one-half the rate of volume increase. The second test allows one-half the average 1936–1939 industry overall percentage of profit on sales. The two methods, while different in approach, will in general not be substantially different in result. In the great majority of cases both will allow a total dollar profit on the product in excess of that earned in 1936–1939 but less than the total dollar profit that would result from allowing the same profit as a percentage of the product's sales.

Allowing an industry advisory committee to choose either of the two methods for measuring a reasonable profit gives the committee the advantage of using the higher level. Industry advisory committees are given this choice because of the difficulty some committees would have in gathering and submitting the data necessary to use of the adjusted 1939 aggregate product profit standard. It will be much simpler to submit information concerning the 1936–39 profit percentage to sales standard. Also because of the difficulties to be encountered in getting product profit data, the Administrator has selected a single year, 1939, as a peacetime period rather than the longer four year period, 1936–39. The single year is an appropriate substitute because of the general similarity between industry profits for that year and the industry average for the longer period.

The Administrator believes that these standards are appropriate for determining average prices as defined in paragraph (f). The profit allowed by them will be in proper relationship to the standards of paragraph (b) and the over-all industry earnings standard. In addition, the Administrator believes these standards for determining a reasonable profit are not so restrictive as to be unreasonable when measured by ordinary business standards. Normally unit profit margins would not continue constant with increasing volume and prices such as have been generally experienced since 1939. Moreover, since net worth normally increases at a lower rate than volume, earnings may diminish as a percentage of sales while remaining constant or even increasing as a percentage of net worth.

This order establishes fifteen percent as the ordinary measure of a substantial increase in production. It has been found necessary to make such a definite measure applicable to all fields for general use. However, provision has been made for departure from that figure in extraordinary cases. Any figure less than fifteen was found to be inadequate since it is fairly common to vary the rate of production of a single product (as distinguished from overall output) by percentages less than fifteen. While a figure higher than fifteen would be appropriate in many industries, the Administrator rejected varying measures in favor of a single yardstick.

Paragraph (c) of section 6 authorizes the Administrator to establish by regulation fair and reasonable methods of calculation, including adjustments for temporary cost abnormalities which may be reasonably anticipated to be eliminated within the three months following the Administrator's determination and adjustments for increases in the volume of production which may be reasonably anticipated to be expected within that period. This order establishes such methods of calculation, with the exception of rules for adjusting costs of reconversion products for temporary cost abnormalities and volume increases. Because of the limited interest in those rules, they are being issued separately.

The prescribed methods of calculation are of four types, namely: (a) general rules; (b) adjustments other than for temporary cost abnormalities and changes in volume; (c) adjustments for temporary cost abnormalities; and (d) adjustments for volume changes. The general rules for the most part set forth generally accepted accounting principles. The adjustments other than for temporary cost abnormalities and changes in volume require adjusting for other than temporary changes in operating income and costs occurring since 1940 in the basis of accounting for inter-departmental transactions or transactions with affiliated companies. Adjustment must also be made under this heading to exclude the effect of increases in prices of materials or the product under consideration which were illegal under OPA regulations and to exclude the effect of wage and salary increases instituted after February 14, 1946 without the approval of the Wage Stabilization Board. The Administrator's opinion that this latter is a fair and reasonable provision is supported by the legislative history relating to the passage of the Extension Act of 1946.

Temporary cost abnormalities are considered in this order to be items of reported cost which are higher or lower than the reporting firm has usually experienced and which may be reasonably anticipated to be eliminated entirely or altered in size within the three months following the Administrator's determination. The order calls for the adjusting of recorded current costs in order to exclude such temporary cost abnormalities which include among others, cost items reflecting seasonal or non-recurring events affecting operations during the reporting period, such as strikes, floods, breakdowns, etc.; wage costs reflecting an excessive amount of overtime payment; and abnormally low rate of productivity.

Adjustments are required for anticipated volume increases on the basis that an increase in volume above current level will not result in any increase in the aggregate overhead other than indirect labor and materials, but will effectuate savings in the fixed per unit costs in factory burden and selling, general and administrative expense accounts. Therefore, no upward adjustment for increase in volume will generally be made in the current aggregate admissable amounts of factory burden and selling, general and administrative expenses, other than indirect labor and material costs, and current aggregate net sales and admissable current direct and indirect labor and material costs will be increased in proportion to the increase in the rate of output. The presumption upon which this approach is based may be rebutted by showing that increased volume will affect costs differently.

The provisions in the order relating to the form of application, filing and docketing are no more than necessary for expeditious handling and processing of applications.

REVISED MAXIMUM PRICES FOR CERTAIN COTTON TEXTILES

Correction

In Federal Register Document 46–13610, appearing at page 8530 of the issue for Wednesday, August 7, 1946, the price in the table of paragraph (f) opposite "Yarn No. 20" and under "Band B-single" should read "59.75", and the reference to § 1400.116 in paragraph (t) (1) should read "§ 1400.118."

PART 1388—DEFENSE-RENTAL AREAS

HOTELS AND ROOMING HOUSES IN NEW YORK CITY AREA

Section 5 of the Rent Regulation for Hotels and Rooming Houses in the New York City Defense-Rental Area is amended in the following respects:

1. The third unnumbered paragraph of section 5 is amended to read as follows:

In all other cases, except those under paragraphs (a) (7), (a) (9), (a) (10), (c) (4), (c) (5), (c) (6) and (g) of this section, the adjustment shall be on the basis of the rent which the Administrator finds was generally prevailing in the defense-rental area for comparable housing accommodations on March 1, 1943: Provided, that in cases under paragraph (a) (6) of this section the adjustment may be on the basis of the rental agreement in force during the thirty-day period determining the maximum rent.

2. Section 5 is amended by adding the following paragraph (g):

(g) Required increases of maximum rents. The Administrator shall grant an increase in the maximum rents otherwise allowable, to any hotel or other establishment under this regulation having more than fifty rooms which has incurred substantial approved wage increases since January 1, 1946 and whose adjusted operating position for the calendar year 1945 is less favorable than his operating position for the average of any two successive years 1939 to 1942, inclusive.

The amount of the increase granted shall be the lesser of the following: (1) the difference between the adjusted operating position for the calendar year 1945 and the operating position for the average of the two successive calendar years 1939 to 1942, inclusive, chosen by the landlord, or (2) the allowance for approved wage increases used in determining the adjusted operating position for the calendar year 1945.

Any landlord entitled to an increase in the maximum rent otherwise allowable in accordance with the provisions of this paragraph (g) shall file a petition therefor on Form No. D–86 (Petition for Hotel Rate Increases—section 5 (g) of the Rent Regulation for Hotels and Rooming Houses) prior to December 1, 1946.

For the purpose of this paragraph (g), the terms:

1. "Approved wage increases" means wage increases which have been approved by the appropriate wage or salary stabilization agency of the United States between January 1, 1946 and September 18, 1946.

2. "Operating position" means the dollar amount determined by subtracting admissible expenses from total departmental sales, income and store rentals.

3. "Admissible expenses" means all expenses actually paid or accrued and necessary for the operation of the property including cost of sales, salaries (exclusive of officers' salaries) and wages, direct expenses of operated departments, repair and maintenance, heat, light and power, general administration, insurance and taxes (exclusive of income taxes), but excluding rent, interest, depreciation, trustees' fees and expenses, amortization of leaseholds, leasehold improvements, bond discount and expense, and any extraordinary expenses not applicable to regular hotel operations.

4. "Adjusted operating position for the calendar year 1945" means the operating position as defined above for the calendar year 1945 after allowing for increases in pay roll by reason of approved wage increases, except those directly charged to the operation of the food and beverage departments.

NOTE: Approval of the reporting requirements of this amendment has been waived by the Bureau of the Budget.

Issued and effective September 18, 1946.

PAUL A. PORTER,
Administrator.

STATEMENT TO ACCOMPANY AMENDMENT 28 TO THE RENT REGULATION FOR HOTELS AND ROOMING HOUSES IN THE NEW YORK CITY DEFENSE-RENTAL AREA

Transient and residential hotels in the New York City Defense-Rental Area recently incurred substantial increases in wages to employees in all categories, which increases have been approved by the Wage Stabilization Board.

The advance in wages was both general and uniform throughout the area. The Administrator, to assure that the regulations affecting such establishments will continue to be generally fair and equitable and to effectuate the purposes of the Act, has provided by Amendment 28 that applications for individual relief may be filed, by any transient hotel or other establishment under this regulation having more than fifty rooms whose operating position for the calendar year 1945, after appropriate allowance for approved wage increases presently in effect, except those allocable to the food and beverage departments, would be less favorable than the average of the two best successive years enjoyed by the petitioner from 1939 to 1942, inclusive. The increases will be in an amount necessary to restore the landlord's operating position but limited to the total cost to the landlord of the approved wage increases.

Since the amendment is directed solely to the situation arising from the general increase in hotel wages in the New York area occurring since January 1 of this year and approved by the Wage Stabilization Board prior to the effective date of this amendment, relief will be limited to establishments applying prior to December 1st of this year.

The recent amendment to Section 2 (b) found in the Emergency Price Control Extension Act of 1946 directs the Administrator to classify establishments under this regulation, and to take such classifications into account in adjustments in rental ceilings. Pending more detailed classifications now in preparation, the Administrator for the purposes of this amendment has extended relief to include residential as well as transient hotels in the New York City Defense-Rental Area.

In the judgment of the Price Administrator, these amendments are necessary and proper in order to effectuate the purposes of the Emergency Price Control Act.

No provisions which might have the effect of requiring a change in established rental practices have been included in the amendments unless such provisions have been found necessary to achieve effective rent control and to prevent circumvention or evasion of the rent regulations and the act. To the extent that the provisions of these amendments compel or may operate to compel changes in established rental practices, such provisions are necessary to prevent circumvention or evasion of the rent regulations and the Act.

1. In § 1400.157 paragraphs (b) and (c) are amended to read as follows:

(b) Reports by converters. (1) One month after September 18, 1946, no converter who is qualified to use an applicable percentage factor of 125% or less in determining his maximum price under § 1400.164 and who makes his first delivery of woven decorative fabrics subsequent to September 18, 1946, shall deliver a woven decorative fabric at a price in excess of the sum of the cost of the grey fabric and the finishing operation until (i) he has submitted to the Textile Price Branch of the Office of Price Administration (a) his business name and the address of the office where most of his invoices are prepared, (b) the date on which he made the first delivery of a woven decorative fabric and (ii) he has received an acknowledgment in writing of the receipt of such information from the Textile Price Branch of the Office of Price Administration.

(2) One month after September 18, 1946, no converter who is qualified to use an applicable percentage factor of more than 125% in determining his maximum price under § 1400.164 shall deliver a woven decorative fabric at a price in excess of 125% of the sum of the cost of the grey fabric and the finishing operation until (i) he has submitted a statement in the detail specified in paragraph (b) (3) of this section to the Textile Price Branch, Office of Price Administration, Washington, 25, D. C. and (ii) he has received an acknowledgment in writing of the receipt of such statement from the Textile Price Branch of the Office of Price Administration.

(3) This statement shall show separately for each of the converter's average percentage factors the facts on the basis of which he computed each of his average percentage factors under § 1400.164 (e). Such facts shall include (i) the name or number of each of the ten constructions of woven decorative fabrics which he converted and of which he delivered the largest linear yardage in 1941;[1] (ii) the name or number of the pattern of each such construction of which he delivered the largest linear yardage in 1941; (iii) the price of each of the ten[2] patterns as calculated in § 1400.164 (e); (iv) the highest price paid by the converter during the period from January 1 to November 10, 1941, inclusive, for the grey fabric used in producing each pattern; (v) the highest price paid by the converter (or the highest cost he incurred) for the finishing operation performed in producing the pattern during the period from January 1 to November 10, 1941, inclusive; (vi) the percentage factor for each pattern as determined under § 1400.164 (e) and (vii) the average percentage factor as determined under § 1400.164 (e).

(c) Reports by resellers. (1) After June 4, 1946 no reseller who otherwise is qualified to use a percentage factor of more than 125% in determining his maximum price under § 1400.165 (b) shall deliver a woven decorative fabric at a price in excess of 125% of his net invoice cost for the fabric without freight until (i) he has submitted to the Textile Price Branch, Office of Price Administration, Washington, D. C., a statement showing (a) which type of reseller he is under the definitions in § 1400.161 (a) (11), (b) for which factors set forth in the applicable subparagraph of § 1400.165 (b) he qualifies, (c) the facts on the basis of which he falls within the definition and (d) the facts on the basis of which he qualifies under § 1400.165 (b) for any factors higher than the minimum provided for the type of reseller he is; and (ii) he has received an acknowledgment in writing of the receipt of such statement from the Textile Price Branch of the Office of Price Administration.

2. Section 1400.160 (d) is added to read as follows:

(d) Any reseller may petition the Office of Price Administration for the purpose of being classified as more than one type of reseller under § 1400.161 (a) (11). The petition shall be filed in the manner provided by Revised Procedural Regulation No. 1[3] for the filing of applications for adjustment. Petitions may be granted if, in addition to the information there called for, the applicant certifies:

(1) That for a period of at least six consecutive months in 1941 the reseller resold woven decorative fabrics in two or more departments or divisions which would be classified as different types of resellers under § 1400.161 (a) (11) if each department or division had been and were now, an independent business; and

(2) That the reseller currently operates these departments or divisions and for each department or division the reseller maintained during the above period and now maintains separate price lists, separate books and records, and separate sales forces.

3. The first unnumbered paragraph of § 1400.163 (b) (3) is amended to read as follows:

(i) If the maximum price cannot be determined under paragraph (b) (1) or (2) of this section, the price determined by applying the following formula: The manufacturer shall select the most nearly comparable pattern and construction for which a maximum price is established under paragraphs (b) (1) or (2) of this section and if the cost of the fabric being priced exceeds that of the comparable fabric, add to the maximum price of the comparable fabric the difference in cost (which for this purpose shall be limited to the cost of materials and of direct and indirect labor) between such comparable fabric and the fabric being priced. If, however, the cost of the fabric being priced is equal to or less than that of the comparable fabric (a) divide the maximum price for this comparable fabric by its costs (which for this purpose shall be limited to the cost of materials and of direct and indirect labor); and (b) multiply the percentage so obtained by the cost (determined on the same basis) of the fabric being priced.

4. The second and third unnumbered paragraphs of § 1400.163 (b) (3) are designated "(ii)" and "(iii)" respectively.

NOTE: The reporting requirements of this amendment have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Acts of 1942.

This amendment shall become effective September 18, 1946.

JAMES G. ROGERS, Jr.,
Acting Administrator.

STATEMENT OF THE CONSIDERATIONS INVOLVED IN THE ISSUANCE OF AMENDMENT NO. 16 TO MAXIMUM PRICE REGULATION NO. 39

This amendment constitutes the third step of a recently initiated program for revision of ceilings for sellers other than manufacturers of woven decorative fabrics. The first step was undertaken in Amendment 12 on April 23, 1946, when specific margins were established for nearly all classes of resellers of these fabrics. The second step replaced the "freeze type" ceilings established in July 1942 for converters with mark-ups over cost. This third step consists of a revision of the reporting provisions of the regulation to coincide with and reflect the changes made by the other two steps in the method of computing maximum prices for sellers other than manufacturers.

This amendment makes two further changes in the regulation: (1) It enables a reseller to establish each of his departments as a separate type of reseller provided that he meets certain criteria; (2) it prevents the realization of an additional profit margin by manufacturers which the application of the percentage factor to higher total direct costs formerly permitted.

REPORTS BY CONVERTERS

With the termination of individual "frozen" ceilings the Administrator considers it unnecessary to retain the requirement that a converter report each new pattern and fabric which he introduces into his line after the base period. Consequently, the reporting provision is entirely revised to require only one report from each converter who uses specific or base period markups. Such converters now need only report their respective "average percentage factors" and the data which served as the basis for their computations. It is also provided that the converter must submit this report within one month from the effective date of this amendment and receive a written acknowledgement of its receipt from the Textile Price Branch of the Office of Price Administration. After the specified date, his ceiling for any sale or delivery of a decorative fabric shall be 125% of his cost of the grey goods and the finishing operation until he has complied with both of the requirements described above. A converter who is qualified to use an applicable percentage factor of 125% or less in determining his maximum price and who makes his first delivery of woven decorative fabrics subsequent to the effective date of this amendment may not deliver a woven decorative fabric at a price in excess of the sum of the cost of the grey fabric and the finishing operation until he has submitted his business name and address and the date of first delivery of a woven decorative fabric and received an acknowledgement of such information from the Office of Price Administration.

REPORTS BY RESELLERS

Amendment 12 eliminated the continuous reporting previously required of resellers regarding fabrics first introduced by them after the base period. The substitute reporting section provided that after June 4, 1946, certain resellers could not sell or deliver a woven decorative fabric until they had submitted a simplified report and had received an acknowledgment in writing of the receipt of the report from the Office of Price Administration. The accompanying amendment alters this provision to provide that no seller who is otherwise qualified to use a percentage factor of more than 125% may use a percentage factor of more than 125% until he has filed a report and has received the written acknowledgment. This change makes the reporting provision for resellers parallel to that for converters and provides a more satisfactory basis for enforcement action. This change does not require a recalculation or the submission of a new report.

SUBSTITUTE EVIDENCE BY CONVERTER OR RESELLER

At present a reseller who demonstrates that it would be impossible or exceptionally burdensome to supply the specific information required may in his statement, submit and request acceptance of substitute evidence with respect to his classification as a specified type of reseller and/or the percentage factor he may employ and the Administrator may by order, accept such evidence if in his judgment it is adequate. This permission to submit substitute evidence and request acceptance of such evidence by the Administrator is revoked by this Amendment. This action is taken because the experience of the Office has shown that this permission is unnecessary. Furthermore, such substitute evidence is of necessity very general in nature and subject to abuse. Moreover, there is no comparable provision for converters, and this revocation removes this distinction.

DEPARTMENTALIZED RESELLERS

Under the definition and pricing provisions governing resellers, a reseller is generally classified as but one type of reseller for pricing purposes. Of course, within a given classification varying markups may be allowed depending upon the nature of the reseller's business. Ordinarily, a wholesaler specializes in his business operations. He may, for example, sell predominantly as a decorative service wholesaler, a cut-order jobber, or a piece-quantity jobber. However, there are a few resellers who maintain departments or divisions which would, if operated as separate and independent businesses, be classified as different types of resellers. If such a reseller were to be classified as but one type of reseller with respect to all of his departments, he might well have to abandon his higher cost operations (such as decorative service wholesaling) in which one of his departments historically specialized.

Consequently, to avoid inequity in such cases, a provision is now added under which such a reseller may petition the Office of Price Administration for an exception. Such exception, if granted, would enable him to establish each of the departments as a separate type of reseller provided that the appropriate qualifications can be satisfied.

In support of his petition such a reseller should certify that for at least six months during 1941 he resold woven decorative fabrics in departments which, if run then as separate businesses, would now be classified as different types of resellers. He must also certify that he maintained separate price lists, books, records and sales forces for each of these departments and that he is currently operating these departments in the same manner.

MANUFACTURER'S PRICING RESTRICTION

During this period of continuing material and labor scarcity, manufacturers have at times employed any usable raw material in their fabrics, often without much regards to their initial costs, the costs of processing them, or of producing the finished fabrics. Indeed, some few manufacturers have apparently utilized costly materials for the purpose of securing the additional dollar margin which is applicable to the higher costs under the "in-line" formula as it has existed until the present amendment.

By the provision now introduced, manufacturers are not prohibited from incurring increased costs of materials or of direct and indirect labor as compared to those of the comparable fabric. They are, however, prevented from realizing the additional profit margin which the application of the percentage factor to higher total direct costs formerly brought. The pricing restriction is applicable wherever total direct costs (the costs of materials, direct and indirect labor) exceed those of the comparable fabric when computed in accordance with the formula in Section 1400.163 (b) (3) (ii). The portion of direct costs of the new fabric above the corresponding costs of the comparable fabric is now to be added to the ceiling price of the latter, and the total becomes the ceiling price of the new fabric.

This provision is applicable to all sales of woven decorative fabrics made after the effective date of the amendment and applies as well to all fabrics whose prices were previously determined by use of the "in-line" formula. A new "in-line" report need not be submitted for a fabric already reported to the Office of Price Administration, but its ceiling price must be recalculated.

MODIFICATIONS IN PREMIUM PRICE PLAN FOR COPPER, LEAD AND ZINC

Public Law 548, 79th Congress, approved July 25, 1946, directs continuation of the Premium Price Plan for Copper, Lead and Zinc until June 30, 1947. Section 6 (a) (2) thereof makes available for premium payments the sum of $100,000,000 and otherwise provides:

That (A) premiums shall be paid on ores mined or removed from mine dumps or tailing piles before July 1, 1947, though shipped and/or processed and marketed subsequently thereto; and that (B) the premium price plan for copper, lead and zinc shall be extended until June 30, 1947, on terms not less favorable to the producer than heretofore and (i) adjustments shall be made to encourage exploration and development work; (ii) adequate allowances shall be made for depreciation and depletion, and (iii) all classes of premiums shall be noncancelable unless necessary in order to make individual adjustments of income to specific mines.

The law makes mandatory certain changes in existing practices with regard to allowances in quotas and quota revisions for exploration and development work and for depreciation and depletion. The further provision therein that the extension of the Plan shall be conducted on terms not less favorable to producers than heretofore, coupled with the mandatory changes noted, indicates the necessity of an increase in the maximum premiums payable on each metal in order to effect compliance with the statute.

Accordingly, pursuant to the authority vested in me by the Stabilization Act of 1942, as amended, and by Executive Order 9250 of October 3, 1942 (7 F. R. 7871), Executive Order 9328 of April 8, 1943 (8 F. R. 4681), Executive Order 9599 of August 18, 1945 (10 F. R. 13487), Executive Order 9697 of February 14, 1946 (11 F. R. 1691), Executive Order 9699 of February 21, 1946 (11 F. R. 1929), and Executive Order 9762 of July 25, 1946 (11 F. R. 8073), the Office of Price Administration, the Civilian Production Administration, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and the Quota Committee for the Premium Price Plan for Copper, Lead and Zinc, are authorized and directed:

(1) To modify existing practices with respect to assignment of quotas and to quota revisions in accordance with the following principles:

(a) Provision for adjustment to encourage exploration. (i) A new and separate class of premiums shall be established, to be paid only for the encouragement of exploration.

(ii) Exploration premiums shall be paid only on production of copper, lead and zinc ores from producing mines and shall be paid only on projects from which there is a reasonable expectation of production by December 31, 1947.

(iii) Such premiums shall be spent only for exploration for ores of copper, lead and/or zinc in domestic properties. Such properties shall ordinarily be a part of, or contiguous to, the property on the production from which premiums are paid, but may in exceptional cases be noncontiguous. These exceptional cases shall be limited to properties within the general mining area of the property on the production from which premiums are paid and so located that they will be directly supervised by the local management of the property on the production of which premiums are paid.

(iv) Mines which produced less than 600 tons of copper, lead and/or zinc in the 12 months ending June 30, 1946 shall be eligible, upon application by its operators, and upon their undertaking to spend the funds on exploration within two months after receipt of such funds, for an exploration premium of 1¢ a pound of metal produced, not to exceed $1,000 a month for any such mine.

(v) As to larger operators:

(A) Exploration premiums shall not be paid to mines which earn adequate margins without other premiums.

(B) Exploration premiums shall be assigned only for specific projects which are fully justified by detailed substantiating data.

(C) Exploration premiums will not be considered as income to the operator, nor treated as such in any of the records of the Quota Committee.

(D) All exploration premiums should be spent currently and any such premiums unspent on December 31, 1947 shall be returned to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

(b) Provision for adjustments to encourage development. Normal development is now allowed as an operating cost in all Quota Committee calculations. Subject to the qualifications below, the general method to be followed in the encouragement of development shall be the addition of not more than 20% of the normal development cost to the normal development cost in all Quota Committee calculations. Such additional allowances shall be made only after individual analysis of each case and only for those mines in which such funds can be spent to good purpose within a reasonable time and without restriction of production.

(c) Provision for adequate allowance for depreciation. To the allowances now made for plant ownership in lieu of depreciation in the calculation of operating margins shall be added the following allowances for mine plant, unless such mine plant has been in large part amortized by premium payments:

Complex ores	10¢ a ton of ore.
Simple lead or zinc ores	7¢ a ton of ore.
Tri-State type ores	5¢ a ton of ore.
Copper ores	0.1¢ a pound of copper.

(d) Provision for adequate allowance for depletion. To the allowances now made for mine ownership in lieu of depletion (50% of the basic margin calculated for the mine) there shall be added 25% of the net smelter return for each metal, other than copper, lead and zinc, contained in his product for which payment is made to the producer by the processing plant.

(2) In any case where a producer would be denied the benefit of any of the modifications provided in subparagraphs (b), (c) or (d) of paragraph (1) solely because his mining property is already receiving the maximum premiums available within existing premium ranges, upon application by a producer and recommendation by the Quota Committee:

(a) Any B lead quota may be specified to provide premium payments for each pound of lead of overquota production within a range between 15¾¢ and the sum of the ceiling price of lead and the A premium;

(b) Any C zinc quota may be specified to provide premium payments for each pound of zinc of overquota production within a range between 17½¢ and the sum of the ceiling price of zinc and the A and B premiums; and

(c) Any special copper quota may be specified to provide premium payments for each pound of copper of overquota production within a range between 28¢ and the sum of the ceiling price of copper and the A premium.

(3) These changes shall be extended to any mine after application by the operator and recommendation by the Quota Committee:

(a) New allowances in lieu of depreciation and depletion shall be effective July 1, 1946.

(b) Additional allowances for development shall be effective not earlier than the first day of the month during which application is made therefor.

(c) Exploration premiums shall be effective in each case on the date specified by the Quota Committee.

(4) To issue such rules and regulations as are necessary to carry out the purposes of this directive.

Issued and effective this 13th day of September 1946.

JOHN R. STEELMAN,
Director of War Mobilization and Reconversion, Director of Economic Stabilization.

(3) Payments to producers or cooperative associations.

4. Delete the provisions of § 935.6 and substitute therefor the following:

§ 935.6 Classification of milk—(a) Skim milk and butterfat to be classified. Skim milk and butterfat contained in (1) All milk, skim milk, cream, and milk products (except in the case of milk products disposed of in the form in which received) received during the delivery period by a handler, which is not a cooperative association, who disposes of Class I milk or Class II milk in the marketing area; and

(2) All producer milk received during the delivery period which a cooperative association diverts to a plant from which no Class I milk or Class II milk is disposed of in the marketing area; shall be classified by the market administrator in the classes set forth in (b) of this section.

(b) Classes of utilization. Subject to the conditions set forth in (c), (d), and (e) of this section, the classes of utilization shall be:

(1) Class I milk shall be all skim milk and butterfat:

(i) Containing more than 1 percent of butterfat which is disposed of in the form of milk, whether plain or flavored, and

(ii) Not specifically accounted for under (1) of this subparagraph as Class II milk or Class III milk.

(2) Class II milk shall be all skim milk and butterfat:

(i) Which is disposed of in fluid form for consumption as sweet or sour cream or as any mixture of cream and milk (or skim milk) containing more than 6 percent of butterfat.

(3) Class III milk shall be all skim milk and butterfat specifically accounted for as:

(i) Having been used to produce any milk product other than as specified in (b) (1) (i) and (b) (2) of this section.

(ii) Actual plant shrinkage but not in excess of 3 percent, respectively, of the total receipts of skim milk or butterfat in producer milk.

(c) Transfers. (1) Subject to the conditions set forth in (d) of this section and (3) of this paragraph, skim milk and butterfat:

(i) When caused to be delivered from a producer as fluid milk to a handler by a cooperative association, for the account of such cooperative association, and for which such cooperative association collect payments, shall be classified as follows:

(a) As Class I milk: Provided, That if the amount of such milk so sold or disposed of is in excess of the amount classified as Class I milk at such purchasing handler's plant, such excess milk shall be classified in series beginning with the next highest class in which such purchasing handler has use.

(ii) When transferred as fluid milk by a handler, which is not a cooperative association, shall be classified as follows:

(a) As Class I milk if transferred or diverted to another handler or to any other milk distributing or milk manufacturing plant: Provided, That if the seller on or before the 5th day after the end of the delivery period, during which such transfer is made, furnishes to the market administrator a statement signed by the buyer that such milk was used as Class II milk or Class III milk and that such utilization may be audited by the market administrator at the receiving plant, such milk may be classified accordingly; or

(b) As Class I milk if transferred to the plant of a producer-handler.

(iii) When caused to be delivered as fluid milk by a cooperative association to a plant from which no Class I milk or Class II milk is disposed of in the marketing area, shall be classified as follows:

(a) As Class I milk: Provided, That if the cooperative association on or before the 5th day after the end of the delivery period, during which such transfer was made, furnishes the market administrator a statement signed by the buyer that such milk was used as Class II milk or Class III milk and that such utilization may be audited by the market administrator at the receiving plant, such milk may be classified accordingly.

(2) Subject to the conditions set forth in (d) of this section and (3) of this paragraph, skim milk and butterfat when transferred in the form of cream by a handler, which is not a cooperative association, shall be classified as follows:

(i) As Class II milk if transferred to another handler or to any other milk distributing or manufacturing plant: Provided, That if the seller on or before the 5th day after the end of the delivery period, during which such transfer is made, furnishes to the market administrator a statement signed by the buyer that such milk was used as Class III milk and that such utilization may be audited by the market administrator at the receiving plant, such milk may be classified accordingly, or

(ii) As Class II milk if transferred to the plant of a producer-handler.

(3) No statement made relative to transfers as provided for in this paragraph shall operate to deter the prior subtraction of other source milk pursuant to (f) (2) of this section, or the prior subtraction of milk received from producer-handlers pursuant to (f) (3) of this section or any quantity reported for allocation to a particular class but not eligible because of (f) (2) and (f) (3) of this section shall be classified by the market administrator as Class I milk, pending his verification.

(d) Responsibility of handlers and reclassification of milk. (1) In establishing the classification of skim milk and butterfat as required in (b) of this section, the burden rests upon the first handler who receives such skim milk or butterfat to prove to the market administrator that such skim milk or butterfat should not be classified as Class I milk.

(2) Any skim milk or butterfat classified in one class shall be reclassified if found by the market administrator to have been used or disposed of (whether in original or other form) by such handler or by any other person in another class in accordance with such use or disposition.

(e) Computation of the classification of all skim milk and butterfat for each handler. For each delivery period the market administrator shall correct for mathematical and for other obvious errors the report submitted by each handler and compute separately the respective amounts of skim milk and butterfat in Class I milk, Class II milk and Class III milk as follows:

(1) Determine the total pounds of product to be accounted for by: adding into one sum:

(i) The total pounds of milk received as producer milk, including the handler's own farm production, and

(ii) The total pounds of milk, skim milk, and cream received, and the pounds of skim milk and butterfat used to produce all other milk products received (except milk products disposed of in the form in which received without further processing in the plant of the handler) regardless of source.

(2) Determine the total pounds of butterfat to be accounted for by:

(i) Multiplying by its average butterfat test the weight of milk received as producer milk, and

(ii) Multiplying by its average butterfat test the weight of milk, skim milk, and cream received, and determine the pounds of butterfat used to produce all other milk products (except milk products disposed of in the form in which received without further processing at the plant of the handler) regardless of source, and

(iii) Adding the results so obtained.

(3) Determine the total pounds of skim milk contained in the total receipts computed pursuant to (1) of this paragraph by subtracting therefrom the total pounds of butterfat computed pursuant to (2) (iii) of this paragraph.

(4) Determine the total pounds of butterfat in Class I milk by:

(i) Converting to pounds on the basis of 2.15 pounds per quart the volume disposed of in each of the several items of Class I milk,

(ii) Multiplying each of the resulting amounts by its average butterfat test,

(iii) Adding the results so obtained, and

(iv) Adding an amount to (iii) of this subparagraph which equals the difference between the total pounds of butterfat computed pursuant to (2) (iii) of this paragraph and the total pounds of butterfat computed pursuant to (4) (iii), (6) (ii) and (8) (iii) of this paragraph.

(5) Determine the total pounds of skim milk in Class I milk by:

(i) Computing the aggregate amount of skim milk and butterfat included in each of the several items of Class I milk computed pursuant to (4) (i),

(ii) Subtracting the result obtained in (4) (ii) of this paragraph, and

(iii) Adding an amount to (ii) of this subparagraph which equals the difference between the total pounds of skim milk computed pursuant to (3) of this paragraph and the total pounds of skim milk computed pursuant to (5) (ii), (7) (ii) and (9) (iv) of this paragraph.

(6) Determine the total pounds of butterfat in Class II milk by:

(i) Multiplying the actual weight of each of the several items of Class II milk by its average butterfat test, and

(ii) Adding the results so obtained.

(7) Determine the total pounds of skim milk in Class II milk by:

(i) Computing the aggregate amount of skim milk and butterfat included in each of the several items of Class II milk computed pursuant to (6) (i), and (ii) subtracting the result obtained in (6) (ii).

(8) Determine the total pounds of butterfat in Class III milk by:

(i) Computing the aggregate amount of butterfat used to produce each of the several items of Class III milk, and

(ii) Subtracting from the total pounds of butterfat computed pursuant to (2) (iii) of this paragraph, the total pounds of butterfat in Class I milk, Class II milk and Class III milk computed pursuant to (4) (iii), (6) (ii) and (8) (i) of this paragraph, the resulting quantity up to 3 percent of the total receipts of butterfat in producer milk shall be allowed as plant shrinkage for the purposes of this paragraph, unless such difference is a minus quantity, in which case the plant shrinkage is zero for purposes of all computations required by this paragraph, and

(iii) Adding the resulting plus quantity obtained in (ii) of this subparagraph to the result obtained in (i) of this subparagraph.

(9) Determine the total pounds of skim milk in Class III milk by:

(i) Computing the aggregate amount of skim milk and butterfat (in whatever form) used to produce each of the several items of Class III milk, and

(ii) Subtracting the result obtained in (8) (iii) of this paragraph from the result obtained in (9) (i) of the paragraph.

(iii) Subtracting from the total pounds of skim milk computed pursuant to (3) of this paragraph, the total pounds of skim milk in Class I milk, Class II milk, and Class III milk computed pursuant to (5) (ii), (7) (ii) and (9) (ii) of this paragraph, the resulting quantity up to 3 percent of the total receipts of skim milk in producer milk shall be allowed as plant shrinkage for the purposes of this paragraph, unless such difference is a minus quantity, in which case the plant shrinkage is zero for purposes of all computations required by this paragraph, and

(iv) Adding the resulting plus quantity obtained in (iii) of this subparagraph to the result obtained in (ii) of this subparagraph.

(f) Computation of the classification of skim milk and butterfat in producer milk for each handler. For each delivery period, the market administrator shall compute separately the respective amounts of skim milk and butterfat of producer milk in Class I milk, Class II milk and Class III milk for each handler by making the following computations in the order specified:

(1) Subtracting from Class III milk the actual plant shrinkage of skim milk and butterfat, respectively, but not in excess of 3 percent, with respect to all receipts of skim milk and butterfat in producer milk, excluding the handler's own production;

(2) Subtracting from the remaining pounds of skim milk and butterfat, in series beginning with the lowest-priced uses, the skim milk and butterfat, respectively, received as other source milk;

(3) Subtracting from the remaining pounds of skim milk and butterfat, in series beginning with the lowest-priced uses, the skim milk and butterfat, respectively, received from producer-handlers;

(4) Subtracting from the remaining pounds of skim milk and butterfat in each class, the total pounds of skim milk and butterfat, respectively, received from other handlers and stated by the receiver to have been used in such class, to the extent of the amounts of skim milk and butterfat remaining in such class after making the computations pursuant to (3) of this paragraph: Provided, That skim milk or butterfat allocated by such statements to Class II milk or Class III milk in excess of amounts subtracted above pursuant to this subparagraph shall be subtracted from Class I milk;

(5) Subtracting from the remaining pounds of skim milk and butterfat, in series beginning with the lowest-priced uses, the skim milk and butterfat, respectively, received from the handler's own farm production;

(6) Adding to Class III milk the amount of skim milk and butterfat, respectively, subtracted pursuant to (1) of this paragraph; and

(7) If the total amount of skim milk or butterfat in all classes, after the computations made above pursuant to this paragraph, is greater than the skim milk or butterfat in producer milk, decrease the lowest-priced available class, or classes, by such excess.

5. Delete the provisions of § 935.7 and substitute therefore the following:

§ 935.7 Minimum prices—(a) Basic formula price to be used in determining Class I milk and Class II milk prices. The basic formula price per hundredweight of milk to be used in computing the minimum prices for Class I milk and Class II milk provided in this section shall be the higher of the prices per hundredweight determined pursuant to (1) or (2) of this paragraph.

(1) The average of the basic (or field) prices ascertained to have been paid for milk of 3.5 percent butterfat content received during the next preceding delivery period at the following places for which prices are reported to the market administrator by the companies listed below or by the Department of Agriculture:

Concern and Location of Plant
Amboy Milk Products Co., Amboy, Ill.
Borden Co., Dixon, Ill.
Borden Co., Sterling, Ill.
Carnation Milk Co., Northfield, Minn.
Carnation Milk Co., Oregon, Ill.
Carnation Milk Co., Waverly, Iowa.
Dean Milk Co., Pearl City, Ill.
Dean Milk Co., Pecatonica, Ill.
Fort Dodge Creamery Co., Fort Dodge, Iowa.
Libby, McNeil & Libby Co., Morrison, Ill.
Pet Milk Co., Shullsburg, Wis.
United Milk Products Co., Argo Fay, Ill.

Divide the result obtained by 3.5 percent and multiply by 3.8 percent and adjust to the nearest cent.

(2) The price per hundredweight, adjusted to the nearest cent, computed by the market administrator in accordance with the following formula: multiply by 3.8 the average per pound of 92-score butter at wholesale in the Chicago market, as reported by the United States Department of Agriculture for the delivery period during which such milk is received, plus or minus 0.95 cent per hundredweight for each 1 cent that such average price of 92-score butter is above or below 20 cents: Provided, That such price shall be increased by the amount resulting from the following computation: To 21 cents, add a figure determined as follows: add 3 cents per hundredweight for each full one-half cent that the price of nonfat dry milk solids for human consumption is above 7 cents per pound. For purposes of determining this adjustment, the price per pound to be used shall be the arithmetical average of the carlot prices for nonfat dry milk solids, both spray and roller process, for human consumption delivered at Chicago, as reported by the United States Department of Agriculture during the delivery period, including in such average the quotation for any part of the preceding delivery period which were not published and available for the price determination of such nonfat dry milk solids for the previous delivery period. In the event the United States Department of Agriculture does not publish carlot prices for nonfat dry milk solids for human consumption delivered at Chicago, the average of the carlot prices for nonfat dry milk solids for human consumption f. o. b. manufacturing plant as reported by the United States Department of Agriculture for the Chicago area, shall be used. In the latter event such price shall be subject to the following adjustment: add or subtract 3 cents per hundredweight for each full one-half cent that the price of nonfat dry milk solids for human consumption, f. o. b. manufacturing plant, is above or below 6 cents per pound.

(b) Class I milk prices. The minimum prices to be paid by each handler for the portion of skim milk and butterfat in producer milk received which is classified as Class I milk, shall be determined as follows:

(1) The price per hundredweight for 3.8 percent milk shall be the basic formula price computed pursuant to (a) (2) of this section, plus 75 cents.

(2) The price per hundredweight of butterfat shall be determined by:

(i) Multiplying the average price per pound of 92-score butter at wholesale in the Chicago market, as reported by the United States Department of Agriculture for the delivery period during which the milk was received, by 140 percent; and adjusting to the nearest cent, and

(ii) Multiplying the result so obtained by 100.

(3) The price per hundredweight of skim milk shall be determined by:

(i) Multiplying the average price per pound of 92-score butter adjusted by 140 percent as computed pursuant to (2) (i) of this paragraph by 3.8 percent, and

(ii) Subtracting the result obtained in (i) of this subparagraph from the basic Class I price computed pursuant to (1) of this paragraph, and

(iii) Dividing the result obtained in (ii) of this subparagraph by 0.962, adjusting to the nearest cent.

(c) Class II milk prices. The minimum price to be paid by each handler for the portion of skim milk and butterfat in producer milk received which is classified as Class II milk, shall be determined as follows:

(1) The price per hundredweight for 3.8 percent milk shall be the basic formula price computed pursuant to (a) of this section, plus 40 cents.

(2) The price per hundredweight of butterfat shall be determined by:

(i) multiplying the average price per pound of 92-score butter at wholesale in the Chicago market as reported by the United States Department of Agriculture for the delivery period during which the milk was received, by 130 percent, and adjusting to the nearest cent, and

(ii) Multiplying the result so obtained by 100.

(3) The price per hundredweight of skim milk shall be determined by:

(i) Multiplying the average price per pound of 92-score butter adjusted by 130 percent as computed pursuant to (2) (i) of this paragraph by 3.8 percent, and

(ii) Subtracting the result obtained in (i) of this subparagraph from the basic Class II price computed pursuant to (1) of this paragraph, and

(iii) Dividing the result obtained in (ii) of this subparagraph by 0.962, adjusting to the nearest cent.

(d) Class III milk prices. The minimum price to be paid by each handler for that portion of skim milk and butterfat in producer milk received which is classified as Class III milk, shall be determined as follows:

(1) The price per hundredweight for 3.8 percent milk shall be the price computed pursuant to (a) (2) of this section.

(2) The price per hundredweight of butterfat shall be determined by:

(i) Dividing the price computed before the proviso pursuant to (a) (2) of this section by 3.8 percent, and adjusting to the nearest cent, and

(ii) Multiplying the result so obtained by 100.

(3) The price per hundredweight of skim milk shall be determined by:

(i) Multiplying the price computed pursuant to (2) (i) of this paragraph by 3.8 percent, and

(ii) Subtracting the result obtained in (i) of this subparagraph from the Class III price computed pursuant to (1) of this paragraph, and

(iii) Dividing the result obtained in (ii) of this subparagraph by 0.962, adjusting to the nearest cent.

(e) Emergency price provisions. (1) Whenever the provisions hereof require the market administrator to use a specific price (or prices) for milk or any milk product for the purpose of determining minimum class prices or for any other purpose, the market administrator shall add to the specified price the amount of any subsidy, or other similar payment, being made by any Federal agency in connection with the milk, or product, associated with the price specified: Provided, That if for any reason the price specified is not reported or published as indicated, the market administrator shall use the applicable maximum uniform price established by regulations of any Federal agency plus the amount of any such subsidy or other similar payment: Provided further, That if the specified price is not reported or published and there is no applicable maximum uniform price, or if the specified price is not reported or published and the Secretary determines that the market price is below the applicable maximum uniform price, the market administrator shall use a price determined by the Secretary to be equivalent to or comparable with the price specified.

(2) Whenever the Secretary finds and announces that the price of Class I milk or Class II milk computed for any delivery period pursuant to (b) or (c) of this section is not in the public interest, the price of Class I milk or Class II milk for such delivery period shall be the same price as the Class I milk or Class II milk for the previous delivery period.

6. Delete the provision of § 935.8 and substitute therefor the following:

§ 935.8 Determination of uniform price to producers—(a) Computation of total value of producer milk for each handler. Subject to the conditions set forth in (1) and (2) of this paragraph, the value of producer milk received by each handler during each delivery period shall be a sum of money computed by the market administrator, by multiplying by the respective class prices for skim milk and butterfat, pursuant to § 935.7, the hundredweight of such skim milk and butterfat according to classification pursuant to § 935.6 (f) and adding together the resulting amounts.

(1) Receipts of milk from a producer-handler. In the case of a handler who purchases or receives milk, skim milk or cream from a producer-handler and disposes of the skim milk or butterfat contained therein, as other than in the lowest-priced used of the receiving handler, there shall be added an amount equal to the difference between (a) the value of such skim milk or butterfat at the price of such lowest-priced use and (b) the value computed in accordance with its classification in § 935.6 (f) (3).

(2) Payment for excess butterfat. In the case of a handler, after subtracting all receipts other than producer milk, has disposed of skim milk or butterfat in excess of the skim milk or butterfat received in producer milk, the market administrator shall add an amount equal to the value of such skim milk or butterfat computed pursuant to § 935.6 (f) (8).

(b) Computation of uniform price. For each delivery period, the market administrator shall compute a uniform price per hundredweight for producer milk by:

(1) Combining into one total the values computed pursuant to (a) of this section for all handlers except those who did not make the payments pursuant to § 935.9 (c) and (d) for the previous delivery period;

(2) Adding an amount representing not less than one-half the unobligated balance in the producer-settlement fund;

(3) Subtracting, if the weighted average butterfat test of all pooled milk is greater than 3.8 percent, or adding, if the weighted average butterfat test of such milk is less than 3.8 percent, an amount computed by multiplying the total amount of butterfat represented by the variance of such weighted average butterfat test from 3.8 percent by the applicable butterfat differential computed pursuant to § 935.9 (f) times 10.

(4) Dividing by the hundredweight of producer milk pooled; and

(5) Subtracting not less than 4 cents nor more than 5 cents per hundredweight for the purpose of retaining in the producer-settlement fund a cash balance to provide against errors in reports and payments or delinquencies in payments by handlers. The result shall be known as the "uniform price" per hundredweight for producer milk of 3.8 percent butterfat content.

(c) Notification of handlers. On or before the 7th day after the end of each delivery period, the market administrator shall notify each handler of:

(1) The amount and value of his milk in each class computed pursuant to § 935.6 (f) and (a) of this section, respectively, and the totals of such amounts and values;

(2) The uniform price computed pursuant to (b) of this section;

(3) The amount due such handler subject to the conditions set forth in § 935.9 (d) from the producer-settlement fund or the amount to be paid by such handler to the producer-settlement fund, as the case may be; and

(4) The total amounts to be paid by such handler pursuant to § 935.9 and § 935.10.

7. Renumber as § 935.10 Payments for milk § 935.9.

8. Renumber as § 935.11 Expense of administration § 935.10.

Copies of this notice of hearing may be procured from the Hearing Clerk, Office of the Solicitor, United States Department of Agriculture, Room 0306 South Building, Washington, D. C. or may be there inspected.

[Docket No. G–778]

NOTICE OF APPLICATION

SEPTEMBER 13, 1946.

Notice is hereby given that on September 6, 1946, an application was filed with the Federal Power Commission by Cities Service Gas Company (hereinafter referred to as "Applicant"), a Delaware corporation with its principal place of business in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, and authorized to do business in the States of Oklahoma, Kansas, Texas, Nebraska and Missouri, for a certificate of public convenience and necessity pursuant to section 7 of the Natural Gas Act, as amended, to authorize the Applicant to construct and operate approximately 2.84 miles of 18-inch pipeline and 9.41 miles of 16-inch pipeline from the juncture of discharge line from Applicant's Caney Compressor station and Cotten Valley metering station, herein called "State Line Junction," located in the Northwest Quarter (NW¼) of Southeast Quarter (SE¼) of Section 15, Township 35 South, Range 14 East, thence in a northeasterly direction to Applicant's Grabham Compressor Station located in the Northeast Quarter (NE¼) of Northeast Quarter (NE¼) of Section 27, Township 33 South, Range 15 East, all in Montgomery County, Kansas.

Applicant states that authority is sought for the proposed construction in order to safeguard the service north of Grabham Station in the event of failure of the existing facility between State Line Junction and Grabham Station, to maintain service north of Grabham Station while the existing line between State Line Junction and Grabham Station is lifted, cleaned and rehabilitated, to increase peak-day deliveries north of Grabham Station by approximately 10,000 Mcf. per day, to increase average winter-day deliveries north of Grabham Station by approximately 15,000 mcf. per day, and to increase inputs into storage in the summer time by approximately 30,000 mcf. per day.

Applicant estimates that the proposed construction will cost $242,240 but that no public financing will be involved and that all costs will be paid from working capital of the Applicant. In addition to present gas reserves, Applicant states that gas purchase contracts are now being negotiated in the Cement Townsite and Edmond, Oklahoma, areas to provide for the additional quantities of gas required to make deliveries through the proposed facility. Applicant contemplates no changes in existing rates until such time as new rate schedules are filed by Applicant and allowed to become effective by the Federal Power Commission in connection with the pending rate proceeding (G–141).

OPINION ACCOMPANYING ORDER NO. 1738 UNDER MAXIMUM PRICE REGULATION NO. 120

The order which this opinion accompanies establishes maximum prices and price classifications and assigns mine index numbers to mines in District No. 3 which had not been classified and numbered by the former Bituminous Coal Division. This is done in accordance with § 1340.210 (a) (6) of the Regulation which provides for this action.

Under this section, a producer is required to file an application for maximum prices and classifications based upon those of the nearest mine in the same or substantially similar seams. Generally the producer requests the prices and classifications he deems proper.

PAUL A. PORTER, Administrator.

OPINION ACCOMPANYING AMENDMENT NO. 4 TO ORDER NO. 1716 UNDER MAXIMUM PRICE REGULATION NO. 120

Boyles Coal & Supply Company, 502 Neal Street, New Castle, Pennsylvania, filed application pursuant to § 1340.213 (d) of Maximum Price Regulation No. 120, requesting that its maximum prices for strip-mined coal, produced at its Clintonville Mine, Mine Index Number 2358, and prepared at its preparation plant at Harrisville, Pennsylvania, in District No. 2, be increased 61¢ per net ton for coals delivered by all methods of transportation except truck or wagon shipment and 36¢ per net ton for truck or wagon shipment.

It appears that the applicant's strip-mined coals receive thorough cleaning and hand-picking at its preparation plant and they are such that it can be prepared to a standard of general acceptability in the coal-consuming market.

The applicant qualifies, therefore, for the requested relief under the provisions of said § 1340.213 (d). All mines of District No. 2, qualifying for an increase of 61¢ per net ton for prepared strip-mined coal delivered by all methods of transportation except truck or wagon shipment and 36¢ per net ton for truck or wagon shipment under the provisions of § 1340.213 (d) of Maximum Price Regulation No. 120, have been grouped together by Order No. 1716, as amended, under Maximum Price Regulation No. 120. Accordingly, this order is being further amended to include applicant's strip-mined coals.

This application was then submitted to the industry advisory committee for District No. 3. The prices and classifications established are those recommended by the committee and those requested by the applicants, if a request was made, and are fair and equitable.

OPINION ACCOMPANYING ORDER NO. 43 UNDER REVISED MAXIMUM PRICE REGULATION 143

The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company of Akron, Ohio, has applied for approval of maximum retail prices for one size Garden tractor tire, two sizes of Sure Grip tires and two sizes of tractor tubes. Since these items are not listed in Appendix III to Revised Maximum Price Regulation 143 for the purpose of determination of wholesale prices when sold by the manufacturer or brand owner, it is necessary to establish such wholesale prices by authorization under section 7 of that regulation. In connection with the establishment of a wholesale price, a maximum retail price may also be established under the provisions of that section, since these tires and tubes are not priced at retail under the provisions of Revised Maximum Price Regulation 528 nor were they listed in any price list of the manufacturer as of February 1, 1944. This order, therefore, also establishes maximum retail prices for sales of these tires and tubes by any person.

The maximum prices fixed by this order bear the normal relationship to the maximum prices fixed by the regulations for other sizes of these types of tires and tubes and such maximum prices are consistent with the level of maximum prices otherwise fixed by RMPR 143 for wholesale sales and RMPR 528 for retail sales.
